CSO Boost Sales

War bond and stamp sales for the Charlevoix Service Organization last week were: Central Drug store, $30.15; St. Mary's Recreation center, $6.00.

THREE REGULAR STATIONS ARE ESTABLISHED

Charlevoix Office Headquarters; Transportation Difficulties Make Others Necessary

Permanent places of selective service registration have been established at Boyne City, East Jordan and St. James, in addition to the local board office at Charlevoix, for youths who register on their 18th birthdays.

During the continuance of the war, all male citizens of the United States and others resident in this country who were born on or after January 1, 1925, must register on their birth date. If that anniversary falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday, registration is to take place on the first business day following.

In view of transportation difficulties and to avoid unnecessary hardship on the part of persons required to register, provisions have been made for registration in other cities of the county. Those required to register in the Boyne City area, who find it inconvenient to report at Charlevoix, will be registered if they report to Roy Winegarden at the Boyne City post office during office hours. Those in East Jordan area are to report to E. K. Reuling at his office in East Jordan. At St. James, registrations are accepted by Frank Nackerman at the post office.

Anyone required to register in this local board area who is unable to report at the Charlevoix office or one of the above named places, should contact the local board by mail or telephone a few days before his registration is due, so that arrangements can be made to register him.

RESPECTED RESIDENT IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Services for Emmaline J. Baldwin Were Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Emmaline J. Baldwin, 88, for many years a resident of this region, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Warner, in Marion township.

Emmaline Oberholtzer was born June 30, 1854, in Pennsylvania. She came to Michigan at the age of eleven, and had lived near Charlevoix for many years. In 1870 she was married to Sylvester Brown, and to this union ten children were born, five of whom survive. Mr. Brown died in 1904. In 1910 she married Rush Baldwin, who preceded her in death in 1921.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Charles Warner, of Charlevoix, Mrs. Roy Zimmerman, of Petoskey, Mrs. Gaylord Williams, of White Cloud; two sons, Lewis Brown, of Ironton, and William Brown, of Flint; forty-one grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Matthews of the East Jordan and Barnard Methodist churches, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the See Funeral Home. Interment was at Lake View cemetery at Eastport.

ASK HUNTERS MAKE GAME REPORTS SOON

Returns to Date Are Far Below Previous Years

Thousands of Michigan hunters wishing to start the new year with a clean slate still have one little chore to do before they consider the 1942 season just a memory, like the ones that preceded it—and that is sticking one-cent stamps on their game kill report cards and mailing them.

Early check-ups showed the rate of return thus far is low—lower than a year ago when it was, in turn, lower than the preceding year. Laggard hunters have until February 15 to file their game kill report cards.

These report cards, which are printed as part of each hunting license, must be detached and mailed to the state conservation department at Lansing, even though the licensee's luck was so poor he shot no game, trapped no furbearers.

The USO committee's recent plea for pictures to decorate walls of the local service men's center was answered this week by the J. L. Hudson Co., of Detroit, which sent a large painting entitled "High Up in the Rockies." Thanks of the committee is extended to the firm for its contribution.

During the third quarter, Carey and Vratinina scored 10 points for Charlevoix against Pellston's five for a 25 to 13 advantage. The Rayders added 11 more points in the final stanza to Pellston's two.

Charlevoix's scoring was well divided, with almost every player adding to the final total. Carey scored 13 points, Vratinina 8, Mitchell 5, Swanson 3, Bellinger, Blasell and Rowe 2 each, Chambers 1. Wareck was high for Pellston with 12 points, Vance made 2, Shurtliff 1. The Rayders netted 16 field goals and scored 4 points from the foul line. If this doesn't sound like Ken Usher—it ain't. It's little Annie, come over from her usual department to do the honors in this section. Confronted by the present coal and oil situation, Abraham Lincoln would probably angely observe: "You can't fuel all of the people all the time."

At times a lot of us aren't satisfied with the progress of the war, but it seems to me that too many people are looking for a goat. In trying to find out what the complainers have been doing to further the war effort, it quite often appears that they are looking out for themselves first. And that is America's weakness. Every one of the hoarders and slackers complains loudly that the public is not aware of the task before us. We can't win this war until everybody ceases to be concerned about his own happiness and turns his full attention to the national welfare. In short, we need patriotism. Just as parents think of the family's happiness and well-being instead of each one's individual pleasure, so the patriot must think of his country and the nation's welfare.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Whether Harry F. Kelly is reelected governor of Michigan in 1944, thus breaking the one-term jinx of the past six governors, will depend upon many things even down to cabbages and kings.

Among these is the test of his leadership with the State Legislature.

He starts out his administration with few handicaps, numerous blessings. Republican legislative leaders were practically unanimous last spring in demanding that Kelly run for governor in the September primary. He did so, unopposed. Four years as secretary of state have acquainted him well with the sure ways to get things done at Lansing. He does not rush into new ideas; he thinks them over carefully and deliberately. He talks little, saws wood persistently.

His legislative program, as announced last week, contained several interesting recommendations that give a clue to his philosophy of public service.

One group dealt with efficiency in government. Kelly proposed the streamlining of multi-department state structure by merging departments and commissions. For example: The corporation and securities department, finance company division of the treasury, building and loan division of the department of state, banking and insurance department, and the public trust commission would be merged into one agency.

In the efficiency classification was a recommendation to abolish the office of budget director and transfer this function to the office of auditor general. Kelly also suggested that inspection staffs, now maintained independently by numerous departments, should be merged into one state inspection department.

Would this result in economy? Perhaps. But it should make possible a better government by increasing its efficiency. In our opinion, Governor Kelly is more interested in efficiency than in

GRIPES

There are different kinds of gripes. One is the half-humorous sort which acts as a safety-valve to people whose routines are upset and who have relatives in the fighting forces. They take out a real anxiety in a little fussing about coffee, sugar, gasoline. This is nothing to worry about. Soldiers do it among themselves, but when they speak seriously of the army they are high in praise and unity of feeling. Housewives, too, do it among neighbors at the grocery. Asked seriously, they will praise the fairness of their grocer, defend the rationing idea, say they are only too glad to be doing something about the war. They point with pride to the 12,000 tons of food lately landed in North Africa. They saved some of it themselves.

There is, however, another kind of gripe, bitter, born of prejudice without reason. Often, when its source is tracked down, it is found to be coming—distantly and disguised, but none the less surely—from some little nest of axis sympathizers. These know that anything which makes a people suspect their leaders or lose faith in their army or their country's ideals makes for defeat.

When gripes are heard, it's well to try to distinguish which class they belong to. The safety-valve folks can always laugh at themselves. Why not let drop a word on the side of faith and unity? Some folks would like to be on that side but have been laughed at when they tried to say so. They need moral support.

Where bitterness and unreason are maintained, somewhere behind them an enemy has been at work with talk both untrue and dangerous.

All Hope Turns Ashes

By L. A. CUNNINGHAM

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

BY STANDING on tiptoe and clutching the window sill, Caleb Garton could look into the big, untidy room where Brian Girard wrote his novels. It was deepening dusk but the afterglow of the sunset through the windows showed Caleb the typewriter, the papers and books scattered on the table and floor, the great pile of manuscript in the wire basket that represented Girard's work for the last year or more. "Dust of the Temple" was the name of it.

Pleasant fellow, Brian Girard. If he had been patronizing Caleb would have liked it better. He hated Girard, hated his success, his competence. Caleb had said, "I've written a book myself. Spent five years at it."

"Have you, now!" Girard had finished the page he was typing and turned to stare at Caleb. "No luck about having it published?"

"None," said Caleb. "Tried it everywhere." His face was sullen, his eyes hard. "Too much work and study and sense in it, I guess. Deals with a great shipbuilding and lumbering family, sort of a dynasty, in the early days of New England."

"Sounds good. Let's have a look at it sometime," Girard had said with interest.

But Caleb knew he wouldn't even read the battered script when he got it. The novel had been thumbed so often that the single carbon copy was better than the original. Think of the months, the years of hard, driving work he had put into his book—and this easy-going, laughing fellow could knock off a novel in a few months, sell it to a magazine, a book publisher, the movies—make a fortune on it.

The dusk deepened. Objects in the room grew shapeless. Girard hadn't been much interested in his neighbors, the Gartons, who lived in the little cabin a mile up the beach. Not until he'd seen Lennie. Caleb hadn't realized just what good friends Girard and Lennie were until day before yesterday when, from behind a sandhill he had watched them talking so intimately, so eagerly. And then Lennie had thrown her arms about Brian Girard's neck and kissed him.

That was why Caleb's eyes were darkly narrow now, why he stared into that room with something starkly hateful in his pinched face.

Caleb hadn't said anything to Lennie, "I'm going fishing for a day or so," he had told her, and walked off. She didn't mind. She never did complain. Even though the income Caleb derived from book reviewing hardly gave them enough to live on. She was fed up, no doubt. Maybe she was planning to get clear of him, to marry Girard.

Caleb smelled smoke. He looked down. The discarded stub of his cigarette had set fire to the dry grass around the beach cabin. Already there was a merry little blaze. Caleb stared at it, grinning like a death's head. He could hear Girard saying, "I think 'Dust of the Temple' will go like wildfire."

Sure it will, thought Caleb, turning away. Nothing in the world to stop it. Caleb laughed. He had seen Girard driving up the road towards Leatield, a fat man with him in the big open car.

Caleb, strolling away, looked back every once in a while, watching the flames shoot higher and higher, until there was a pillar of fire and smoke reaching up to the early stars. The high dunes all but hid it before he reached his own cabin. It wasn't at all likely that Lennie would have noticed it. He saw her, sitting under the green shaded lamp when he walked up on the veranda. She was reading a letter.

She looked up when he entered, then ran to him and flung her arms about him and kissed his lips. "Oh, I'm so glad you've come, Cal. I've news for you—grand news!"

"Get to it," he said, freeing himself from her arms.

"I asked Mr. Girard to read your novel. He did, and promised to get his publisher to read it. His publisher was visiting him—"

Caleb stared at her now. "I—I was so glad, I kissed him, Cal."

"Go on!" Caleb's voice was harsh. "You gave him a copy of the novel?"

"Both copies. I gave him both. One was so badly worn, you know—"

Caleb's mouth hung open. There were only two copies of his book in the whole world. And she . . .

"This note just came an hour ago from Mr. Girard," she continued eagerly. "Listen, Caleb: 'Mr. Hutter is wild about Caleb's novel, 'All Hope Turns Ashes.' He'll publish it and pay a substantial advance. He wants a few changes. We're taking my story, 'Dust of the Temple' up to the city tonight. I've left Caleb's novel in the wire basket on my desk with a memorandum about the alterations . . .'"

She looked up from the letter and her eyes flew wide at the sight of Caleb's gray face that had become so swiftly old and lined and haggard. "Caleb, what in God's name is it? Don't, Caleb—don't!"

He had started to laugh. He kept on laughing. He couldn't stop it. She had never heard such laughter. It sounded like something out of hell.

FARM TOPICS

USE FIREWOOD THIS WINTER

Many Farms Are Installing Wood Burners.

By R. W. GRAEBER

(Extension Forester, North Carolina State College.)

Indications point to higher coal prices for the winter of 1941-42 and farmers should prepare now for extensive fuelwood cuttings this winter.

Even if labor is available to mine sufficient quantities of coal for domestic purpose, it is questionable whether transportation facilities will be available. This situation is bound to create a greater demand for wood as fuel.

The expanded fuelwood market should enable many farmers to dispose of low-grade hardwood trees not suited for lumber or other commercial purposes. The earlier the start is made in cutting, the more nearly the wood will be seasoned when the demand becomes active.

Despite the advantages of increased demand for wood there should be offered a note of warning. The slogan should be "Don't Strip the Land." A good cutting plan would be: Cut the poorer species, such as scarlet oak, blackjack oak, sourwood, black gum, hornbeam, etc. Cut crippled, crowded, or diseased trees of any species. Make use of tree tops left from recent sawmill operations.

It is a good idea not to cut more than one-fourth of the total volume of timber in any one area of average hardwood stands. This will give a profitable harvest, and at the same time maintain an adequate stand of growing stock.

It can be safely predicted that numerous farm and urban residents will install automatic wood-burning stoves or heaters this fall. One city in the South installed 3,000 wood-burning stoves for heating residences, stores and other buildings in one year.

Hides, Skins Become Valuable Farm Product

Hides and skins are among the highest price-per-pound raw materials that agriculture produces. The tanner often pays as much or more per pound for the best dayed and cured hides and skins of cattle and calves than the butcher pays for the dressed carcasses of these animals. Yet, because they are byproducts of another industry and frequently are marketed by undiscriminating methods, hides and skins are all too often treated with but little regard for what should be done to realize their maximum value.

It is generally considered that for cattle an average of about 7 per cent of the live weight and about 11 per cent of the value of the live animal is in the hide. In the case of calves, the skin may equal as much as 20 per cent of the value on the hoof.

The importance of hides and skins is shown by the fact that about 125,000,000 are tanned annually, worth around $200,000,000. The leather produced has a normal factory valuation of around $450,000,000. It is converted into shoes, belting, harness, and other goods for which consumers spend yearly close to $2,000,000,000. Domestic production is about 40,000,000 hides and skins annually, worth well over $100,000,000. It is necessary to draw upon foreign countries for the balance.

Synthetic Resin Proves Control for Red Spider

BERKELEY.—An unexpected laboratory discovery made during investigation of an entirely unrelated subject at the University of California college of agriculture has resulted in discovery of a new weapon for use in controlling red spider.

Red spider attacks hundreds of different plants grown both in the greenhouse and in the field. The new insecticide which has proven so effective in controlling the pest is a synthetic resin, phthalic glyceryl alkyd resin. Drs. P. A. Ark and C. M. Tompkins of the plant pathology division discovered its remarkable efficiency as control of red spiders.

A 2 per cent solution of the resin in water applied to plants heavily infested with red spider was found to kill adults and also eggs within five days. Many of the insecticides used for control of red spider have proved ineffective.

When to Bale Hay

The best time for baling hay out of the mow is just when it is "coming out of the sweat," that is, approximately a month after being made from the field. At such a time, properly cured hay is "soft" and has clinging leaves.

To save the leaves and to avoid bales with "stemmy" surfaces, it is advantageous to bale any kind of stored hay on damp days.

For successful field baling, hay must be drier than for the mow.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Military secrets, particularly in vital Michigan war production areas, will be in danger unless the public understands this one fact: That every American, regardless of who he or she is, has an important part in guarding wartime knowledge. The fact that you learned something or heard it casually or read it in a letter that bears no official seal of secrecy doesn't mean that it isn't important, according to the Office of War Information. Make yourself a self-appointed security officer. Don't give the enemy the benefit of the doubt.

If you have a heat problem in your home, particularly in rural areas, here's news from the Office of Price Administration. A brand new lot of coal and wood-burning stoves has been made available to provide necessary warmth. The wood-burners are very inexpensive and are not rationed. But the coal-burners are rationed. So if you need a coal stove or wish to replace your oil burner, see your war price and rationing board for a purchase certificate. Then go to your local dealer.

Michigan motorists who expect to qualify for continued use of their cars after January 31 MUST get their tires inspected before that date. Neither gasoline ration books nor tires will be issued in the future to those drivers who do not meet the tire inspection deadline. Avoid the last-minute jam by driving to your official OPA tire inspection station today. There is one in every neighborhood and community in Michigan.

This is a fine time for Mrs. Michigan to develop her dress-making talents. For she is assured of continued use of her sewing machine. The War Production Board is permitting limited production of sewing machine repair parts this year. And steel needles will be available too.

If you're thinking about your Victory Garden for 1943 — and everyone in Michigan certainly should be giving it serious consideration—you will be able to get garden tools . . . but they will be simplified. Such tools made after April 8, 1943, must conform to new patterns and styles prescribed by WPB to save critical materials.

economy. He probably remembers too well the easy promises of other governors, their records of failure to reduce bureaucracy.

The second classification deals with the opposite of economy, the spending of more money for causes which the governor deems to be worthy.

During his campaign Governor Kelly proposed $40 a month for old age pensions; the present state average is $22. He asks the legislature to increase this allowance.

He proposed that the state set aside $2,000,000 annually for state hospital building needs. He recommended a continuation of the present liberalized payments for unemployment compensation, and he said the legislature should investigate the feasibility of extending the unemployment compensation system to firms employing less than eight persons.

On the spending side also was a suggestion that a system of state pensions should be created for state employees.

Looking to the post-war era, Governor Kelly advocates a "rainy day" sinking fund of "not less" than $15,000,000 from the present state surplus.

As for reduction of the state sales tax, the governor cautioned that a slump in state revenues was inevitable during 1943 and all state revenues would be needed. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, the state distributed more than 61 per cent of its funds back to home governments. The increase in local aid alone was around $8,000,000 in 1942 over 1941.

Economy in state government is not easy to achieve without stepping on the toes of people back home. You can't economize at Lansing without also economizing on Main Street. The governor and the state legislature probably realize it.

But greater efficiency in government, making for what we generally call "better government", is a reasonable possibility, abetted by the civil service amendment which serves as a dyke against patronage raids and resulting inefficiency and waste in public service.

Governor Kelly's chances in 1944 may rest on his ability to achieve better government, not economy in government. If he can do both, the age of miracles will have arrived! But don't look for it.

"10,000 Stores to Close." Such is the forecast for Michigan retailing in 1943 for E. W. McFarland, Wayne university professor and head of the Greater Detroit Consumers' Council.

McFarland regards the forthcoming casualties, however, as a partial blessing in disguise, a sign of a healthier economy in the future.

His reasoning: There are too many outlets for goods to allow all retailers to make a decent living.

Hence the verdict: "We must face the fact that because there are too many retail stores in existence there is not a sufficient volume of business to go around even at lower prices."

If these experts are right, Michigan's 1943 retail casualties may help to stabilize business for other stores, thus benefit ultimately the consumer.

The professor's conclusions reminded us of something we read once in one of the imposing monographs issued by the Temporary National Economy Committee, created by Congress a few years ago. Albert L. Meyers, senior economist of the United States department of agriculture, reported the trend since 1900 has been towards more stores. For example: In 1900 there was one food store for 486 persons; in 1935 this ratio had grown to one store for 358 persons.

Lieut. Col. Herold A. Furlong has been called into active army service, and thus Governor Kelly is presented with an immediate problem of selecting his successor as administrator of the Michigan Council of Defense.

At a farewell dinner in Lansing, Colonel Furlong revealed that he had always been a "dyed-in-the-wool Republican" in Pontiac and a life-long friend of former Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner. Van Wagoner said that Furlong's appointment had been prompted largely by the knowledge that Furlong was one of the two men in Michigan to be honored by Congress with the Congressional Medal of Honor, highest award possible for distinguished service in the first World war.

It revealed a trait of "Pat" Van Wagoner that carried him a long ways in politics. He liked people. His friends came first.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

"Then I went downstairs and began a long vigil. Once Mrs. Marshbanks telephoned Fred's wife was very low. How was the baby? I had to say something cheerful; I said she looked much better. It was about five o'clock when Fred came in. I'd been within hearing of the child all the time, but I'd gone into the dressing room to drink a cup of coffee and twice I'd been out to telephone in Mrs. Marshbanks' room.

"He looked deathly; they'd taken a pint of blood from him, saving Amelia's life, he said. He came in to fling himself down for some sleep. But first he took a look at the baby.

"'Why, Emma, she's small but she'll make the grade. She looks like a different baby!' he said. I went over and looked down expecting to see you, breathing your very last, maybe—but instead I recognized Lottie's child."

Emma's breath had been coming shallow and fast as she reached the last phrases. Now she was perfectly still, and the room was still.

"She'd changed them — changed us!" Cherry said in a whisper.

"Lottie. She'd slipped downstairs while I was out of the room, put her own baby into the crib, carried you upstairs. I don't know," Emma said, "whether—if I'd had time to think, if I'd had my wits about me—I mightn't have told him, then and there. But I was like a person struck senseless. What it meant to me, what it meant to Lottie, what it would give Lottie's baby if the other baby died, and if Lottie mightn't be in danger of—oh, I don't know what, prison maybe—if they found out. Anything!

"They moved their baby to the hospital that first day. Well, that's all. You know all the rest. You didn't die. Every hour seemed the last but it wasn't. Days went by, and Lottie and I took you to the country. I'd told Fred, after that night, that of course I'd go; he needn't be afraid he'd ever see us again. But later he sent for me, and when I confessed that my sister had had a child—his child—he then made the provision that you know of. You grew strong and big, much stronger than Amy, and I tried . . ." The speaker's voice thickened; there was a pause.

"That's all," she said, and there was another silence.

CHAPTER XIII

"Who knows, Aunt Emma?" Cherry said then, hoarsely.

"Nobody knows. Lottie died of pneumonia when you were seven. No one else knows." She paused. "In a few weeks, if you like, you can tell the judge this. For I think he knows something," Emma said. "It is only my idea; there may be no foundation for it."

Cherry sat opposite the judge in his home library some weeks later, and poured forth the story.

"When will you be twenty-one, Cherry?"

"Next Wednesday."

"You would have known it then, "You see, Cherry," Judge Marshbanks continued, "Lottie was actually in this house, and she had come downstairs that night to—in her despair and weakness and anger—to reproach Fred. She had been so ill—she had so bitterly resented his freedom to enjoy his position, the welcome that was awaiting the other child, that I suppose she hardly knew what she was doing. He didn't know she was staying here, but a few days after that scene, when Amelia and the baby had been taken to the hospital, he was at home in mid-afternoon trying to get some rest, when he heard a baby fretting. He went out into the hall and listened and then went on upstairs.

"Lottie was lying in bed asleep; Emma was out. Fred told me afterward that the floor seemed to rock beneath his feet when he saw Lottie, that he had realized in that second what must be the case. He crossed the hall and opened another door, and there in a basket was the tiny child that was his own. Blue, and gasping for air; he thought it was dying then.

"Fred was older than I, but usually when he got into trouble it was to me that he came. But he didn't dare tell anyone this. When at last he knew you would live, Emma came to us, and we made arrangements for your support, but it wasn't until Fred was dying after a motor smash that he sent for me, and told me. He had had Judge Comstock in by the time I reached him. Fred said that he had made a statement, and gave me a long envelope that he said Amy was to open when she was twenty-one.

"He said that both you girls would be twenty-one at the same time, and that then Amy was to have his property, and she must be told the truth, and find you, if you were living, and make a complete restitution. Lottie Rawlings was dead then, and you were at Saint Dorothea's. He said—poor Fred!—that both were his daughters, and that as the years had gone by he had come to feel that Amy was Amelia's daughter too, but he hoped that you girls could come to an understanding out of court."

Cherry stood up. "I just heard Martin showing someone in, and I think it's Gogo. Come on in and meet him. I want to know what you think of him!"

Gogo was indeed there, dark, stunning, mustachioned, very much at ease, and with him had come two other, not very attractive, younger men. The bridge game had ended; they were sitting about the fire, drinking highballs and listening to the story of a bear hunt in which Gogo, according to his own account, had acquitted himself to advantage.

Kelly and Cherry melted into the circle, but Kelly did not stay long, and when he had excused himself Cherry went upstairs, too, feeling herself happier, in an irrational, all-pervading way, than she had ever been in her life before. He didn't love Fran; he didn't love Fran!

"I beg your pardon!" Cherry was startled by a voice that addressed her as she crossed the upper hall. It was the elder Mrs. Marshbanks who had spoken. She was standing in her bedroom doorway. "I asked if you would step into my room a moment?" the old lady said.

Oh, Kelly, come back, come back! Cherry's thoughts call desperately. She felt an impulse of actual terror. She went slowly into the luxurious warm bedroom, and at the invitation of her companion took a chair.

"I wanted to speak to you," said Mrs. Marshbanks. "I have tried before this to let you see how—how obnoxious your presence is in this house. I never would have countenanced it in the first place. For reasons that only he understands my son has taken the position that this family owes you something. Owes you! You have received a hundred times more than anything to which you were entitled already. You wormed your way in here, you made friends, you knew in your scheming little miserable soul that every time you were here I refused to leave my rooms. That didn't stop you; you came anyway! You've come between me and my granddaughter.

"Now you've come between me and my son. He talked to me tonight as no man ever should talk to a woman, least of all his mother! You come to him with your story of babies changed in their cradles, you to inherit all that belongs to Amy—no proof, of course, no proof! And so Amy's to be disgraced—ousted from her place . . ."

"You can't talk to me this way!" Cherry said, on her feet. "Good night, Mrs. Marshbanks!"

"No, don't go. Don't go, or I'll tell this whole household what you came here today to do . . ."

An abrupt stop, and a silence. Amy had called Cherry from the hall.

"Amy, come in here!" her grandmother said.

"Mrs. Marshbanks, I do beg you—!" Cherry began. "I do beg you—!"

Amy came in, bewildered by their manner and their looks.

"Amy, I've something to say to you!" Mrs. Marshbanks said.

"You knew Gogo came in; Cherry told you," Amy surmised defiantly. "Well, he did, for fifteen minutes! And I don't care."

"It has nothing to do with him. Sit down, Cherry, sit down."

"I won't," Cherry said flatly. "And I beg you to wait until tomorrow and then talk to the judge about this."

"Talk to Uncle about what?" Amy asked amazedly.

"About this girl," said her grandmother, speaking in a light, panting fashion, quite beside herself with anger. "This girl who is your dear friend, and who loves you so, and is such good company, and wears Fran's outworn frocks, and is the daughter of a servant—a servant in my house! This girl who comes in now with a claim that she is Amelia Marshbanks' daughter, and you are the unwanted one."

Amy looked from one to the other with a puzzled, but not in the least alarmed expression.

"I haven't the slightest idea what you're talking about, Gran," she said. The old woman, with a sudden look of resolution, spoke again:

"Amy, there's something you've never known, something I hoped you never would know. But you'll have to hear it now, for your Uncle feels he must tell you. Well, he'll not tell you, for I will! You never guessed that your father was also Cherry's father?"

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Hi ken:

Sorry I haven't written to you before this, but as usual I just kept putting it off.

Was transferred from San Diego a few days before Christmas up here to Seattle, Wash.

This is really a great country, reminds me a lot of around home, because of all the timber and cold climate. Isn't any snow here, but the mountains all around us are covered with it. Sure would like to be able to do a little skiing, but we don't have long enough liberty for that.

Ken, I wonder if you have the last three weeks' papers around and if you do, would you send them to me, because it looks like the ones you sent were lost coming up from Diego—sure would appreciate it. Really miss reading the home town news.

Well, s'long for now and thanks a million for the paper.

Gilbert Powers.

Here's wishing all my pals a happier year in '43.

Following is a letter written by Seaman 2nd class J. Jr. Boss, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Boss, Jr., of Charlevoix Rt. 1:

Dear Folks,

I met with a slight accident. I hurt my foot. I am in a hospital on an island. Don't worry because I am getting along fine. Everybody treats me fine. I will have to be here about a month.

Did you have a nice Christmas? I suppose you had lots of company. I suppose you're having lots of snow by now.

As I was writing this letter, the mail came in, and I got some. I sure was surprised. That's the first mail I've had in six weeks. The last letter was dated Nov. 6. I got those pictures you sent me. They sure are nice. Boy, it seems good to get some mail.

There's nothing else to say, so will close. Don't worry, God willing, everything will be all right.

With love, your son,

Jr.

Dear Ken,

Just a line to let you know my new address. I took a special course on self-sealing gas tanks in Detroit and it sure was good to see good old Michigan again and see some friends of mine.

The weather sure is nice out here, kind of cold but no snow and the sun is shining, about the first I have seen for two weeks.

Would like to hear from some of the boys in service.

Would like to say hello to all the folks up in Charlevoix.

Dear Ken,

I have completed my recruit training and will move to different quarters. There will be a little change in my address but still be in the same camp.

I am in the medical detachment and like my work real well. I start now in actual training.

I like it here but I miss the old home town.

Yours truly,
Pvt. William A. Holland

Dear Ken,

I arrived here at Los Angeles, Wednesday night about midnight which proved out just right. The next night being New Year's eve, I saw the new year come in at the Hollywood Canteen. Kay Kyser and his orchestra was the main attraction. Bette Davis is president of the Canteen and acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Shortly after arriving I was able to pick up a ticket for the Rose Bowl football game from a party who was not able to get a leave. The first three-quarters of the game was a thriller. During the fourth quarter, Georgia's power was telling on the U. C. L. A. team. It was a wonderful game.

Had it very nice this week. Monday will be called out of bed at 4:15 and at 6:00 a.m. will be in class.

As ever,

Kirk.

Dear Ken,

I have had most of this week free as we are graduating and have had our final tests. I was home over the week and but didn't see a lot of people I would have liked to, as 66 hours go plenty fast. So I'll do as most of the fellows do and say "hello" through you.

I ran into plenty of snow on the way back Sunday. We could hardly see the road at times. It is still snowing here in big flakes, and sure makes you think of home. But then you see all these big white buildings and you know it isn't.

It is getting so I have to fight to read my own newspaper, as all the fellows around the barrack are interested and read it now. I at least have to tear it into pages and then read and exchange.

Well, I better stop as I have a few more letters to write, so a Happy and Victorious New Year to you and all in the service.

As ever,

Borgie.

Dear Ken,

Since we've been moved from the recruit detachment to our regular batteries I thought perhaps the change of address should be sent in order to avoid confusion and speed up the delivery of the Courier a bit.

We've received two copies so far and practically devoured both of them. My sister has sent clippings of the army letters that have appeared and we've taken lots of interest in them. When I say we, that includes Glen Arvilla, Lee Scott, William Holland and myself. The four of us are still stationed at the same camp but are in different batteries. Arvilla is in Hdq. Btry., Scott in Btry. H, Holland in Medical Detach., and myself in Btry. D.

We've just completed our basic training and are now ready for action which we hope will be soon.

Must tell you about Christmas day. We had been out for dinner with some very nice people in San Diego and thought we'd stop down town on our way back to camp. Stopped at one of the local night spots and who should we run into but Ormiston Bergeon. We knew he was near here but never thought he was stationed so close.

Place where Gilbert Powers is at is right in sight of our camp but we've not been able to contact him yet. Scott received those addresses you sent and we are going to do our best for a Charlevoix reunion in the near future.

We've met a girl from Petoskey whose brother and wife and she have recently moved here from there. Noel Fochtman is her name. She happened to be one of the USO hostesses at our New Year's eve dance here on the post and we met her then.

Could write volumes on the beauties of this garden spot of the U. S. but it will be sufficient to say we all like it immensely here and only wish we could do more than we are to help win this war.

Must close as correspondence keeps me busy these days. Hello to all and thanks to everyone for remembering us at Christmas.

Pvt. Ned D. Wagner.

We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally...whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. Needless calls to Information—many thousands of them daily—are being crowded onto Michigan's war-loaded telephone system.

A team of Hooker's horses, which Homer Brady had up on West Upright avenue yesterday afternoon, became frightened at the commotion caused by a cow which Mr. Brady intended to hitch to the rear of the rig. When the cow made a lunge in the direction of the team, the horses bolted for State street and run clear to Park avenue, through the yard between the Redford and Hammett place, up the steep hill and down the back to the edge of the channel, where they landed in a heap beside the pier and were caught before they could dive in.

* SUGGESTS DON'TS FOR ELECTRICITY *
* * * * * * * * * *

Electricity serves more than four of every five farms in Michigan. A warning has been issued that the blessing of this silent hired hand must be treated with respect to prevent accidents from improper use.

"Electricity proves itself every day in aiding production on Michigan farms but there are danger points often ignored," says Richard Witz, extension farm electrification specialist at Michigan State College.

He lists some of the don'ts in using electrical power:

1. Don't use extension cords under rugs or where they will be walked on.

2. Don't use electrical appliances which do not carry the Underwriter's Laboratory approval.

3. Don't use extension cords or equipment if they seem unsafe—repair immediately, or discard all worn cords and faulty equipment.

4. Don't tamper with wiring or appliances unless you know what you are doing and then only when the current is shut off.

5. Don't replace a fuse with a larger fuse so it will carry an additional piece of equipment without first consulting your service man. Arrange to stagger the use of the equipment so that a fuse of the original size will carry the load.

6. Don't pull on cords to remove from outlets—grasp plugs to detach.

7. Don't run extension cords over nails, radiators, or other places where they are subject to damage.

8. Don't handle electrical equipment with wet hands or while standing on a wet floor.

9. Don't take chances.

SECRECY MEANS SAFETY

Letters to our men in combat zones are encouraged by military and naval authorities as morale builders. These missives are eagerly awaited by the fighting men, especially when sent by the folks back home. This newspaper likes to publish the addresses of men in camps and shore stations in this country and abroad. We go a step further and send copies of our publication to the soldiers, sailors and marines with aid of the Charlevoix Service Organization. High testimonials have reached us from these subscribers which are pleasing.

There are angles to wartime communications, written and printed, which the average citizen sometimes overlooks. The newspapers of the country have agreed to abide by a censorship code solely for the purpose of keeping information from the enemy. One of the stipulations in this extensive document relates to news about troop movements and locations of our military and naval personnel. It does not matter much about identifying companies or regiments at camps in this country. These details become vital when the boys embark for combat zones or other overseas stations. Secrecy is invoked as an essential element of safety. Relatives and close friends may have a rough idea where the boys are stationed. They do not display the details for examination of Axis agents. These spies find little help in the publication of a local boy's rank, serial number and the two general oversees forwarding mail centers at New York and San Francisco. When proud parents furnish specific data, like the name of a ship "care Postmaster—San Francisco," foreign agents are not hard-pressed to guess that the fighting ship is on duty in the Pacific. After a short period, enemy experts can determine the strength and probable disposition of naval units in these waters. Hit the foe by deleting details as to your boy's outfit while he is abroad.

Office supplies of any description may be obtained quickly through the Charlevoix Courier.—Adv. 23

An East Lansing family that started raising rabbits for fun found that in a year's time the bunnies had multiplied the family's meat supply, divided the meat bill and subtracted from a few of their future worries about meat rationing. Let this be a warning to one little rabbit from the Belvedere woods who has been hopping about our neighborhood, or he is apt to find himself in a cage, starting out to raise a certain south side family's meat supply.

When Pride Goes

By ELEANOR BERDON

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

CLAIRE put the telephone receiver down and walked back to the breakfast room. She smoothed the still fine folds of her immaculate dressing gown beneath her carefully as she resumed her seat opposite Jim.

Some women might ignore appearances the first thing in the morning, but not Claire.

She sipped her coffee, now lukewarm, and wondered when Mary Fenton would get over that annoying habit of phoning so early. Then, her eyes falling on the hotel brochure which had come in the morning mail, Claire recalled the problem she'd been trying to discuss with Jim before the phone rang.

"Jim—please. This is important. I want to send in our reservations today. Won't you talk to Julie?" Julie would listen to her father. He'd be able to persuade her to spend the summer with her mother at the Mountain Lake House. It wasn't as if Julie didn't love the mountains. Claire knew why she'd taken such a stubborn stand about remaining in the city. But she wouldn't — she wouldn't let Julie continue to make a fool of herself over that Johnson boy.

"What's that, Claire? Talk to Julie?" Jim's voice came muffled through the intervening pages of his newspaper. Claire noted irrelevantly the striking contrast of his prematurely white hair to his bronzed, still youthful face. Yes, by any standards, Jim was a terribly attractive man. Women like Mary Fenton thought her rash, leaving Jim alone in the city every summer. But that was ridiculous! One had to be sensible. And if Jim's publishing firm kept him tied to his desk during the sweltering summer months, that was no reason for his wife and daughter to suffer, too. As for distrusting Jim—well, either he loved her, or he didn't. Should he ever decide he didn't, she had too much pride to want to hold him to an empty marriage vow.

If only Julie had inherited that same pride! That was what was worrying Claire now. But what was Jim saying?

"Good Lord, Claire, the girl's old enough to know her own mind. If she wants to stay home and take some courses, let her. I'll be here to keep an eye on her."

Stay home and take courses. Couldn't Jim see through that pathetic alibi?

"But, Jim—" oh, what was the use! He wasn't even listening. She'd have to handle this herself. She'd make Julie go with her. There'd be no more of these pitiful attempts to attract Grant Johnson's attention. Making up excuses to phone him, humbling herself for a smile, a brief hello, an intricately maneuvered date.

Even if one could win a man by such tactics, it was an empty victory. One had to have pride, Claire reflected. Julie was too young to realize that. Her heart twisted with love and pity as she remembered how unhappy the girl had been all these past months. But she'd been wrong, so wrong. If a two months' absence meant losing the boy, he wasn't worth winning in the first place.

Jim was getting up to leave. "Will you be home for dinner, dear?" With two books due to go to press within the week, Claire knew how rushed he must be.

"Dinner? Why—why, no. No, I'm afraid it's going to be two late nights in a row. Sam and I didn't finish those proofs we went over last night."

Claire meticulously poured herself a fresh cup of coffee from the silver urn. "Oh, yes. I didn't have a chance to ask what kept you last night."

"That history text. It's giving us a lot of trouble. Well, good-by, my dear."

The door had scarcely closed behind Jim when Julie came into the breakfast room. How slowly the girl walked—how pale she was, the signs of tears around her eyes and nose!

"Good morning, Mother." Julie slumped into a chair and stared listlessly at her orange juice.

Claire didn't answer for a moment. She was fingering the hotel brochure. Then, "Julie—"

"Oh, Mother, do—do we have to argue again about this summer? I want to stay home. I've got to stay home." Julie's voice was desperate. There was pleading in every fiber of her slim young body.

"Yes—yes, of course you can stay home."

"Mother!" Her voice was suddenly joyous.

"I'm staying home, too." As she spoke, Claire was crumpling the brochure, her gleaming nails tearing through the heavily engraved paper.

"Gosh, Mother, I don't know what made you change your mind. But I'm glad—I'm certainly glad you did."

Of course Julie didn't know why she'd changed her mind. But Claire knew. Knew that Jim had never before lied to her. Not till just now, when he said he'd spent last night going over proofs with Sam. But Mary Fenton had said over the phone that she'd seen him at the theater with that attractive new woman client.

No truck owner in Michigan—from the farmer or corner grocer to the big fleet owner—will escape difficulties in 1943 that will be far more serious than in 1942. Tires, skilled repair help, replacement parts and worn-out vehicles—all will be hard to replace. In one item, however, the supply this year will be the same as last—electric storage batteries for all motor vehicles.

On the same subject, the Office of Defense Transportation urges farmers and other truck operators to lose no time in getting in touch with their county farm transportation committees or ODT field representatives, if their fuel and mileage allotments require adjustment.

Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information, has just launched a national drive to collect millions of books from American people for the men and women in the armed forces. Your Car's Life Can Be

STRETCHED FIFTY PERCENT

The engineers who build America's automobiles say proper care can stretch car life fifty percent. Yes, ten simple rules will do the job. And high on their list is the choice of suitable winter motor oils and greases. Proper lubrication, these experts explain, reduces friction, avoids unnecessary engine wear, makes cars start and run easier. Knowing this, millions of motorists prefer high-quality Mobiloil, the world's largest-selling motor oil.

Mobiloil Arctic gives exceptional lubrication, guarding every vital engine surface with a tough, protective film at all times -- even during cold starts and fast warm-ups. Mobiloil is refined for extra purity, too, and thus resists dangerous carbon and sludge formation. Such impurities can gum up your engine, make it harder to start and run -- and even do a lot of damage. So, for the safe, dependable winter lubrication you need to make your car last, ask for Mobilail Arctic.

30-DAY SEASON ON DEER SOUGHT

COMMISSION WILL ASK FOR LEGISLATIVE APPROVAL

Extension of Rod License to Great Lakes Waters Is Another Recommendation

A 30-day deer hunting season, 30-day upland bird hunting season, and conservation department authority to handle herd deer herd problems through antlerless hunting are three proposals headlining the state conservation commission's recommendations on conservation affairs for the 1943 legislature.

Extension of the present 16-day deer season and 21-or 22-day bird season would give week-end hunters a break and allow war workers to stagger their vacation time saved for hunting. A month-long deer season beginning November 15 would allow considerable choice of weather.

Under the recommended schedule an archer, if unsuccessful until the last day, could hunt deer 60 days from October 15, obtaining a gun license November 15 when his first license was unfilled. Such season extensions would not, it is said, increase the game kill, as lighter hunting pressure is anticipated during wartime.

Simplification of the permanent duck blind law and liberalization of dog training regulations to permit night training of 'coon dogs also are being recommended to the legislators' attention.

For sports fishermen the commission recommends extension of the rod license to Great Lakes waters, opening of additional lakes to fall rainbow trout fishing, and giving the institute for fisheries research complete control of fishing on the few inland lakes on which it is making intensive investigations.

The commission endorsed changes in the commercial fishing law to permit spearing walleyes through the ice of Saginaw bay during the closed season, or personal use, and to extend by 10 days the closed season on lake trout in Lake Michigan.

WAR BOARD MEMBERS HEAR TRUCK APPEALS

Applicants for Farm Machinery to Boyne City AAA Office

Members of the county USDA War Board will be in the rationing board office at the Charlevoix city hall every Friday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., to hear appeals from farm truck owners for correction of gasoline allotments.

Farm residents wishing to purchase machinery or equipment for their farm or farm home must apply for purchase orders to the farm machinery committee at the AAA office in Boyne City. The local rationing board does not handle these applications. Many persons have misunderstood these requirements and have mistakenly made application to the rationing board when they wanted to purchase farm equipment.

Outdoor Movies Available

Assurance that the conservation department's 300-reel film loan library will continue in operation, in spite of rumored wartime restrictions, has been given by the department to the loan library's customers among schools, sportsmen's clubs, and service organizations.

IRONTON SCHOOL BUS WAS STORM VICTIM

Drifts on Country Road Trapped Plow and Bus Tuesday

Stuck all night long in a snow drift behind a stalled plow, the Ironton school bus returned to Charlevoix at 9:30 Wednesday morning from its Tuesday afternoon run.

The plow which preceded the bus on its route Tuesday encountered motor trouble along a badly drifted stretch of road near the John Bacon place, the former Guibt dairy farm. Ten children and the Ironton school teacher, Mrs. Harrison Trimble, who was returning to her home in Charlevoix on the bus, stayed at the Bacon farm for the night.

Charlevoix and East Jordan highway plows went to the scene and after several hours of labor succeeded in extricating both the stalled plow and the bus. Driver H. C. Wilson returned to Ironton and proceeded to Charlevoix on M-66.

U. S. EMPLOYEES ON 48-HOUR WEEK

THREE CHARLEVOIX OFFICES ARE AFFECTED

Labor Shortage Makes Extension Working Hours Necessary for Many Federal Jobs

Conforming with provisions of the new overtime act for federal employees, three local offices have changed their schedules to give each employee a 48-hour week.

The post office, formerly closed Saturday afternoons, is now open from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturdays, on other days the former 7 a. m. to 6:15 p. m. hours still prevail.

Business hours at the local war price and rationing board are now 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. each day, including Saturday. The office is closed to the public Wednesday afternoons to allow clerks to get their records up to date, but this does not give the clerks a half-holiday.

While the draft board office has been open Saturday afternoons since its establishment, each employee was formerly given a half-holiday during the week, which has now been eliminated. Office hours are 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Extension of federal employees' work week was primarily designed to relieve the labor shortage in federal offices, where men have been drafted and not replaced.

PLANS FOR BIRTHDAY BALL ARE UNDER WAY

Chairmen for other cities in the county, named by Mr. Supernaw, are: Boyne City, Roy Winegarden; East Jordan, Roscoe Houston; St. James, Nels Lafreniere.

NYA OFFERS WAR WORK TRAINING

YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN OF 16-25 YEARS ELIGIBLE

Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff, County Youth Personnel Officer, Receives Applications

In a program of adapting governmental agencies to meet the war emergency, the National Youth Administration has been changed from jurisdiction of the Federal Security Agency to that of the War Manpower Commission. Training in defense industries is offered at schools throughout the country, one of which is located in Traverse City.

Age limit of those eligible to attend the school is 16 to 25 years, inclusive, whether single or married. Applicants must be citizens of the United States, not belong to any radical organization conspiring to overthrow the government of this country, and be physically able to take the training for a factory job.

Youths of draft age may attend the school, provided they are not in school and will not be drafted for from 3 to 6 months. Technical training received in NYA schools will be of value to them when they enter the military program.

Employees in war plants are now "frozen" to their jobs and do not have the freedom to change if they dislike the work they are doing. Students in NYA schools may select the type of work they prefer, and for which they are best qualified, before entering employment.

Young men and women in Charlevoix county who are interested in NYA training, and who are eligible for the course, may contact Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff, Charlevoix, youth personnel field representative for this county.

CLASSES IN HOME NURSING TO START

Mrs. D. C. Nettleton Instructor In Red Cross Course

Home nursing classes will be started next week in Charlevoix, Mrs. Mabel W. Goddard, chairman of the Red Cross home nursing for this city, has announced.

Those who registered last year for classes, and all those interested in such instruction are asked to meet in the Boy Scout room, city hall basement, on Thursday evening of this week at 7:30, or on Friday afternoon at 2:30. Starting date for the classes will be announced later.

Initial classes will be in charge of Mrs. D. C. Nettleton. It is expected later to have more classes, instructed by other local nurses.

MARINE LECTURES BEGUN THURSDAY

W. C. Bellinger Gave Illustrated Talk on Compasses

First lecture in the Charlevoix Power Squadron's winter series of classes on elementary piloting and navigation was given last Thursday evening by W. C. Bellinger, whose subject was the marine compass.

To illustrate his lecture, Mr. Bellinger showed the class a dry compass of historic vintage, an oil spirit compass, and pelorus, or sight vane, and drawings.

Thursday evening of this week, James Bellinger will lecture on piloting and charts. Classes convene at 7:30 in the high school commercial room, and the lectures begin at 8 o'clock.

PROMINENT RESIDENT BEAVER ISLAND DIES

Garrett Cole Northern Michigan Lumberman for 50 Years

Funeral services were held here last Wednesday afternoon for Garrett Cole, 71, a resident of Beaver Island for more than 30 years. He had suffered a stroke following a major operation at a Kalamazoo hospital, and died there Jan. 10.

Born August 7, 1871, in Newaygo county, Mr. Cole was engaged in lumbering in northern Michigan for half a century. As a young man, he ran a lumber and shingle mill at Belhaire. He went to Beaver Island in 1910, bought out the Switzer lumber mill, and conducted that business until about ten years ago. For a few years he owned a small freight boat operating on Lake Michigan. Of recent years he had developed considerable resort property on Beaver Island, consisting of cabins and building sites.

Mr. Cole married Julia Seaman at Big Rapids on November 21, 1893.

For the past five years the Coles had spent winters in Kalamazoo with their daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Stevens.

Surviving besides the wife are a son, Jesse, of Waterbury, Conn.; five daughters, Mrs. Caroline Jensen, Mrs. Mattie Ludecke, Mrs. Garnet Green, of Chicago; Mrs. Wilma Naylor, of Provo, Utah, and Mrs. Marguerite Stevens, of Kalamazoo; two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Beck, of Greenville, Mich., and Mrs. Jennie Barnes, of Chisholm, Minn. Two sons and a daughter preceded him in death.

Services were held in Kalamazoo on Monday evening of last week, at the Weissner-Feyen Funeral Home. Rev. Leigh H. Hugle conducted services at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Lee Funeral Home in this city. Interment was at Bronkshie cemetery.

BOAT-BUILDING COURSE OFFERED

SPACE IS FURNISHED BY THE FOSTER BOAT CO.

School and State Cooperate in Program; Michigan Training Industrial Workers

Through the cooperation of the state board of control for vocational education, the Foster Boat Co. and Charlevoix schools, a boat-building course will be offered in this city during the next ten weeks, beginning Monday.

Walter Wick, of Ironwood, who has conducted boat-building courses in that city and in Holland for two years, has been secured as instructor and is already in Charlevoix. The course is part of the state department's program of training war workers in various industries, and will be valuable to those seeking training in many phases of boat construction.

Space 20 by 85 feet has been furnished by the Foster Boat Co. at The Inn garage. Five machines are now being placed, including a circular saw, band saw, surfacer, jointer and shaper. A considerable number of hand tools are being sent here by the state department.

During the course a 30-foot boat, 10 feet wide, will be built by those in training, giving actual building experience.

Men now employed will be able to attend classes for 6 to 15 hours a week outside of working hours. Others not employed can attend up to 30 hours a week.

Further detailed information as to class hours, and other aspects of the course, can be obtained through the school.

SUPPLEMENTARY GAS BOOKS RENEW SOON

Tire Inspection Required Before February 28 for B and C

Holders of supplementary gasoline rationing books are urged to make applications for renewals as soon as possible after February 1. Forms for this purpose will be available after that date at tire inspection stations and the local war price and rationing board office.

Although the office of price administration has extended tire inspection deadlines for B, C, and fleet bookholders from January 31 to February 28, and for A bookholders from January 31 to Mar. 31, all motorists are still required to have tire inspections before books can be renewed, and are advised to do it soon.

Hunting, Fishing Decline Low

Hunting and fishing proved such popular recreation in Michigan's first war year that instead of the large decreases anticipated, there were declines of only three to five per cent in license sales, the conservation department reports.

BRUCE WITHERS IS FLEETCOMMODORE

CRASH BOAT IS RISKY, BUT EXCITING WORK

Local Youth Leads Fleet of Small Boats in New Guinea Waters; Rescues Allied Airmen

Somewhere in New Guinea is a fleet of small crash boats which are as vital to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen as a half dozen heavy bombers, for their job is to save lives—and they do it at the risk of their own.

"Commodore" of the fleet is Sergt. Bruce Withers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mont Withers, of Charlevoix. Under his command are other air corps enlisted men, who in six months' operations in New Guinea have saved nearly a score of Australian and American airmen's lives. As air corps leaders estimate that if the crash squadron rescued only one combat pilot a year, their existence would be justified, it is apparent that this group is doing a remarkably efficient job.

Feature newspaper articles this week told the colorful story of the rescue squadron which makes its way through treacherous, uncharted coral reefs and up dangerous, swift jungle rivers to rescue fliers whose plane have been shot down in the sea or in the upper reaches of the rivers. They also go into distant inland and coastal garrisons to pick up wounded men who might otherwise have to make long journeys back to base hospital on the backs of native carriers.

Unlike most air corps ground men, they are not cavlons of their fellows who do the combat flying. "Most of them want a chance to do some jobs with us," Commodore Wither somewhat smugly contends, "because they see we get in time as much excitement as they do."

Bruce received his early training as a boat pilot right in Charlevoix, where he operated a cruiser for trolling parties. He's right in his element in those distant waters of New Guinea.

ODD FELLOWS TAKE THIRD SERIES GAME

Hold 577-Point Advantage Over Masons in Tourney

Odd Fellows took the third game of the cribbage series with the Masons Monday night, trimming them by a score of 12,050 points to the Mason's 11,638.

Added to their previous advantage of 165, the Odd Fellows' 412-point victory put them ahead of the Masons for the series by 577 points.

For the third successive week, Art Richardson was Odd Fellow high point man with a card of 962. Lyman Reinhart led the Masons, turning in a score of 957. Six and a half tables were in play.

PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM THURSDAY

Local Teachers Attended Meeting At Traverse City

Northwestern Michigan's first wartime physical fitness program was staged at Traverse City last Thursday evening, with representatives from schools all over this section of the state in attendance.

The program was planned and called by Julian Smith, state director of athletics. Traverse City high school physical education students put on demonstrations of the "commando" training given boys during regular gym periods, and light calisthenics were performed by the girls.

Attending from Charlevoix high school were Coach Ray Kipke, Harry E. Bingham, Max Novak and Wyatt S. Wilson.

LICENSE TAGS FOR '43 ON SALE SOON

All Vehicles Will Retain 1942 Plates This Year

Auto license tags for 1943 will go on sale Saturday at secretary of state's branch office in the Charlevoix court house, announces Fenton R. Bulow, branch manager.

Licenses are small metal tags about 1¼c by 2½ inches, to be fastened to the upper right corner of the 1942 plate. Full-year and half-year tags will be on sale as usual, although sale of half-year passenger plates is postponed to Jan. 30. Green numerals on white is the color scheme for full-year passenger tags; half-year passenger tag is yellow with black numerals. Full-year trailer license is blue with white numerals; half-year, brown with black numerals. Commercial vehicles will carry windshield stickers instead of metal tags on their present plates. Full-year stickers are green with white numerals, while this color scheme is reversed for the half-year stickers.

FARMERS HELD FINE PROGRAM

FARM MOBILIZATION DAY WAS JANUARY 12

3-County Bureau Chose Directors at Annual Meeting; War Board Members Were Speakers

Over one hundred farm people, their leaders and local federal agency heads gathered at the Marion Center grange hall on January 12 for the annual meeting of the Tri-County Farm Bureau, held in conjunction with the national "farm mobilization" day program.

Walter Henley, Robert Reis and R. C. Mellencamp, members of the county war board, spoke on the following subjects, respectively: "The draft situation as it affects farmers," "Consolidation of federal agencies," and "We'll fill our quotas." Wesley Hawley, of the State Farm Bureau, outlined the farm situation on the state and national fronts.

Four reels of sound pictures were provided by Mr. Henley and shown by Ted Erfourth, of the Boyne City REA office. Singing by the group, and the Ballad Benders, Charlevoix barbershop quartet, were distinctive features of the occasion.

LaVern McGhan, Bernie DeYoung, Charles Mascha, Clinton Blanchard, Rowley Williams, Jns. Heeres and John Tillotson were chosen to direct Tri-County Farm Bureau activities for another year.

Cooperative dinner was served by Marion Center grange ladies at noon.

BAPTIST PASTOR TO PORT HURON CHURCH

Rev. W. L. Cruthers, pastor of the Charlevoix Baptist church since July, 1939, has announced his resignation from this pulpit to accept the pastorate of Calvary Baptist church in Port Huron. He will leave for his new post after February 14.

Smoked Fish Food Value High

Smoked fish contains more actual food value per pound than fresh fish or fish preserved in any other way, because the smoking removes a good deal of the normal water content.

REGISTRANTS ARE ISSUED WARNING

CLASSIFICATION CARDS MUST BE CARRIED

FBI Will Investigate Suspected Delinquents; Penalties for Failure to Register

All men in Michigan between the ages of 18 and 38, who have been subject to selective service registration for as long as six months and who do not have their classification cards, were advised this week by state selective service headquarters to communicate with their local boards at once.

On and after February 1, any man in this age group who does not have in his personal possession his classification card (form 57) as well as his certificate of registration, is liable to fine or imprisonment, or both.

Many registrants have already reported to their local boards in this state, requesting classification cards be duplicated. Registrants in the 45 to 65 year old age group are not affected by the order. Relatively few men in the state can be considered delinquent for failure to keep in touch with local boards, and these cases are largely because of carelessness or negligence.

Those subject to registration who have not registered, exclusive of the 45 to 65 year group, should immediately register with their local board. If they have done so, but have not received their classification card, they should be certain the board has their proper mailing address. Those who have lost their classification cards should notify their local boards, requesting a duplicate.

Cases of suspected delinquency are referred to the appropriate United States district attorney. The Federal Bureau of Investigation investigates most of the cases, as the department of justice is the authorized enforcement agency for this act.

WORKERS ARE NEEDED AT RED CROSS ROOM

Completion of Double Quota Will Require More Help

Workers are still desperately needed to complete the doubled quota of Red Cross surgical dressings to be made up by Charlevoix women.

There is an urgent need for these dressings at army and navy base hospitals in this country and abroad. From five to more than a hundred dressings are needed for every wounded man, and the last official casualty list reported nearly 62,000 wounded so far.

Any woman would find time to take care of a son, husband or brother ill or hurt at home. Don't let them suffer for lack of dressings when wounded in their country's service, because "there isn't time to do that work," "it isn't necessary to make those things," or "the war department is too fussy about rules of cleanliness for the workers."

Fire Wednesday Morning

An overheated kitchen stove caused a fire which resulted in considerable damage Wednesday morning at the residence of Mrs. Florence Ypma, 203 May street. Kitchen and living room were badly burned and the roof was also damaged.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Judging from the praise Annie received for the the stuff she put in my column last week, I could just as well turn the job over to her permanently. And maybe I—well—anyway, here comes another dose.

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned that the trout fishing season for 1943 was going to be the longest possible, due to it opening on Saturday, April 24, and closing Labor Day, September 6, and along comes Mrs. Harrison Trimble with the suggestion that I might also mention that the angler who is lucky enough to get a catch of trout the opening day can this year cut them on Easter Sunday, inasmuch as Easter Sunday is to be late in arriving. That's quite unusual, to be sure, and thanks, Mrs. Trimble, for the information.

I'm preparing a statement at the end of the month to present to a certain mail carrier who lives in my neighborhood on the south hill. His blasted yaller dog isn't satisfied eating up my pooch's food, but also picks up and carts the dishes away, too. You'll pay for this, Gildersleeve!

The only affairs that interest some people, it seems, are the other fellow's.

Nowhere does the law of compensation operate so beautifully as in the case of women. Some girls bloom so gorgeously in their late teens and early twenties that life for them thereafter is an inevitable ebb. For others the years up to forty are a quiet struggle to get even a glance from the gallery. But after forty the homely girls find that clothes, lipstick, hair-dos, posture, voice, intelligence and figure count far more than "a pretty face." While the wrinkles and lines cut deeper into the one-time lovely blondes, the plain women are rushing in on their pleasant dispositions. Few women know how to accept age gracefully, but those who do have no trouble attracting men. They

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The question of the hour for members of the Michigan state legislature this week was just that Should Michigan set back its clocks one hour to former Eastern Standard Time which would be the same as Central War Time in Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and other states just south of most of the Michigan state line?

Or, in the interest of "winning the war," should the clocks be kept just as they are?

Judging from the heated statements being expressed these days, both in the rural areas and in the metropolitan industrial centers, the war itself may be lost or won right here in Michigan, all over these 60 minutes of time. Controversies have a traditional habit of becoming emotional, and the time issue is rapidly reaching that stage.

Sentiment among legislators tends to reflect prevalent public opinion of upstate cities and towns, especially those in western counties of the lower peninsula.

Grand Rapids, for example, is in the Chicago orbit. The city council started the fireworks weeks ago by adopting a resolution to return to old time, legislature or no legislature, but members reconsidered it pending action at Lansing.

Among the farmers the 60-minute issue is said to have defeated Murray D. Van Wagoner for re-election. Many growers marked an "X" for Harry F. Kelly in order to protest in the old-fashioned American way of what Kelly's opponent failed to do. But now the hot potato is due to land on Governor Kelly's lap, but there isn't one chance in 10,000 that it will remain there.

If the legislature enacts the bill, and such were indications early this week, then Governor Kelly will sign it. Such was the belief at Lansing.

Why does Washington announce weeks in advance the date when commodities are to be rationed?

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Received the first issue of the paper today and was tickled to death to get it. All the fellows in the barracks read it even tho they come from all over the States. It's funny, but even tho a soldier is from the east, west or central section of the United States, they all seem to have heard of Charlevoix or know some one who lives there. For a small town it is sure well known, and of course for the benefit of the few who are sorta hazy about it, I expound at length on the many attractions and high lights. One fellow here who really gets a kick out of the Courier is a fellow from Atwood. His name is Veenstra and he and I are really the only ones from HOME. We read the paper from cover to cover, thanks loads again, Ken.

Maybe I can give you an idea of what we do here for our day's stint. The bugler, who has insomnia, wakes up in the night around 5:25 very grouchy and so plays us a very sweet piece entitled "Hit the deck." This is quite funny to the boys and we all stretch and yawn and finally climb out of the innerspring- filled with brick-bats and proceed to don our morning suits. These are laughingly referred to by the army as "fatigues." We take our time, in fact all the time we want as long as we get our bunks made, shoes shined, clothes hung up and the barracks swept, mopped and dusted and are all lined up out in the glorious dawn by 5:15. There we taunt at various degrees of attention for roll call and if everybody happens to be there, they take us to the banquet hall that is furnished with nice tables and benches of the softest Ozark oak. Here we partake of a delicious breakfast of burned shingles, worn-out prunes washed down with yesterday's dishwater. After this vitamin packed humdle of morsels we go back to our barn—excuse, I mean barracks, get our 87-lb. rifles and go for a walk. Yesterday we went for a stroll of about 13 miles and never left the company street. When we get thru with this we take a couple hours exercise to loosen up any joints that might have stiffened in the meantime. By this time it's usually too dark for the Lt. to find his way back, so we wend our won ways back as best we can, to bed and to start a new day.

This gives you an idea what the first week is like. At least it seems something like this. After a week or two, you can see why they do things in the prescribed manner and things go easier for everybody. It's a big team, and every single man has to do his part or the team breaks down. I will say this about the army; a lot of the boys in it are going to make some little girl a nice wife some day.

This sure it a great outfit and I'm glad to think I'm a part of it. I'm studying real hard and hope some day soon to give you some real news about developments here.

Well, thanks millions again for the paper and will try to drop you a line from time to time.

Keith.

ROBERTA BEDFORD AND ROBERT PORTER WED AT MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Miss Roberta Bedford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bedford, of Charlevoix, became the bride of Cpl. Robert Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Porter, of Detroit, on Saturday, January 9, at Miami Beach, Fla. Cpl. Porter is attending the army air forces' officers training school in that city.

The church ceremony was performed at 7:30 in the evening by the chaplain of the Miami Beach officers' school, with about twenty friends in attendance.

For her wedding, Miss Bedford chose a simply made blue dress with white trim and accessories. She wore a hat fashioned of white flowers, with ribbon trim and shoulder-length veil, and a white orchid formed her shoulder corsage.

The couple will reside in Miami Beach for the present, following Cpl. Porter's graduation on January 20 from the officers' candidate school, when he received his commission as 2nd lieutenant.

The bride is a graduate of Ottawa high school, Grand Rapids, and attended Kent State University at Kent, Ohio. The groom graduated from a Detroit high school and attended Wayne University. He enlisted in the army in April, 1941, and was stationed at Camp Roberts, Calif., for some time before going to Miami Beach.

LANSING LETTER

Answer: To create a temporary shortage so that consumers will welcome the new restrictions. At least, we ha ten to add, this is the interpretation given at Lansing by one state public relations executive whose knowledge of public psychology rates him a top salary.

The OPA and the Office of War Information would differ violently with this Lansing expert. The Washington viewpoint is that the public must be "sold" on the necessity of strict rationing and then informed how it is to be done.

Rationing of canned, bottled and frozen fruits and vegetables, fruit and vegetable juices, dried fruits and all canned soups is to begin in February. Meat rationing will follow, probably in March.

George Tomlinson of Grand Rapids, state director for victory gardens, Michigan Council of Defense, is trying to convert every idle acre and lot of land into food-growing gardens.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown announces that a special man will be assigned in Detroit to making arrangements for use of state-owned land for gardens.

The day of "Potato" Pingree, Detroit commoner in the Gay Nineties who went from the mayor's chair to the governor's chair, all because of potato patches and kindred reforms, may return to Michigan in 1943.

Tomlinson adds: Get your vegetable seeds early!

All sales of five critical used farm machines, whether made by the dealer, auctioneers or farmers themselves, were placed under price control Jan. 5 by the OPA.

Action was taken to relieve farmers from paying excessive prices resulting from rapidly increasing demand. Machines covered: Used farm tractors, combines, corn pickers, corn binders and motor or tractor operated hay balers.

Your favorite home-town newspaper may cost you 1 cent more a week, if it is a weekly publication, or 5 cents more a week if it is a daily, before next Dec. 31.

Cost of newsprint is due to rise, while revenue from sale of advertising has been steadily declining. Like the Saturday Evening-Post which cost only 5 cents as long as advertising revenue could be maintained, the home-town newspaper must adjust its circulation rates if it expects to keep out of the red.

In Chicago the Tribune and Sun have gone to 3 cents; the other dailies have gone to 4 cents. In Michigan more than 50 per cent of the daily papers increased circulation rates in 1942, while only a few weekly newspapers did so.

One bright spot on the home front appears to be the doughnut industry.

It's like this, folks. So many people are staying home at night, playing dominoes, popping corn, reading newspapers, listening to the radio and otherwise avoiding the use of the family car, the demand for evening refreshments has been soaring.

Wife is busy with first aid or Red Cross. Hence, the humble doughnut is suddenly glorified into new importance. If everyone demands doughnuts, the OPA will probably be forced to act. Rationing of the doughnut holes may come yet.

P. S.—Prentiss B. Brown, of St. Ignace, new OPA administrator, arrived in Washington this week. You can count on Brown to put some old-fashioned common sense into practice in this rationing business.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings, an orphan at Saint Dorothea's convent school since she was seven, knows almost nothing of her early history. Judge Judson Marshbanks and Emma Haskell are her guardians and when she is twenty, Emma gets her a secretarial job with Mrs. Porter in San Francisco, for whom Emma is housekeeper. At the Marshbanks mansion she meets the judge's dictatorial old mother; Amy, rich debutante daughter of his dead brother, Fred; and Fran, his gay young second wife. Emma tells Cherry that her unmarried sister Charlotte was Cherry's mother and she learns from the judge that Amy's father was also her father. Kelly Coates, a young artist, takes Cherry along so Fran will visit his studio. Cherry can see he is very much in love with Fran and is jealous. Mrs. Porter dies and Cherry goes to Stanford University, living with the Pringles at Palo Alto. Fran tells Cherry she has decided to do the honorable thing and see Kelly no more. Soon afterward he asks Cherry to marry him, although Fran will always be the "unattainable woman." Her answer is no; she wants no Fran in the background. Emma tells Cherry that she is not Charlotte Rawlings but Amy Marshbanks, her sister having secretly exchanged the babies. Judge Marshbanks confirms this, saying he has a statement Fred swore to on his deathbed. His mother, unobserved in a deep chair, overhears this, seizes the papers and throws them into the grate fire. Amy, twenty-one in a few days, is going to marry Count Gogo Constantino. Kelly calls to see Cherry and congratulates her as being Amy Marshbanks. Cherry is happy when Kelly says he hasn't seen Fran in weeks.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIV

"I never guessed it because it isn't true," Amy answered, in proud distaste.

"It is true, my child. Your father was a fascinating man. Women were drawn to him."

"Cherry and I are the same age," Amy protested. "He was married. I don't—of course, I don't believe it!"

"Cherry was born two months too soon. Her mother was Charlotte Rawlings, the younger sister of Emma Haskell, who was your grandfather's nurse for years—my housekeeper after that . . ."

"You are not hurting me," Cherry said steadily, interrupting.—"You are talking of Amy's mother."

Amy turned to Cherry, pathetic and bewildered. "What is all this, Cherry? What's she talking about? I think my grandmother's losing her mind. What's it all about?"

"I saw Emma a few weeks ago, up in the mountains," Cherry began, speaking in a voice suddenly hoarse and weak. "She told me that—that there had been a mistake in—in you and me—in our identities, Amy, when we were just newborn babies . . ."

"Of which there is absolutely no proof!" put in the old lady harshly.

"There was proof. Judge Marshbanks will tell Amy so if she asks him," Cherry was beginning, when Amy interrupted again in her turn:

"You mean I'm not Amy Marshbanks, and my father's and mother's child and Grandfather Wellington's grandchild? But that's so idiotic."

"You are right, Amy," said Mrs. Marshbanks, more quietly than she had yet spoken. "You are absolutely right, my darling, and I am proud of you. And now, girls, no more of it. It's late, and I am going to bed. Good night, Amy."

"What do you suppose got her?" Amy asked in a whisper when they were in the hall. "She gets the most crack-brained ideas! Come into my room, Cherry. No, come on in a minute. Is any of that true? Was my father really your father, too?"

"Emma says so," Cherry admitted, sick of the whole thing.

"Uncle say so?"

"Yes. Yes. He told me long ago. When I was here after Mrs. Porter died."

"Honest?" Amy asked, between a smile and a frown. And Cherry could see that she was not wholly displeased with the idea. "So Emma and my father—" mused Amy, a deep dimple appearing in her flawless little cheek.

"Not Emma. Emma's younger sister, Charlotte. She was only nineteen. She was just out of boarding school."

"That makes us cousins, doesn't it?" Amy asked, still marveling at the strangeness of it. "No, it doesn't," she corrected it quickly, "it makes us half sisters!"

Cherry was standing looking at the other girl steadily. "I think I'll go to bed, Amy. I'm terribly tired."

She went to her room and began slowly to undress.

Before she fell asleep she heard Fran and the judge come in, and Amy's voice in the hall: "Uncle Jud, could I speak to you a minute?"

"Tonight?" said the judge's pleasant voice in answer.

"If I could, Uncle!"

"All right, trot down to the library, there's a fire there," Cherry heard him say, and then Fran's voice, "If it's that comic-opera count, Jud, be firm with her!"

He followed Amy down, and there was silence aboveStairs. Cherry nervously excited, got into bed intending to wait until Amy came up, and to gather, if she could from Amy's manner how the conference had gone. But she was too sleepy. Long before the light in the hall went out she was deep in dreams.

They were troubled dreams. Someone was in danger. A hoarse voice called out, "Help, help, help!"

Cherry sat up in bed, terrified at darkness, sweat suddenly cold on her hands and spine and brow. What was it? Somebody had called "Help!"

A shout came from the floor below, and then the sound of a revolver shot clove the darkness sharply.

Cherry was at the door now. The hall lights rushed up and the light over the stairs. Amy was at the switch, pallid with fright; stout, sturdy Molly, with May and some of the other maids behind her, was running down from the upper floor. Fran, clinging to the banister, was on the stairs.

"What was that?" Fran said, in a quick quiet voice. "Let's not lose our heads. It was nothing."

They all ran downstairs after Fran. Old Martin, the butler, was in the lead and they saw him pause at the library door. "They've got him!" he said brokenly.

When Cherry reached the door, Maritta was on his knees, and the body of his master, shot through the heart, was resting limply against his shoulder.

Days went by. There was a dreadful silence in the house; a feeling of emptiness, even though it was filled with people. Old Mrs. Marshbanks murmuring to Fran in Fran's room; Amy tearful and frightened in hers; Cherry coming and going with a colorless, shocked face; Gregory Marshbanks, tall and good-looking and serious, home from college; Molly and May, the two upstairs servants. Helene the maid, the Chinese cook and his helper, Martin the butler, Rousseau the chauffeur, these were all there.

And besides these were officers of the law who had opened doors and blocked boxes, taken their posts gravely and regularly at the entrances, checking everyone who went out and in.

Judge Marshbanks had fallen back across his own chair, had slipped to the floor; it had been his voice they had first heard, shouting for help; Cherry recognized. It as she remembered that dreadful sound in the silent night.

Since then the place had been in full possession of the authorities. The family, the servants were being eternally summoned for questions.

Fran had repeated to everyone's satisfaction her simple story. She had come home from a Burlingame party with her husband at about midnight. She had felt restless and headachy that evening, and Judge Marshbanks, who always was glad to get home at a reasonable hour, had been delighted to bring her back before the party was well under way.

The judge, her story went on, had gone into the library for a talk with his niece, Amy Marshbanks, and Fran had gone to bed. She had heard nothing until his dreadful cry of "Help!" had rung through the house.

Amy was a poor witness in her own behalf, crying bitterly, and breaking out with frightened self-defense with every word. She had asked Uncle Jud to talk to her that night—no, she wouldn't say about what—no, he hadn't gotten angry at her nor she at him—yes, it had agitated her a good deal—she had cried—yes, she had said, "Then I'll kill myself!" as Martin testified. But Martin, going about to put out the lights, knew that she had gone upstairs before he spoke to Uncle, before Uncle said to him, "I've a little business to finish here, Martin. I'll put out the lights!"

"Had the announcement of your prospective marriage anything to do with this conversation, Miss Marshbanks?" Amy had been asked. She had hesitated, had answered, "Not exactly." Amy was twenty-one now, and society had been duly notified, through the press, of her intention to become the third Countess Constantino.

On the other hand, the murdered man's mother had proved an incomparable witness. She had answered questions thoughtfully, evenly, not wincing away from even the most appalling details.

"Who killed Judson Marshbanks?" headlined the newspapers. Everyone speculated, and everyone's guess seemed as reasonable as that of everyone else's.

"Cherry, you must have a theory," Kelly said one day when they were climbing the hill at Sausalito behind Topcote.

"I have about four," she answered judicially. "And Amy would add one to that. She has strong suspicions of you."

"Interesting," commented Kelly.

"But after all, she may have no more than four," pursued Cherry, "for one of my four is Amy herself. Oh, I don't really think she had anything to do with it!" she interrupted his quick, surprised look. "But she had a motive. She knew that Uncle Jud was the only person who could really do anything about this question of her identity and mine. She was frightened—about the shame of it, and the money, of course, and above all, about Gogo. Amy knew in her heart that Gogo would leave her flat if anything like that came out."

"Do Amy," Kelly said, in a mildly pleased tone, "suspects me?"

"I don't say she suspects you. But she knows you liked Fran, and that you were there that night, and she asked me the other day if I thought by any chance you and Uncle Jud could have had a quarrel."

"Ha! I wonder if she suspects Gogo?"

"She was in perfect terror until he'd been cleared."

"Amy acts like a person completely innocent."

"She does, but at the same time she and I and the old lady are hiding what did actually go on that night, what the discussions and quarrels were about, and I marvel sometimes that they, the police, don't smell a rat!"

"There's Fran," Kelly said thoughtfully, stuffing his pipe.

"Oh, she wouldn't! Who was she telephoning to that night, Kelly?"

"Any one of a dozen men. Men fall for her the way soft coal goes into basements."

A few moments later, they returned to the house. Cherry pulled on her hat and handed Kelly her coat to hold for her. "I hate to go back!" she said.

Kelly adjusted the collar in back, square bar about with his big hands on her shoulders and carefully buttoned her coat.

"You don't have to go back, you know," he said, after a moment in which he had cleared his throat.

"It would be so good," she said, her raised face close to his, "to belong here. Just peaceful days and meals and digging in the garden and climbing the hill!"

"Why don't you do it, Cherry?"

"Because from the very beginning, Kelly, from the time I first knew you, I've known you didn't love me. And if I ever came here," Cherry said, "I'd want you to be so mad about me that you could hardly bear it. I'd want you to feel that marriage—marriage between us—was a miracle, and that if ever we had a child it would be a miracle to you, too, just as it would be to me!"

"And suppose I said that it was that way with me, Cherry," the man answered, catching her lightly by the upper arms with both big hands, holding her face to face with him. "Suppose I told you, on my sacred oath, that for weeks, months, I didn't know what was the matter with me, and that after you went away this summer it came to me suddenly that it was you—that it's been you for a long time. What would you say then, Marchioness?"

"I'd say—" she stammered, "don't—don't fool me, Kelly."

"Cherry," he asked, and now she was crushed so tight against his heart that she could not find breath to answer, "will you marry me, darling? Will you change my whole life for me, and make it the most wonderful life that any man ever had in this world? Will you, Marchioness?" . . .

After a while he had to take her home. For even with the most expeditious plans in the world, they had to wait until such time as they could drive to San Rafael for a marriage license, and Cherry had to obtain permission from the authorities to leave the Marshbanks house.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-motored bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22½ tons, have a wing spread of 103 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi air force. You can help by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. Buy them from your bank, post-office or other convenient issuing agent.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Received the paper today and was surprised to find out that you already had my new address.

Was transferred up here to take a course in advanced aviation. I will specialize in engine overhaul, which was my first choice.

Sure is good to get the papar and read the letters written by the fellows from home. Hope that some day we can all be back there on main street, Charlevoix, again.

Best regards to everyone. Thanks a lot for the paper!

Sincerely yours,
Bruce Zeitler.

Hi, Ken:

I should have written sooner but these little yellow people take up most of my time.

I hope your luck is holding good in your hunting and fishing trips. There are a lot of fish around here but I don't care to get too friendly with them, if you know what I mean.

I get your paper quite often and it is swell to be able to take yourself home for a few minutes reading about your friends.

Tell everyone hello and good luck and next Christmas will find us all home together as it should be.

Your friend,
Bob Ashdon,
San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Ken,

There is one thing I have been trying to do for the past three months and that is to write and thank you for sending me the Courier. Believe me, I appreciate receiving the paper and know the other boys from Charlevoix in the service feel the same. Reading it from cover to cover each week sort of takes me back to good old Bridge St. for a sidewalk chat with everyone.

Washington is a very scenic state with its tall pine trees and snow-capped mountains; however, the winter climate here is not too pleasant as we have much rain and fog. Occasionally the sun shines and the scenic beauty predominates.

About a month ago I was transferred from the 108th Engineers to Post Headquarters here at Fort Lewis. I am now a draftsman in the office of the Director of Supply. I like the type of work, but miss the real action of my old outfit.

Well, Ken, in closing I'll give you my new address and thank you again for sending the paper. Best regards to all my friends in Charlevoix.

Yours truly,
Pfc. Louis Orlowski.

Dear Ken,

Please change my address to 26-43 instead of 21-43. They change from 2 shifts a day and I am in class 26-43 now, going to school from 4:00 a. m. to 1:45 p. m. Not bad, only kinda early to get up.

Boy, is this USO a big place, and it's really crowded. It covers half a block and has everything you can think of in it.

Yours truly,
Pvt. Harry M. Mason.

Dear Ken,

Got your list of addresses of men in San Diego, and was surprised to learn there are quite a few near here.

I was more surprised the other night when, standing in one of the local night spots, who should waltz by but Orm Bergeon! Ned Wagner was with me, we each grabbed one of his arms and dragged him over in a corner for a little boisterous greetings. We had quite a "bull session" before leaving.

I have been out of recruit training a few weeks now, and am "pulling duty" on the guns. We have a little excitement once in a while. Wish I could tell you more, but I can't.

I received the Courier last week and want to thank you. Give my regards to the City Fathers.

Sincerely yours,
Pvt. Lee J. Scott,

Hi Scoop,

I thought it about time to write and tell you how much I appreciate the paper. I should have written before but I've been pretty busy down here. I get the paper every Monday and it really cheers me up, but after reading it all through I get kind of lonesome for the old home town.

This Amphibious Force is quite new and very exciting, and to prove how cool we keep in action, here's proof in a poem:

"Oh, a torpedo blew off our fantail,
A bomb landed square on the poop,
A shell whistled over the foredeck
Like a fireman eating soup;
It took the gunner's hat off
And hurled it in the sea,
The gunner frowned and murmured:
'My goodness, gracious me!'"

Well, time for lights out so will sign off. Thanks again, and catch a few whitefish for me.

Best regards to all,
Bud.

Dear Ken,

I guess it's about time I wrote to you and thanked you for sending the paper. I sure enjoy it down here and there are some of my buddies that enjoy it too.

Lawrence Taylor is in this same corps. I have a swell buddy. He is from Boyne City and his name is Robert Willis.

Well, I can't think of anything else to say, but I am glad you are sending me the papar.

Editor's note:—The Charlevoix Service Organization gets the bouquets for sending you the paper, Leonard—and all the other fellows in service—but we're always glad to transmit your appreciation to them.

Dear Ken,

Regularly every two months I seem to have a new address for you to send the Courier to. Please note the change so that by the time I get back from my next ferry trip there will be three or four Couriers waiting for me.

Last time I managed to get back just in time to spend Christmas with my folks in Detroit. Uncle Sam did his part, too, by sending me a nice Christmas present in the form of a promotion. On the 22nd of December I was made a 1st Lieutenant.

Coming back to Memphis, I incidentally ran into Lyle Beaudoin on the train and we had dinner together. It was good to see someone from home. If any Charlevoix fellows are stationed here, either at the naval air training station or the army air base, let me know and I'll get in touch with them.

Sincerely yours,

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I didn't realize till the other night when I ran across an article in the paper what a whale of a lot of industrial alcohol the government needs for the war."

"I should say it does, Chet. I understand the beverage distillers around the country are producing about 240,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol this year for ammunition, tires and other things. I'd say it's mighty fortunate these distilleries are available to do the job. Otherwise, if we still had prohibition, the government would have had to spend millions of dollars and use up a lot of critical materials to build plants...to say nothing of all the time it would take. It might have been just another case of 'too little, too late'."

Why do people do it?

People who call "Information" for numbers that are readily available in the telephone directory probably don't realize the serious waste they are causing.

1,450 hours of operators' and equipment time are wasted each day in Michigan by calls for numbers that are listed in the telephone directory. Those thousands of unnecessary calls further congest the war-loaded telephone system.

So please look in the directory for the number you want. If it is NOT listed and you must call "Information," write it down so you won't have to ask for it again.

Tons of snow have tied up traffic and communications in this city as the worst storm in years hit town Friday. Trains were stopped until Tuesday afternoon, telegraph wires were out of commission, and as fuel supplies became dangerously low, the fuel administrator limited individual purchases to 500 pounds.

Seems as though something should be done towards repairing the watering trough on Bridge street which has been out of commission for nearly a month.

Leslie Shapton left Tuesday for Port Royal, S. C., to join the marine corps.

"The Real World Series" is the title of a poem which goes, in part:

"——Your Uncle Sam is warming up to mount the pitching hill,
And show such speed and curves that he will strike out kaiser Bill.
That war machine to conquer worlds will know the very worst
When we hit one down to Hindenburg and beat his throw to first.

Yes, Uncle Sam is warming up, and after he goes in,
We'll be building baseball diamonds in the city of Berlin."

Elmer Ingalls left his team unhitched when he went into the post office Monday noon, and when the noon whistle blew the horses started home for dinner at a gallop. They were checked by a bystander in front of Orlowski's store, and no harm done.

A movement has been started, possibly originating with rural carriers of the city and receiving support from automobile owners, to induce farmers of this region and others owning sleighs narrower than the standard automobile width of 56 inches, to remodel them to conform to this width. Sleighs would then make a track for autos to follow through drifted roads.

Eugene Burgess, 77, aged Hayes township resident, died Thursday. Mr. Burgess operated a lumbering business with Moses Cooper on the shore of Little Traverse Bay, then later on Oyster Bay on Lake Charlevoix, and is evidently the man for whom Burgess community was named.

Bird Feeding Stations

One of the simplest winter bird-feeding stations to make is a peanut-butter board. Holes bored in a short piece of 2-by-4 may be plugged with peanut butter, little platforms may be tacked on just below the holes, and the board hung in a tree. This feeding station may attract squirrels also.

You're never "caught short" with your check book along!

It takes only a few moments to open an account—we supply the check book and fillers. And then with a good bank balance, you can write your money as you need it—safely and conveniently.

Adolph Hitler declared Germany and Italy at war upon the United States on Thursday, December 11, 1941, at 12 noon German time, 5 a. m. Eastern Standard Time. President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the United States declaration of war upon Germany at 3:05 p. m., Thursday, December 11, 1941; and the declaration of war upon Italy one minute later. Thus Germany and Italy were 10 hours ahead of this country in declaring themselves at war.

MEMORIAM

Eva Adams Sass

A memorial to the late Eva E. Adams Sass, composed and read at her funeral by Prof. J. Raleigh Nelson, counselor of foreign students and director of the International Center at the University of Michigan; published herewith by request.

I had known Eva Adams Sass for more than 45 years. From that summer, so far in the past, when I first came to spend my vacation at Sweet Briar Farm with her mother and aunt, till this hour when we gather to honor her memory, she has been one of my most respected and beloved friends. As I look back over those years, during which she came to seem to me like an older sister, I realize that she has been one of the two or three outstanding personalities of my entire acquaintance.

Perhaps it is not strange that she had such dominating characteristics, and had during her life exhibited such brilliant qualities of mind and shown herself possessed of such abounding and versatile artistic talent. One has only to recall that she had, to begin with, a rich inheritance from two distinguished sources. She was seventh in direct descent from Samuel Adams, and in her that Adams strain was modified and enriched by intermarriage with the John Quincy Adams line. The Adams family has dominated much of the American scene in all generations, and in Eva Adams, one often noted the common characteristics of the Adams family. Her love for everything beautiful — flowers, birds, painting, sculpture, literature, and her artistic endowments as a painter of ability, and, in her earlier years, as a musician, may be credited to her French mother, a daughter of a de Lorimier, who was a former premier of Canada.

When I first knew Eva Adams in Chicago, she had just achieved distinction as an artist; she had her downtown studio; she had organized the Atlas Club of which she was the first president; she had exhibited her work at the World's Fair, and was to exhibit at the St. Louis, the Buffalo, and the Paris Expositions. The artistic urge never died within her. I saw her, in her late eighties, within a year of her death, still painting with feverish industry, spending often five or six hours a day at her work. Hers was the amateur spirit at its best. She loved her art.

When the great (iron) industry at Ironton, founded by the Cherrie family in 1878, failed in the panic of 1893, her mother, Mrs. Adams and her aunt, Miss Eliza Cherrie, who had been large stockholders in the company, decided to recoup their broken fortunes by taking summer guests at Ironton. It was a happy thought for hundreds of us in the years to follow; it gave us some of the happiest summers in our lives. But, without the suggestions and support, and finally the whole-hearted devotion of Eva Adams, the project could never have succeeded as it did, for the two patrician old ladies were pathetically unprepared for such a venture. They made us all welcome as honored guests, but were embarrassed by the commercial aspects of what they had undertaken and overwhelmed by the scale on which it was developing.

Eva Adams, in the midst of an active, successful career in Chicago, sacrificed her own ambitions plans, lifting more and more of the burden from the aging shoulders of the two gentlewomen, till at last she had accepted it all as a self-imposed task. And, in the next thirty years, she developd at Ironton a summer colony that will never be again matched. Friends, and friends of friends came to Sweet Briar Farm by her invitation; they were still guests in a home of refinement and charm. Year after year they returned like beloved members of our family. And to it all Eva Adams imparted the contagious enthusiasm and gaiety of spirit that was part of her French heritage. Hundreds of us look back to the old Ironton days with a nostalgia that can never be assuaged, and always with an appreciation of the woman who contributed so much to our happiness.

And we do not forget the heroic courage with she turned from the busy, happy summer days when Sweet Briar teemed with vacation activities, to the lonely, solitary task of caring for her aged, bedridden mother. Winter after winter, she spent alone with Mrs. Adams in the big old house on Ironton Point, buried under the snow drifts for months on end, seeing no one but the bedridden invalid and the village man who tunneled his way through the drifts to care for her fires night and morning. Her letters of those days are epic.

The fourteen happy years following her marriage, so late in life, to Frederick Sass, have seemed to her friends a well-deserved reward for those years of devoted self-sacrifice. We have always agreed with her in the tribute she has so often paid him. He was "a noble Christian gentleman." In their mutual interests they found the basis of an ideal and perfect companionship. Those fourteen years were the happiest of her life.

Eva Adams Sass was a rare combination. Hers was a courageous Spartan soul that feared nothing in the world except compromise with what she regarded as evil or unworthy of her Puritan traditions. But balancing and softening this stern Puritan aspect of her character and her passion for reform that marked her as a true daughter of the Adamses, was the devotion and loyalty to her friends and the perennial charm of her almost girlish enthusiasms that persisted to the end of her life.

Those of us who knew her best, and understood her best, admired her, loved her, and marveled at the complex and fascinating variety of her personal characteristics. We mark today the passing from our midst of a woman of most unusual qualities.

are likely to have been wallflowers at twenty.

If you wish to take part in any ordinary conversation nowadays, you have to hear and read the commentators and writers, because their views on the war strategy are usually the topic of the day. Sometimes, of course, the experts take vacations and then the army and navy have to fight the war alone, and the public has to analyze the news without professional aid. One evening it occurred to me that it would be a pity if these newspaper and radio strategists turned out to be no more helpful than were the stock market predictors who operated through the twenties and who came to such a sad end in 1929. None of the current thinkers was particularly useful in warning us of things to come when Germany and Japan were building their war machines. Whether they see very far ahead at this time is doubtful. One thing is certain, and that is that the professional commentator must be optimistic if he expects to keep a following. It was so during the twenties, and it will be so for the duration of the war. Hence everyone who can should do as much thinking for himself as his brain cells will stand. By that method he may be able to keep the general picture in focus.

Nothing more pleasant has happened for us in recent weeks than the fine bunch of letters we have received and been privileged to publish in these columns from local men in the armed forces. You no doubt saw and read those last week, and in this week's edition we have letters, to be specific, from Bruce Zeitler, Bob Ashdon, Louis Orlowski, Harry Mason, Lee Scott, C. P. "Bud" Heise, Leonard Furgeson, Leslie Shapton and Keith Wagner. We are happy that each and every one of them so thoroughly enjoy receiving the Courier. This service which we are privileged to have a part in with the Charlevoix Service Organization is so small in comparison with the sacrifice these young men are being called upon to make, that we only humbly acknowledge their appreciation.

I've often heard fellows jokingly remark: "When business interferes with pleasure, quit the business." The only thing wrong with such a theory is that eating is about the most necessary thing in keeping alive, and you know, dagnabit, this struggle for existence has knocked my fishin' all out of kilter. I dragged a fish shanty around behind the office New Year's day for the purpose of fixing it up and putting it on Lake Charlevoix, and haven't touched it since. So if I get behind in my fish yarns, you'll now know the reason why.

In glancing down just now, noticed I still had my apron on and that reminded me I'd better get to doing something else besides shooting off my mouth like this or you won't get a chance to read it, anyhow.

SPRING SEASON FOR BEAVER ESTABLISHED

Open 19 Lower Peninsula Counties From March 15 to 31

Beaver trapping will be permitted throughout the upper peninsula April 1-15 and in 19 counties of northern lower Michigan Mar. 15-31, under regulations adopted by the state conservation commission at its January meeting.

Trappers will be permitted to take eight animals, two of which may be otter. Since beaver pelts are expected to average $20 while otter pelts bring only $8, it is believed this regulation will cover accidental catches of otter, which sometimes are taken in beaver sets, without encouraging the taking of otter. Only 270 otter were trapped in 1940, only 164 in 1941. Last year the season on otter was closed throughout the state.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX INFORMATION

Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of articles detailing pertinent information regarding income tax.

Form of Return

Persons subject to the federal income tax must report their income to the Government on forms, or blanks, prescribed by regulations. These forms are obtainable from any Collector of Internal Revenue, and generally from any bank. Special forms are designated for corporations, for partnerships, for trusts and fiduciaries, and for nonresident aliens. Farmers who keep no books of account on the accrual method must attach a special schedule to their return (Form 1040F). For individual, two forms are used, depending upon the amount and source of income to be reported.

Form 1040. This form is intended for general use of individuals who are citizens of the United States, or residents in this country, whether citizens or not. It contains spaces to show the amount of income from various sources, deductions allowable, exemptions and credits, and computation of tax liability. As most of the items require some explanation in order to be allowable, the form contains appropriate schedules to show in more detail how the income or the deductions are determined.

Form 1040A. This is a simplified report, which may, at the option of the taxpayer who makes his return on the cash basis, be filed instead of form 1040 by citizens and residents whose gross income was $3,000 or less during 1942, provided all this income consists wholly of one or more of the following: salary, wages, dividends, interest, or annuities. In using this form it is necessary only to enter the amount of gross income as shown, deduct the credit allowable for dependents, and insert the appropriate amount of tax in accordance with one's personal exemption status, as shown on the table on the reverse of the form. This form has no entries for deductions allowable, since the taxes indicated in the table on the back of the form are computed after taking into account what have been considered average deductions for persons of this income class.

A taxpayer should, therefore, consider carefully which form would be appropriate for his purposes. Whichever form is employed, all the information called for in the spaces should be inserted so far as applicable to the taxpayer, in order to avoid the expense to the Government, and the possible inconvenience to the taxpayer, of subsequent check and inquiry.

With each return form is a set of accompanying instructions, and these instructions should be carefully read by the taxpayer before making his return.

Returns for the calendar year 1942 must be filed not later than March 15, 1943. They may be filed by mailing to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the appropriate district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the taxpayer. If the return is filed by mailing, it should be posted in ample time to reach the Collector's office on or before March 15, 1943. Returns received later than the due date are subject to a penalty variable according to the lateness in filing.

16TH WINTER SPORTS CARNIVAL DATES SET

Petoskey Plans 3-Day Program; Will Select Queen

Despite handicaps caused by the war, Petoskey will present the 16th annual Michigan Winter Sports carnival February 5, 6 and 7, but with a greatly curtailed program.

A queen will be selected to rule over the program, but the queen's ball became a war casualty as it was decided to eliminate this event. Though an elaborate ice throne is also out because of restrictions on wiring, lighting and labor, a proper setting is being worked out for the coronation.

Figure and fancy skating exhibitions, speed skating events, jumper riding events, ski and snowshoe hikes and races, and the Ice Show will be included in the program. Transportation difficulties will keep away many people from other sections of the state who formerly came by auto and train to attend the carnival.

One of the funniest comedy teams in Hollywood's history comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday, January 23-24, in "Tish," based on Mary Roberts Rinehart's beloved fiction character, with Marjorie Main as the redoubtable spinster Letitia Carberry, aided in laughmaking by ZaSu Pitts and Aline MacMahon. The three feminine musketeers go through side-splitting adventures ranging from being treed by a tame bear to being arrested by a game warden and spending a night in jail.

No Need To Worry If Your Car Is

MOBILIZED FOR WINTER

Any friendly mechanic will tell you that a good lubricating oil is a big help in stretching your gasoline mileage and in guarding against winter wear.

Correct winter lubrication -- the sort you get with world-famous Mobiloil Arctic -- reduces heavy engine drag. It makes your car start and run easier, and helps save gasoline, particularly in starting. When your car sits idle, oil has a tendency to drain from the cylinders. But Mobiloil clings to every surface, maintaining a tough, protective film. This means pistons slide freely. And the engine turns over easier -- uses less gasoline -- when you step on the starter.

But even more important, pistons and cylinders are protected against scuffing. There's no unnecessary engine wear. Mobiloil Arctic also resists carbon and sludge formation, which might corrode pistons and valves and do a lot of damage. Rather than run needless risks, millions of wartime motorists insist upon Mobiloil Arctic, the world's largest-selling winter motor oil. No need to worry if your car is completely Mobilized. Do it NOW.

DRAFT TO FILL ALL SERVICES

ENLISTMENTS STOP AFTER FEBRUARY 1

Drafted Men May Select Branch of Armed Forces; Must Meet Usual Requirements

National headquarters of selective service expects to be able to begin filling the manpower needs of all the armed forces through draft machinery around February 1, responsible officials have stated.

A final draft of a plan through which needs of the navy, marine corps and coast guard will be filled through selective service now is being checked by the war and navy departments.

President Roosevelt, in his Dec. 5 manpower order, ended voluntary enlistments in the sea-going forces of men aged 18 through 37 and ordered that men in those age groups henceforth be obtained through draft boards.

The selective service bureau, placed under the war manpower commissioner simultaneously, was unprepared to begin filling navy, marine and coast guard quotas. Since then, needs of those forces have been filled through voluntary inductions, the only difference from enlistments being that the volunteer went to his draft board to obtain permission to enter the service.

Under the plan, as finally drafted by Selective Service, single induction centers will be estnblished and selective service staffs at those centers will be bolstered by recruiting officers who will take over the additional work resulting from the new procedure.

Men called for induction will be given an opportunity to express a choice of the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard. Their preference will be honored provided they meet the qualifications of the arm chosen and the quota of their draft board for that arm has not been filled.

Pending the final check of the plan and its publication, officials would not disclose whether War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt's demand for standardization of the mental and physical qualifications hed been met. McNutt feels that the qualifications required by the navy and its allied branches have been too high and should be closer to those of the army. The disclosure that the plan is about ready to be placed into operation indicated that he possibly had reached a compromise with the navy department.

Knitting and Sewing Materials Available for Volunteers

Mrs. Allen Campbell, Red Cross chairman of work production for Charlevoix county, has requested that all civilian and soldier knitting or sewing be turned in by this Saturday. Shipment of soldier knitting has been delayed, and must be made by February 1.

There is a good supply of yarn on hand for both civilian and soldier garments, and considerable material for sewing.

SKATING CARNIVAL AT MUNICIPAL RINK

Board of Commerce to Give Trophy for Figure Skating

Entries to date in the skating carnival, to be held Thursday evening at 7:30 at the municipal rink, indicate a keen interest in the event.

Stewart Coleman, in charge of the carnival, has arranged races for boys and girls in the tots class, under 7 years; juniors, 7 to 9 years, inclusive; intermediates, 10 to 12 years, inclusive; and seniors, 13 years and up; as well as figure skating competition and exhibitions.

Board of commerce directors, cooperating with the school in putting on the event, have voted to present a trophy for the figure skating competition. If won three years in sequence by one person, it will become the permanent property of that winner.

Prizes of war stamps are to be awarded first and second place winners in all events.

BIRTHDAY BALL SATURDAY NIGHT

TENTH ANNUAL PARTY AT THE ARGONNE, JAN. 30

Support Solicited In Nation-Wide Campaign for Funds to Fight Infantile Paralysis

Charlevoix county's tenth annual President's Birthday celebration will be held Saturday evening, January 30, at The Argonne. Plans for the event are in preparation by William Supernaw, county chairman.

Mr. Supernaw stated that a gratifying response has been met in this city and other communities in the county toward efforts to organize the campaign for funds to fight infantile paralysis. The "march of dimes" campaign, another means of raising funds, has also had good support.

An orchestra has been secured for the party at The Argonne, and an effort is being made to enlist local talent to augment the program of entertainment.

Each year 50 per cent of the money raised through President's Birthday parties is left in the area in which it was contributed, to finance the services of the local infantile paralysis chapter. The remainder is used by the national foundation to forward the national program of study, research and education. As an example of how money is used by local chapters, for several months, chapters have been financing courses of instruction in the Kenny method of treatment to train doctors and nurses in this new technique of fighting the crippling after-effects of the disease.

CREW MEMBER CRUISER "SAN FRANCISCO" HOME

While his ship, the cruiser "San Francisco," is in port in her namesake city, seaman first class Leroy Plum was home last week to visit his mother, Mrs. Helen Plum. Arriving here Wednesday from San Francisco, he left Sunday to return to his duties. Seaman Plum had little comment to make on his experiences as a gunner during the battle in which six Japanese vessels were sunk or damaged by the cruiser.

POINT RATIONING SYSTEM OUTLINED

DATE NOT SET FOR PLAN TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

Wer Ration Book 2 for Purchase Processed Foods, Meat; Book One for Sugar, Coffee

Although the date on which the new system of point rationing takes effect has not yet been announced, efforts are being made by the office of price administration to acquaint the public with mechanics of the plan previous to its introduction.

Designed after careful planning and study of rationing systems in other nations, the new wer ration bonk will be for purchase of canned, dried and other processed foods only. War ration book 1 will continue to be used for sugar and coffee.

In book two, blue stamps will be valid for purchase of processed foods, red stamps are to be used later for meat rationing.

Number on stamp shows how many points that stamp is worth. Point value set on any food has nothing to do with the price of that article, but rather indicates its relative scarcity. High point foods will be the comparatively rare items; low point foods, those of which there is a good supply.

Letters on stamps show when to use them. Stamps A, B and C are good during the first rationing period, not good after that period ends. Official list of point values and rationing periods will be made public through newspapers.

Anyone can take any or all books belonging to a household to do the buying for that household, so long as the grocer collects stamps for the total point value of foods purchased. When all A, B and C stamps in a book are used the consumer cannot buy any more processed foods with that book until the next stamps are valid. However, each person will have sufficient stamps to purchase necessary food, and no actual hardship is anticipated as a result of the new system.

MOTORISTS WARNED TO RETAIN 1942 PLATES

Metal Tags, Windshield Stickers Are Added This Year

Auto license tags for 1943 went on sale Saturday at the secretary of state's branch office in the court house. At present, only full-year passenger licenses, full-year trailer, and half-year commercial windshield stickers are available, but a full stock is expected to arrive before the end of this week, says Fenton R. Bulow, branch manager.

Motorists are reminded that February 28 is the deadline for driving without the '43 tags on their licenses, but owners of both passenger and commercial vehicles are warned not to remove their 1942 plates. The metal tags will be fastened to the old plates on passenger cars and on trailers, and trucks will need '42 plates as well as the windshield stickers.

It is necessary to bring title of vehicle when buying the license, but not compulsory to have commercial vehicles weighed every year. The 1942 registration slip is sufficient when obtaining commercial license stickers, provided weight of the vehicle has not been changed in the meantime.

DEPUTY CITY CLERK WILL ENTER SERVICE

Council Received Resignation of Robert Emrey Monday

Robert C. Emrey, deputy city clerk, Monday night announced his resignation from that office to the city council at their regular session. He will leave Tuesday, February 2, to enter military service.

Deputy clerk since June, 1940, Mr. Emrey has also held the position of city assessor and in April, 1942, was elected justice of the peace. His resignation becomes effective February 15. No successor has been named as yet.

Mr. Emrey enlisted some months ago in the army's coast artillery anti-aircraft division. After reception at Fort Custer, he will be assigned to officers' training school.

USO CENTER ON SHORT SCHEDULE FOR WINTER

Until the navigation season reopens in the spring, the local USO center will be operated only on Saturdays and Sundays. The coast guard detail stationed in this city was transferred at close of navigation and there are too few service men in town at present to warrant keeping the center open at all times.

RAYDERS ROLL OVER JORDAN

CHALKED UP THEIR SEVENTH CONSECUTIVE WIN

Reserve Took Visitors Second Team; Charlevoix Plays at Boyne City Friday

Charlevoix's Red Rayders scored their seventh straight basketball victory on the home floor Friday night with an easy 34-12 win over East Jordan's Crimson Wave.

Although East Jordan made the first score, they trailed the Rayders for the rest of the game. The Kipmen's advantage was 8 to 5 at the first quarter. The second period was closely contested, each team scoring 3 points. Charlevoix pulled away during the third quarter, marking up 9 points to Jordan's 2, to finish the period with a 29 to 10 lead. In the last stanza, the Rayders netted 14 points on field goals while holding the Jordanites to 2 scores.

Captain Caray made his best scoring record of this season, sinking 7 field goals and 2 free throws for a total of 16 points. Don Bellinger, entering the game in the final period, put four field goals through the hoop for 8 points. Swanson marked up 5 points, Chambers 3, and Mitchell 2. Coach Kipke used 9 men during the contest.

East Jordan's scoring was led by B. Saxton, with 5 points, Murphy and Nemecek, 3 each, and Woodcock, 1. Jordan played 10 men during the game.

Charlevoix's reserves swamped East Jordan's second team in the preliminary, 29 to 11. C. Bergmann made 10 points for the home team, Ward 8, Plum 5, T. Gengle and V. Olach, 2 each, Graves, Novotny and Brown 1 each. D. Ager made 5 points for East Jordan, Carr and Sommerville 2 each, Conway and Valencourt 1 each.

Friday, January 29, the Rayders go to Boyne City for their first encounter with the Ramblers. Boyne has a good record this season and this should be a hard-fought game.

NEW MEMBER RATION BOARD IS APPOINTED

Community Service Member Is Source of Accurate Information

Fred Bancroft has been appointed community service member of the local war price and rationing board and has assumed his new duties.

The appointment is in line with a new plan established by the regional office of price administration, whereby community service activities and consumer relations in each board area will be supervised by a board member.

Among Mr. Bancroft's duties is the preparation of a weekly report on board activities, which will be available to the public at board headquarters, and to give out information requested by consumers on rationing.

SPEBSQSA CHAPTER MEETING WAS HELD

Date of Singers' Gathering for February Will Be Announced

First regular meeting of the Charlevoix chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartette Singing in America (whew) was held Wednesday evening, January 20, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Nettleton, with 30 members present.

An evening of musical entertainment was provided by three quartettes, including the Ballad Benders, and two lady trios. Harold Gray, of Traverse City, vice president of the state SPEBSQSA chapter, and Dallas Henry, local chapter secretary and manager of the Ballad Benders, gave short talks. Lunch was served late in the evening.

While inclement weather prevented chapter members in nearby cities from attending this meeting, another meeting is planned for February, date to be announced later.

ICE BLOCKADES BEAVER ISLAND

NO BOAT SERVICE SINCE JANUARY 16

Efforts to Get Plane for Island Run So Far Futile; Residents Await Mail, Supplies

Heavy ice floes have cut Beaver Island off from communication by boat with the mainland, as the motorship "Mary Margaret" has been unable to make a crossing since January 16.

Capt. Leroy Allers attempted the trip last Saturday, but found floes of ice blocking the island's head and could not make a landing at any point. Monday's wind brought the ice toward Charlevoix, closing this port with floes extending a great distance from this shore.

Efforts to obtain a plane for the regular Charlevoix-Beaver Island run have so far proved ineffectual, due to government restrictions because of the war. However, as this issue goes to press, it is reported that a Civil Air Patrol plane from Cadillac has been secured to take the island physician, Dr. Russell Palmer, and his wife to St. James. Dr. and Mrs. Palmer have been stormbound in Charlevoix for the past ten days and the islanders have been without medical service. It is not known whether this plane will be able to take any mail on the trip.

Although last winter Ernest Smith took supplies and mail to the island from Northport with his fishing tug "Bonnie," ice conditions in Lake Michigan will not permit such trips this year. Meanwhile, residents of the island have only telephone connection with Charlevoix. No mail or freight can be taken over unless someone ventures the hazardous crossing on the ice from Cross Village.

SERVICE STATION HOURS REGULATED

CHOICE OF TWO SCHEDULES GIVEN OPERATORS

No Stations Reported in This Area Elect to Run on 24-Hour Day, 7-Day Week Basis

Hours of operation of service stations throughout the country were regulated by petroleum administrative order No. 4, issued January 19, by Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator for war. The order become effective January 23.

Under terms of the formal order, service station dealers must elect to operate on one of two schedules; either to stay open not more than 72 hours a week, and for not more than 12 hours a day; or to stay open 24 hours a day, for seven days a week.

The 24-hour-a-day alternative will permit so-called "truck" stations to serve common carrier trucks and other "T" card holders. Continuous operation is required of these dealers so as to effect maximum service from the stations.

Provisions of the order include the following:

All service stations must post opening and closing hours in a conspicuous place.

If a dealer elects to operate for 72 hours a week, he must serve all customers for no more than a total of 12 hours in any one day. The 12 hours may not be divided into units of less than two consecutive hours.

A dealer electing to remain open 24 hours a day must serve all customers for 12 consecutive hours for six days of the week. Only "T" card holders may be served during the remaining periods.

Any dealer who elects to operate 72 hours a week must maintain this schedule for at least seven consecutive days before he may change over to the 24-hour-a-day, 7 days-a-week basis.

If a dealer elects to operate on a 24-hour-a-day basis, he must maintain this schedule for at least 30 consecutive days before he may change to the 72-hour-a-week system.

The 12-hours-a-day provision is designed to enable service station operators to reduce operating cost at a time when their business has been decreased. Most stations in this area have already reduced business hours to 72 or less a week, and none have so far been reported that will remain open 24 hours a day.

HOME NURSING CLASS TO BEGIN THURSDAY

Many Local Women Show Interest In Red Cross Course

Classes in the Red Cross home nursing course will begin Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Boy Scout room of the city hall, under direction of Mrs. D. C. Nettleton.

About 40 women registered last Thursday and Friday for the 20-hour course, which gives instruction in home care of the sick, as well as home hygiene and family health. Everyone who registered is to attend the class Thursday evening. It is expected later to divide this group into two classes.

Office supplies of any description may be obtained quickly through the Charlevoix Courier.—Adv. 23

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

The District of Columbia, I've heard said, is a small territory bounded on all sides by the United States of America.

And here's a little poetic advice entitled, "Keep 'Em Going!":

One word won't tell you very much,
You've got to keep on talking;
One step won't take you very far,
You've got to keep on walking;
One inch won't make you very tall,
You've got to keep on growing;
And just one ad won't do it all—
You've got to keep 'em going.

Anybody can decide to reduce but not one in a hundred can make the decision stick—until wartime rationing started.

I remember reading that a long time ago Leigh Mitchell Hodges was talking to Dr. Alfred Adler of Vienna, famous physician. Hodges asked Dr. Adler what was the best way to impart the facts of life to children. To the everlasting astonishment of his interviewer, Dr. Adler told Hodges that the best way for children to learn about sex was from their parents. They'll hear about it anyway in alleys, cornfields, summer camps, dormitories, or some place where they think they are out of ear-shot of their elders, Dr. Adler said. Information imparted by those of their own age is less shocking to sensitive children than six-syllable words solemnly spoken by a doleful parent, he added.

What pleasure have you denied yourself to buy war bonds?

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Consider the political importance of Michigan farmers on issues of price parity in war time and on the public careers of Prentiss M. Brown, Murray D. Van Wagoner and Harry F. Kelly:

Prentiss M. Brown, a lawyer at St. Ignace (pop. 2669) who "made good" at Washington, lost the Michigan election last fall by 28,000 votes. There were that many farmers in Michigan who didn't like his courageous and independent stand on the matter of farm parity in the price control bill before Congress.

In opposing the racket-busting Homer Ferguson of Detroit, Brown had the political fight of his life. He needed every vote to win. Yet he stuck to his convictions, opposed the American Farm Bureau Federation, National Grange and the Milk Producers association on the issue of giving farmers more than parity for their crops, and was defeated by Judge Ferguson by a margin of votes which easily could have been a few thousand disgruntled farmers.

Today, as the new administrator of the Office of Price Administration, the small town lawyer from the Upper Peninsula has one of the most difficult and disagreeable tasks at the nation's capitol.

He will try to sell rationing of gasoline, tires, food and whatnot to the American people. This assumes correctly that at present it is not "sold" altogether to the nation, and such may be the case.

As some citizens see it, the vitriolic Leon Henderson (Mr. Brown's predecessor) made the mistake of trying to impose the same pattern of transportation rationing upon every square mile of land in the United States, disregarding the obvious fact that transportation needs vary according to facilities.

The new OPA czar, as the newspapermen like to characterize anyone who has authority at Washington, has the canny ability of getting along with folks.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• By KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: An orphan, Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings knows almost nothing of her early history when, according to the wishes of her guardians, Judge Judson Marshbanks and Emma Haskell, she becomes the secretary of Mrs Portcous Porter, wealthy San Franciscan. Busy as she is, Cherry sees the judge from time to time and meets the members of his household, his dictatorial old mother; Amy Marshbanks, debutante daughter of his dead brother Fred; and Fran, his gay young second wife. Shortly afterward Cherry learns (Emma tells her) that her mother (never married) had been Emma's sister, Charlotte; that her father had been the judge's brother Fred—Amy's father; and that shortly after Cherry and Amy were born Cherry's mother had switched the two babies. Cherry is really Amy Marshbanks. The judge confirms the story but to protect Amy his mother burns certain papers that would have proved it true. Meanwhile Cherry has become engaged to Kelly Coates, a young artist (who for a time had been infatuated with Fran Marshbanks); and Amy is determined to marry Count Mario (Gugo) Constantino when she is twenty-one in a few days. When Kelly calls to see Cherry after returning from Honolulu where he had painted a portrait, Cherry is jealous and hurt because she had inferred from a telephone conversation of Fran's she overheard that Fran had been to lunch at the Benedito studio. Cherry is happy when he says he hasn't seen Fran in weeks. Old Mrs. Marshbanks tells Cherry she resents her presence in the house and tells Amy that Cherry is a false friend. Amy pretends to think her grandmother is in her dotage, but talks privately to the judge in his library. After she leaves the judge is killed with a bullet through his heart, and everybody in the house is under suspicion.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XV

They had decided not to tell anyone the news immediately. Amy and her Gogo had flown to Reno that morning, had been married in the afternoon, and it was the Countess Georgia Francisco Morton Alexandru Stanislaus Constantino who sealed herself upon Cherry's bed and poured forth the thrilling tale of her day's adventures.

"There was a hullabaloo at the hotel, you know," Amy confided, "and—it was so cute! when we went there yesterday I said, 'Of course half of that's yours.' 'How do you mean, you crazy, generous baby?' he said. 'I mean that half of everything I have is yours, Gogo,'—I told him it was money that had been piling up since my grandfather died, and some of the Porter money. Most of it, of course, they invested as it came in, and half of that'll be his, too. But this was just a few thousands," Amy went on carelessly; "eleven thousand and some hundreds, and so he got his half and really I think he was touched, I mean, he didn't say much, but when we were back in the car he told me it was because he couldn't say much."

"Oh, Amy, I hope it all goes right! When—when are you going to tell people?" Cherry asked.

"I'm going to tell my grandmother tonight."

"She'll have ten thousand fits."

"It will only be one more thing to fuss about," Amy said indifferently.

"I am going off with Gogo tonight. I am not sure where. But anyway, he's calling for me at half past seven, and I have to see Fran and have a scene before that."

So confident, so pretty, so insolent! Amy had a four day's seniority over Cherry, but Cherry felt the older by that many years.

"Did they find any will of your father's?" she asked almost involuntarily, out of thought. For Amy had recently had long sessions with lawyers.

Amy shrugged indifferently. "No. No will."

"But, of course, there was my grandfather's will," she said. "What my father left wasn't so much, it'll only bring me in—oh, maybe three or four thousand a year. So that his having left a will or not didn't count."

A few moments later Amy went to her grandmother's room, and when she emerged Cherry saw that her face was flushed and her eyes wet.

"I hate her!" she whispered, concluding with angry jerks the packing that she had commenced earlier in the evening. "She and her theatricals! She thinks 'there's a curse on this wretched family!' If there is, she's it. Gloves and my coat, and Mortin will come up for the bag—" Amy murmured to rapid raview. And then, with a sudden kiss and hug: "Good-by, Cherry darling, take care of yourself and graduate at the top of the class! Write me all the news. But I'll see you before we go, anyway; this rotten investigation may continue on for weeks! Oh, and Cherry, you tell Fran. She's out."

"She's back," said Cherry. "I just saw her come in."

"Well, you tell her anyway! Good-by!" Amy was gone in a trail of excited laughter. Cherry heard Gogo's rich, low voice in the lower hall; then the front door closed, and Mortin walked back alone.

"What's the excitement?" Fran called through her half-opened door. Cherry went slowly in.

"Amy was married today to Reno."

"She wasn't!" Fran exclaimed.

"Yes, she was. The morning papers will have it, if the evening ones don't. There's no hiding a thing like that."

"Pitiful little fool!" Fran said in a whisper. "Of course he's a complete rotter. And would have killed him. Did Lady know?" she asked, with a jerk of her head in the direction of Mrs. Marshbanks' room.

"Amy just told her."

"Wild?"

"I imagine so. I believe she said that there was a curse on the family."

"I believe there is!" Fran said gloomily, staring into space. "They'll never find out who murdered Jud. But," she added, "you can be pretty sure that the police are keeping an eye on that precious Gogo."

"Gogo had a motive," Cherry said. "Not only was the judge violently opposed to Amy's marrying him, but what he was discussing that very night with her and with his mother and with me was—you knew something about that, Fran?"

"I couldn't be in this house without knowing something about it. It was some claim that your aunt made—something she said about Fred Marshbanks' will? Of course, that was all long before I came into the family, but Jud did tell me—did tell me about his brother Fred, and that—you don't mind my mentioning it?"

"That Fred Marshbanks was my father? Oh, no. I seem to have known that for a long, long time. But there was more to it than that. There was a will, drawn up by Judge Thomas Comstock. Nobody knew what was in that. But Mrs. Marshbanks burned it. She wouldn't risk Amy's being hurt or any of her money taken away."

"So," Fran said musingly, "Amy and Gogo had their motives for getting rid of Jud, and certainly old Mrs. Marshbanks had. If you believe what some old dodo of an English judge once said, I had. He said that between married couples there might always be motive. I don't see that you had."

There was a pause, then Fran said suddenly, "Kelly might have had a motive."

"Kelly!" Cherry echoed, her voice suddenly failing.

"Well, if you're searching for motives. And that wasn't quite what I meant anyway," Fran said. "What I meant was that Kelly didn't have an alibi."

"But, Fran—you certainly don't think—you certainly can't think that Kelly . . ."

"No, I don't," Fran interrupted promptly. "The police didn't hold him; just took his statement and let it go at that. You can tell by the way he acts that Kelly doesn't know anything about it. And at the same time—that's what's bothering me," she added.

"What's bothering you?" Cherry asked apprehensively.

"Oh, it's making me sick! I don't know whether to tell you or not."

"Tell me what?" Cherry managed to ask, with a sinking heart.

"You might as well know. After you went out this morning the man named Mullins asked me to step into the library. He had a flat little packet of letters in his hand; he asked me if I recognized them. I said yes, certainly. They were the letters Kelly Coates wrote me last year. About a dozen of them. Love letters."

Cherry felt faint.

"How'd they get them?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," Fran said. "I hid them two weeks ago, the day after Jud was killed. I slipped them into the lining of my dressing case. It had come loose, and that morning I complained to Molly about it, and while she was right here in the room I pasted it with glue."

"What sort of letters are they?" Cherry asked, with the world gone suddenly black.

"Love letters. Letters that will look bad if they're given to the newspapers, I can tell you that. What he and I could do if we were free, frantic sort of letters. He said—Mullins said—that they were very incriminating."

"But they couldn't suspect Kelly!"

"These letters won't help Kelly," Fran said dryly. She had finished the slow business of oils, pastes, powders, rouge for her face, eyelashes, brows.

The ballooning of a negligee distracted her. The door of Fran's big closet was open, and within the closet the window must be open, too, for the row of garments neatly aligned upon hangers was in great agitation.

Cherry went in and shut the window, and coming back, picked up the negligee that had fallen and restored it to its hanger. She hated the sight of it; that was what Fran had worn on the night of the tragedy; she had had on this negligee as she ran downstairs ahead of them all.

Cherry stopped short, stood with a suddenly arrested breath, with icy fear touching her spine. The negligee was slightly rumpled in one of its folds. It had been squeezed together, loosened again. It had wiped something oily and dark, something metallic, something thick and liquid that was stained with black.

A trifling discoloration, the size of a woman's finger possibly. Not noticeable at all, unless one happened to look straight at it as Cherry was looking now. A crumpled tiny circle, as if the cloth had been forced into a small tube, a tube as small as a pistol barrel, a finger-sized smudge that might have been made by the oil from that barrel, by the blackness of gunpowder.

When Cherry went downstairs old Mrs. Marshbanks had had breakfast and was sitting by the fire reading the papers that announced the marriage of Amy Marshbanks to Count Constantino the day before. Greg was reading the sports news.

"Well, so we have a countess in the family," Mrs. Marshbanks said grimly.

"She had said she would," Cherry said. "And I suppose that under the circumstances she wouldn't have wanted a big wedding."

"He wouldn't have wanted a big wedding," the old woman said darkly; "the less publicity the better for him!"

"He may really be in love with Amy," Cherry offered, feeling that now the mischief was done there was no particular object in maligning him.

"It'll cost Amy just about a hundred grand," said Greg, from behind the paper. "Fran says he's asked her for money already."

"No, he didn't ask her, really; she made him take it. She told me so. She had a balance at the bank, and she split it with him."

"The most generous little heart in the world," mourned Amy's grandmother.

Unbelievable as it might appear, Cherry and old Mrs. Marshbanks were amicably conversing.

Only yesterday Cherry had learned of the existence of those love letters from Kelly to Fran. Cherry was heartsick. He had told her that he loved her, but only a few months ago he had loved Fran, too; how could matters ever be straightened out now, so that her trust in him could be restored?

Yesterday's second shock had been the discovery that the gown Fran had been wearing upon the fatal night of the murder had been stained with unmistakable marks of gunpowder and gun oil. Fran must have been living in terror of its discovery.

Lying awake in the night, Cherry had seen that fatal little stain in her mind's eyes, had remembered detail by detail the horrors of that dark night when the judge's shout had rung through the house.

Had Fran had on that negligee then? Cherry asked herself. Yes, she thought she had. Certainly she had not had it on a short while afterward, when the police arrived.

This morning Fran came downstairs while Cherry was finishing her breakfast. Like the rest of the household Fran was showing the strain. She sat down and looked at her grapefruit, pushed it restfully away. "Those letters worry me," she said.

"What letters?" asked Mrs. Marshbanks, eyeing the younger woman over her glasses.

"Some letters Kelly Coates wrote me—silly, perfectly harmless letters, but wait until you see what the papers make of them!" Fran answered, impatiently.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Quite a discussion some of the boys were having down at lodge meeting last night, Judge... you know, in the anteroom before the election of officers."

"Sure was... and Herb was dead wrong. The alcoholic beverage industry does account for more taxes than any other industry. I checked the figures in my office this morning. Why the figure on alcoholic beverages is pretty close to a billion and a half dollars a year. Lucky thing we haven't got prohibition or the government would have to make up the money some other way. And there's only one answer to that—more taxes. You know what that would add up to?... about $25 more taxes a year for every man and woman in the country. In other words you and Sue would have to pay about $50 more in some form of tax. I guess about the only ones who'd come out ahead on that deal would be the bootleggers and gangsters."

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act. No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

Charlevoix stores have established the following hours to conserve fuel: Saturday, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Monday, 9 a. m. to 12 noon; other days, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

"Uncle Alec" Cameron, 81, who had spent some part of each of the past 50 years of his eventful life in this city, died December 16 in Fort Worth, Texas. Clearing a backwoods farm in Canada, mining in the northwest, raising cotton in Texas, breaking and shipping horses from Texas to northern Michigan were some of his many activities.

Forrest Wallace left last week for Chicago to join the electrical division of the signal corps.

Twenty years ago: (forty-five years back from 1943) Nobody had appendicitis, nobody wore white shoes, cream was five cents a pint, you never heard of a "tin lizzie," the hired girl drew $1.50 a week, folks said pneumatic tires were a joke, Jules Verne was the only convert to the submarine, you stuck tubes in your ears to hear a phonograph and it cost a dime.

Glenn R. Dolberg, formerly of this city, has enlisted in the field artillery and is located temporarily at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Classes in algebra, business law, penmanship, interior decorating, and Bible study will be introduced at the beginning of Charlevoix high school's second semester by Superintendent Charles Hamilton.

George LaBlanc took the mail and freight to the Beavers Tuesday morning. A wind in the right direction will bring great floes of ice from the north and east, to shut the island off completely.

D. C. Schweitzer has purchased all the old timbers and planking in the dismantled sugar plant, totaling about 150,000 feet, and will cut it up into lumber.

Gloria Swanson in "Her Gilded Cage" is coming this week end to the Palace Theatre.

LaGrippe has had several local people in its grip, among them Will Heise, of the Charlevoix Hardware Co., Seth Ainsworth, Miss Jessie Metz, bookkeeper at the hardware company, and many others. (We present this as reason that very little else apparently was going on in town that week).

Disaster so overwhelming it is hard to comprehend befell Charlevoix's diminutive fishing village on Round lake last Thursday evening. Friday morning, following the heavy snow storm Thursday afternoon and the stiff nor'wester that night, ice, shanties and all mysteriously disappeared.

Charlevoix's third annual winter sports carnival opens next Wednesday with the most ambitious program of winter entertainment ever attempted in northern Michigan.

Thursday's storm snapped power lines with the weight of wet snow, leaving the city in darkness for several hours. Trying to locate a break in the lines, Clarence Bridge of the light department had to abandon his car along the Adams lake road and walk back to town. Jim Divis and Murley Plum went to Central Lake by way of Eastport, and on the way back got to Atwood, then started out to walk until forced to seek shelter for the night in the Hilton school house. A south-bound freight train, stalled in deep drifts near the Coulter farm, caused cancellation of all trains on the Pere Marquette railroad Friday.

Whoopin' Holler school: A number of people had their seats changed because of whispering and quarreling. (Modern departure from the woodshed treatment of the same spot.)

"Ghost House" will be presented by the Eastern Stars next Thursday evening at the school gymnasium. Characters are: Inspector Brooks, O. P. North; Thompson the lawyer, Dr. C. J. Winder; Mandee the cook, Mrs. Ray Kipke; Paulette the maid, Dorothea Hooker; Oliver the butler, Howard Davenport; domineering Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Peter Ance; henpecked Mr. Bates, Fay Bradley; Barbara, Helen French; Aunt Martha, Mrs. Frank Bird; Donald Kent, Stan Hammond; Ted Wilson, reporter, Bill Brown.

Both marriages and divorces dropped during 1932 in Charlevoix county, marriages from 105 in 1931 to 97; divorces from 18 to 9.

With butterfat at 15c and eggs at 12c, pork at 4c and beef at no price, the farmer has quite a problem at present to make both ends meet.

Charlevoix will be a port of call in 1933 for one or possibly two steamers of the newly-organized Duke Transportation Co., the former Manitou and former Puritan, of the Michigan Transit Co. line which made this city a regular port of call in previous years.

LANSING LETTER

Prentiss Brown may be expected to talk little, act deliberately, and try always to keep in touch with "the folks back home."

He will return in February to sound out opinion in Michigan on various problems, and he has already indicated an intention of making the state an experimental "test tube" in the matter of food rationing, particularly in the industrial war centers.

In rationing food, Brown again finds himself dealing with farmers. That is a bit ironical, perhaps, for a man who staked his political future on a personal conviction of what was right.

Murray D. Van Wagoner also risked his future in vetoing the Michigan legislature's time bill.

He lost the election by 72,000 votes.

There are political observers who believe that this veto alone cost Van Wagoner the election. You will find this theory popular among upstate Republican legislators, especially among those in the western counties of the state.

Again, here is an illustration of how a man's personal conviction (incidentally it was not backed at that time by the attorney general in any formal opinion, such as Rushton issued recently to the legislature) may affect a political career.

The political plight of Prentiss Brown and Murray D. Van Wagoner brings a parallel case in 1943:

What will the Republican legislature do to the time bill?

And if the legislature enacts a straight return to Eastern Standard Time for the entire state, what will Governor Harry F. Kelly do about it?

A few days ago, when this column was being written, the house of representatives had approved a bill which provided for two time zones: War time for the Detroit metropolitan area and standard time for the upstate rural area. The senate was given the chore of ironing out possible legal flaws as to constitutionality and to arrive at some judgment of what was best for the public.

In the first place, Governor Kelly owes his election to upstate counties.

Van Wagoner carried Wayne county, the Detroit area. The Democratic majority in Wayne county was reduced considerably by the popular Kelly of Detroit and the evident favor which his running mate, Dr. Eugene Keyes, enjoys among the voters.

Second, Governor Kelly is endeavoring to represent the "people of Michigan", not the farmer, not the factory worker, not the merchant—but the collective public.

He asked the legislature to investigate carefully the question of time before it acted. This attitude was criticized by some persons, and we personally believe in hasty error, as "hedging" on the subject. They do not know Kelly. This man acts slowly, deliberately, carefully—ALWAYS.

A third observation: Regardless what the legislature does, or does not do—regardless of what the governor does or does not do—the "people" must expect to contend with TIME INCONVENIENCE as one of the sacrifices expected in a war.

Let's put it this way. If the time is not changed, then the farmer and others who do not approve the present time, will continue to be inconvenienced. Farm production may be handicapped by loss of labor daily on thousands of farms.

If the time is changed for all the state, then the vast armament production program in Michigan—and this runs upwards to 14 BILLION DOLLARS in 1943!—may encounter handicaps in difference of time between Washington and Michigan. That is also an inconvenience in production, to put it mildly.

If TWO time zones are established, one for the eastern industrial belt of Michigan and another for the upstate rural counties, the citizens of each zone will be inconvenienced every time they deal outside of their own area.

From a war production viewpoint, eastern war time for the industrial war workers and eastern standard time for the farm war workers would result in the greatest efficiency in output of munitions and food, respectively.

But regardless of what is done, you cannot escape the annoyance of inconvenience. It sums up to about this: Which will be the greater inconvenience—one uniform time for everyone, industrial worker and farm worker alike, or two sets of time, one for each group? Take your choice.

But no matter which is done, everyone must expect sacrifice. It is part of the price of winning a war.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Below is a letter from Sgt. Bruce Withers to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mont Withers, relating his experiences on a trip along the coast of New Guinea. Bruce is commodore of a fleet of crash boats operating with allied air forces in that region.

Dear Folks,

Just arrived back from a nice trip up the coast to a native village. What a time I had. Gee, talk about primitive living, every family has a locatoy (dugout outrigger canoe) which are pulled up high on the beach in front of the village. All the native kakinius (girls) running around wearing from three to six grass skirts, when one gets a little soiled they just put another on. All the huts are built up on poles, they sleep on woven grass mats and the family supply of food, on the roof, occupies the area under the house, chickens, pigs, etc. They eat land crabs, fruit, fish and vegetables which they get from their gardens.

When we were there they were building a new hut and everyone does his share, they sew palm fronds together with long grass and make the walls and a straw roof. All the natives call us Tubadu, means white master, they sure like the Americans. I sure got a kick out of the chief, he treated us fine.

We gave them gum, candy and cigarettes and we sure were their friends. You should see them smoke, little kids about eight years old. They say "make me big and strong."

After we left the village and went on up the river to our destination, we no sooner came along side the dock and here comes about fifteen bush boys, and I mean bush. The only clothes they were was a string and a piece of cloth about as large as the palm of your hand. I took some good pictures. I sure had a time, getting them in a group with me standing right in the center, they sure like to have their pictures taken.

Thanks again for the tobacco, it was swell. I received so many presents, I think I could start a P. X. with all the things I received.

Hope to hear from you soon,
Bruce.

Dear Ken,

Just a few lines to let you know I am getting your and my home town paper and it is just like an old friend to me, to let me knew what is going on back home. Thanks for it very much.

I like the army pretty good but they can leave Fort Benning and Georgia any time they want it. I would prefer Fort Brady across the straits any time.

This is a nice climate down here but it gets pretty cold some mornings for the clothes we wear.

Well, keep up that fighting spirit and we will win the war.

Dear Ken,

Please find and accept this enclosed "five" for payment due you, for having sent the paper. I guess it's the same with everyone, especially those in the service, we really enjoy reading your paper!

I'll quote my new address so that your paper might reach me, it is: Lt. William L. Hansen, Strother Army Air Field, Box 254, Winfield, Kansas.

I got assigned to this flying training field as an instructor for several months. At the end of such time I sure wish to get across the pond. I'd like to see what is going on and drop a few "eggs" on some of those guys.

Probably will get a chance to land near Charlevoix some time on a cross-country flight and I'd enjoy stopping and chewing the rag with you about this and that.

The Charlevoix army boys sure made themselves evident around New Guinea, didn't they, and I'm sorry I'm not with them, especially because they are my friends from school days on.

Hoping to see you for a chat before too long.

Bill.

Editor's Note: Bill's money order was turned over to the Charlevoix Service Organization to help them carry on their good work of paying expenses for sending the Courier to service men.

Dear Ken,

I'm hoping this card finds everyone well in your family, and you have headed for a nice new year. I'm fine and like the army very much.

If it is possible I would like to have the Courier sent to me so I can read a little news from home once in a while.

The weather is fair out here. No snow, but it gets pretty cold sometimes and it is always raining. Well, my card is running out so I must close, and wish you the best of luck.

Dear Ken,

How's the old town? Suppose all white now.

Guess you will have to change that address for my paper again. There were 65 of us privates transferred from the 9th Signal today, to different outfits on the base.

I am still going to radio maintenance class here on the base. May get to go to some private school. Hope so. All I had so far was radio theory and mathematics, which isn't so easy to understand. You have large numbers to deal with and also the smallest fractions. You have to be able to figure out resistance, capacity, impedance, resonance, etc. Frequency in wave lengths of an antenna, the different kinds of antenna suitable for transmitters is the last subject we had.

Well, don't forget the change in address, will you. Thank you for the Charlevoix paper.

Hello to all Charlevoix boys in the service and Charlevoix citizens.

Dear Ken,

I received the paper during the week while out on the desert, and did not have a chance to write and thank you for it until today.

We came into our base camp about one p. m. and have been pretty busy since getting our tent straightened up. We had tent inspection about 3:30 p. m. and since then have been cleaning our rifles and bayonets for ordnance inspection for 8:30 tomorrow morning.

Once a week we have a bath detail going into Yuma, Ariz., so we can take our weekly bath. You can imagine how dirty we get after spending a week on the desert with only enough water for drinking purposes and if we are careful we have enough to wash our face and hands. It isn't so much the lack of water or distance they have to haul it, but we are being trained in desert warfare and have to get used to using the least possible amount of water.

Since being in the army I have not run across any boys from Charlevoix, so if you know of any in the 6th Division, please give me the name of their outfits. I'd appreciate it very much.

While in the basic training company at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., I was cooking, so didn't mind it at all, but since coming to the desert I have been in the field and of course I was just three months behind the company in my training, so have had to work and study hard to catch up.

The days out here are pretty warm but the nights get chilly. For me, I'll take some of that good old Charlevoix weather. It would suit me fine.

I received a very nice letter from Ralph Hamilton today. I have written Art Fagan quite a few times, but never have received an answer. If you should see him, tell him I'm still looking for a letter. I'll do my best to answer any letters I receive from folks up there.

About the only free time I have is Saturday afternoon and Sunday, to write. We usually leave Sunday evening to go back on the desert so our free time is shot.

I'm getting used to sleeping on the ground now. Once in a while I have to get up and shake the sand lizards out of my blankets, but otherwise it's not so bad. The rocks have to be pretty large before I'll even take time to move them before lying down. I used to have two alarm clocks to wake me up, now all it takes is one of the gas stoves on the kitchen truck to explode and I just wake up.

I've dug so many fox holes and slit trenches (for defense against tanks) that when I get out of the army I think I'll get on the WPA because the amount of digging I've done I believe will qualify me all right. Other than this, the common run of army life I don't mind at all.

Thanks millions for the paper. Would be glad to hear from all my friends in Charlevoix, as I haven't become accustomed to being a desert rat, so I still get lonesome.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir,

Just a few lines to let you know my new address as I would like to continue receiving your paper. We are in California now and have a nice camp here and the weather is sure swell. We don't know how long we will be here, but if we do go some other place our address will be the same. So, thanking you again for the paper,

I remain,

Hi Ken,

Having time on my hands for a change, I shall write this little note thanking you for sending me the paper every week. As the boys have already mentioned many times, we appreciate this service a great deal. It sure tends to keep us in touch with our community.

Yesterday and today we have suffered slightly from climatic conditions. It has been actually cold enough to freeze the mud puddles (which are numerous at present). We have had some lovely weather, though. Sunday I got a nice start for a tan.

This morning I entered the "Measles Platoon" as we have named ourselves. Our bunch is quarantined for at least ten days because one fellow came down with measles this morning. For the time being we won't hop at every formation whistle. However, we don't like it too well as we fellows are going to miss a lot of classes. Our specialist training just started Monday. Myself, being in the radio intelligence platoon will miss about four hours of code and four hours of miscellaneous classes each day. All these classes are very interesting and I like my section very much.

Ken, I feel that I could write volumes, but I had better lay off for now and write some other time. Thanks again for the paper.

THE NEW VICTORY TAX

IT is important to understand the new Victory Tax, as it is a charge against your 1943 income. Almost every worker will have to pay it. If you have a regular job, your employer will deduct for the government 5% of your income over $12 a week. Others, including professional people and agricultural workers, will pay their tax in one sum after the end of the year. Certain post-war refunds or current credits are granted which will eventually return a portion of the tax you pay, but they will not reduce the 5% withheld each pay day.

Comment last week in the "Do You Remember" column on the death of Eugene Burgess in January, 1928, that he was "evidently the man for whom Burgess community was named," brought farth a sidelight on local history from R. L. Lewis. Delving into ancient abstracts and deeds of property in this region, Mr. Lewis faund that Daniel C. Bargess, father of Eugene Burgess, took the original patent to a large tract of land north of Charlevoix mora than 70 years ago, and it was for him that Burgess community was named. Daniel C. died about 1878.

RED CROSS QUOTA IS DONE TUESDAY

THIRD SURGICAL DRESSINGS ASSIGNMENT BEGUN

Volunteers Wanted at Work Room in City Hall; Deadline Is Set For End of February

Completion of this city's second quota of 9,000 Red Cross surgical dressings for the army and navy was announced Tuesday by Mrs F. F. McMillan, director of the program in Charlevoix.

Immediately upon finishing the second quota, work was begun on the third allotment of 9,000 dressings. This assignment must be done by the end of February, as another shipment of material will probably arrive soon after that.

In order to meet the deadline, many more workers are needed at the Red Cross room in the city hall. Volunteers have responded well to the call for help in making up dressings, but an even greater number of workers are now necessary. Those who have a son, brother or husband in the service and are especially anxious to make some contribution to the war effort will find this a means of giving their time and labor without conflicting too much with household duties.

The dressings just completed, Mrs. McMillan stated, were well made and the entire quota measured up satisfactorily to the high standards set for Red Cross dressings by the war department.

Workers coming to the Red Cross room for the first time are reminded to bring a fresh cotton dress to be put on at the room, wear a hair net or scarf, and no nail polish.

RESPECTED RESIDENT IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Funeral Services for Mrs. Clara Watson Tuesday Afternoon

Mrs. Clara M. Watson, 86, died Sunday at the home of her son, Floyd J. Bartholomew, with whom she had resided for several years. She had been in failing health for some time.

Clara Taylor was born January 22, 1857, in Pinckney, Mich. She married John L. Bartholomew in 1872. They resided in Norwalk, Ohio, Webberville, Mich., and Detroit, coming to Charlevoix in 1901. Residing on a farm in Hayes township until 1900, in that year they moved to Beyne City, where Mr. Bartholomew died in 1905.

In 1914, she married Robert Watson in Detroit. He died in 1928. Since that time, Mrs. Watson had made her home here and in Detroit.

She was a member of the Christian Science Society and also of the Rebekah lodge.

Surviving are two sons, Floyd Bartholomew, of Charlevoix, and Rex, of Detroit; three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Three daughters died in childhood.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the See Funeral Home, with Mrs. Jone Durance as reader. Interment was at Maple Lawn cemetery in Boyne City.

AUTOISTS REQUIRED DISPLAY STICKERS

Federal Inspection for Gas Ration Markers to Be Made

"No person may use a Class A, B, C, T-1 or T-2 coupon book, other than one representing a special ration, issued for a registered commercial motor vehicle, unless a sticker identifying the class of ration issued for use with such vehicle in such form as may be prescribed by the Office of Price Administration, is affixed to and conspicuously displayed on such vehicle," reads Section 1394-8165, according to Fenton R. Bulow, Charlevoix county ration chairman.

"Such sticker shall be displayed on such vehicle at all times, but the display of such sticker shall be in accordance with the laws of the State in which such vehicle is operated. A person to whom any ration in addition to a Class A ration has been issued shall display only the sticker identifying such additional ration."

This means that a person with a B or C sticker should display either the B or C indicia and need not display the A.

BIRTHDAY BALL WAS A SUCCESS

FINE PROGRAM AT ARGONNE SATURDAY NIGHT

Good Response Is Made to Local Campaign for Funds Combat Infantile Paralysis

Charlevoix's tenth annual President's Birthday Ball, held Saturday night at The Argonne, was an unqualified success according to first reports made by William Supernaw, county chairman of the infantile paralysis benefit party.

Entertainment was furnished by a fine program drawn from local talent. The Ballad Benders presented several numbers in barbershop harmony. Irish songs enlivened by tap dancing were given by "Mike" and Charles Hamlin. Songs and tap dancing were also presented by Donna and Doris Ouderkirk. Fred Debbs gave a spirited rendition of the recitation, "The Face on the Barroom Floor." Several popular songs in "blues" style were sung by Miss Betty Kaunitz. Dallas Henry was master of ceremonies for the show.

Complete returns from the entire county in the infantile paralysis fund campaign have not yet been made. However, Mr. Supernaw stated that the drive was met with whole-hearted support in every section of the county.

Bounties Continue Decrease

Continuing a small but steady decline of recent years, bounties paid by the state conservation department for predatory animal control amounted to only $28,670 in 1942, as compared with $30,425 in 1941 and $33,145 in 1940.

GOVERNOR SIGNS SLOW TIME BILL

CLOCKS WILL TURN BACK ON FEBRUARY 15

Cities Allowed Local Option on Retaining Eastern War Time If Proved Necessary

Gov. Harry F. Kelly signed the Michigan "slow" time bill Friday afternoon, which will result in the state's clocks being set back one hour at 2 a. m. Monday, February 15.

As he affixed his signature to the bill, the governor issued the following statement:

"In signing this bill changing Michigan's time I merely wish to state that I am agreeing with the conclusion of the legislature. I am sure it expresses an honest conviction as to what is best for the entire state and furtherance of the war effort."

The Republican-dominated legislature functioned with relentless efficiency and speed Thursday to rush the bill through the senate. It passed by a 26-6 vote after rules were suspended to advance the bill to a third reading, and minutes later the house of representatives concurred on the amendments by an 80-14 vote.

As finally approved, the bill contains a section permitting any municipality to return to Eastern War Time if it can be proved necessary in a war emergency, and another new section to make it effective only for the duration of the war. Although it is hoped no cities will keep "fast" time, the Detroit area is expected to remain on Eastern War Time.

SETTING FOREST FIRE NOW SERIOUS CRIME

Timber Classed "War Material" Under New Federal Rules

Inclusion of "forest products and standing timber suitable therefor" in the definition of "war material" in a new act of Congress attaches such a stiff penalty to the willful setting of forest fires that the state conservation department is broadcasting warnings of the new penalties for the crime.

Destruction by fire of wood resources vitally needed in the war effort now can bring a fine of $10,000 or 30 years imprisonment or both, and the incendiary can expect swift and certain prosecution under federal law. The Michigan penalty for this offense is a fine of $100 to $500, and up to 10 years in jail.

For causing risk of accidental fire, the careless woodsman may be fined up to $100 and imprisoned up to three months.

Petoskey Plays Here Friday Nite; Local Reserves Continue Good Scoring Record

Charlevoixs' Red Rayders lost a fast-moving game to Boyne City on the Ramblers' court last Friday night, by a score of 17 to 18. Trailing the Rayders all the way, Boyne's final spurt defeated the local team.

The Rayders led 5 to 3 at the first quarter. Scoring was equal in the second period, each team making 5 points. The third quarter score was 14 for Charlevoix, 10 for Boyne. Charlevoix netted 3 points in the final quarter, while Boyne made four field goals, two of them in the last minutes of play, to scuttle the Rayders. It was Charlevoix's first defeat of the season.

Scoring for Charlevoix was divided between Carey, making 8 points, Vratinian 4, Rowe 3, Chambers and Swanson 1 each. Harper was high for Beyne with 8, McGeorge scored 4, Winegarden 3, Hoye 2, Kujawski 1.

Charlevoix's second team redeemed the varsity's defeat by winning from Boyne's reserves 29 to 21. Ward led the local team in scoring, netting 12 points, C. Bergmann and Novotny made 6 each, Graves and Gengle 2 each, Plamm 1. Hewie, Keltz and Russell made 5 points each for Boyne, Miller 4, Nichols 2.

Playing at East Jordan's new gymnasium Tuesday night, the Rayders defeated the Crimson Wave 21 to 17. Charlevoix led all through the game, although a last-quarter stall allowed a considerable gain by East Jordan.

After skipping the usual fall plantings of fingerlings in streams in 1942, the state's hatcheries and rearing stations now hold about 1,570,000 fingerlings and about 125,000 yearling and adult trout, where last winter they carried only 645,000 fingerlings and 140,000 yearlings and adults. STATE PAYS FOR REVERTED LANDS

CO. TREASURER RECEIVES $28,718.98 CHECK

Apportionment Funds to Various Taxing Units of County Is Started This Week

County Treasurer Lillis Flanders this week started distribution of a check for $28,718.98 from the State of Michigan, representing rentals and sales collected by the conservation department for lands in this county which have reverted to the state for delinquent taxes.

The check covers fees for a total of 451 pieces of property in Charlevoix county which have reverted to the state and been leased, rented or sold.

Apportionment of funds to the several taxing units in the county has been under way for some time, although actual payment was begun this week. As the money received for each piece of property does not cover the total amount of taxes due on that land, a tremendous amount of work has been involved in making proper distribution of the correct percentage of funds to each taxing unit.

Of the money received, $920.07 is to be returned to the state for taxes due that unit. The county general fund receives $7,090.40; townships, $2,781.36; cities and villages, $17,853.07; school fund, $74.02.

NEIL SWINTON IS SERVING AT BUNA

GRANDSON MRS. G. SWINTON IN NEW GUINEA

American Doctors Treat Allied Wounded in Primitive Hospitals With Speed, Efficiency

Major Neil Swinton, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Swinton, of Marquette, is directing the work of one of Harvard University's army hospital units in the jungles of New Guinea, only a few hundred yards from the Buna front.

Grandson of Mrs. George D. Swinton, and nephew of Mrs. H. A. Craig, of Charlevoix, Major Swinton is a graduate of the University of Michigan medical school, and a former staff member of the Lahey Clinic in Boston, Mass., where his family now resides.

The hospital where Major Swinton operates on wounded soldiers of the allied forces is barely recognizable as such. It is a cluster of five large huts, with floors of the jungle grass itself. Supports are slender poles laced together with vines, the roofs are made of tiers of grass. Black natives bring patients to the hospital, where the nurses are helmeted soldiers. The nearest women nurses are on the other side of the Owen Stanleys, in Port Moresby.

Some of America's best doctors, treating American wounded on the Buna front, are doing their work with remarkable speed and efficiency in spite of difficulties imposed by warfare in the jungle.

LEGISLATURE VOTES REPEAL FERRY LAW

Road Commission Management of Ironton Ferry May Result

Future disposition of the Ironton ferry awaits action of the Charlevoix county road commission, which will meet February 8 to consider acceptance of the ferry from the board of supervisors.

At their October session in 1940, the county board of supervisors passed a resolution requesting the state legislature to repeal Act 336 of the local act of 1885, entitled "An act to authorize the board of supervisors of Charlevoix county to establish, maintain and operate a ferry across South Arm of Pine lake at or near Ironton in said county." The repeal bill, introduced by Rep. Louis E. Anderson of the Charlevoix-Lee-lanau district, was passed by the legislature two weeks ago.

By repeal of this act, the county road commission logically becomes custodian of the ferry, which connects two sections of a highway under jurisdiction of the road commission. No formal acceptance has been made by the commission.

The ferry discontinued operation for the winter Friday, January 22, as the ice is too thick to allow passage across South Arm.

Congregational Service

Next Sunday, February 7, young people of the Pilgrim Fellowship will have entire charge of the morning services in the Ironton and Charlevoix Congregational churches.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Another "meanest man" has popped up in Onaapolis. A church congregation there had a wood chopping "bee" to provide fuel for the church. Having too much to pile inside, they stacked the balance out on the back porch and some thief took it. Where that fellow goes in the end, he won't have to have wood to keep warm.

Now that you can't get sliced bread any more, we have a new implement in our kitchen at home. It's a bread knife and, not casting any reflections, might venture to say there's room for some larnin' about its use. Well, anyhow, you don't have to cut so many of those thick ones.

Editor Al Weber of the Cheboygan Observer, upon reading my lament about not having enough time to get my fishin' coop down on the lake, extends an invitation to come over and use his. Al says: "Come over, Ken, my coop is down on the turning basin all ready for occupancy, with everything in it, and lots of perch under it looking for something to eat. You can catch a mess of perch here while you are fussin' around with your coop." Al concludes by saying half the fun of fishing is the getting ready, and in that he's right. Thanks for the invitation, Al. If the opportunity affords, I'll certainly take advantage of it.

The old argument of intelligence vs. education seems to have been smartly settled by those mental whizzes, the Quiz Kids of radio. In a test before an audience of 2,500 at East Lansing, the youngsters trimmed five Michigan State College profs 190 points to 136.

Michigan's legislators showed the old pioneer spirit in their action on the "slow" time bill. Against cold legal advice and a storm of conflicting opinions, they plowed through to a settlement which appears to be satisfactory.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Now that the consuming public is becoming gradually convinced that the reported shortage of food is genuine and is not synthetic propaganda concocted by fair-haired reformers at Washington for further regimentation of growers and consumers alike, the good old-fashioned American custom of "demanding action" is coming to the fore.

On the theory that the squeaky wheel gets the oil, newspaper editors of Michigan attending the 75th convention of the Michigan Press association at Michigan State College, were vocal in their insistence that "something should be done."

They wanted to assist the farmer.

So here is one of many news stories which you will read during the coming months of 1943. Hold on!

Before we get too far into the problem, consider with us first the basic matter of food as a military necessity.

We will quote dirt-farmer Claude Wickard, the Hoosier-born secretary of agriculture, from his annual report to President Roosevelt on Jan. 24:

"Military and lend-lease needs for food will be HALF again as great as they were in 1942; they will take ONE-FIFTH of our total food production.

"More than a FOURTH of our meat, for instance, a THIRD of our lard production, nearly a THIRD of our eggs and HALF of our output of canned vegetables will have military and lend-lease destination."

Next, the military use of food as an effective weapon to save lives.

Lives of American boys were saved in Africa—and these lads include sons of Michigan fathers and mothers—because American authorities could promise and deliver food to natives who were on the verge of starvation.

This fact was revealed recently

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: An orphan, Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings knows almost nothing of her early history when, acceding to the wishes of her guardians, Judge Judson Marshbanks and Emma Haskell, she becomes the secretary to Mrs. Porteous Potter, wealthy San Franciscan invalid. Busy as she is, Cherry sees the judge from time to time and meets the members of his household; his dictatorial old mother, Amy Marshbanks, debutante daughter of his dead brother, Fred; and Fran, his gay young second wife. Shortly afterward Cherry learns, through Emma, that her mother (never married) had been Emma's sister, Charlotte; that her father had been the judge's brother, Fred—Amy's father—and that, shortly after Cherry and Amy were born, Cherry's mother had switched the two babies! Poor Cherry Rawlings is really the rich Amy Marshbanks. The judge confirms the amazing story, but to protect Amy his mother burns certain papers that would have proved it to be true. Meanwhile, Cherry had fallen in love with Kelly Coates, a young artist (who for a time had been infatuated with Fran Marshbanks); and Amy is determined to marry Count Mario (Go-go) Constantino. Cherry is jealous when Fran intimates she had lunch with Kelly at his Sausalito studio, but he tells her he hasn't seen Fran in weeks. Old Mrs. Marshbanks tells Cherry she resents her presence in the house. Judge Marshbanks is shot to death in his library and everybody in the house is under suspicion. Kelly finally convinces Cherry that he is over his infatuation for Fran and she agrees to marry him. Amy marries Count Gogo in Reno. Cherry discovers there are gunpowder marks on Fran's negligee. The police find love letters Kelly wrote to Fran.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER

"This is the first I've heard of this," said the old woman, in a voice of desperate resignation.

"I only knew of it myself yesterday. I'd put them in a place that seemed absolutely safe. They ferreted them out."

Cherry had finished. She went to take the chair opposite the older Mrs. Marshbanks at the fire.

"Hello, everyone!" Kelly Coates stood in the doorway.

Cherry's heart gave a great spring, began to tremble with fear and pain. Oh, she did not want to see Kelly this morning, not after Fran's story of the letters, not after the wonderful day he and she had had together at Capitola!

She would have escaped, but there was no escape. He came in, greeting Fran and old Mrs. Marshbanks and Gregory, catching Cherry's hand as he stood beside her, but with no other look or greeting, and spoke at once of Amy's elopement. He hoped it had not too much distressed her grandmother.

"I don't know any good of him!" Mrs. Marshbanks said of Count Go-go, visibly touched by Kelly's solicitude in spite of her stiff manner.

"At all events, Amy is a determined young lady and knows her own mind. She may mold him into just the husband she wants," Kelly said comfortingly. And then to Fran: "You telephoned that you wanted to see me about something?"

"Could we talk for a few minutes, Kelly?" Fran asked, rising. "Something has happened," Cherry heard her say as they went away together, "and I don't know how serious it may be."

Cherry's own heart sick with apprehension, she went through the gloomy big halls up to her own room a few minutes later. It seemed to Cherry that life would never be right and happy again. She was trying to master her tears when May came in with the message that Mr. Cantes would like to see her a moment.

Kelly looked at her a moment, then squared her gently about with his big hands and asked her why she had been crying.

"I've felt—so horrible!" Cherry faltered, fresh tears welling in her eyes. She could not face him.

"What about Marchioness? Nerves? Is all this beginning to get you?"

"Oh, Kelly, I'm so wretched about those letters! I knew—of course I knew," Cherry faltered, "that you were fond of Fran; I knew that just as soon as I met her, or you! But it hurts me so—it hurts me so—when I was so happy thinking that you and I would be together—to have this happen now! To have the police get them and the newspapers; it spoils everything!"

"Why does it spoil everything?" he asked gravely, still holding her lightly with both hands behind her shoulders. "Look at me, Cherry. This doesn't spoil anything. Do you mean that you don't want to come to Sausalito now?"

She smiled up at him through tears.

"Oh, Kelly, but it makes it all so horrid!" she said, even though hope was dawning in her voice.

"Cherry, you just said that you knew I'd cared—or that at one time some months ago. I thought I was crazy about Fran. I never asked her to come to Sausalito and run me; I never thought of her doing any such thing."

"Didn't she tell you about the letters?"

"Of course she did."

"You—you comfort me by just s-s-saying anything!" Cherry said, laughing with and at herself. She seated herself in a big fireside chair, and Kelly came to sit on the broad arm, holding tight to her hand.

"Let's have it. What about the letters?"

"She had them, Kelly. And a day or so ago the police found them."

"So what?"

"So what?" she echoed dazedly. "Can't they use them, Kelly? Can't they make it seem that perhaps if you loved her——?"

"Why," Kelly said, "what on earth do you suppose was in those letters, dear? Plans for murdering Jud Marshbanks?"

"You comfort me," Cherry whispered, her eyes shut. "You don't know how you rest me, Kelly."

He twisted about a little so that he could get an arm around her.

"What was in them?" she asked faintly.

"Well, I suppose the usual thing. That I was—oh lord—perhaps that I was happy in my new friendship for one of the most fascinating women I'd ever known," Kelly said, half amused and half impatient.

"There must have been more than that because she was so frightened."

"I'll be damned if I know what scared her," he said, in a genuinely puzzled tone. "She was beside herself. 'Kelly,' she said, 'it isn't for my sake but yours! Your career is ruined.' And she wanted me to take her away. 'Take me away and marry me!' she said over and over again."

"And what did you say?" Cherry asked, paling.

"I said that I loved you."

Her eyes filled again. Cherry could not speak.

"Then she said that I didn't know what might happen," the man pursued, still in the tone of one completely bewildered, "and I asked her what on earth she was afraid of. She said, 'You don't know, you don't know how they sound! You've not seen them for months.' It was the darnedest thing I ever knew.' But as for the police and the press exploiting them and landing me in jail, why, it's just silly."

"And you really don't think there's anything dangerous in those letters?" Cherry asked on a long sigh.

"I know there isn't. What gets me is that she thinks there is."

"It's clearing, Cherry. Get on your coat and rubbers and tie something over your head. We'll go for a walk."

"If I can keep my feet on the ground!" she said, adding in a longing tone, "Oh, Kelly, it'll be so good to get out of this house some day and into the free, open air and to forget everything that's gone on here!"

"Don't you think sometimes of the fact that if things had gone just a little differently you might be a rich woman, Marchioness?" he asked, as they walked along the wet sidewalks, leaning against the wind.

"No; I never thought of it, really. I wouldn't want it. I'll feel so rich as your wife, Kelly," Cherry said, "that it would just be a bother to me. Just to be over there, alone with you," she continued, gesturing towards the far hills, "there's no money in the world that could tempt me to give up a minute of it!"

"It's going to be a great adventure," Kelly said.

"It's going to be heaven! I can't believe it yet."

They paced along together, facing the wind.

"Oh, I'd forgotten, what with Amy and everything," Cherry said suddenly. "Yesterday when I was in Fran's room, and she was showing me the overnight case that the police had broken open when they got your letters, she went into the bathroom to take a shower and while she was there the wind blew in through her closet—and I went in to close the window—and one of her dressing gowns blew against my hand, and Kelly—she'd wiped a pistol barrel on it! No mistake. Grease and gunpowder, and it was all puckered up . . ."

"What are you talking about?" the man demanded, interrupting. "Fran had wiped the barrel of a revolver on one of her dresses?"

"One of those negligees she wears. And that was what she had on when she ran downstairs that night—when we'd all heard the judge shouting and we all ran to our doors. The minute I saw it I remembered it, although I'd forgotten it until then."

"Forgotten what?"

"That that negligee was what she had on."

"But someone would have seen her if she'd picked up the gun."

"Not necessarily. We were all so frantic! But, Kelly," Cherry went on impressively, laying a gloved hand on his shoulder, "this is the strange thing. Fran did have that negligee on at first, but when the police and the doctor and all the others got there she didn't. She had on only her nightgown, for she was shivering with cold, and one of the maids went and got her an overcoat from the hall closet."

"Ha!" Kelly said, his brow knitted. "Sure of that?"

"I'm absolutely sure. The first thing I saw when I opened my door was that the halls were lighted, and May and Molly and Helene, the other maid, were coming down from the upper floor, and Fran halfway down the stairs saying it was nothing, that we mustn't get excited, and wearing that negligee. But when the doctor and the police got there, she didn't have it on."

"She could have run upstairs, hung it up, and gone down again without anyone's noticing?"

"Easily—it was a madhouse for a while. And nobody was watching or checking."

"She wiped that revolver on the first thing that came handy, a fold of her dressing gown," Kelly formulated it slowly. "And then it occurred to her that the stain would be a hard thing to get rid of. She couldn't count on anything she had to clean it with——"

"She grabbed that gun instinctively and cleaned it before she realized that if those smudges were discovered matters would be worse than ever," Kelly continued. "So she took the boldest course and as it turned out the safest one. We're not far from Fisherman's Wharf, Cherry; how about an oyster stew?"

"Oh, Kelly, I'm starving!" She laughed her old joyous laugh as he caught her arm tightly in his, and they went along together at a walk that was almost a run.

The restaurant was as plain as coarse linen and cheap chairs could make it, but the fragrance of the boiling crab kettles outside scented the place appetizingly.

"Honestly, Kelly, is there one chance in the world Fran did it?" the girl presently said.

"I don't think so. I'd swear she didn't have the nerve. But it strikes me—it's seemed to me all along—that her position is that of someone who knows something, or thinks she does; she's protecting someone. But who? Amy? The old lady? I don't know . . . Here are our oysters."

"It's just one o'clock," Cherry said, "and I think I'll telephone home that I'm not coming."

When she came back she sank into her chair, gripping the table, trying to speak.

"Cherry, what is it? What's the matter?" Kelly stammered, catching at her hands.

"It was Mullins," she whispered. "They want us to come straight home. She said—she said she and Jud had quarreled—over you. Fran has confessed!"

When they went out onto the wharf looking for a taxi, Cherry held Kelly's hand tightly.

"Fran's confessed, eh?" he said more than once. "I wonder what that means? Why does she drag me in? She knows darned well that whatever she's up to I'm not in it."

"But—she could say you were!"

"Yes, but that's not enough."

"Kelly," she said, when they had signaled a cruising taxi and were on their way, "promise me something."

"Anything," he said.

"Promise me that no matter what happens now, no matter how tangled things get, you and I are forever and eternally bound to each other!"

"Why, my darling, my darling," he said, "my life is your life now. There we are!" he finished abruptly, as the cab drew up at the imposing Marshbanks doorway. "Now we'll try to see what all this is about."

There were four officers there now, instead of the usual one or two; Fran was there, too, silent, very pale, tragic-looking, with her white skin and raven-black hair.

"I had to tell them, Kelly," she said breathlessly, apologetically.

"I'm sorry. I thought for a while that we could hide it. But I had to tell."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I couldn't help overhearing you, Mary, when you asked Jim here why they let the liquor companies use sugar to make whiskey when all the rest of us have to cut down on it. I happen to know the answer to that.

"You see, the fact of the matter is, the industry never has used a single pound of sugar to make whiskey. The bootleggers were the only ones who used sugar to make whiskey. On top of that, there's not a single large distillery in the country making whiskey any more. They're all working day and night making war alcohol for the government for gunpowder, synthetic rubber, chemicals, and medical supplies.

"Just as I told Ed down at the courthouse this morning, the government simply wouldn't be able to get all this alcohol it needs in time if we didn't have these distilleries available and on the job."

Your Car's Life Can Be

STRETCHED FIFTY PERCENT

The engineers who build America's automobiles say proper care can stretch car life fifty percent. Yes, ten simple rules will do the job. And high on their list is the choice of suitable winter motor oils and greases. Proper lubrication, these experts explain, reduces friction, avoids unnecessary engine wear, makes cars start and run easier. Knowing this, millions of motorists prefer high-quality Mobiloil, the world's largest-selling motor oil.

Mobiloil Arctic gives exceptional lubrication, guarding every vital engine surface with a tough, protective film at all times — even during cold starts and fast warm-ups. Mobiloil is refined for extra purity, too, and thus resists dangerous carbon and sludge formation. Such impurities can gum up your engine, make it harder to start and run — and even do a lot of damage. So, for the safe, dependable winter lubrication you need to make your car last, ask for Mobiloil Arctic.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act. No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended seperately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated: December 21, 1942.

VERNON J. BROWN,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan,
for and in behalf of said State

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken:

Just had my wisdom teeth pulled and am spending the day at home trying to recover. Since my jaws are all swelled up and I can't talk, thought I would write and let you know how we are getting along.

I want to thank you for the paper first, Ken, it sure means a lot to us. It's sort of hard to tell you how much we appreciate it, but I think I am speaking for all the boys when I say "it's the greatest paper in the world." There's just no substitute for news from home.

Since reporting at San Diego, November 9, a lot has happened. They put me aboard ship immediately. Was transferred at the end of a month though, and am now receiving special instruction at the naval training station. My job is gunnery officer aboard a new type ship and it ought to be pretty interesting soon.

I've been able to live at home lately. We live on Coronado Island, just off the mainland. It takes about 10 minutes on the ferry to get across. It reminds us of Charlevoix in the summer time as it's about the same size and since nine-tenths of the population is army and navy officers, it's practically a resort. We like it very much and are trying to enjoy it while we can.

It's been quite warm here all winter, Ernestine goes swimming most every afternoon. We're only 12 miles from Mexico, so you can see it's quite far south.

I think there are several boys from Charlevoix in the vicinity of San Diego and I wish we could get in touch with them. Our phone number is H-33517. If they will call us we would like to have them out for dinner.

I was surprised the other morning to meet Jack Glassford on the bus. Hadn't seen him since he used to come up to Charlevoix in the summer. He is an ensign also, and is on a patrol boat out of here.

This is about all I can think of for the present.

Warren and Ernestine Shapton.
854 A Avenue,
Coronado, Calif.

Dear Sir,

Just a few lines to let you know my new address. I'm still in Great Lakes, getting ready to begin school Monday. We go eight hours a day from eight until four. I was sure glad to get out of O. G. U. because while I was there for three weeks they had me on K. P. fifteen days. Not so good, is it.

I received the last issue of the paper while I was still in O. G. U. and I appreciate it very much. This is my new address.

William K. Ager, S 2c,
Service School Group III,
Barr. 304, Sec. M 1-20,
U. S. N. T. S.,
Great Lakes, Ill.

Dear Ken,

I have just been getting caught up on my paper reading. Since I've been moving so much they are at last getting to me.

I suppose a lot of people are wondering about the T. D. on my address. It just means I belong to the tank destroyer unit here in Camp Hood.

I read in a Texas paper that we were the toughest men in the world. I really can't say it's true, but I know you have to be in the best of health. I am up for a rating here, which helps a lot, just like Bud Gebeau said, you think you are doing some good. I only wish I could be with the boys in foreign countries. I wanted foreign service and got it, but it was in Texas.

Well, Ken, I want to thank everyone around Charlevoix for the Christmas and New Year's cards, and my only hope is that all of us can get home to our loved ones soon.

As always,
"Tubby" Gill.

Pvt. Albert Gill,
Co. A-127,
T. D. R., T. C.
Camp Hood, Texas.

Dear Sir,

I want to thank you very much for sending me the Courier. I always read it twice to make sure I don't miss any of the news.

I have got several addresses from the paper of the boys in California.

I want to thank you again for the paper.

Yours truly,
Harold Hulm, S 2c,
Cr. A. & R. Depot,
U. S. Naval Air Station,
Alameda, Calif.

RAYDERS DIVIDE TWO CLOSE TILTS

At the end of the first period, the score stood 8 to 5 in Charlevoix's favor. The Rayders were ahead 14 to 7 at the half. During the third quarter they scored 6 to Jordan's 4, to lead 20 to 11. A lone free throw by Swanson gained the Rayders one point during the last stanza, while East Jordan rallied to make 6 points. This was the eighth victory for the Rayders in 9 games played this season.

Jordan's effective guarding of Capt. Carey held him scoreless for the first time in two seasons of play. Charlevoix's scoring was led by Swanson, making 7 points. Chambers scored 6, Rowe 5, Vrtanian 3. Coach Kipke used 6 men during the game.

High point man for East Jordan was B. Saxton, netting nine points. Weaver made 3, Kemp and Nemecek 2 each. Woodcock 1. East Jordan used no substitutes.

Charlevoix's reserves romped over the Jordan second stringers, 27 to 7. C. Bergman was high for the victors with 13 points. Ward and Gengle made 4 each, Graves, Mol and G. Bergman 2 each. For East Jordan, Bennett made 3, Valencourt 2, Sommerville and Conway 1 each.

Petoskey comes here this Friday night to meet the Rayders on their home court. An exciting game is in prospect, as the Northmen are expected to attempt revenge for the one-point defeat inflicted by the local team in December.

THE BATTLE of the BONDS

THE sale of War Bonds is a battle that we Americans are fighting right here at home. It is a battle to raise war funds in a sound, non-inflationary way. The tide of this battle has ebbed and flowed. For months last summer our side was losing—we missed national goals again and again. Then, for a while, we went on the offensive and passed monthly goals. But the battle goes on, month after month, and can't end until the war ends. Keep trying. Keep buying. Your purchases are more important now than ever.

SHOT AT RANDOM

to almost everyone. Speaking for myself, I'll be glad to see the sun when I go to work in the morning. Never was meant to be such an early riser, no matter what the clock said. So I'll spike my clock back February 15 with no regrets.

This winter's one of those old-fashioned kind we'd often heard about, but hadn't experienced for many years. No train again Monday third time this winter, the north end of Lake Michigan is plugged with ice and Beaver Island without regular communication for the first time in quite a good many years. If they have forgotten the manner in which they used to provide against isolation in winter, things might get kinda tough before spring.

After not showing his face one day out of a dozen all winter, Old Sol beamed brightly forth Tuesday of all days, so the groundhog saw his shadow clearly. As everyone knows, that means six more weeks of winter. If he hadn't seen it, there would be only 42 days of winter left.

Humorous solution for the meat shortage is provided in a clipping brought to us by Frank Hards, which presents the advantages of "filly mignon" and "fresh fried percheron with colt slaw." Relating how he "hitched the Robbin to the tray," the writer says: "I barged into the house, put my gauchies back in the safe, emptied the day's take in cigar butts into a box, and shouted to the little woman: 'When do we eat? I'm so hungry I could eat a horse.'" Whereupon, with some reluctance, the little woman served up a nice flank steak. After quieting his emetic nerve, the writer decided that horses are cleaner than sheep, pigs or even cows and was doing all right until he got to wondering what color this one might have been. Was it a pretty dappled grey, a chestnut brown with white face markings, or a horse of another color? That did it. War or no war, a cannibal, never. Suddenly he pushed the plate aside, crying "Neigh! Neigh!"

Pulling into the home stretch, it looks like a photo finish between me and Deadline, with Press Time closing in fast.

CORRESPONDENCE

WHEATON CORNERS

Some winter we are having, snow drifts 10 feet high and more snow falling.

Several truck loads of logs left the woods for the Van Every mill in Harbor Springs last week. Right now Paul Runyun's blue ox would come in handy helping the trucks out of the woods.

George Case is helping his father, William, cut logs.

Robert Holecheck and family drove to Charlevoix, Saturday night.

Mr. Zimmerman from the sale barn in Traverse City, was in this territory last week looking for straw.

Had a nice letter from Mrs. Maud Van Dusen Gaudrich, of Richmond, Vt., answering present to the roll call of 1881 of the Norwood school. She said she well remembered every scholar except Harry Boss. That was a misprint, it should have read Harry, Ben and Westly Pearl. Ben was a brother of Hime Pearl, the Charlevoix barber, walked out. He still owes me for the shave. Ben had gone to Atwood to see his girl.

IRONTON

The Ladies' Aid will meet again this week with Mrs. Roy Meyers.

Next Sunday's church services will be in charge of the Pilgrim Fellowship group. We hope to have a good attendance and are sure you will enjoy their program. Everyone is invited.

Word has been received that Patty Dissette, daughter of the late J. C. Dissette, was married in Chicago, January 16, to Ensign Paul White. Patty spent several summers here with her parents, and her many friends extend their best wishes for her happiness.

Bill Sanderson, Jr., of Detroit, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brown and son, Howard, of Petoskey, spent Sunday at the Lewis Brown home.

Percy Brown has returned to Pontiac, after several days with his children at the home of his brother, Ernest Brown, and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown.

Fishing has been very good the past week. More ciscos are caught than smelt this year. Before the lake froze so many dead smelt were found along the beach and now the lake is infested with them. No one seems to know the reason for this, unless the fresh water is not what they need, as they are really a salt water fish related to the salmon, and go to fresh water at spawning time, but their return to the sea has by some means been prevented, which may be the reason for their unsuccessful livelihood in small lakes.

The Concerners Club met Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kemp.

Carl Shultz left Saturday for Detroit, where he will enter the Cass Technical school for the remainder of the school year.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Chew, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Ikens and small daughter, also Ernestine Chew, of Charlefoix, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dutus Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Cunningham, Ray and Clyde, also Mrs. Luella Burtlett and daughter, were guests Sunday of Mrs. Winifred Baumbach in Charlevoix. The occasion was the birthday anniversary of Donnie Baumbach.

Friends in our community extend best wishes to Garland Syler, of East Jordan, who is now in the U. S. Navy, and who left for his base this week.

by the Office of War Information at Washington. In fact, it came from one of the OWI executives who flew to Africa to get the facts.

Food is a powerful life-saving weapon in total war. Think that over!

Then there is the commonplace factor of weather. You can produce guns and shells whether the sun shines or not. But you can't produce corn and beans unless the weather is suitable.

Remember the wonderful growing season we had last summer? Of course you do. It was an important contribution to man's determination to produce bumper crops.

As for 1943, farmers are already worried. Unfavorable weather last fall prevented fall plowing in many instances, thus imposing further handicaps on farmers who are already besieged by a shortage of labor and equipment. Unfavorable weather next summer could easily bring tragic results.

Next, the shortage of labor. It is critical.

It was critical last fall before Uncle Sam woke up and issued a directive to "freeze" labor on the farms and to defer farm labor from military duty.

More farm laborers went into war plants to earn fantastic wages than were called by selective service boards for military duty. Now the table is turned. Men in war plants are not exempt from military duty, although men on farms are.

During 1942 the farms of America lost more than 1,600,000 operators — family workers and year-round hired workers — to non-farm employment and to the armed forces. Sons of farmers are just as patriotic as other American lads; many of them volunteered for military service.

"All right," you may say, "I agree with all this but how about deferment of the farmers? Are the local boards deferring farm labor?"

Here is how farm labor is supposed to be deferred.

Each selective service board is asked to refer a farmer's questionnaire to the nearest "war board" of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This board, advisory only in function, is supposed to make recommendation to the selective service board as to the essentiality of the farmer.

If the draft board declines to defer the farmer, then the registrant or his employer may make an appeal in writing. This appeal is referred by the local draft board to the regional appeal board of which Michigan has nineteen.

If the regional appeal board upholds the local board in refusing deferment, an appeal may be sent to the state director at Lansing who may relay it to Washington where the President himself has final authority to decide on its merits.

We happen to know that the state headquarters at Lansing is sympathetic with the plight of the farmer. Officials here insist that no injustice has been done to their knowledge.

It all boils down to this: If the farmer is working full-time on the farm, the employer (or the farmer himself) has a patriotic duty to appeal any induction order by any local draft board to the highest authority. The farmer is an essential "soldier" in this war, and don't let anyone tell you differently!

One final "if", however. Shirkers are going to be drafted.

CHARLEVOIX MEN ACT UNDER FIRE

SUTTON AND MATCHETT ARE MENTIONED IN DISPATCHES

Tale of "Lost Company" Told by Chicago Daily News Writer From Sanananda Front

Two Charlevoix men have been featured in a series of stories recently appearing in metropolitan newspapers telling of the "Lost Company," a force of American soldiers who held a post 1,800 yards behind Jap lines at Sanananda in New Guinea for 23 days during December. George Weller, Chicago Daily News correspondent, is author of the stories.

Between the main Jap and American lines three miles south of Sanananda beachhead were four interlaced lines of Japs and Americans across a jungle road. The lunermost roadblock force, under Capt. Peter Dalpont, of Three Rivers, Wis., made efforts to meet Lt. William T. Johnson's force nearer American lines by sending out patrols. Johnson's force in turn was pushing into the jungle and trying to establish contact with the company.

Pfc. Orin Sutton, of Charlevoix, distinguished himself beyond his formerly publicized Jap-killing exploits by carrying two wounded comrades out from under Jap fire back to Johnson's outfit, as well as proving again and again his marksmanship on Jap snipers.

Determined that Dalpont should be relieved before Christmas, on December 22 Johnson sent in a force of men carrying hand grenades and tommy guns under Sgt. Ray Evans, of Grand Rapids. The Jap fire, however, was so strong that in a party of six ammunition carriers only two remained unscathed, Sgt. David Matchett, of Charlevoix, and Cpl. Glenn Follett, of Traverse City. All night long the battle of grenades went on between creeping Americans and Jap rear-line dugouts. Finally contact was made and the Americans and Australians smashed through to reach Dalpont's force on December 23.

ISLAND RESIDENTS FORM RURAL GROUP

St. James Business Men Organize Village Farmers Club

Residents of Beaver Island have organized the Village Farmers Club, composed of business men who reside in St. James and have farms on the island.

To be eligible for membership, St. James residents must have a flock of egg-producing chickens, at least two milk cows and raise enough produce on their own farm to supply their family during the winter months.

At their most recent meeting, Archie Lafreniere, president, gave a talk relative to the part the Beaver Island farmer should play in the war program. Acting upon his suggestion, members of the group adopted the slogan, "Raise a bit and lick the Nip."

CUT IN CITY AUTO USE IS REQUESTED

Basic Services Must Not Be Cut, Says State Administrator

City Superintendent Clifford McKibbin, Jr., has received a notice from the state government mileage administrator's office requesting a 40 per cent cut in consumption of gasoline for city-owned motor equipment.

As the order also carried the stipulation that basic services performed by city vehicles must not be curtailed, it is expected to have little effect on autos and trucks used by the city of Charlevoix. Use of these vehicles has already been cut to the lowest possible minimum to insure efficient performance of city services.

The snow removal program, Mr. McKibbin emphasized, will not be reduced. Application was previously made to the office of defense transportation for gasoline sufficient for the least possible mileage upon which city trucks can operate, and such allowance was granted. No further cut in truck mileage is anticipated.

STATE BANK PAYS FINAL DIVIDEND

RELEASE FUNDS STARTING FEBRUARY 15

Return Seventy-Nine Per Cent of Funds Frozen When 1933 Bank Holiday Was Declared

The Charlevoix Depositors' Corporation will pay a final liquidating dividend of twenty per cent on its outstanding certificates of participation, commencing February 15th.

Certificate holders will receive their payment at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, and will be required to surrender their certificates. This payment will make a return of seventy-nine per cent of the several amounts on deposit when former Governor Comstock declared the bank holiday.

Ole W Lyngklip, CPA., audited the books of the corporation and reported to it, and to the state banking department, his unqualified approval of them.

In liquidating the segregated assets, the corporation has had the benefit and the advice and supervision of the officers of the state banking department, whose experienced help and advice has been of invaluable aid.

The amount released to depositors through the corporation compares favorably with that paid by other banks in Michigan which were forced into re-organization by the bank holiday of 1933

FOOD RATIONING BEGINS MARCH 1

RETAIL SALES TO BE FROZEN FEBRUARY 20

Registration Arrangement Will Be Announced Soon; Pre-Ration Supply 5 Cans Per Person

Rationing of canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables will begin March 1, and retail sales of the more than 200 items to be rationed will be "frozen" on February 20.

Beginning Monday, February 22, housewives will register for war ration book two, which will allow a total of 48 points for each member of the family for the month of March. Arrangements for registration in Charlevoix will be announced at an early date. One member may register for an entire family.

Stamps in ration book two will have values of 8, 5, 2 and 1 points. If a family has more than 5 cans of eight-ounce size or larger per person on hand, stamps will be removed from the book when issued, in proportion to their excess holdings. Official point values will be made public as soon as stocks are frozen. Emphasis is placed on the fact that point values are determined by relative scarcity or plenty of the rationed foods, not by price.

Some foods need not be counted when listing supplies upon application for book two. Not to be rationed are canned olives, canned meat and fish, pickles, relish, jellies, jams, preserves, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and all home-canned foods.

4-H CLUBS PLAN SUMMER PROGRAM

MOBILIZATION WEEK IS SET FOR FEBRUARY 6-14

Rural Boys and Girls Charlevoix County Asked to Double Food Production During 1943

This week, February 6-14, is 4-H Mobilization Week, during which boys and girls of Charlevoix county are asked to double their efforts in food production for 1943. The 510 club members who in 1942 completed 934 projects will be asked to pledge themselves to the task of producing food to help "win the war and write the peace."

The move is nation-wide. President Roosevelt expressed faith in 4-H club ability to render great service, and Governor Harry F. Kelly has dedicated this as a week when club members should plan and devise methods to double their output of goods and food in this war.

No official ceromonies mark the celebration, but club members are being asked to reflect upon the services they rendered in last summer's program, when they produced $7,648.25 worth of food in vegetable and commercial gardens, canning, dairy, poultry and swine projects. Doubling of this amount for 1943 will produce a large contribution to the war effort.

Karl Festerling, 4-H club leader for Charlevoix county, is visiting schools and clubs in the county this week to ask members to consider their part in this program. Enrollments in projects will be received at a later date.

ISOLATION OF ISLAND BROKEN

MAILBOAT MARY MARGARET CROSSED FRIDAY

Civilian Air Patrol Plane Began Regular Flights Monday; Make Two Mail Trips Weekly

Communication with Beaver Island was re-opened Friday after three weeks of isolation, when the mailboat Mary Margaret made the crossing with passengers, freight and two tons of mail which had accumulated in the Charlevoix post office since January 16. Monday of this week, Pilot Wes Aulthus with a Civilian Air Patrol plane from Cadillac, made the first regular mail flight to the island.

It was Aulthus who made the emergency flight of January 27 with Dr. Russell Palmer and his wife, island resident physician and nurse, who were stormbound 10 days in Charlevoix. He will make at least two trips weekly with the mail and other flights as necessary. As government restrictions forbid carrying civilian passengers on the plane, Capt. Leroy Aliers intends to make as many trips with the Mary Margaret as ice conditions will allow.

After the mail flight Monday, Aulthus returned to Charlevoix to ferry Norman Gallagher, on furlough from Camp McCoy, Wis., to his island home. On the return trip he brought to the mainland Henry Ricksgers, who was to leave Wednesday with the county draft group. Permission to carry such passengers will be granted at any time.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Quit worrying about where our enemies are going to land next and think more about where your friends are landing now. Do-ice that slippery walk from your front door to city-maintained sidewalk with a shovel, sand or salt.

The fame of Charlevoix's own "Michigan Wild Man," Pfc. Orin Sutton, has spread far and wide throughout the land. A picture of "Pete" getting a leg-wound dressed after one of his Jap exterminating sorties was published several weeks ago in numerous metropolitan newspapers. Reproductions of the picture since received include a full page from the army newspaper, "Yank," sent by a Boyne City soldier in Florida, and a clipping from the San Diego, Calif., Times which was sent by Mrs. Irene Finucan Edwards, former Charlevoix resident, from Kenmore, N. Y. These in addition to numerous clippings sent from other widely divergent points. Pete's face is getting to be as familiar as a politician's, provided he doesn't shave off that rugged beard.

Uncle Sam has got us surrounded. Rationing of gas set us right on our feet, causing much wear and tear on everyone's brogans. As food rationing hove up on the horizon, some hearty eaters must have looked over their now dilapidated shoe wardrobe with the notion of concocting a fillet of sole a la shipwrecked sailor, should their appetite exceed their ration stamps. Then our Mr. Brown creeps up stealthily on a quiet Sunday and tramps right on our weary dogs with his shoe rationing order. And long ago tenpenny nails became too precious to be chawed in the heat of frustrated anger.

And anybody who isn't willing to manufacture a pair of sandals out of an old bed sheet and the Sunday comic section if it will mean an extra pair of shoes for

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The Michigan food problem isn't the exclusive worry of farmers.

Far from it. It concerns every man, woman and child in the state.

And furthermore, it is linked inexorably to the military demands imposed upon the United States for the "unconditional surrender" of the Nazi in Europe and the Japanese in the Pacific. You can't separate the need of corn, or cattle, or anything else on the agricultural front from the needs of the United Nations on their fighting fronts today and tomorrow.

For an appreciation of the enormity of the food problem, we must first see in proper perspective the vastness of the war and its challenge to what we fondly call "the American way of life."

Louis P. Lochner, for 21 years an Associated Press correspondent at Berlin, provided such a perspective to an audience of 4,000 farmers at Michigan State College last week.

Lochner dissipated any complacency that the war will be over in 1943.

He pictured the job ahead as long and costly.

The Nazis, he said, are prepared for possible revolution at home—a breakdown of the morale on the home front which preceded the Armistice in November, 1918. Machine gun nests in Berlin and other cities guard intersections of prominent streets and public squares.

"In my opinion, we must inflict a crushing military defeat upon Germany itself," he said. "This cannot be accomplished easily."

Arrival of the Yanks in Africa is regarded by Lochner as a turning point of the war, as it brought needed relief to the Russians through diversion of German airplanes to the Mediterranean.

CHAPTER XVII

"You go up-stair, and get ub dry things," Kelly said to Cherry. "No use you catchin' pneumonia."

He sat down at the desk and Cherry reluctantly went away. May was waiting for her in the hall and not only personally managed a hot bath but descended afterward to the kitchen for tea and toast.

"If you aren't in for the 'Ill ness my guess!" said May.

When she came upstairs with the tray, it was to ask Cherry if she would have her little middafternoon meal in old Mrs. Marshbanks' room. "She don't feel very good and she ssked if you wasn't too tired would you come in and see her."

"Well, of course," Cherry said. Feeling achy and dull, she was not only vaguely flattered by the proposal, but she was glad of any company on this dreadful afternoon.

Cherry found her grandmother restless and uneasy. But to Cherry's great relief she seemed disinclined to speak of the affairs of the moment.

The clock struck four. The old woman looked across at her companion, her voice sounded oddly firm and clear in the silence.

"Judson was on honest man," she said, "but he never was fair to his brother, Frederick—"

Cherry was unable to spenk. She felt her throst thicken; teers stung her eyes. The proud, stiff old voice went on.

"I would be very sorry to think that anything I had ever done had hurt you," said Mrs. Marshbanks. "When something surprises you snd—sod distresses you, sometimes you act without thinking."

"I don't think it matters much now," Cherry said, with some difficulty. "It might have been unimportant. Nobody knew what was in that envelope."

"It wes unfortunote. I suppose," the old woman said reluctantly and proudly, "that my boy inherited his disposition from me. He would not be crossed."

"You sre much stronger than your father," ssid Mrs. Msrshbanks. The girl felt an odd sense of pride. It was something—even on this strange, terrible dsy—t have won the respect of her strange, all-enated old grandmothar.

"You cen stand what would heva brokea him," Mrs. Marshbanks presantly added. "You know, I supposs, that Judson left you a little property in his will? What I have will ba yours, too," she went on, unemotionally. "It is not what you might hava bad, but it is something."

"Thank you," Cherry said simply. There was a tap at the door and she spraag to it, ber heart hammering wildly. It was Kelly.

Ha looked tired, and was graver in manner than she had aver seen him.

"Fran and I are going out with these lads a while," he said, without preamble. "I wanted you to know. See you later."

She caught at him, her eyes frightened. He smiled and was gone.

Mrs. Marshbanks and Cherry sat quietly, saying little. It wes a relief to both when Greg csme in.

"What's happened?" he inquired. "Martin looked like Boris Kerloff when he ' ' in."

"Yes, we plsnned it only a few days ago," Cherry said dully.

"Fran knows it?"

"Nobody knows it."

"But if that's the case, how could she possibly have quarreled with Jud about him?"

"That's one reason why I think she didn't."

"You mean you're to mnrry Kelly?" The older woman still found it hard to believe.

"Some day," Cherry unswered simply, looking away to hide her filling eyes.

"And how long hns this been going on?"

"Ever since I first saw him—for me. He walked into my life," Cherry said, "and he's never walked out."

"Well," seid the old lady dryly, "that complicates mstters."

"I should think it would simplify metters; I should think it would let Kelly out of it, at least," Greg said.

"I don't think anything any more," his grandmother stated wearily. "I guess I've lived long enough. So you got him eway from Fran, did you?"

"Thst was all over. They hadn't seen each other for months. But Fren suddenly got all worked up about it. She had letters from him that the police found."

"Those letters!" tha older womaa said scornfully.

As Cherry was about to leava old Mrs. Marshbanks, Amy and Count Gogo burst in.

"Gran, darling," Amy said with bar kiss, "we were going through town on our way to Del Monte and we got homesick, and so we're putting off our boneymoon, and we cama boma to see you! You kiss har, too, Gogo!"

Cherry informad the newcomers that Fran had beea asked to go to police beadquarters "to explain something," and that Fran had "sort of brokaa down" earlier in tha day, and they were questioning her.

"But why? She doesn't know anything about it!" Amy exclaimed, aghast.

"You kennot possibly know zat, de-ar," said tha count.

"She said it waa on his account."

"The thing is, Gran," Amy burst out, "that yesterday when I grabbed some things to go snd meet Gogo there wes some mail on the hall table, two or three letters for me, end I took them along. We didn't look et them until this morning and then I—we—Gogo felt—we both felt, thet it might be important, and that we ought to talk to someone about it."

"If it is for Aimee'a comforts, zen tt is important to me," Gogo ssid impressively.

"You say it's business, Amy," old Mrs. Marshbanks said, with a level look at Gogo. "What sort of business?"

"It's from some lawyer, Gran," Amy explained. "Mr. George Comstock. Ite says that owing to the sudden death of his father, Judge Thomes Comstock, affairs in the office—I'll reed it," Amy interrupted herself.

"'Affairs in the office have been in some inevitable confusion, owing to the recent sudden death of my father.'" she read aloud. "'My partner, Mr Edward Brace, and I have been attempting to the best of our ability to straighten out his affairs. We now discover that a document deliverable to you on the occasion of your twenty-first birthday, Novemher seventeenth of this year, has been overlooked and is now eleven days overdue. The envelope, sealed, was deposited here at the request of your father, the late Frederick Archibald Marshbanks, at the time of his death. The accompanying instructions request that we also get in touch with Charlotte Rswlings, whose whereabouts we are now endeavoring to ascertain. Assuring you of our regret in the unavoidable delay—'" Amy stopped short, lowered the hand holding the letter looked blankly at her grandmother. "What on earth does it mean?" she demanded.

"Why, I don't know, dear," faltered the old lady.

"Aimee bas tolt me of a story told by Cherie here," the count began anxiously. "Cont it hal anysing to do wiz zis?"

"If it is a duplicate of that paper Uncle Jud said he had had—" Amy udded, a ain leaving her sentence unfinished.

"If it is to Aimee's interest, zen we must fight," the count put in.

"Cherry, did they write you?" Amy demanded.

"The Comstocks were great friends of your father," old Mrs. Marshbanks contributed. "But I never heard—" She stopped short, shaking her head.

"It seem to me zat I should have known of zis, Aimee," said the count.

"Gogo, why should I tell you a lot of family rubbish that I didn't believe myself!" Amy answered sharply. "Up to now up to the time I got this letter, there wasn't any proof of anything!"

"I am sure," the old woman began faintly. "I am sure there isn't any truth in what Judson said to put Amy in such a terrible position. Oh, my child," Amy's grandmother said, in a burst of anguish, "why did you marry until this matter was settled? How could you rush off without telling us—without—"

"But you are not saying zat Aimee perhaps will be robt of all ze money her grandfazzer gave her?" the count put in, in a tone of stupefaction.

There was a brief silence. The count moved to Amy and touched her on the shoulder.

"It will be very hardt, it will seem very strange to my frienz, my frienz zat I have promise to help," he said in an annoyed tone. "I tell zem to come and stay wiz me, I tell zem zat my horse—my house, all le for zem." His reproachful look swept the circle; he spreed his hands open, appealing for sympathy.

"Your room is ready, Countess," May said, from the doorway. Cherry saw a little pleased look, a mollified expression, come into Amy's face. The title was impressive to them all.

"The first thing that Gogo said when we read this horrible letter," Amy said, looking first at her grandmother, then et Cherry, "was that it wouldn't be fair to me—it would put me in a false position for him to have married me thinking that I was—well, was rich and that I could help out all theso people he has promised to help, and thst he could pay up some bills. As if," Amy diverged suddenly with an attempt to speak scornfully that Cherry found infinitely psthetic. "as if money matteredl It was only—Gogo says it's only that he expected something different and made all these plans, and now of course he won't be able to corry them out.

"We'll know tomorrow," Cherry said, one hand over her aching eyes.

"He says, Gogo says, that it's a bad sign that they want to get in touch with you, Cherry," Amy observed, es she trailed away disconsolately, leaving Cherry alone with her grendmother.

The old lady extended a hend to her, and as Cherry went to stand before her, grasping it, sha drew the girl down so that Charry's aar was close.

"She's destroyed her life!" tha old woman seid, in an electric whisper. "Tha money was all ba wanted."

Crossing the hall, Cherry could bear Gogo's voice speaking high and angrily in Amy's room; she heard nothing from Amy in reply.

With a heartsick pang of sympathy for Amy, Cherry turned away from her own doorway, and went dowastairs. Whea she reached tha lower hallwey Fran and Kelly were just coming in.

Both looked beaten. Kelly's face was gray, and Fran was obviously exhausted. Her eyes, sunken in rings of pale violet, went almost without recognition to Cherry's. She said faintly she was going to rest before dinner.

"You'll want your dinner upstairs, Fran," Cherry said, all sympathy.

"No, no," the other woman said feverishly. "I don't want to be alone. I'll lie down for e while!"

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Here's a piece, Judge, that says that in spite of more cars and faster speeds, the first six years of repeal showed 12% less deaths from automobile accidents than during the last six years of prohibition."

"Now doesn't that just go to show you, Henry, you've got to be on pretty solid ground as far as your facts go before you make an out-and-out prediction. Why, back in the days just before repeal quite a few folks around the country made pretty powerful predictions about how automobile accidents were going to jump up if we got legal liquor back.

"About the only thing along that line you're ever sale in predicting, Henry, is this. No community or county or nation, for that matter, ever became or ever will become dry just because it voted that way. All that the votin' decides is whether you have legal or bootleg liquor. We had nearly 11 years of experience on that, didn't we?"

STATE OF MICHIGAN

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act. No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 128 of the Public Act of 1933, as amended;

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Archibald Buttars' residence at the corner of State and Mason streets (present Glenn See property) was badly damaged by fire Monday. All contents of the lower floor were removed except the grand piano. From noon until five o'clock weary firemen battled the flames which consumed almost all except the floors and chimney. Mr. Buttars has occupied the residence since 1870, when the first part was constructed by David Nettleton.

Leslie Howe, George S. Shearer and Jerry Haggerty enlisted and left Thursday, January 30, for the state of Washington, where they are working in the forestry division of the army.

Len Powers has enlisted in the army as a plumber and goes to Greenville, S. C., next Friday.

Henry Block has left the employ of the Brown garage and opened a repair shop in Henry Wood's livery barn.

"Why not let us place a Pathe talking machine in your home on trial?" inquires the Blanchard Hardware Co.

First event of its kind ever staged in northern Michigan was the winter carnival parade last Thursday afternoon, which led off Charlevoix's third annual winter sports program. Charles Marshall, Merritt Miller, Frank Bird and George Roderick formed a drum corps to head the parade. "Spark Plug," the famous comic pinto horse, in charge of Louis O'Neill, did the Charleston and other hilarious stunts. Petoskey beat the locals in one evening hockey game and tied another on Sunday. Race winners were: George Bergmann, cross country ski race; Janet Livingston, girls ski race; skating races, John Winder, Frank Smith, Bernice Lamphear, Janet Livingston, George Bergmann, David Livingston, Frances Marshall, John Sharrow, Bud Gill.

Dr. C. J. Winder, of Eaton Rapids, will open a dental office in the Birnkrant building at the corner of Bridge street and Park avenue. The Winders are at present owners and managers of the Charlevoix Hotel.

physical fitness program will be given. The main game begins at 8:30. No admission will be made for any part of the evening's program.

Basketball fans saw a swift, exciting game Friday night on the local court, when Charlevoix's Red Rayders defeated the Petoskey Northmen, 22 to 18.

Petoskey tried hard to revenge their previous defeat at the hands of the Rayders, but although scoring was close, the locals maintained a consistent lead.

The Kipmen rang up 8 points to Petoskey's two in the first period. During the second quarter, Petoskey gained 9 points to the home team's 2, tying the game at 11-all. Leading 16 to 14 as the third stanza closed, Charlevoix held their margin during the final period, scoring 9 points against the Northmen's 4.

Nine wins out of ten games played is the Rayders' record so far this season.

Charlevoix's scoring was well divided. Carey made 6 points, Vratinina 5, Chambers 4, Swanson 3, Rowe 2 and Mitchell sank a neat long shot for 2 points. Coach Kipke used 7 men during the game.

The Rayder reservos were overwhelmed by Petoskey's second team in the preliminary game 28 to 16. C. Bergmann scored high for Charlevoix, netting 9 points, Ward made 4, Novotny 2, Graves 1. Cooper made 14 points for Petoskey, Ayers 7, Sandel 4, Rehkop, Washburne and Kring 1 each.

Keep the pressure up!

Uncle Sam is fighting the biggest "fire" in world history. Every ounce of pressure we can put behind the war effort is needed now.

If everybody kept right on sprinkling lawns while a big fire was raging, the firemen wouldn't have enough pressure. Just so with the telephone system. Long Distance telephone lines, like water mains, can carry only so much at a time. Much of the capacity of the Long Distance lines is needed now for the messages that speed war production.

Here's how you can help:

Do not make a Long Distance call unless it is really important.

Keep all calls as brief as you can.

With Aulthus on the flight from Cadillac to Charlevoix was George Krivka, CAP member, who served in the capacity of guard as required by present federal regulations.

Frank O'Donnell, Beaver Island's only dairyman, stranded in Charlevoix three weeks, went to Northport, Friday, and crossed from there to the island on a fish tug. During his absence, his aged parents and some friends had made milk deliveries to the islanders. As O'Donnell's return was essential to the island residents' welfare, arrangements were made for a CAP plane to take him home when strong southwest winds cleared ice away ice floes, permitting the boat trip. Both Charlevoix and St. James harbors have become ice-locked since that time, however.

Wartime regulations on air travel have been relaxed to some extent to allow the CAP plane to make regular trips, as the air line is often the island's only communication with the mainland in winter.

SHOT AT RANDOM

some soldier, is invited to step out into our alley for a duel with cap pistols at three paces, yes suh.

Only one thing is sure not to be rationed by Mr. B.—elbow grease.

Somebody who had time to figure it out, and whose hand wasn't calloused nor brain benumbed by hours in last summer's sun bending over a row of carrots or trying to beat the neighbor's chickens to the peas, has set up a neat table of figures showing just how many hours of work goes into production of so many feet per row of any vegetable, and just how many pounds should be obtained from said row. Lettuce looks like the best bet to me, while I pale before the amount of labor required by potatoes.

A January thaw and a July thunderstorm on the same day in February—this very Wednesday—is a recipe for some of the nastiest weather we've experienced in a long time. How about applying for location here of a branch of that army weather school in Grand Rapids, as our current weather is obviously exceedingly ignorant and in need of education.

Boyne City has shut off four little-used hills as coasting areas for children, following a storm of demands for such reservations after an accident in which a 6-year-old boy was injured when he collided with a car at the foot of an unguarded hill.

If you've read this far without discovering that it wasn't Ken saying so much about nothing, perhaps I shouldn't disillusion you. But I wouldn't want anyone else to have to take the blame for the literary crimes herein perpetrated.—Annie.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

The Bi-Weekly Club met Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Clare Staley. Mrs. Neil Horniman's birthday anniversary was honored by presentation of gifts from the guests. Refreshments were served at a table beautifully decorated with bowls of flowers and lit by tapers.

Gordon Dennis was host to members of his deer hunting group Wednesday, at a supper at his home on Division avenue. Present were B. Nickerson, Pete Scott, Glen Ikens, Clare Staley, Bert Staley and Glenn Rose.

Mrs. Joe Williams was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening by a party given in celebration of her birthday anniversary, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Myers at Ironton. Following an eight o'clock cooperative dinner, cards were played. Prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. George Bergmann and Mrs. Williams. The honored guest received several gifts from the group.

Mrs. Alfred Gill, Jr., was hostess to the Young Mothers' Club Tuesday night. During the business meeting a contribution was voted for the CSO Courier subscription fund to service men. Cards were played, for which first prize was awarded to Mrs. Norman Houch. The hostess served refreshments.

Tho Athens, W. Va., county jail, vacant for a year, was scrapped and yielded 30 tons of steel.

Reserve Monday evening, February 22, for Washington's Birthday dance. Benefit CSO.—Adv. 6t1.

SHOE RATIONING IS ORDERED BY BROWN

Price Administrator Issues Ruling Sunday Without Warning

OPA Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown took the nation by surprise Sunday in announcing that rationing of shoes would begin Tuesday of this week. Although shoe rationing was expected to be imposed at some future date, the general public and even few "insiders" had little warning of the move.

Suddenness of Brown's announcement effectively prevented hoarding of footwear, as shoe sales were frozen all day Monday and no one had a chance to buy up stocks for future use.

Beginning Tuesday at 12:01 a. m., every person may purchase one pair of shoes every four months. Stamp 17 of ration book one is good for purchase of one pair of shoes from now until June 15. Stamps are interchangeable among members of one family residing in one household.

Exempted from the order are house slippers, boudair slippers, infants soft-soled shoes, ballet slippers, ordinary rubber footwear including artics; work, dress, clog and toe rubbers, and lumberman's overs. Shoe repairs are not rationed and a liberal allocation of sole leather for that purpose has been provided.

ENGBLOM-ROEN VOWS SPOKEN DECEMBER 12 AT NORWAY, MICHIGAN

The marriage of Miss Lillian Engblom, of Norway, Mich., and Marquis W. Roen, son of Capt. John Roen, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and Mrs. O. W. Trnyte, of Fort Myers, Fla., was solemnized December 12 at Norway.

Attendants to the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Asher, of Sturgeon Bay, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, Miss Carole Engelhart and Francis Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Roen are residing at 1405 Ludington street, Escanaba. The groom is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, class of 1934, while the bride graduated from Norway high school in 1937.

MARRIAGE PATRICIA CLARKE AND OWEN A. RILEY IS ANNOUNCED

Mrs. William Symons, of Grosse Pointe Woods, former resident of Charlevoix, announces the marriage of her daughter, Patricia Louise Clarke, to Pvt. Owen A. Riley, of Antigonish, Nova Scotia, at London, Ontario, on May 30, 1942.

Pvt. Riley is a member of the Canadian army ordnance corps and is now stationed somewhere in England.

Mrs. Riley attended Charlevoix schools for several years and graduated from Grosse Pointe high school in 1941.

DAUGHTER OF FORMER LOCAL RESIDENTS IS MARRIED IN FLORIDA

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Smith, of Clearwater, Fla., and Lieut. Hammond Wiley, U. S. army air corps, were married recently in St Petersburg, Fla.

The bride and her parents are former Charlevoix residents, having moved to Clearwater about 15 years ago. She is a graduate of Clearwater high school. Lieut. Wiley's home is in Knoxville, Tenn., and he attended the University of Tennessee.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Major and the Minor"

Ginger Rogers is throwing that little-girl sailor hat she wears in her new film, "The Major and the Minor," right smack into the center of the ring for another Academy Award. As the "minor" who fools Ray Milland, the Major, into making all kinds of a fool of himself over her, Ginger is said to top any of her many marvelous performances.

The Paramount comedy, which comes Saturday and Sunday to the Palace Theatre, brings the two popular stars together for the first time, and from all accounts their team work hits new heights of humor. The work of each as a comedian is well-known to picture fans; together there is no doubt of the fact that they must be terrific.

as from New York City to Minnesota by way of Terre Haute, Indiana, is only a prelude to the big task of invading the European continent and ultimately Germany itself, the speaker reminded.

"American correspondents in Berlin forewarned the world years ago of what the Nazis were scheming," he said. "I wrote a dispatch in 1936, three years before the war, telling about underground hangars for airplanes. The Americans wouldn't believe the facts they read in their newspapers. We were criticized for spreading Nazi propaganda."

Another sign: Paul V. McNutt has announced that effective April 1, the dependency draft deferment will be discontinued and that 10 out of every 14 men from the ages of 18 to 38 "will be in the armed services . . . by the end of this year."

Local selective service boards will be given huge quotas to fill.

The pressure will be great upon men in non-essential industries.

President Roosevelt informed leading legislators at a White House conference that he held no hopes for a quick conclusion of the war.

Quentin Reynolds, ace war correspondent, shocked an audience at the Detroit Athletic club with this statement:

"It is awfully easy for Hitler to win this war. He can retire his armies from Russia and park them somewhere near the Polish border where we are informed he has already built strong defense lines. He could fight a defensive war, and it would be up to us to dislodge him—a military feat I believe almost impossible to accomplish. Hitler could thus achieve a stalemate, and a stalemate means he wins the war and dictates the peace."

AID FOR FARMER LABOR SHORTAGE

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE TRAINS YOUTHS

Graduates Agricultural Training Course Draft Exempt When Employed on Farm

Farmers in Michigan experiencing labor shortage will get some relief this spring when an initial group of 53 farm boys complete a specialized farm training course, March 15, at Michigan State College, according to Ernest L. Anthony, dean of agriculture at the college.

After that date 100 or more enrollees, 16 to 20 years old, are expected every 6 weeks. During this period they receive an agricultural training designed to improve their skills in tilling the soil, feeding livestock, operating machinery, harvesting, and numerous other activities.

The plan for providing skilled training to farm youth, who come chiefly from the northern counties of Michigan, was devised by the farm security administration of the United States department of agriculture, who sought cooperation from Michigan State College. The college provides its entire facilities to these boys, including faculty, housing, physical examinations and health service.

In commenting upon the plan, Dean Anthony stated it was one of the most sensible things yet devised to handle the critical labor situation. "These boys," said Dean Anthony, "know how to work. They have been born and reared on farms, and are now getting the training that will familiarize them with the more modern methods of agriculture." Farmers needing assistance should contact Dean Anthony or Roswell Carr, farm security administration.

Boys recruited by farm security are chosen on the basis of their desire to make a definite contribution to the war effort. They are expected to remain in agricultural pursuits for the duration. Under these conditions the state selective service has assured the farm security administration that these boys will be draft exempt when they are sent to the farms to relieve the farm labor shortage.

ODD FELLOWS RETAIN MARGIN IN CRIBBAGE

Masons Were Defeated in Seventh Game of Series

Although losing ground to the Masons for two weeks, the Odd Fellows regained lost territory Monday night in the seventh game of the winter cribbage series.

Score for the Odd Fellows was 9,397, for the Masons 9,705. Robert Stafford was high for the winners with a card of 954. Leading the Masons was W. C. Bellinger with 918. Five and a half tables were in play.

Monday night's margin of 292, added to their previous advantage of 298, puts the Odd Fellows ahead by 590 points.

DIRECTOR VICTORY GARDENS APPOINTED

Paul R. Krone Plans Intensified Program for Michigan

Civilian defense facilities will be used to promote the growing of victory gardens in Michigan this year, according to Paul R. Krone, recently appointed by Gov. Harry F. Kelly as director of victory gardens. As such he heads the victory garden section, civilian war service division, of the Michigan council of defense.

Krone's plans call for appointment of victory garden chairmen by all county and local councils of defense. These chairmen will have the assistance of committees made up of representatives of government and private agencies interested in gardening. He plans to make full use of neighborhood war clubs established by county and local councils, and of rural war clubs sponsored by the U. S. department of agriculture in victory garden promotion and education.

Local leaders who are experienced gardeners, qualified to teach the less experienced how to grow successful gardens, are expected to be developed by local committees.

PLAN RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN

FIRST SOLICITATION SINCE DECEMBER, 1941

E. J. Edwards Named Chairman for Charlevoix; Committees Announced Next Week

Monday, March 1, will mark beginning of the first fund campaign to be conducted by the American Red Cross since December, 1941.

Charlevoix county's quota has been set at $4,400. Of this amount, the city of Charlevoix has been asked to raise $1,500.

Rev. Frank Kupinski, of Boyne City, is county chairman for the campaign. E. J. Edwards is chairman for Charlevoix, B. G. Braman for East Jordan. Committees for solicitation in this city will be announced next week by Mr. Edwards.

Although the American Red Cross conducted no Roll Call campaign last November, donations to the war fund campaign will constitute re-enrollment as a member. However, those who, in the past have been in the habit of giving a dollar or two as their yearly membership contribution, are asked this year to give as much more as they can possibly afford. Following the American armed forces on all the far-flung fronts of a global war, the Red Cross budget this year exceeds all previous records.

Of the funds raised locally, the county chapter retains an amount estimated to be sufficient for its needs. Remainder of the quota is turned over to the national organization for direct war uses.

Clubs, lodges and other organizations which vote an annual contribution to the Red Cross will have ample time before beginning of the campaign to vote on the amount they will give this year.

CSO Subscription Fund

The Charlevoix Service Organization acknowledges receipt of $5.00 from the Young Mothers' Club for their fund for Courier subscriptions to service men.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

When Si Perkins, out Toenail Hill way, sed this wood be a danged cold winter 'cause the skwirls stole most of his korn, he wusn't far off at that. Monday morning's 20 degrees below zero was the lowest dip the mercury has taken in these parts in quite a few years. There was more car pushin' and cussing than I've heard in some time and if you had to walk to work the frost made the ends of your eyebrows start growing right back into the flesh to get away from the cold. Well, anyway, it was almost that bad.

And speaking about winter conditions, Lake Michigan's ice fields reach as far as the eye can see, which spells cold weather for the next six or eight weeks, and Round lake's been frozen over solid for several days. Tuesday, the first fish shanty timidly ventured out upon the ice and is so far the only one. Most of the anglers are either in the army or off to the city to work and those of us at home are either so short-handed we're too busy to fish or else just too lazy. You might not believe it, but I can walk from my front porch almost on a level to the street and sitting in the house you can just see the top of the car parked in front over the snow banks thrown up by the street plow. Yes, this is one of those winters we've heer'd about.

I see where they're talking now of killing off a lot of deer in overpopulated areas to help the meat shortage; and that sort of makes my mouth water a bit for a nice venison steak inasmuch as the pocketbook won't stand for beef but once in a while. Too bad they didn't think about such a thing when it was early enough to let hunters get at them, because with the snow as heavy all over Michigan's big game cover as it is this winter, there's no doubt more deer will die from starvation than the hunters kill in a year, and with things as they are now, that's downright waste of meat. Well,

RAYDERS TRIMMED ELLSWORTH QUINT

STUDENTS GAVE EXHIBITION COMMANDO TRAINING

Boyne City Plays Return Game on Local Floor Friday Night; Thriller Is Promised

Coach Kipke's Red Raylers took Friday night's game from Ellsworth on the local floor, 50 to 16. The Ellsworth players put up a good fight but were outclassed by the fast Charlevoix outfit.

Leading 20 to 6 at the quarter, Charlevoix held Ellsworth scoreless during the second period while tallying 13 points. Ellsworth made 4 points in the third stanza to Charlevoix's 10. The locals added 7 points during the final round to the visitors' 6.

Scoring for the Rayders were Carey, netting 11, Vratiuina 10, Swanson and Rowe 7 each, Gallagher and C. Bergmann 4, Plumm 3, Bellinger and Mitchell 2. Coach Kipke worked out twelve players during the game.

Ellsworth's scoring was led by Edson, making 10 points, Denny and Van Stedum 2 each. Three substitutions were made by the visitors.

In the preliminary game, the Wildcats, coached by Stewart Coleman, defeated Coach Kipke's second team by a score of 9 to 2.

Between preliminary and main event, was an exhibition of commando training given Charlevoix high school youths. Rope climbing, scaling a high board fence, crawling under low-placed obstacles, tumbling, leaping from the gymnasium balcony unto mats, and various forms of carrying their comrades were demonstrated by an enthusiastic and well-muscled crew.

Friday night's game with Boyne City on the home floor promises to be one of the best games so far this season. Suffering their only defeat of the year at the hands of the Ramblers three weeks ago, the Rayders are out to even the score.

PLAN SECOND CLASS IN BOAT-BUILDING

Non-Defense Employees Offered War Work Training

Training and preparation for war work will be offered to those now employed in non-defense industries, in a boat-building course conducted through cooperation of the Foster Boat Co, Charlevoix schools and the state board of control for vocational education.

Nineteen employees of the Foster Boat Co. are at present enrolled in a boat-building class under instruction of Walter Wick. If the course is to be retained, it is necessary that another class be organized at once.

Those now employed in non-defense work may receive 15 hours of instruction in every phase of boat-building at no charge. Machinery for the course is set up and in operation at the Foster Boat Co.'s plant in The Ian garage.

Further details of organization of the new class may be obtained from Wyatt Wilson, high school manual arts instructor, Mr. Wick, or at the school.

ONE AMENDMENT ON BALLOT THIS SPRING

Would Extend Term of Township Officers to Two Years

Voters at the April 5 election will have a chance to ballot on at least one proposal to amend the State Constitution.

The house last Wednesday passed and sent to the secretary of state a senate-originated resolution calling for a referendum on the proposal to amend the constitution so that township officers are elected for two years instead of one.

Rep. Floyd E. Town (R), Jackson, told the house that an attorney general's ruling provides that if the amendment is adopted, township officers elected April 5 will serve two years. If the amendment is rejected, their term of office will be for but one year, as at the present.

DANCE AT ST. MARY'S RECREATION POSTPONED

The square dance originally planned for this Saturday evening at St. Mary's Recreation Center has been postponed to next Saturday, February 27, to avoid conflict with the Washington's birthday party for benefit of the Charlevoix Service Organization. Members of the N. C. C. M. and N. C. C. W. and their friends are invited to enjoy the get-together next week.

T.M.T.M. CLUB HELD BASKETBALL SUPPER

Bethel Cruthers Was Presented Farewell Gift by Members

Girls of the T. M. T. M. Club held a basketball supper Friday night in the school dining room preceding the Ellsworth-Charlevoix game. Potluck refreshments were served at a red and white Valentine table, trimmed with red hearts of all sizes and cupid figures.

Twenty-six members, club sponsor Mrs. Margaret Theriault, and guest, Miss Eleanor Thomas, attended. Popular songs were sung after dinner until time for the basketball game. Bethel Cruthers, who is leaving soon to make her home in Port Huron, was presented with a gift.

Committees for the event were: decorating, Ione Wickersham, Audie Trimble, Marian Craig; food, Helen Jean Hammond, Susan Miller, Wanda Adams, Bethel Cruthers; clean-up, Jean Nelson, Mary Jane Usher, Davida Blake.

Another supper is planned for February 26 before the Charlevoix-Harbor Springs game.

DRAFT DELINQUENTS REPORTED BY BOARD

U. S. District Attorney in Grand Rapids Investigating Cases

The following named registrants of the Charlevoix county selective service board have been reported to the U. S. district attorney as delinquent because of their failure to comply with the selective service law. Anyone having information on these men should transmit such information to the United States attorney at grand Rapids or to the local board at Charlevoix at once.

Delinquents and their latest address are: Chester Allen Emerson, Camp Wolverine, Clarion; Charles Webster Bacon, general delivery, Albert Lea, Minn.; Chas. Barnes, Boyne Falls; George Scott, or, Charles Withers, Rt. 1, Charlevoix.

REGISTRATION FOR RATION BOOK TWO

FOUR DAYS NEXT WEEK AT HIGH SCHOOL

Applicants Must Bring Ration Book One; Point System Explained In Detail

Registration for war ration book two, through which processed foods will be distributed by the point system, will take place next week in the Charlevoix high school building, in the basement dining room.

Monday and Tuesday, February 22 and 23, registration will be conducted from 3:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday, February 24 and 25, registration will begin at 1:30 p. m. and continue until 8:30 p. m. School will be dismissed at noon on Wednesday and Thursday. Teachers will serve as registrars, as was the case at the time of registration for ration book one.

Those residing in districts where schools are closed and students are attending school in Charlevoix, will also register in this city. Other rural schools will make their own arrangements for registration.

For the convenience of rural residents who cannot register during the week, a group of teachers will be at the rationing board office from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on Saturday, February 27, to receive applications for the second ration book. However, those who can come in during the first four days of the week are asked to do so to avoid a rush of last-minute registrants.

RETURN RATION BOOKS FOR MEN IN SERVICE

Soldiers on Leave May Be Issued Special Point Certificate

Ration books issued for persons who have entered the armed service must be returned to the local war price and rationing board, is the reminder issued this week by officials of the board.

When rationing of processed foods becomes effective, no books will, of course, be issued to service men. However, the service man home on furlough for 7 days or longer may present his leave papers to the local rationing board, which will then issue a point certificate allowing enough points to cover his leave period. This point certificate will be accepted by grocers instead of point stamps. All points in the certificate must be used at one time.

CSO BENEFIT IS SATURDAY NIGHT

WASHINGTON ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELEBRATED

CSO Activities During 10 Months Have Played Definite Part in City's War Contribution

George Washington's birthday, February 22, will be celebrated Saturday night with a party at The Argonne.

Due to success of the President's Birthday Ball on January 30 for infantile paralysis fund benefit, by popular request another such party is planned for benefit of the Charlevoix Service Organization. William Supernaw heads the committee in charge of the event. Dallas Henry is arranging a program of entertainment over which he will preside as master of ceremonies.

Program as so far outlined includes songs and tap dancing by the Hamlin brothers, Mike and Charlie, songs and tap numbers by Donna and Doris Ouderkirk, vocal selections by Miss Betty Kaunitz, and other added local talent. Harmony will be furnished by the Medi-Chords, girls' trio.

Since its beginning in May, 1942, the Charlevoix Service Organization has played a definite and important part in this city's contribution to the war effort. Sponsoring and maintaining the USO service men's center in this city, conducting war bond and stamp sales, arranging send-off programs for county draftees, contributing to expense of Courier subscriptions to local men in service, arranging for transportation and lodging for draftees here from other cities in the county, sponsoring the display of service men's pictures in the Central Drug store window, are some of the many activities of the group.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the ball committee, or at W. H. Wallace service station and the Dallas Henry barber shop.

FATHER-SON BANQUET WAS THURSDAY NIGHT

Dr. William H. Helrigel Speaker At Annual Event

Patriotic decorations in keeping with Lincoln's birthday anniversary formed the setting for the annual Father and Son banquet, given Thursday evening by ladies of the W. S. C. S. at the Methodist church. One hundred and ten guests were present.

Rev. Leigh H. Hagle, toastmaster, introduced the speaker, Dr. William H. Helrigel, of Traverse City, district superintendent of the Methodist church. Dr. Helrigel's talk on Mexico was illustrated by colored motion pictures and he also showed films of his trip through Yellowstone National Park last summer. Charles and Mike Hamlin sang two humorous songs and the program closed with singing of "God Bless America" by the group.

Chairmen of committees for the event were: dining room, Mrs. Arthur Edwards; kitchen, Mrs. M. B. Hooker; tickets, Mrs. Frank F. Hird; menu, Mrs. Edward Heise, Mrs. W. H. Supernaw and Mrs. Emma Bogart.

MOTORISTS URGED TO PURCHASE LICENSES

No Extension of February 28 Deadline Can Be Granted

In view of the fact hundreds of Charlevoix motorists have but 10 days in which to purchase 1943 auto license tags, Fenton R. Bulow, local branch manager, urges car owners to act now to avoid the last minute rush.

Mr. Bulow announced that the license bureau office at the court house will be open all afternoon Saturday, February 20 and February 27. The office will be closed, however, on Monday, February 22, Washington's birthday and a legal holiday.

Motorists must retain their 1942 plates, to which the new tags are attached. Commercial licenses are in the form of windshield stickers, but last year's plates must not be removed from trucks.

MERCHANTS TO HEAR RATION INFORMATION

Business men of this area will meet at the court house in Petoskey Friday evening at 8 p. m., to receive information on the point rationing system of processed foods which goes into effect on March 1.

For Avon cosmetics and toilet articles, call your local Avon representative. Phone 388.—Adv. 5t4.

The meeting opened with the salute to the flag, Mrs. Jake White led devotions. Guest speaker was Rev. W. L. Cruthers, whose subject was "When Alcohol Challenges Freedom." Mrs. E. J. Hiller was in charge of the program in memory of Lincoln, which included a reading by Mrs. Freda Shupeck, "The Blue and the Grey"; a talk by Mrs. B. Saltonstall on songs of Stephen Foster in Lincoln's time; Lincoln's favorite poem, "When Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud," read by Mrs. William C. Palmer; and anecdotes of Lincoln by Mrs. Hiller. Tea and refreshments were served by the hostess.

INTANGIBLE TAX IS DUE MARCH 31

J. C. HARBAUGH TO ASSIST IN MAKING RETURNS

Taxable Intangible Property Is Described; All Governmant Bonds Are Exempt

J. C. Harbaugh, field examiner for the state department of revenue, will be in Charlevoix three days during the month of March to assist local residents in making out intangible tax returns. He will be here Monday, March 1, Thursday, March 18, and Monday, March 22, location to be announced later.

On or before March 31 some 50,000 or more Michigan residents will be required to pay their 1942 intangible tax to the Michigan department of revenue. Forms of return for reporting this tax have been mailed to all taxpayers of record and unless payment is made by March 31, delinquents will be subject to costly penalties.

The intangible tax is imposed on ownership of intangible personal property such as moneys on hand or on deposit, shares of stock, bonds, annuities, accounts and notes receivable, real estate and chattel mortgages receivable, land contracts receivable and similar obligations. War bonds and other government obligations, as well as state, county and municipal bonds are exempt.

Rates applied to the Michigan intangible tax are as follows; 6 per cent of income from all of the above described properties, but not more than three-tenths of 1 per cent of face, par or contributed value. Non-income producing intangibles are taxed at the rate of one-tenth of 1 per cent of face or par (not market) value or one dollar per thousand.

Sunday School Party

Members of the upper classes of the Congregational Sunday school will have their annual supper Monday night at the church. All members from the fourth grade up are invited.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Just a line to let you know my present address. I sure enjoy reading the home town paper, but have missed a few copies on account of moving so often.

Since leaving Charlevoix I have traveled practically all over the west. And of all places they have to drop me, it's here in no-man's land. All we can see is the mountains and sagebrush, and 15 miles from the nearest town.

Well, I've got to bust the chow-line or else!

Pvt. Jason E. Van Zant
100th Signal Co., Ser. Gp.
Army Air Base, Reno, Nev.

Dear Ken,

I am very sorry I have not written and thanked you for sending me the Courier. I have been so unsettled from moving around so much it has been very hard to write to anyone.

There has been a change in my address from Fort Meade, S. D. This country is not much to look at as all you can see is desert and mountains. We don't know how long we will be at this camp, it is just for desert training.

Pvt. Arland G. Howe,
Troop C, 4th Cavalry
Camp Young, Calif.

Hello, Ken,

Received a letter from a former Charlevoix resident, Edith C. Harris, who works at the Zenith Radio Corporation in Chicago. Said she read my recent letter in the Courier telling about my work in radio, so you see the little home town paper is pretty big after all. I wish to thank her very much for the letter and reference guide prepared by the Zenith Corporation, which has been valuable to me in radio.

We have quite a bit of servicing equipment now and the past month have been repairing home table models and portable sets the soldiers bring into the shop.

Am hunking with a bunch of Mexican boys from Texas and California, and you'd think you were in South America or Spain when they get talking. The other day I had one of them write a letter for me to my Spanish chum

TRAINS TO CONTINUE RUNNING WAR TIME

Mail Schedule One Hour Earlier As Clocks Turn Back

While Charlevoix, along with the rest of Michigan, set its clocks back to plain Eastern Standard Time on Monday of this week, railroads continue to operate on Eastern War Time. Mail schedules for the local post office are consequently one hour earlier than before the time change.

The northbound train arrives at 1:17 p. m., and mail for this train must be in the post office at 12:15 p. m. Southbound mail going at 3:03 p. m., must be in the post office by 2:15 p. m.

CHAPTER XVIII

Kelly, shedding his coat and hat, drew Cherry into the drawing room.

"You're hot!" he said anxiously. "Feel all right? You haven't caught cold?"

"No, I've been near a fire Kelly, what's happened?"

His hair was mussed; his eyes were dark with fatigue. He pot his arms about her, and their cheeks touched.

"What a comfortable person you are, Cherry!" he said. "But your face feels hot, sweetheart."

"Has it been horrible, Kelly?"

"Well, bad. Yes," he admitted. "But they don't believe her, Kelly?"

"They didn't for a while. I don't know what they believe now."

"You told them she was lying?"

"I told them the truth. I feel sorry for her, but I wish I knew what she's after."

"They'll not believe her," the girl said confidently.

"They didn't to begin with. But after several hours—you know, Cherry," Kelly said interrupting himself, "it occurred to me for the first time today what a conviction means to an innocent man. It happens. It's even happened when it was carried as far as execution."

"Oh, hush!" she said impotiently.

"Yes, I know. But I'm not talking about myself. I'm just saying that there have been cases of innocent men being convicted. It's the damnedest feeling. Evidence piling up, and men whose mentality isn't of the first order weighing it and misconstruing it and coming to their own conclusions. Hours going by and smoke thick in the air, and a woman as white as a sheet answering and sitting still and answering again. 'Mr. Coates and I had often said we wished my husband was out of the way.' 'Mr. Coates had told me of poisons, without ever mentioning that he thought we would ever use them,'"

"She didn't say that!"

"Over and over. She had them guessing, all right!"

"But what did you say?"

"That I had never had the slightest animosity toward the judge, that I couldn't understand Mrs. Marshbanks' statements . . . I only stopped in to see you a minute, dear, I'm on my way home; I'll be back tomorrow."

"Kelly!" Instinctively she clung to him, her eyes frightened. "Don't go away! If I could only go with you! If we could only be alone over there, out of all this, where it's cool and quiet, just by ourselves! If we could have a fire, talk and forget it all!"

"We will, Cherry. This won't last long. Before you know it we'll be heading for San Rafael, we'll get that license, and have lunch, and then go back to Topcole, and fuss around getting it ready . . ."

"It sounds like heaven!" she stammered, laughing through tears. Then she raised her face for his last kiss.

May stopped Cherry as she was slowly and thoughtfully mounting the stairs.

"Would you go in to see Mrs Jud, please?" the maid said.

Cherry's voice was all reluctance and distaste. "Did she ask to see me?"

"She did but not over Mr. Coates left. She w[illegible]pact we telephoned the doctor."

"Cherry," Fran said, in a fragile, quiet voice. "Sit down, won't you? Has Kelly been talking to you?"

"Yes, we were talking," Cherry said coldly. And then suddenly breaking, and sinking on her knees before the bed, "Fran, how could you! You know you had nothing to do with this all, and you know Kelly didn't!"

"I think I'm going crazy." Fran whispered, her eyes closed, her feverish hand tight on Cherry's. "I suddenly—suddenly wanted it all to be over—to be out of it! And Kelly had loved me, Cherry . . ."

Still acting, Cherry's heart, opened on a sudden impulse of hope and confidence, closed again in despair.

"What do you think they will do?" Fran breathed the question, not opening her eyes.

"I don't know what they'll do, I know it will ruin his life," Cherry answered bitterly.

"Oh, no, no, not Oh, my head!" Fran murmured. "Amy's here," she announced faintly.

"Yes, I know." Cherry sat back on her heels, chilled and weary. "They stopped off here on their way to Del Monte," she said.

"They're not on their way anywhere until they find out the meaning of that notice from Comstock. I never knew anyone to show his hand quite as plainly as Gogo did!"

"You saw him?"

"No, but she came in here a few minutes ago to find you. She'd been crying. And married yesterday!"

"She wanted me?"

"Yes. It seems Gogo couldn't wait to go down to the office tomorrow, and telephoned the lawyer tonight, Comstock's coming up at half past eight. He asked Gogo if he knew how to get in touch with you, and Gogo said you were right here."

"Tonight!"

"And Cherry," Fran said, opening her tired beautiful eyes, "about this other thing, don't judge me too hard! I never would have dragged Kelly in. They did that—these great husky beasts of men—asking me question after question!"

"But why should you say you did it, Fran?" Cherry demanded simply.

"Because I did it," Fran persisted. "Or at least I know who did!" she added half aloud. "Or at least I think I do."

"But you wouldn't say who did it to protect Kelly, Fran?"

"Why should I? Nobody's protecting me. I'm sick of the whole thing." Fran tossed on her pillows.

"I think I'm going out of my mind!" she said in a whisper.

"I'm going down to dinner, Cherry," she added, "I can't stay here and think or I'll go mad!"

At dinner they all talked trivialities by fits and starts. When the lawyers arrived Cherry and Gogo and Amy took them into the drawing room, and sat solemnly facing them.

George Comstock opened a long envelope and took from it another long envelope. He asked which of the young women was Amelia Marshbanks, and, upon Amy claiming the title, handed it ceremoniously to her.

Amy opened it. The lawyer then stretched his hand for it, and she surrendered it obediently enough. He read it aloud:

"My dear daughters, if both of you survive until the day set for the reading of this will," it began. Cherry's head was rocking.

". . . beg you, my daughters, who read this, to believe that it was only the conviction that my child by my wife could not possibly survive, and my hope that the substitution of Charlotte's baby in her place would be an act of charity to all concerned . . ."

It was true. The expressions on the faces of the others told her; she was Amelia Marshbanks, Amy was Charlotte Rawlings. The long mystery had come to its end . . .

The voices about Cherry seemed suddenly loud and confusing. She remembered saying, "Air!" and then everything was blackness.

Cherry awoke three days later to a new world. She had been vaguely, uncomfortably conscious of what was going on about her through long nights and sleepy days. Now it was morning.

"May, I feel wonderful," she suddenly said to the maid. "Was I very sick?"

"Well, we had the doctor come in once," May said, "and then yesterday he looked in when he was here to see Mrs. Marshbanks."

"Was Mr. Coates here?"

"Right along until this morning. He want home to get some sleep. He's coming back. Mrs. Marshbanks," May pursed with a jerk of her head toward Fran's room, "retracted. That's what they call it. She confessed and then she said he did it, and then she retracted that."

A great wave of utter thankfulness and peace to match the relief of her body went through Cherry's soul.

"Mrs. Marshbanks said she'd not been telling the truth?"

"Said she didn't know what she'd been saying. She and Mr. Coates had a long talk about it yesterday."

"Oh, my God. I thank thee!" Cherry said, in her soul. Her breakfast had come; she fell upon it ravenously.

Cherry finished her coffee and the tray was taken away. She lay lazily looking about, going from a half sleep into a real sleep and waking much later to see Kelly sitting watching her.

"Feeling all right?" he asked. May tells me you had some breakfast. Good girl."

"It's so good to see you!" she said with a little effort. "Don't—don't go away."

"You are the Marshbanks heiress. Your Grandfather Wellington left you a pot of money."

"That was really true then?"

"That was really true. Your father, Frederick Marshbanks, left an unequivocal statement, and old Judge Comstock, the one who died, also left a paper confirming it. Your father believed you were dying; his wife had taken the other child to her heart, and as time went by I suppose it grew harder and harder to think of undoing it all."

"What's Gogo doing?"

"He's keeping very mum. But he looks years older."

"What will Amy have, Kelly? What money will she have?"

The next visitor, unannounced, was old Mrs Marshbanks. She came in carrying her knitting, spoke quietly to Cherry as if this were the most natural procedure in the world, and seated herself comfortably near the bed.

"Amy came into my room a few minutes ago," said the old lady, "to tell me that you had made her a very generous offer."

"She won't accept it," Cherry told her.

"She may not have any choice," said her grandmother dryly. "She mentioned it to him, and I gathered that it made a big difference in his plans. Amy's married now to a man in whose country women don't count at all. He'll accept or he'll refuse things, he'll do the deciding, from now on."

Cherry's face brightened as Kelly appeared in the doorway. He spoke to the old lady, asking her solicitously of her health.

"Well," Kelly said, "I came in here with news this afternoon, ladies. Dreadful news, and yet news that is going to be a relief to us all. The mystery is over. They have made—or they are making at this moment—an arrest."

"Fran!" both women whispered together.

"Not Fran, no. But Fran knew all the time—What's that?"

"What would have been enough and more than enough for you and me, Marchioness."

The name brought back her color and her smile.

"Not the Porter money. But she'll have some of the money he left her long ago. And the legacy the judge left, supposedly to you. She is you, now. And what her grandmother can leave her. Plenty. Plenty, if she hadn't brought Gogo in."

Cherry's eyes were far away; she spoke thoughtfully: "Kelly, have I quite a lot of money?"

"You have indeed, Marchioness. Under a capitalistic system you have done well. I don't know how much. It'll take weeks to get things straightened out."

Kelly watched for a moment the pale cheeks and dropped eyelashes, and then telling her not to worry about anything, he went quietly out.

Dozing and waking, and sometimes seeing May quietly busy in the room, and once seeing Kelly's silhouette against the window, Cherry let the day slip by in utter rest and peace. But she was wide awake, and feeling more like herself every minute when at dusk the door opened softly, and Amy looked in.

"Oh, I wanted to see you, Amy!"

The girl came in with a perfunctory smile, a perfunctory question about Cherry's health. She went at once to a chair at the window and balanced herself on its wide arm.

"Well, the way I've seen you handle a tractor, Bob, you ought to be right at home in one of those tanks. You're going to like the service—they're a great bunch of fellows. Just last week I went down to camp to see a young nephew of mine and he introduced me to some of his buddies. Fine fellows—real he-men just like you and Bill and George—from good American homes. Handle themselves well, too.

"You know I've been checking up on it, Bob, and I've found out that the American army today is healthier, better disciplined, better trained, better taken care of than it has ever been in its history. No Need To Worry If Your Car Is

Any friendly mechanic will tell you that a good lubricating oil is a big help in stretching your gasoline mileage and in guarding against winter wear.

Correct winter lubrication -- the sort you get with world-famous Mobiloil Arctic -- reduces heavy engine drag. It makes your car start and run easier, and helps save gasoline, particularly in starting. When your car sits idle, oil has a tendency to drain from the cylinders. But Mobiloil clings to every surface, maintaining a tough, protective film. This means pistons slide freely. And the engine turns over easier -- uses less gasoline -- when you step on the starter.

But even more important, pistons and cylinders are protected against scuffing. There's no unnecessary engine wear. Mobiloil Arctic also resists carbon and sludge formation, which might corrode pistons and valves and do a lot of damage. Rather than run needless risks, millions of wartime motorists insist upon Mobiloil Arctic, the world's largest-selling winter motor oil. No need to worry if your car is completely Mobilized. Do it NOW.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act. No. 200 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 120 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any instalment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

FAIRVIEW-BANKS

"There is many a thing tha farmar can do,
To see our land of liberty through,
We men and women out the farms,
Can also answer the call to arms,
We got to see there is plenty to eat,
For our boys of the wings and marching feet,
We got to feed them, the men who fight
And then you can bet we'll lick 'em all right."

Looka as if this winter is going to satisfy quite fully some of us old-timers who huve for the past few years sort of lamented the fact that we don't have the snow as we used to have it years ago.

January annual thaw came a week late this year, as we had it the first week in February. We had some rain Wednesday which settled the snow quite a bit, but we got some more of the "beautiful" Thursday. But spring is just around the corner.

RECORDS ARE IMPORTANT!

Income taxes are so heavy that it is advisable to keep careful track of every legitimate deduction. At tax-filing time, March 15th each year, it is often impossible to recall all the payments you made, such as taxes, interest, donations, etc. which are legally deductible on your return. A checking account supplies a permanent record plus proof of all such payments, if they are made with checks. An account is also very helpful in keeping personal and household records, in working out budgets and in combatting the mounting cost of living.

ENROLL CIVILIANS AS FOREST FIRE WORKERS

Want 10,000 Volunteers for 1943 Summer Season

Enrollment of 10,000 civilian volunteers to fight forest fires next summer is the goal of a campaign by civilian defense, conservation department and federal forest service officials in 16 upper peninsula communities next week.

Enrollment will be conducted while snows are still deep, to allow adequate time for training volunteers before the spring forest fire hazard develops early in April. A year ago 7,000 volunteers were enrolled in the department's own Forest Fire Cooperaters system, and re-enlistment of these north-country residents is sought now. Shortage of experienced labor makes the need for civilian cooperation acute.

Since December the state's timber supplies have been officially rated as "war material," and damage to them is subject to heavy federal penalties.

Detailed Information Given by Speaker Upon Request

Fred W. Bancroft, social service member of the local war price and rationing board, has announced a plan whereby clubs, church societies and other groups may obtain detailed explanation of the point rationing system to go into effect March 1.

Club members may make request to the rationing board for a guest speaker, who will give complete information on the point system, and answer any questions in regard to rationing of food.

Deer License Sales High

With some late accounts yet to be considered, the conservation department has collected for 215,292 of the 1942 deer hunting licenses—far in excess of the most optimistic preseason estimates and only 2,134 short of license sales at the same time a year earlier, when the privilege of killing does for camp deer distinguished Michigan's season of record deer license sales.

BANKS AND THE WAR

Banking's Manpower

America's banks have felt the impact of war from many sides. They have been called upon to perform numerous war services, such as selling War Bonds, purchasing the Treasury's securities and financing war production. On the other side of the ledger it is interesting to see what is happening to Banking's man (and woman) power. Of a total of 280,000 bank staff members, 70,000 were lost to war production and armed services in 1942. The American Bankers Association estimates that 100,000 more will go in 1943. The road ahead looks rough, but Banking will "carry on."

SHOT AT RANDOM

It's a common human fault to lock the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

When a middle-aged man finds himself getting fat, he trains his muscles and balance to swing his added weight neatly through doors and around corners. Thus he does not block narrow passageways and inconvenience others. Not so much can be said, unfortunately, for the average fattening woman.

See that Harold "Pete" Hallett was up from the city over the week end to look the old home town over.

Don't know how the rest of you felt about it, but to me, getting up Monday morning in daylight was a very pleasant experience, indeed, after the winter blackout.

Lacking time to write a personal letter, I'm passing this information on for the benefit of Sidney Loewenstein of Chicago: Don Clothier's address is Otsego Hotel, Jackson, Mich.

Washington's birthday isn't until Monday, February 22, but it's going to be celebrated Saturday night at The Argonne at a party being given to raise funds for the CSO. Can you think of any organization more worthy than the CSO after careful appraisal of its efforts in behalf of local men in the armed forces? Well, then, nuff said!

If at Monday's election there'd been a company of armed Gestapo guards outside the city hall with the grim intention of keeping the voters out of the polls, said voters would have torn down the walls to get in and exercise their right to vote as citizens of the republic. But such is the nature of men that since there wasn't any argument about it, nobody bothered.

"Eat it up, wear it out, fix it up—or do without," the motto by which the early American colonies prospered and became strong, might well be the watchword of America at war today.

It is essential that applicants for ration book two bring with them to the place of registration all ration book 1's for their household. One person may register for the entire family. An inventory of canned, dried or frozen foods on hand must also be furnished, as each household is limited to five eight-ounce cans per person at the time of registration. No limit is placed on the family supply of fresh fruits and vegetables, home canned foods, and other items which are not rationed.

An exhibit of processed foods will be placed in the registration room, and Fred W. Bancroft, social service member of the rationing board, will be present to explain the point rationing system to those who register. Careful budgeting of points will be required under the new system, although each person is allowed enough points for a healthful, balanced diet.

Canned, dried, frozen and bottled foods will be "frozen" at midnight Saturday, February 20, and will again go on sale at 12:01 a. m. Monday, March 1. Consumers are reminded to have an adequate supply of food on hand for next week.

When rationed foods again go on sale, grocers will post official lists of point values. The number of points for each kind of processed food will be the same in all stores and in all parts of the country.

In the 9th Signal.

Well, Ken, will be closing now, but if I ever get a chance to go over I shall do my best to "keep 'em flying."

Pvt. Charles J. Krulik,
101st Sig. Co. (S. G.)
C. A. A. B.
Columbia, S. C.

Charley enclosed a letter in Spanish, but us we habla no Espanol we no can make it out. Buenos gracias anyway, Charley. Try us in pig Latin.

Dear Ken,

I'm not so good when it comes to writing letters, but will try to write a note. I really have thought of doing this for some time, but just couldn't put myself to the task.

I feel a little ashamed of myself for not writing sooner, thunking you for sending the paper. It really means a lot to me and to all of us boys who are away from home.

I find the address of most of the boys, but it would take too long to write to all, so I'll just send my regards to all of those who are across and wish them the best of luck. I have begun to wonder if I will ever get across to help out.

Well, Ken, there really isn't much to write about in this camp, so will just thank you again and sign off until a later date.

Sincerely,
Pfc. Charles R. Mitchell,
Co. B, 31st Med. Regt.,
Camp Barkeley, Texas.

Hi Ken,

I received the paper today and just happened to think my address has been changed, so thought I had better let you know. It is now: Pvt. Orville W. Shananquet, 36401777; IV Corps Prov. Ord. Co., Bks. 10-51, Camp Claiborne, La.

I want to thank you and the CSO for the thoughtfulness of sending the paper to the boys in the service, and believe me, Ken, we all appreciate it more than words can describe.

The weather here in La. is getting pretty rough. As a matter of fact, it was a sea of mud this morning and what a mess for shoes, it sticks like glue.

By the way, are there any fish caught yet. I mean through the ice. That is one sport I always enjoyed.

Well, Ken, I will have to close for now, I am running out of gossip. Oh, yes, I found Robert Gill the other day and it sure was good to see one of the home town fellows.

So long, Ken
Pvt. Orville W. Shananquet.

No ice fishing yet, Orville—Round lake is not frozen solid.

Dear Ken,

Just by chance today a Charlevoix Courier came into my hands and it certainly was a pleasure to read all about the "home folks" and the other boys in the service. As fur us I know there are no Charlevoix boys in this camp, although East Jordan and Boyne City are represented. I see some of them quite often.

I have a good job. I have charge of the officers mess and am also officers steward. My rating seems slow in coming through, but some day it will get here. I don't care so much anyhow, because I like the job and my colonel said I had done an excellent job, so that's quite satisfying in itself.

I understand home has had some real winter. It's been as low as 0 above zero here and that's cold after being used to Florida.

Well, Ken, there's no news of special interest, so for this time will stop this chatter.

Sincere best wishes to all of Charlevoix.

Pvt. Carl C. Himebaugh,
H/S Co., 67th Med. Regt.
Camp Barkeley, Texas.

Dear Ken,

I have just had my mail passed out to me and in it arrived the Courier for the second time. I want to say how much I appreciate receiving it, and to thank you and the Charlevoix Service Organization for sending it. I enjoy reading what all my friends are doing and all of the home town news. I have been having a hard time finding someone from Michigan here, I have met no one from Charlevoix yet, but would sure like to.

I enlisted in the navy in November, took my training in Great Lakes and am now stationed here at the naval air station in Norfolk. The base is very nice and to me the weather has been mild after living in Charlevoix for so long, but I would sure trade all of the nice wenther here to be back in Charlevoix, snow and all.

The band here at the base hasn't as yet been organized, but I am looking forward to it beginning soon now. There are about 25 musicians here, and among them are some who are real professionals. One fellow played with Kay Kyser and originated the hit tunes "Three Little Fishes" and also "Playmates."

I tried to see Robert Bergmann while I was at Great Lakes, but was not permitted out of my camp so missed seeing him. I was very lucky getting a ten-day leave at Christmas time, allowing me to spend Christmas with my parents. They sent all musicians out of training four weeks before the others, otherwise I would have been in camp over Christmas. The rest of our company sure considered us lucky fellows.

That is about all the news here that I would be permitted to write about, although since being here at the air base I have no doubt that victory is very close, and that our little "slant-eyed friends" are doomed.

Thanks again for the Courier, and good luck.

Sincerely yours,
Warren Helms Mus. 2c V6

Charlevoix County Youth Farm Labor Committee Announced

Activity toward making available sufficient labor to harvest all crops in 1943 was started last week Friday when the county farm labor council met with A. G. Kettunen, representative of the state committee. This committee consisted of Walter Rice, Petoskey representative of the U. S. Employment Service; Walter H. Henley, representative of the county war board; W. C. Palmer, county school commissioner; Mrs. Katherine Dilworth, representative of the defense council, and B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent. From its membership the committee selected B. C. Mellencamp as chairman, and Mrs. Dilworth as secretary.

Charlevoix county farmers were among nearly 2,200 Michigan farmers to receive special recognition last week at Michigan State College's Farmers Week observance. Honors were awarded for contributions to 1942 farm war production within the state as a stimulus to another year of striving for a greater "food for freedom" output.

Those given certificates for the award of merit were Ira Bartlett, George Jaquay, Joseph Leu, William Shepard, East Jordan; M. C. Bricker, Lewis McIntire, Boyne City; Hubbard Bros., Boyne Falls.

Meetings to Assist Farmers in Filing Income Tax Returns

Due to the fact that many farmers have never filed an income tax return before and are finding it difficult to know how to complete the return, a series of four meetings are being arranged for next week, beginning February 23rd.

The first meeting will be in the Charlevoix court room (upstairs at 1:00) on Tuesday, February 23rd. The second meeting at Boyne Falls high school (science room, basement) at 1:00 Wednesday, February 24th. The third meeting at East Jordan (City building) at 1:00 Thursday, February 25th. Fourth meeting at Boyne City high school (room 1, upstairs) at 1:00 Friday, February 26th.

It is felt that farmers might be able to get their report completed in this one half day or at least so nearly finished that it can be easily completed later. Each farmer should bring with him complete information in regard to income and expenses so that they can be recorded in their proper place as we discuss the various items.

Income under average conditions would be from cream, eggs, crops, livestock and miscellaneous. Under expenses, separate the expenses into hired labor, feed purchased, seeds, repairs and maintenance, machinery hired, fertilizer and lime, veterinary and medicine for livestock, gas and other fuel, taxes, interest and automobile upkeep.

In order to help individuals, your agent will be available in the forenoon of each day at the same locations, but in the afternoon from 1:00 it will be an open forum where all of those present can make their own individual returns.

POINT VALUES CANNED FOOD ANNOUNCED BEFORE RATION

PROCESSED FOODS ON SALE NEXT MONDAY

Careful Budgeting of Food Points Necessary; 48 Points Monthly Individual Allowance

As point rationing of processed food becomes effective next Monday, March 1, Charlevoixons along with the rest of the nation will begin to wrestle with a budget of food points as well as food dollars and cents.

Published in this issue is a list of point values of the most widely sold canned foods. These values nre effective for the month of Mnrch. Chnages in points will be gnde prohably not oftener than once a month, and will be the snme at all stores in all parts of the country.

As each individual is allowed a totnl of 48 points a month, shopping needs must be plnnned in advance in order to obtain the fullest possible nutritional value from the foods which may be purchased. Budgeting of the points on n weekly bnsis by adding total number of pnints for the family nnd dividing by number of weeks in the rntion period will nid in keeping within the point nllownnce.

Use of fresh fruits and vegetnbles ond other non-rationed foods will help to mnke the point nllowance cover fnmily needs. Cereals are nourishing nnd not rationed. Home cnnning of fruits and vegetnbles will also stretch the fnmily budget.

Whenever possiblo, use the 8 nnd 5-point stamps in rntion book two before using those of smnller value. The grocer cannot give "change" in stamps. Loose stamps cannot be accepted by grocers.

Rationed processed foods may be exchnnged, lent or borrowed with other consumers without using point stamps. Exchnage must be mnde for foods of equal point value, so thnt no one will he unintentionally robbed of some points. If someone in the family is ill nnd needs special food, application may be mnde to the local rationing board for a point certificate which requires a doctor's certifientlon that added rations are necessary. Any person may do the buying for n family.

Although point values of many foods may appear to be high, by careful plnnning and use of nonrationed foods, everyono should have a diet sufficient for health.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

H. G. Tallman brought an honest-to-goodness live butterfly he had caught outdoors into the office Friday. While I'll admit it was a nice winter day, that was no excuse for a butterfly to be out and now I know why someone once upon a time titled a song "Poor Butterfly."

"Once a Charlevoixan, always a Charlevoixan," says I, and for the proof there's A. M. Clark, now a resident of Gloucester, Mass., who writes as follows: "It is a pleasure to read your paper every week, even though I have been away from Charlevoix for 30 years. And the first news of 'Shantytown' on Round lake makes me wish I was there to enjoy fishing."

Due to gas rationing and perhaps a lingering desire to get in maybe a couple or three trout fishing trips next spring on the tires I now have, I got outside the city limits Sunday for the first time since early January. I had anticipated there being lots of snow, but what I saw in places was beyond my most reckless imagination. The Ellsworth-Atwood road, for instance, generally considered a main highway, was open in many places for only one-way traffic. It was like driving through a roofless tunnel. Cross roads plowed in previous winters were completely snow-bound and, from the congregation of cars at intersections with the main highway, it appears that farmers had parked their cars there and then walked in to their homes. Well, another week will bring March and then it won't be long—until.

Speaking about weather, our January and February thaws must have been combined into the period from Friday through Tuesday. Beautiful, bright, warm days they were. The snow settled appreciably—even could see a patch of grass here and there.

Noticing that the liquor control commission now allows the sale of

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

A line or two before taps. I thought you'd like to know what they do down here at this brain factory where I go to school. It sure is a lot different than basic at Camp Crowder. No more getting up at the early hour of 5:30, stand inspection and be on the go until 6 p. m. No sir. Here we live like kings—anyway princes. We have the night clerk in the Y.M.C.A. call us at 6:45 and we have until 8 o'clock to get to school.

We eat breakfast at the University of Georgia dining hall, Denmark Hall. Then at school we have to slave for 7 hours. We have one lecture a day, one hour, on radio theory, which is easy. It is merely mathematics and some new words to remember. We are supposed to know why, how and why not a radio works when we get through.

Then we have two hours of typing where it's like high school, lessons to hand in, finger exercises, etc. We have to develop a speed of 35 words per minute in 5 months and I've already got 47, so you see how hard I'll have to work in that. Then we have 4 hours of code every day. The progress chart shows that a student should have a receiving speed of 9 words after 4 weeks but I've got on the 22 words tape already so I'm going fast enough I guess.

We've just started to learn sending and so far have had wrist exercises and a few letters, 17 to be exact but if you really get the alphabet learned correctly it is only a matter of building up your speed. I have 4 more months to get up to 25 words per minute which is the requirements of a high speed operator so I think I'll make it. Of course that's pretty fast when you figure that most of the "hams" you hear on your own radio are using about 12 to 15 w. p.m. and it seems pretty fast to you.

We've taken some swell pictures of the historical spots and other points of interest. This city (18,000 normal population) is right in the path of Sherman's march from Atlanta to the sea.

CHAPTER XIX

"I'm not planning to give you back your money, Amy," Cherry said. "But I want you to let me at least pay off those debts and promises that Gog made when he thought be was going to have it."

"He never asked me for money," Amy stated lifelessly.

"I know he didn't. But it's there, enough at least to get him into the clear. And for the rest. Amy, why do we have to let anyone know that we ever changed names? Why not just let that part go? You're married now; your name is different. And Kelly and I . . ."

Amy's tear-swollen eyes brightened into a half interest. "I knew you were crazy about Kelly," she said somberly.

"I only mean this, Amy. Take some of it. I don't want it or need it! Pay off these bills, and then let me send you an allowance . . ."

"You're very kind, Cherry," Amy broke in decisively, "but I couldn't. It wouldn't solve anything. I know you mean well . . ."

"Now listen," Cherry interrupted in her turn. "Don't be so silly. Suppose you went to Gogo now and said that while things never would be as they were, you could clear up his debts."

"Cherry," Amy said in a whisper, suddenly breaking, "if only I hadn't married him! You don't know how fast Gogo spends money! He'll lose two or three thousand in one race, or one evening at roulette! Once he lost twenty-seven thousand in one night!"

"You'll not put up with that forever, Amy," Cherry said seriously.

"No; I know I won't," Amy said quickly.

"You'll want to come back some day," Cherry went on.

"I know." Amy's whisper was almost inaudible. "He doesn't deny that he wouldn't have married me if it hadn't been for the money," she said.

"Then why not try, Amy, since money will make a difference, why not try putting this plan to him. All his debts paid, and an allowance."

A silence. Then Amy said, "But why should you do this, Cherry?"

"Oh, why shouldn't I?" Cherry asked in return. "I want to. I'll never feel that I'm really Amelia Marshbanks any more than you'll ever feel that you're Charlotte Rawlings. It'll always seem as much yours as mine, and I think that's the way—that's the way, perhaps," Cherry went on, suddenly shy, "that he—that our father—would want it to be."

"After all, we are sisters, and so it's not fair," Amy said, with a return of her sullen manner.

"Amy," Cherry said suddenly. The other girl looked up wearily and without hope. "You wouldn't want Gogo to go away and leave you?" Cherry asked. "You wouldn't want to end it all here and now?"

She had gone too far. Amy's head went up in anger and pride.

"Why, of course I wouldn't!" she said coldly. "I'm his wife. I'm the Countess Constantino, after all. No, we'll work it out some way," Amy finished, rising, "without your help, Cherry, but many thanks to you just the same."

A scream; dreadful in its pitched violence: a woman's shrieking, "No, no, no!" had rung through the quiet of the late afternoon. Kelly abruptly left the room. There was a moment's terrible silence, and then Fran's voice, hysterical and choked with tears: "No, no, no! They shan't! My darling, they shan't! You didn't do it! I did!"

Then silence again except for a low, indistinguishable murmur of men's voices downstairs. Cherry and old Mrs. Marshbanks remained motionless, their eyes fixed on each other. The older woman had collapsed into her chair, her face was ghastly.

After an endless moment Kelly, breathless, came back into the room, his face grave.

"They've arrested Fran?" Cherry managed to ask.

"No, not Fran. They told me twenty minutes ago, after they had him," Kelly said. "But they asked me to wait for half an hour and to be with you and Mrs. Marshbanks when they made the arrest, and told Fran. No; we've all been blind as bats, Cherry. It was right under our eyes, all the time. It was Rousseau."

"Rousseau!" the old woman's voice had resonance, like a bell.

"Rousseau!" Cherry whispered.

Kelly spoke quietly, shrugging, his arm about Cherry.

"He and Fran have been lovers for months," he said.

"Kelly, he's a boy! He's not twenty!"

"He's eighteen. But he gave his age as twenty when the judge hired him about a year ago.

"Their affair began back in April," Kelly went on. "From the very first she liked him, made a friend of him. He fell madly in love with her, of course; that wasn't so strange. But Fran became completely infatuated with him too. They began to plan days in the country; she just mothering him at first, advising him. And then, a few months ago, she gave in, and since then—poor girl!— He was the stronger—Mullins told me all this an hour ago when I came back—he was the stronger, and whenever he suspected anything like lovemaking between her and the judge or anyone else he threatened to kill her and himself."

Cherry could only listen wide-eyed while Kelly went on. "That last night," he was saying, "Rousseau was in a fury because the judge had told him that he must be prompter when they called him. He and Fran had been off all day, heaven knows where! And then to have to turn back into the servant again, to drive them to Burlingame and wait, with the other chauffeurs—it was too much for him! He was beside himself with his idolatry of her, he couldn't bear the thought of her being down there with her husband, dancing, being admired, perhaps spending the night at the club. He's only a young boy, of course, and the tastes of luxury that Fran gave him demoralized him, of course. She bought him silk shirts, extravagant lounging robes and neckties, gave him money . . ."

"He said his mother was rich and ran a big hotel and she sent them to him!" May put in. She had come in to light Cherry's lamps.

"That night the judge asked him to take the revolver and clean it," Kelly said, "reproved him for laziness and told him that he and Mrs. Marshbanks were going on a little holiday to Mexico City and would not take him or the car. The poor young fool blurted out that he loved her, that she had belonged to him for months, that he was going to give up his position and find work worthy of her.

"He says the judge lunged at him, across the desk, and that he fired.

"It may have happened that way."

"Fran!" Cherry gasped. The older woman was apparently incapable of speech.

"Fran knew immediately," Kelly went on. "She heard their voices and was halfway down the stairs when the end came. Rousseau only had to slip out, go to his room over the garage, partly undress and come running in with the others, as he did. By that time she'd rushed into the library and, I suppose, wiped the gun on her dressing gown with the feeling that there might be fingerprints on it."

"He was the one person we never thought of because he was here, right under our eyes," Cherry marveled.

"But, Kelly, whatever made them first suspect him? What gave him away?"

"One thing, they said, and then when they began to smell a rat, everything else fell in line. Especially when they planted him."

"And what was the plant?"

"Their taking Fran. That was all a plant to see what he'd do. He loves her, you know, and the minute he thought she was in trouble he began all sorts of maneuvers to draw them off. He invented a strange Chinese who'd been hanging around the kitchen. He invented a telephone call that he'd taken that evening at 8 o'clock. He made up a conversation with the judge that he'd had in which the judge said that 'an old enemy' whose prison term was just up had written him threatening letters.

"Mullins says they asked him finally—sort of carelessly, he said—if he knew the judge and Mrs. Marshbanks occupied separate bedrooms. That was, Rousseau answered, he believed to be not an unusual arrangement among Americans. But it was one to which the elderly husband of a handsome young woman might object, they suggested. And that made him flush up, poor kid, and he said he knew that the judge had agreed to that, indeed he had suggested it. Well, Mullins didn't show any surprise at the chauffeur knowing an intimate detail like that, but he went off on a side line—Rousseau's salary, days off, friends here—all that sort of thing. Had he a sweetheart? Yes, back in France. When were they to be married? As soon as she could come to America. Her name? Marie La Crosse.

"Mullins let him think everything was satisfactory, but he went and had a look for Rousseau's naturalization papers. He hadn't any. He came over as a cabin boy and jumped ship in New York. He's been in this country five years, which would make him a little short of fourteen when he got here. His story struck Mullins as queer all through. It seemed odd that a boy that age should be engaged when he left home, but Mullins says he doesn't know anything about French marriages, so he cabled our consul at Lyons, and they got hold of the prefect of police and asked for the address of Marie La Crosse. There was some delay, and then the answer came back that Charles Rousseau's aunt, Marie La Crosse, was still living with his parents just outside of Lyons. After that everything pointed one way!"

"And Fran loves him!" Cherry mused. "But the thing I can't forgive her, Kelly," she added with spirit, "is that she would have got you into it!"

"She was only sparring for time, then. She gave those letters to the police herself. But, as you know, there wasn't anything in them," the man said. "That was just a blind."

"Kelly, will they hang him?" the girl asked fearfully.

"Mullins says probably not. He's only a kid to begin with, and it wasn't premeditated. No; they'll give him a pretty stiff sentence and she'll spend all the time he's in jail working for him, comforting him. It's the end of Fran, of course, as far as her present life and friends and ways of living go."

"And it's over!" Cherry said, in a wondering voice.

"Yep. No more Marshbanks mystery. He's signed a full confession and turned over to them some of her letters."

"Oh, Kelly," Cherry breathed on a long note of relief, "can you believe that the men will get out of the house, and that we'll have nothing else to do but be married! Oh, and it's going to be spring, and I'm going to . . ."

"You still have to talk me over to this plot, Marchioness," Kelly said, as she paused.

"Well, I think if you'll send me up some tea, May, I'll go to my room," said old Dora Marshbanks, rising somewhat stiffly.

"Ah, stay here, Gran," Cherry said, "and we'll all have tea together. Maybe Amy'll come in too, and we'll talk plans."

"I know someone else who wants to talk plans," the old woman said, with a glance at Kelly.

"But there's no hurry," Cherry said, laughing. She had been sitting up in bed. Now like a joyous child she collapsed, slender, silk-clad body, loose mop of gold-and-tan-streaked hair, fragrant, warm young cheek against him.

Laughing, she put up her face for his kiss. "After Monday week Kelly and I'll have all the time there is together!" she said. "Won't we Kelly?"

"Just as you say, Marchioness," Kelly answered meekly.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, there's been quite a bit of talk going around about prohibiting liquor in various spots around the country... around the Army camps for one thing. What do you make of it?"

"Well, Henry, I size it up about like this. It looks to me like the folks who are doing the talking are shooting a little bit higher than most people seem to realize. Sort of like the salesman who gets his foot in the door and before you know it he's sold you a bill of goods. Wouldn't surprise me a bit if what they're really aiming for is to take in the whole country again. We all know it didn't work the last time. All we got was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus racketeers, gangsters and the worst crime wave the country ever saw.

The engineers who build America's automobiles say proper care can stretch car life fifty percent. Yes, ten simple rules will do the job. Knowing this, millions of motorists prefer high-quality Mobiloil, the world's largest-selling motor oil.

Mobiloil Arctic gives exceptional lubrication, guarding every vital engine surface with a tough, protective film of all times — even during cold starts and fast warm-ups. Mobiloil is refined for extra purity, too, and thus resists dangerous carbon and sludge formation. STATE OF MICHIGAN

In the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix in Chancery

In the Matter of the Petition of Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in Chancery:

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petiton under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act. No. 296 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

FARMERS are again being asked to increase or maintain high production schedules. That is the farmers' big job in helping to win the war.

It is a Bank's job to cooperate with farmers and provide them with financial aid when it is needed.

This Bank is in an excellent position to provide prompt, economical, and intelligent credit service to farmers.

We invite inquiries from those who could use to advantage additional funds to increase their production of food or livestock.

NOTICE

Credit at Retail Outlets Prohibited by Petroleum Directive No. 62

Quote: "Commencing Feb. 1st, 1943, no person shall directly or indirectly grant or accept or participate in the granting or accepting of credit in connection with the sale of any petroleum products by or through any Retail Outlet."

In compliance with the new regulation by the United States government, it will be necessary that granting of credit at our station be discontinued.

The only exception to this regulation is that credit may be extended to United States, any State, or political subdivision in motor vehicles displaying T ration stickers.

As much as you may be inconvenienced by the discontinuation of our pleasant credit relation, we are confident that you will accept this new condition in the same spirit in which you have made other sacrifices in behalf of our ALL OUT effort. May we continue to serve you.

Billions for Victory

Quietly, behind the scenes, the great battle of war-production financing is being fought and won. America's banks are in the forefront of this vital war activity. A survey recently made by the American Bankers Association shows that 421 of the nation's 15,000 banks have already loaned more than 5 billion dollars for war production. The total for all banks must reach astronomical figures. These billions spell Victory for our cause — disillusionment and defeat for our enemies. If you need funds, by all means apply here.

SHOT AT RANDOM

only two quarts of liquor a week to a person makes me wonder if there are really persons around who guzzle that much in a week.

Seeings how the legislature is fussing around with a bill proposing to authorize mayors to perform marriage ceremonies, I asked our own mayor what he thought about the idea and he said he wouldn't be interested unless the law made it compulsory that the brides kiss the mayors, too.

They've rationed cars so we had to walk, then rationed shoes so we couldn't walk, and now if someone gets the idea of rationing pants, it's goin' to be mighty tough on a lot of loafers.

From our good friends, Mrs. A. H. Loeb and Sidney Loewenstein, of Chicago, have come reports of rumors circulating among Charlevoix summer residents in that area that there will be a "No Visitors" sign on the city gates next summer, principally because of threatened food shortage. The only answer we can make, and we feel it expresses the thought of all Charlevoix people, is that such rumors are completely absurd and without foundation. Grocers, truck gardeners, restaurants and hotel proprietors are preparing to do business next summer in a manner as close as possible to our usual hospitable style.

Here's an interesting coincidence in the life of a local family: February 23, 1918, Forrest F. Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fowler, enlisted in the army signal corps, aviation division, and left the same day for Grand Rapids to be transferred to his training station. Tuesday of this week, twenty-five years later to the day, his son, Forrest Allen, left his home in Grand Rapids for an army camp. Both father and son entered the service at the age of 18.

On display in Staley Hardware's window is a grass skirt and necklace of shells sent by Cpl. Edward Radle from New Guinea to his mother, Mrs. Esther Radle. While not an appropriate costume for February in this climate, we would be glad to have someone volunteer to model the outfit in July.

And while we're speaking of Ed, you'll probably be glad to know that the recent report of his illness with a jungle fever was all a mistake. Not on our part, but of the army authorities. Seems there's another Ed Radle who's a private, and someone got mixed up about the two men. Wouldn't it be a good idea for every local fellow in the armed forces to have a double? At the rate they've distinguished themselves so far, the war would be over in no time flat.

Recently saw some pictures of Richard "Big" Bergmann sent from Calcutta, India, where he is stationed with an army photographic squadron. In one snap "Big" was holding a familiar-looking newspaper and on his face was a dreamy, far-away expression that could only have been caused by thoughts of home.

When your troubles begin to weigh too heavily, cheer up. It's gravity that keeps things down.

LETTERS FROM THE ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Just a line to say I have been receiving the Courier o. k. Thanks a lot. It sure is good to hear about the things that take place around Charlevoix. Also to read the letters of the other fellows from the old home town who are in the service, scattered far and wide.

I also would like to take this opportunity to thank some of the different organizations for their cards of seasons' greetings. The Kiwanis club sure sent a wonderful airplane view of Charlevoix. Which at least gave us a birds-eye view of Charlevoix-the-Beautiful, although we are far away.

Best wishes to all.

WATCH RESULTS FROM "MADE" TROUT LAKES

Curb on Daily Catch May Be Set By Commission

Conservation department fisheries men will keep a close watch over the first few days' fishing in Michigan's "made" trout lakes again this April, collecting facts and figures from which the need for special regulation msy be judgad.

Thess lakes, converted from ordinary watera into trout lakes by chemical treatment nnd restocking, were fished so heavily at the seoson opening a year ago that a few persons removed 40 to 70 per cent of the planted fish in the first few days. Since management of inland lukes is primarily for sport, the conservation department is considering recommending the daily creel limit on theso madn trout lakes be reduced from 15 to five, to permit more anglers to share the fishing.

There nre nbout 26 mada trout lakes in Michigan on which the five-a-day limit would curb big opening day hauls by a few fishermen. Locnl feeling already has resulted in conservation commission orders setting a five trout a day limit on Birch lake, Cass county, and u five-a-day limit on rainbows in Lake Charlovoix.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER SERVICE IS MARCH 12

Methodist Church Invites All Women of Charlevoix

The thought of a union day of prayer sprend nround the world, and in 1927 the first World Day of Prayer was held. By 1936, Christians in more than 50 countries were keeping the day together.

The committee in chargs of World Day of Prayer service in this city, through the courtesy of the Courier, extends an invitation to every Christian woman in the community to attend this one-hour service.

SCHOOL GARDENS TO AID LUNCH PROGRAM

Provide Answer to Problems of Rationing Regulations

Boy und girl gardeners will bn a principal support of community lunch programs in more than a thousand rural and urban schools of Michigan in coming months. School gardens nre expected to provide nnswers to many questions of food supply that will be imposed by rationing regulations, according tn state health department nutritionists.

Lunch program sponsors can now buy foods from local farmers und merchants, according to a recent ruling of the food distribution administration. Gas and tire rationing have almost halted previous methods of food distribution through state welfare agencies. Sponsors' principal worry, now, is the securing of cooks and helpers to replace WPA personnel no longer availnble.

A committee nf the Michigan defense council helps local sponsors of school lunches.

NEW BOAT BASIN AT FOSTER PLANT

LOCAL CONCERN WILL HAVE TESTING AREA

Old Beet Sugar Factory Blasted to Provide Fill for Crib; Completed by May 1

Construction of a marine basin 150 by 170 feet is under way at the Foster Boat Co.'s Ferry avenue plant to expedite the testing of boats built by the concern.

Contract for the job has been let to W. H. Wallace, who now has a crew of men at work.

Of crib type construction, the basin has a twenty foot opening into Lake Charlevoix. Building of such a testing area will permit the launching and testing of boats in lots of ten or more, without the hazards of sudden wind squalls which hampered operations in 1942. A war department permit has been granted and, if weather conditions allow, the basin will be completed before May 1, according to Harry G. Foster, president of the firm.

Fill used in the crib is being obtained from the old beet sugar factory, near the boat plant. Blasting of sections of the old factory wall has provided good sized concrete blocks for the fill. Logs for the crib are being furnished by nearby farmers.

Construction of the basin is only one of the many improvements and additions to the plant since the boat-building concern was established.

RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN BEGINS

BIGGEST DRIVE LAUNCHED MARCH 1

Double Contributions Are Needed to Carry on Tremendous Tasks At Home and Abroad

With the slogun, "March with the Red Cross in March," the American Red Cross this week set out on a campaign to raise $125,000,000 for its war work.

President Roosevelt formally opened the month-long drive Monday in an appeal to Americans to contribute generously so that the Red Cross can march side by side with fighting men in their war to preserve "all our concepts of mercy and human decency."

In Charlevoix, Chairman E. J. Edwards set to work the committees of workers who are to call at every home and business place in this city to raise Chnrlevoix's quota of $1,506. This is twice as big as our last Red Cross quota of December, 1941, and in order to raise the amount it will be necessary for everyone to give double or triple their former contributions.

During this month, the organization's annual Roll Call drive is combined with the mercy fund campaign. Contribution to the fund will maintain Red Cross membership, but this year everyone is asked to give more than ever before, for this year the Red Cross has a bigger job than ever before.

Hundreds of thousands of pints of blood plasma, the life-giving substance that saves many of our casualities in war zones, are collected und shipped to the fighting fronts by the Red Cross. Hundreds of thousands of bandages, first-aid equipment, splints, warm garments, are assembled by the Red Cross for fighting American men. Canteen service, nursing service and relief service are rendered to men of the armed forces. And in addition to all this, above-normal relief service is being given as usual in this country. Families of fighting men are first on the list of those whom the Red Cross aids in this country.

This takes money, and a great amount of it, to carry on such huge tasks over all the world. This is not a normal campaign, as conducted in peace time by the Red Cross. It is a war fund emergency campaign, and in giving to it everyone can help to carry some of the burden of American men in uniform who are fighting to preserve and protect the privileges of free men and women.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

A recent issue of the Traverse City Record-Eagle carried the photograph of a rare albinn deer—a yearling doe—killed by dogs in Grand Traverse county. It is indeed a pity that this unusual species should have fallen victim to uncontrolled dogs when it might have lived to produce more of its exceedingly rare kind.

Bob Humphrey, editor of "Ramblings" in the Cheboygan Observer, hit a responsive note when he last week wrote: "Just a little over a month and the smelt will be in the river, then comes trout season, Easter, Decoration Day, Victory Gardens and 4th of July—Whoa! That's covering time in a hurry, but it does go by almost that fast, doesn't it?"

The use of interned Japs is being considered in the Grand Traverse region as a means of alleviating a prospective labor shortage this season. But the growers down there will be reluctant to have one of those yellow sneaks around, whether he ba American or foreign born.

Editor C. A. Lisk of the Charlevoix County Herald, published at East Jordan, arises to inquire why the shortage of wood in a territory blessed with plenty of second growth hardwood. I can remember back not so many years ago, before a war took men into the armed forces or defense plants to create a labor shortage, that you couldn't get wood, so under present conditions it's even less surprising than it was then. Which all reminds ma of the old saying running something like this: "He who cuts wood warms himself twice."

I learned Saturday with regret that Guy Baker, publisher nf the Boyne Citizen, has been under the weather for several weeks and is only now getting back to normal after having a bunch of infected munchers yanked. Paul Lisk and his wife have been doing double

Dear Ken,

Received my first paper from home today. It sure is good to read the home town news even though you can't be there. I will start my third week of basic training next Monday. Will write more later. Thanks a lot for sending the Courier.

As ever,
Pvt. Donnld B. Meggison

2nd Regt., T. D. R. T. C.
Camp Hood, Texas.

Dear Ken,

I've just had my mail passed out and in it arrived the Courier. I was surprised, but glad to get it. It helps to read something from home for a change.

I want to thank you and the CSO for sending me the paper.

I'm alone here except for a few fellows from Detroit. All the rest are from farther south and as far west as California. It has been cold here. One morning it was 27 below zero, so you see Charlevoix isn't the only place it gets cold.

Well, I guess that is about all I can say. We're not allowed to tell anything about what we're doing. What I'm in is the Amphibian Command, which is one tough outfit.

Thanks again for the Courier, and good luck.

Sincerely,
Pvt. Warren Allison,

Fort Devens, Mass.

Dear Ken,

The greatest newspaper in the world has been bringing me the best news in the world and believe me, I really appreciate it. I know that the other fellows from Charlevoix that are in the service can also tell you that news from home really means something.

Who ever thought Charlevoix would be so much represented all over this world? Leave it to Charlevoix to stick a finger in every pie!

No doubt I will be across with the rest of the fellows some day in the not too distant future, but first I will have to finish my course in radio telegraphy. I should be

CORRESPONDENCE

WHEATON CORNERS

The last trip of the steamer Champlain, a sister ship of the steamer Lawrence that ran from Chicago to Mackinaw, eech making one round a week. They took in every port, going into Traverse City, Torch Lake, Elk Repids, then to Norwood and almost alwuys got into Norwood eround midnight. It was William (Billy) Cowan's and my job to meet these boats and see that the freight was put in the store house nnd checked out all o. k. On this night, June 16, 1887, the Champlain came in as usuel. Everything wns fine and quito a nice night. A Mr. Chase, a ehoe salesmen, came on the dock. They unloeded his sampla trunks, 6 or 8 of them. He was figuring on going on to Charlevoix and coming back in the morning with the liverymon. Billy and I taiked him into staying at Norwood. He could have a good rest and in the morning call the liveryman and have him come after him. So he went aboard the boat and got his suitcnse and walked ashora with us. He was a large, elderly man. He nlways said that Billy and i saved his life, for that night the Champloin hurned before it got to Cherlavoix. They ran ashore on Fishermnn's Island, at thet tiine Smithson's camp, where a mill was in operation. Norwood got the news by telephone the first thing in the morning. Several of us went to the camp on a small sailboat ownod by Charley Pearl and William Brown. It was nearly noon when we got there. Thirty-three lives were lost and thirty-three saved. There were sevaral rowboats looking for those drowned. Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shores ran tha boarding house. We all went there for dinner, there were several of the survivors still there. The engineed, who was burned real bad, was there several weeks.

The Champlain was replaced by the eteamer Vernon. That fall it was quite a wild night when it landed at Norwood dock about 9 o'clock. Thera woro several of the Norwood people there, as it wae quite a sight to see a boat come in when the waves were rolling like they wera that night. Tbat was her last trip also. Frankfort was the last port sho made, and was never heard from after she cleared Frankfort. I don't tbing there was anyone saved. The Champlain was rebuilt and called the City of Charlevoix. Mrs. Harrison Bedford was one of the passengers on the Champlain wbo waa saved, and she can tell a lot more about that awful night than I can.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Looks like a pretty expensive cigar you've got there, Judge."

"Yeshee, it's a real good one, Bill. Won it from Chris down at the cigar store yesterday. He got pretty positive in a discussion we had and I had to take him up on it. Bet me three good cigars to my one that the three states that still have prohibition have less crime than the other states. Well, all I had to do was step across the street to my office where I had some recent F. B. I figures in my desk drawer. Why, on the average, those three states have a worse crime record than the whole rest of the country. And there's a good sound reason for it, Bill. There's no such thing as a dry community. It's only a question of whether liquor is sold legally or illegally. And when it's sold illegally it means bootleggers, gangsters and more crime."

LANSING LETTER

You may agree or you may not agree with what the Republican legislature at Lansing is about to do to the Democratic-controlled state highway department, but you will probably agree with us on this:

The legislature's inclination to make the commissioner an appointee of the governor and not an elective official of the people is another bouquet for Harry F. Kelly, the new governor of Michigan.

Governor Kelly is said to favor the reorganization plan, whereby the governor's office would wield control and power in the spending of money for highways. He feels that centralized authority also brings responsibility, and that responsibility for good roads in Michigan should logically and properly rest with the governor of the state.

This philosophy of public service prompted the appointment of Dr. Robert Ford of the University of Michigan to the newly created post of director of business administration, a glorified title for a trouble-shooting efficiency expert whose chief assignment will be the elimination of overlapping governmental agencies and an accompanying simplification of government itself.

Logically the same idea would extend to the highway department, as we have observed before. Governor Kelly has not shown his hand openly in this direction, although he is said to have favored it.

In the legislature's debate on the highway plan, the foremost reason advanced by Republican advocates was the slogan-like idea of "taking the highway department out of politics." Would the Republicans be interested in the idea were the commissioner a Republican whether you were born a publican instead of a Democrat? Of course, the answer depends Republican or a Democrat. But the highway department being jelled by civil service while under Democratic control, the Republicans do sniff the air suspiciously and exhort loudly that the department has been misused by the Democrats as a political machine to perpetuate themselves in office.

This Tammany Hall idea persists in the minds of some Republican legislators and also in the minds of quite a few voters. Its distaste has been intensified by the November reversion to federal.

The legislative leaders also may bureaucracy which was blamed, right or wrong, for much of today's war regimentation out of Washington.

entertain the belief that the public isn't much concerned over what happens at Lansing because 99 per cent of their worry centered about the fighting Yanks in Tunisia and in the Pacific and wondering if the Germans are going to invade Spain, try to grab the Gibraltar, or when and where the Allies will strike again.

In perspective, the global war makes the Lansing scene look a bit dull.

Senator Joseph Baldwin (R) of Albion, was among the Republican senators who challenged the program to deprive the voters of the ballot box control of highways, and he raised a very interesting post as to whether appointment of the commissioner by the governor really would accomplish what the proponents said it would: Take the department out of politics.

From the viewpoint of history, the Albion law-maker has sound support in the fact that Michigan has had only seven highway commissioners since the department was created by the legislature in 1905. In the first eight years when the commissioner was appointed by the governor, two engineers held the position—Horatio S. Earle from 1905 to 1909 and Townsend H. Ely from 1909 to 1913.

Earle and Ely were appointees of Governor Fred M. Warner, Republican, who accomplished the unorthodox feat in these days of being re-elected for three successive terms. Ely was retained by Chase S. Osborn when the latter became governor in 1911.

In 1913 the post was made an elective office with a four-year term and a $7,500 annual salary. Ely was followed by two Republicans, Frank Rogers from 1913 to 1920, a long 16-year-span, and by Grover C. Dillman (president today of Michigan College of Mining and Technology) from 1929 until the New Deal in 1933.

If the reign of the Republicans in this post was disrupted, then the Republicans have only Franklin Delano Roosevelt and a series of popular landslides to blame.

The New Deal brought Murray D. Van Wagoner to Lansing in 1933 and it helped to re-elect him in '37, year after the Roosevelt-Murphy victory at Michigan polls. When Pontiac "Pat" went to the governorship in 1941, he was succeeded by his brainy deputy, G. Donald Kennedy, now safely berthed in Washington with a $18,000-a-year safety foundation job.

In the meanwhile, the Republicans have had hard sledding. Wilber M. Brucker (R) was followed by William A. Comstock (D). Frank Fitzgerald (R) was followed by Frank Murphy (D). Luren Dickinson, heir to the Fitzgerald crown, was followed by Murray D. Van Wagoner (D). We're right back where we started with Harry F. Kelly (R) as governor.

In this restless, depression decade, Michigan has experienced a steady turnover in the governorship, every two years as regularly as the clock ticks 60 seconds to the minute. In this same period the tenure of highway commissioner has averaged five years, more than double that of the governorship.

All this is a bit of recorded history, and it all adds up to the same thing:

If the Republicans hold the governorship as the Democrats have held the post of highway commissioner from 1933 to 1943, then the new commissioner—or highway engineer, as he really is—will have a chance to effect continuity in program and become proficient at his job.

But should the governorship swing, like a pendulum, from one party to the other, as it has done in Michigan steadily since 1933, then Senator Baldwin may be known in the future as a prophet of astute mental penetration.

For that reason we suspect that the answer to the entire problem must rest on the future, more than the present, as to whether the legislature is acting with wisdom in "taking the highway department out of politics."

Streeter, regional manager of the crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration, through his local field supervisor, Sabin Hooper, of Boyne City, announces that his office is prepared to accept applications for crop production purposes as well as applications for the production or purchase of feed for livestock.

County 4-H Club Council to Meet Tuesday, March 9th

The first meeting of the Charlevoix county 4-H Club Council this year is scheduled for Tuesday night, March 9th, in the extension office, Boyne City.

The meeting will start with a little banquet at 7 o'clock, followed by the discussion meeting. The council consists of William Parsons, Mrs. Anna Warner, Elizabeth Dhaseleer, Mrs. Ruth Hair, of Charlevoix; Mrs. Ruby Stueck, of Petoskey; Mrs. Ethel Marlatock, of Boyne Falls; Lester Walcutt, Leatha Larsen and L. B. Karr, of East Jordan; Melvin Somerville, of Boyne City.

The important matters to discuss will include the making of final arrangements for the spring achievement day, laying plans for the summer program which is to be greatly enlarged, building leadership, and approving suggested changes in summer projects. This committee representing all sections of the county is assuming many responsibilities in organizing this fine program for the rural youth throughout the county.

Tentative plans provide for having the achievement day the last week in April. Its location has not been decided upon as yet, but will be announced following the 4-H Club Council meeting. The 4-H Club members are making a big contribution to the war effort and greater activity is anticipated this coming summer.

Farmers Have Wide Choice of High Grade Seeds

Never before has the importance of securing good seed for increased crop production been as important as now. With many limitations on machinery, farm labor and fertilizers, the question of buying the best seed should receive the attention of every farmer. The Michigan Crop Improvement association has recently submitted their lists of high quality seed producers. While it is true prices are somewhat higher than last year, you will never receive higher dividends than from buying the best seeds to be grown.

In white beans, the best variety is "Michelite" recently produced in large quantities for sale. The price of the certified seed is per bushel what the market price is per cwt. In choice hand-picked grade. For each market increase of 50c per cwt. above $5, there will be an increase of 25c per bushel on certified seed. In the case of barley, the best two varieties are Wisconsin No. 38 or Spartan, with the price at $1.75 per bushel. Bromo grass is available in substantial quantities this year at 25c per pound for the certified seed.

No doubt the greatest interest in new seed development pertains to the hybrid seed corn which is now available in large quantities and which is being largely used by the better corn growers. The cost per bushel for the certified hybrid seeds depends on how the seed is graded, but varies from $5.50 up to $7.50 per bushel. In the case of open pollinated corn, the price is $6.00 per bushel. All of the above prices are retail prices, but perhaps a lower price may be possible upon buying a large quantity of seed and by direct contact with the grower.

Further information relative to seed prices and names of growers may be obtained from your county agent. In any case, consider carefully the advisability of buying the very best seed available, as that is one way to obtain better results with no additional investment of labor, machinery and management.

AT THE MOVIES

"Priorities on Parade"

Time was when movie musicals presented feminine stars as fluffy frills and never, never made 'em tough. Them days is gone forever—or at least "for the duration"

Paramount's peppy "Priorities on Parade," one of the fastest and funniest tune films to hit this district in ages, is due on Wednesday and Thursday at the Palace Theatre and it's a good example of the films to come out of the work that women are performing in war plants.

"The Hard Way"

Dennis Morgan was kissing the pretty girl and Jack Carson was dying. It was the first time Carson had ever played such a scene.

"Fine thing," mumbled Carson. "I lie here gasping my last, and look at him."

"Play dead, you," said Morgan.

The scene is almost an epitome of the picture called "The Hard Way," coming Saturday and Sunday at the Palace Theatre., with Ida Lupino and Joan Leslie and the aforementioned male players. "The Hard Way" is a show business story and it goes from vaudeville to tragedy in swift pattern.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

At Midway, in the Coral Sea and from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, the Navy patrol bombers are searching out enemy bases, ships and transports and "completing their mission." The Navy Patrol Bomber costs about $750,000

Our factories are turning out hundreds of these bombing ships. Yet it is only through your investment in War Bonds and Stamps you can do your share to help provide patrol bombers for our rapidly increasing air force. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these Government securities and do your bit to win and shorten the war. Our airmen are depending on your help.

Keep 'em Fightin'!

A big job for '43—The U. S. Navy and Army must have huge quantities of pickles

FOOD is a weapon. The Army, the Navy, our Allies must have unlimited supplies of tanks, guns, ships, planes—and food.

Home Front Forces—the farmer, the factory worker, the food processor—have a big job for '43. They must do their fighting part to keep the armed forces "fit and fightin'."

Pickles are traditionally essential in the navy—in the ranks of all fighting men. They help prevent scurvy—which once killed more men than enemy bullets. In our early wars the women back home made pickles for their men on the battle fronts. The job is entirely too big for the home kitchen today.

It is estimated that the government will need at least 30 per cent of all pickles in the country's warehouses for the Army, the Navy and our Allies. In '43—the year of our country's destiny—more pickles must be produced than in any previous year.

This state is famous for the quality of its pickles. Our fighting men must have the best.

Your country may need to ask every man, woman and child in this community for help in harvesting and packing the crop.

We pledge ourselves and our resources to do our part in a national effort to furnish all the pickles the armed forces and the civilian population may need. We know the fine spirit of this community, of the growers and the factory workers. And we are confident a great co-operative effort will do the job ahead of us!

"Food is as important as bullets in winning the war."

KEEP UP CARS

Automobile owners are getting a lot of free advice from the auto industry and the service stations, and they would do well to take it more seriously than many of them are doing.

The auto people, of course, are not indulging in pure philanthropy. Like people in various other lines of business, caught and squeezed by war changes, their primary purpose is to keep on living and eating, and to survive with their business reasonably intact when it's all over, over there. But there is another side, and they're mostly doing a favor to the citizens who listen to them.

It might be assumed from now on, that a family automobile, in spite of restricted operation, still has its value. There's life in the old car yet, and that life should be cherished and extended as far as possible. There is no telling when automobile production will revive again, and the apparent value of a car today is no indication of its future value.

Better use the old car enough to keep it in commission, wherever that is possible, rather than let it rust and stiffen in the garage. Fuel should not be wasted, but neither should the car itself be wasted. And the very fact of having a car in good condition that can be used in an emergency is in itself a hopeful and cheerful thing.

TELL IT ALL

Drastic restrictions in gasoline on the eastern seaboard have caused groans but very little grouching. This is because it was promptly and clearly made known to the residents of those parts that gas was urgently needed for General Eisenhower and his stout lads.

It is easier to visualize a need thus made specific than other needs, just as real, but farther off in time incapable of personalization. Nevertheless an attempt to inform the public more fully of the ways as well as the wherefores of rationing and price ceiling regulations would smooth the path of the OPA and other government agencies concerned with supplies, and we are glad to see that such an effort is to be launched by the OPA in Michigan.

Community service members are being appointed to aid local boards in telling the public what it all is about. These volunteer publicists will have the duty of discussing the dangers of inflation with the neighbors and of pointing out the necessity of steps taken to hold prices in line and to conserve food and other war materials for war uses.

The idea is good. War "willingness" is conspicuous in Michigan—a circumstance of which we all may be proud. Most of us understand that gasoline is rationed not to save gasoline but to save rubber, that coffee comes a cup at a time because the shipping that ordinarily brings the good bean without limit has to be diverted to the supply lines for our armies overseas, and that sugar is going into industrial and explosive alcohol. Yet it is human nature—certainly it is—American human nature—to expect reasons and with them to go forward farther and more readily than on any trust.

OPA has a vital job to do in this war. It will be with us for the duration—and stiffer rationing schedules will visit us sooner than softer ones. It is up to OPA to so conduct its public relations that the public shall be wholeheartedly enlisted in its job. This means efficiency in its offices, courtesy in all its contacts, and the creation of a better public understanding of the purposes of its task.

Just "rationing" has no universal appeal; but every man and his brother will get down and walk gladly if he sees clearly the link between his little discomfort and the rubber raft that saved Eddie Rickenbacker from the deep.

"We had been hit but the pumps were keeping up with the water and we were running for port. The destroyers had come in and routed the subs and now were circling around us. Days later we reached port and felt a real thrill to touch land again."

After a week on shore, he was assigned to a fighting ship which made straight for dangerous sub-infested waters. Early one morning, "the alarm bell broke loose and the speaker system came to life with the O. D. calling out 'All hands, battle stations, on the double' . . . I scrambled up and threw the power switch on the transmitter but it wouldn't come on so I threw it over on the batteries and it still wouldn't warm up. I could hear our guns opening up now and feel the throb of the engines as we surged ahead. Then I realized it was the transmitter that had cut out, not the power, so I made my way over to the emergency transmitter and switched it on. My flashlight had been knocked off the desk. I sent a message out in the dark after a hurried check of the transmitter dial by the light of a match.

"I went out on deck and the shooting had stopped now. We were cutting a pattern in the water dropping depth charges. It was quite light now and suddenly the men broke out cheering and shouting as oil and pieces of cork and debris came to the surface. They had dared to attack us and had been destroyed. The next morning we pulled into pier a sorry looking sight but satisfied—we had squared accounts."

NOW HE'S GUNNING FOR ALL FARMERS!

United Mine Workers and its step-child, the United Dairy Farmers, walked out of CIO for keeps during their first joint convention in Cincinnati last month.

First indications that Lewis may be raising his farm sights came when convention speakers began to talk of "6,000,000 dairy farmers." Last spring, UDF organizers talked of "3,000,000" dairymen. Along in mid-August they were up "4,500,000." Latest figures bring them within 200,000 of the total number of U. S. farm families. Observers wonder if plans for cattle and grain unions are buzzing.

Claims of UDF speakers range from 60 to 500 farm delegates. A photograph of the "first nation United Dniry Farmer Conference" published in the union's newspaper had a nose-count of 97, of which 57 were in a Mine Workers' brass band, and "about 15 others were paid union organizers." — Farm Journal.

Dear Ken,

This is something I have been going to do for quite some time. Now as I've changed my address again, I guess I'll have to. Then, too, I got the paper again today and saw my brother's letter in it, so figured I'd better write myself.

The weather here is wonderful. I left Camp Atterbury, Ind., Sunday, February 14. When I left it was about 15 below zero. We had a 15 minute hike to the train and one fellow froze both ears and a couple more froze one. Now we're all getting some swell sunburns. I myself have one good enough so my nose is starting to peel. I just came off a 17-hour guard and am pretty tired. They are really putting us to work now that our training is over.

I would like to tell you what we do and what goes on, but cannot. I will say this much, though, that in my travels I have never seen such a rough and tough town as New Orleans. The street cars run right alongside our barracks and it only costs us 7 cents to go to town. I'll bet a lot of the boys would like that. We are also inside the city, that is about the only thing I can say for this place.

I figure on going to see Robert Gill when and if I get off. This job is plenty steady, 7 days a week, 24 hours a day. However, it is very interesting. I'll have to close for now as I have to go back to work at midnight, which is 6 hours away.

I want to thank you very much for the paper, because one who isn't here will never know what it means to us fellows. So thanks ever so much and good luck.

Sincerely yours,
Pfc Philo E. Howe,

New Orleans, La.

Dear Ken,

My paper came this evening and I was glad to get it. You get some interesting letters, don't you? I found them so.

This is a day later. Just as I started this letter a lad from East Jordan, who is in the 66th regiment, came in to see me. I didn't know him, but Ken, you know when you meet someone from home, even though you have never seen the person, you certainly feel like you have known them for ages. Isn't that true? I've heard some good things about Charlevoix's CSO. Just what are the functions of it? I'd like to know more about it.

I hope when I come home I'll have time to look you up and have a nice chat with you. They tell me you have had some real winter up that way. Well, we too had some. It got down to 5 degrees above. That's cold compared to Florida. Thought many times I'd never survive it, but did.

Well Ken, there's not much to write about so think I'll stop wasting your time. But thanks again to you and the CSO for the paper.

Sincere best wishes to you all,
Pfc Carl Hinebnuch
Camp Barkeley, Texas
H-S Co. 67th Med. Regt.

Dear Ken,

I got my first paper here today. It sure seemed good to get all the news. I am fairly close to where Wurren Shupton is stationed, but can't quite make it on a liberty. I sure would like to see them and Jack Glassford. I was in the very same place as Harold Holm, but never saw him.

If any of the fellows out here ever see this ship, will they come aboard and look for me. I sure would like to see anyone from home.

The country is very beautiful out here, but they should have let the Indians keep it, I'll take Michigan.

There was one thing missing in the paper up to this week and that was seeing a Bergmann on the basketball team, but from the looks of things, they are getting back on the ball again. The team must be going hot stuff. Nice going, fellows!

Ken, here are a couple of new words for your collection. "Porgybait" is candy in the navy, and "Joe" is coffee. We still have it.

All you fellows that can find time, drop me a line. I'll try to answer.

Bergie.

Don't make that Long Distance call unless it's really necessary!

Mrs. Housewife, you and your family are patriotic citizens—eager to aid the war effort in every way you can.

Long Distance telephone lines are communication channels that help make America's war production fast and efficient. Many of them are crowded with essential war messages today, and the less important civilian calls must not interfere.

You can do your part by following these rules:

Do not make a Long Distance call unless it is really important.

Keep every call as brief as you can.

NOTICE

Due to increased cost at the mines, increase in freight rates and new federal tax, we have been compelled to raise the price of coal.

Coal prices are governed by the Office of Price Administration, and our increase covers only the actual raise in price to us—in other words, our margin above cost is still the same as in December, 1941.

We urge customers to order their next winter's supply of coal this spring. By so doing you will enable us to better anticipate demands, spread deliveries over a longer period and utilize spare time to make them.

Due to labor shortage and difficulty in obtaining steady car deliveries from the mines, these measures will be necessary if all are to be sure of next winter's coal requirements.

FARMERS are again being asked to increase or maintain high production schedules. That is the farmers' big job in helping to win the war.

It is a Bank's job to cooperate with farmers and provide them with financial aid when it is needed.

This Bank is in an excellent position to provide prompt, economical, and intelligent credit service to farmers.

We invite inquiries from those who could use to advantage additional funds to increase their production of food or livestock.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

A school of instruction for AAA county and community committeemen was held in the AAA office, Bayne City, on Saturday, February 13. The meeting was conducted by Stanley Yuill, district AAA fieldman, who discussed in detail the 1943 AAA provisions.

Incentive payments will be offered to farmers to encourage maximum production of certain crops. The payments will apply to an acreage of the following crops grown in excess of 90 per ment of the farm goel, but not to exceed 110 per cent: dry beans, $20 per acre; potetoes, 50c per bushel; commercial vegetables, $50 per acre. A goal will not be established for payment at less than three acres for any-war crop.

In addition to these incentive payments, the government has placed the following price supports on these needed crops: dry beans, $5.60 per 100-lb.; canning tomatoes, $22 per ton; soup beans for processing, $80 per ton; sweet corn for processing, $17 per ton; potatoes, about $1.20 per bushel.

It is expected that AAA committeemen will begin their farm to farm canvass within the next few days and will be prepared to assist every farmer with production plans for meeting individual ferm goals.

Changes in incentive payments end war crop goals and other changes in the 1943 food production program has delayed the farm sign-up campaign. AAA committeemen will begin drawing up farm plans some time in February. Details regarding payments will be announced within the near future.

INSTRUCTIONS—To find the Point Value of a ... (if any).
1. Find out the net weight of the contents ...
2. In the line across the top of the chart, show... eight in ounces and pounds, find the column in which this weight belongs.
3. Find the item in the listing of items in the column to the left.
4. The POINT VALUE of the item appears on the same line as the item and in the column listing the correct weight.

All Point Values must be determined by weights. If no weight is marked on the item, the item must be weighed.

In finding the Point Value of a container where contents are given in fluid ounces, consider the fluid ounces to be the same as the avoirdupois weight ounces. One pint is one pound; one quart is two pounds.

The Point Value of any item weighing over four 16 pounds shall be arrived at by multiplying the number of pounds of that item by the Point Value per pound of that item as given in the "Per Pound" columns. Fractions of a pound should be figured in quarter-pounds. Fractions of a quarter-pound should be figured to the next higher quarter-pound. Thus, an item weighing 4 pounds 9 ounces would be considered as weighing 4 pounds 10 ounces for the purpose of getting the Point Value of the item.

YOU CAN HELP THEM

By Supporting the

More than ever before the Red Cross needs your financial support in the War Fund Drive which opened March 1 and continues throughout the entire month.

The money is vitally needed to carry on the work of this great organization in its far flung fields in Europe as well as within the boundaries of our own country. The men of all branches of our armed forces highly praise the work of the American Red Cross and if they were here today they would urge you to do your utmost for the organization which serves the boys who are serving us.

Charlevoix has been asked to contribute $1,500. Of this amount a generous portion will remain for bome work with the balance being added to the general fund for overseas activities of the Red Cross. The amount asked is a LARGE amount and will require that everyone give as freely as he or she possibly can. It is an investment in the lives, comfort and welfare of our boys in the armed forces.

We, at home, with increased taxes, rationing and other problems should consider ourselves fortunate that we're not wallowing in the mud and hell holes of Guadalcanal or New Guinea or fighting on the sand-blown deserts of Africa. We're not sacrificing much compared to our boys.

When a solicitor for the American Red Cross stops at your place of business or at your home—give freely—AT LEAST DOUBLE YOUR PREVIOUS SUBSCRIPTION!

shifts, getting out the Boyne City and Enst Jordan papers, while Jerry O'Hara comes over to Boyne from Gaylord to handle Guy's job work. After going it alone for several weeks myself, can appreciate what the other fellow is up against in this era of wartime labor shortage.

Have heard various favorable remarks about the spirit of good sportsmanship apparent at Friday night's basketball game, when the Harbor Rams lost to the Rayders. Contrast between the attitude displayed during this game, and that of the week previous with Boyne City, was marked. It's the lesson of good sportsmanship, to my notion, that makes basketball or any other sport a valuable part of high school training—playing the game fair and square, learning to be good losers, and not letting success go to one's head.

On our desk are copies of the Liverpool, England, "Echo" and "Evening Express," brought to us by Mrs. Harold Miller. Harold sent her the papers from New York after his recent return from a voyage to England on a ship of the United States merchant marine. Front page of the "Echo" is solid with classified ads and vital statistics, usually relegated to the back sections of American papers, while the war news was on the back page. The "Evening Express" mixed ads and news together in a most unsual fashion throughout. Both papers consisted of only four pages, and on each front page was prominently displayed the black-out time for that night. Each had also a blank half-column at the right of the front page for "stop press" news. Paper shortages in England have cut most news sheets down to mere bulletins, and it is interesting to observe how items are sliced and pinched to get as much news as possible within the limited confines of their pages.

Gus says: "It never occurs to a boy of eighteen that some day he will be as dumb as his father."

Eavesdropping in Johnny's drug store, I overheard the following dissertation by a young mother to her seven-year-old son: "Now, listen, Tommy. You're a little young to know too much about the war effort, about shortages and priorities and such things. But there's one shortage that I'm sure you'll be able to understand. There won't be any more castor oil until the end of the war. Yes, that's right, dear. But for goodness sakes stop shouting Heil Hitler. People will get the wrong idea, your Daddy being an air raid warden and all."

Nearly fell off the editorial chair when this came through the mail the other day: "Dear Editur, Please increase my subscription from one copy of the paper to three each week. What with the fuel shortage and all it is great for starting wood fires. Loyal Reader."

It beats a Montgomery Ward catalog, too.

REGULATIONS FIXED FOR WORKING MINORS

Stringent Rules Are Relaxed for Duration of the War

Special wartime regulations governing employment of minors in Michigan, affecting seven types of jobs, have been announced by John W. Gibson, chairman of the state department of labor and industry.

Gibson said the changes, permitting minors to engage in previously banned work, will apply for the duration of the war only. Under revised regulations, minors may now:

Operate passenger elevators with certain safeguards; perform welding operations if between 16 and 18; operate power-driven machines if non-hazardous; take jobs where weights up to fifty pounds must be lifted, if between 14 and 15; take employment around boats and docks or work on roads. Rules are also relaxed to permit girls to do messenger work within a given building.

Representatives from county salvage committees, the USDA war board, farm organizations, women's groups in rural areas, schools, Boy Scouts, the farm press, and farm implement dealers and others who may be in a position to help in the campaign, are being invited to attend the meeting which will be held at the Olds Hotel, Lansing, at 1:30 p. m., central standard war time.

With deepest gratitude we extend this word of thanks for the many kind acts of sympathy, expressed by thoughtful friends, in our recent bereavement. These kindnesses have meant much to us. Mrs. Arthur Richardson and family.—Adv. 9t1pd.

VOLUNTEER FIRE FIGHTERS NEEDED

MICHIGAN TIMBER IS VITAL TO WAR INDUSTRY

Applications for FFFS Members Are Available At Designated Locations In County

A campaign for enlistment of volunteers for the Forest Fire Fighters Service, a new branch of the OCD program, was announced this week by Ralph Price, secretary of the Charlevoix county Council of Defense, and Conservation Officer Ed. Starback.

Recognizing the importance of timber products in war industry and at the same time faced with a critical shortage of manpower in preventing and suppressing fire in the forested areas of Michigan, the OCD is cooperating with the Michigan department of conservation and the forest service in recruiting and training volunteer groups in each county in preparation for any crisis that may arise during the approaching forest fire season.

Officer Starback pointed out that fires had burned 2,482 acres in Charlevoix county during the last ten years, destroying an estimated $3,971 worth of timber products.

"We have lost a great number of experienced operators, fire wardens and towermen to the armed services and war industry in the last year," Mr. Starback said. "If we are going to maintain this low record it looks as though we will have to depend on volunteer help more than ever before to help combat fires this year, especially in the northern counties. We are urging every able bodied man in our county to enroll at once at the local OCD office or with any of our officers, for the twelve hour training course on forest fire prevention and fighting which will be conducted by employees of our department and the forest service during March."

Durward Robson, state coordinator for the office of civilian defense, has announced that volunteers, upon completion of registration and training, will be certified by the county defense council and will receive membership identification card and Forest Fire Fighters Service arm bands. They will also be entitled to receive supplemental gasoline rationing for travel to and from fires, for training, recruiting, fire prevention, patrol and other FFFS business. They will be paid, while on duty, at the standard rate of 30c per hour allowed by state law for fighting forest fires.

Application for volunteers for this service are now available at Wood Bros. Hardware, Charlevoix; Pete Bennett's, Ironton; Clarence Bowman's, East Jordan; Gerrie's Drug Store, Boyne City; Post office, Walloon Lake; Tillotson's Store, Bay Shore; Fred DeNise, Boyne Falls; Conservation headquarters, Boyne City.

T. M. T. M. CLUB HAD BASKETBALL BANQUET

Food Rationing Will Set Style of Social Activities

Last Friday night the girls of the T.M.T.M. club held their second basketball supper, before the Harbor Springs - Charlevoix game.

The buffet-style supper was served at 5:30 p. m. in the school dining room. Present were 25 club members, sponsor Mrs. Margaret Theriault, and guests, Mrs. Mildred Hiller and Miss Nellie Smith. March lions and lambs in blue and white decorated the table, which was lighted by tall red tapers. After the meal the girls sang popular songs until time for the game.

General chairman was Jean Cellner. Committees were: decorations, Marie Jancha, Jean Black, Julia Krchak; food, Theresa LaBlance, Mary Gallogher, Maxine Kubesh; clean-up, Ione Wickersham, Nancy Price, and Barbara White.

This supper is expected to be the last for the duration, due to food rationing. However, the club girls plan to continue their social activities with teas and other parties.

BOARD OF COMMERCE NEWS

In order to more fully acquaint citizens of Charlevoix with the work their board of commerce is trying to do, this column will appear from time to time, providing the editor has plenty of patience and plenty of space. Much news of interest to retailers comes to the secretary's desk each week from the OPA, ODT, WPB and other federal agencies having a finger in our businesses, and this column may be of some value as a medium of information.

Among the items recently discussed at director's meetings, the problem of transportation for the coming summer is one of the most vital. We now have assurances from the railroad and bus lines that the same accommodations as last year will be available next summer unless further federal orders require schedule changes. In cooperation with West Michigan Tourist & Resort association, the directors are attempting to persuade some ship line to inaugurate a transportation system serving Chicago and the west Michigan inko ports. Our own efforts to date have met with no success, but it is hoped that the larger organization will have a powerful economic appeal that will result in scheduled boat trips bringing summer people to Charlevoix.

The U. S. Commerce Department advises that a new booklet, "Record Keeping for Small Stores," is now available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for 30 cents. This was prepared by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and presents a simplified "one-check" system that will give the small store-keeper a practical record method showing him from month to month how he stands. All the facts he must have recorded for preparing returns for income, social security, federal excise and states sales taxes, are easily obtained through use of the suggested system.

Recent visitors to Chicago and Detroit have come back with rumors that are freely circulated there to the effect that Charlevoix hotels and resorts are not going to open this summer. We are now getting out a letter to our summer residents emphatically denying the rumor snowball gets rolling, any evil that may have been done. Too often a pessimistic attitude by someone here in Charlevoix is taken seriously by an outsider and the rumor snowball gets rolling, growing larger and more disastrous for Charlevoix with each telling.

The board of directors meets every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the city hall and interested citizens are always welcome to attend. The introduction of new ideas and viewpoints makes the board of commerce just that much more effective in its work to promote Charlevoix.

Your Secretary.

WOULD INCREASE PURCHASE OF GAME LANDS

Five-Year Plan Proposed Has the Backing of Gov. Kelly

For every $5 the legislature votes for purchase of park lands in southeastern Michigan, the state conservation commission has pledged itself to buy, with hunters' license money, $1 worth of game lands that will fit into the proposed pattern for development of recreational areas.

The comprehensive recreational-area plan for Michigan's "industrial corner" in which half the state's population is concentrated calls for expenditure of $1,000,000 each year for five years, and it is this purchase program the commission would supplement with $200,000 annually from hunting license funds. The plan has the enthusiastic endorsement of Governor Harry F. Kelly.

MESSAGE FROM COUSIN IN NAZI-HELD NORWAY

Cablegram Received Saturday by Mrs. Trine Nelson

Mrs. Trina Nelson received a message Saturday from relatives in Norway with whom she had had no communication since November, 1941.

Coming through the Norwegian Red Cross, the message was a cablegram in the Norwegian language from her cousin, Martha Lonnebotten, and was dated November 20, 1942, Mrs. Nelson's birthday anniversary. The cablegram stated that Mrs. Nelson's aunt, Mrs. Ingeborg Lonnebotten, with whom she lived as a child in Norway after the death of her parents, was safe and well.

SHOES--

and our position relative to the same as will concern the people of Charlevoix—

By this time most of you are familiar with the orders that came through from Washington pertaining to the rationing of shoes. Now that order is in full effect, with some amendments that have come out later relative to tennis shoes and play shoes. Some items have been taken off the rationed list, which we can explain better to you here in the store.

This store has one of the largest stocks of shoes to be found in Northern Michigan, and practically all of this stock is of the better quality that was on the market before the cheapening of shoes got under way. Ticket No. 17 is good until June 15th, and of course 'first come, first served" with this better merchandise. We are not urging people to rush in and buy shoes, but we do feel that if you are going to need shoes before June 15, it would be a good idea to come in soon and make your selection. Every day it is getting harder to obtain shoes from the factories and we are not going to be able to replace some of the good numbers that we always carried.

Here's How to Shop for Rationed Foods at A&P Stores

Here is a helpful service A&P offers you to make your ration-point shopping easier. Shelves and bins stocked with rationed foods carry both price tags and ration points [see illustration] to quickly tell you how much you are required to pay in cash and ration-points for each item on display. This means you can make quick comparisons of the points each food requires for purchase as you shop.

You shop as you always have . . . making your selections to suit your taste, purse and convenience. And when you complete your selections of point-rationed foods, as well as everything else you wish to buy, our clerks will figure the amount of ration-points you will be required to surrender for your rationed foods . . . and total your entire bill. You will pay ration-points and cash at one place.

POINT SYSTEM TO EXTEND BY APRIL

MAJORITY OF NECESSITIES WILL BE RATIONED

OPA Plans Crackdown On Many Items Not Controlled; Attack Food Black Markets

The Office of Price Administration has completed plans for rationing most major food items by April 1, it was learned Thursday.

The only important foods which will remain unrationed if the planned crackdown goes into effect will be bread, potatoes, fresh vegetables, eggs and probably milk.

Point rationing of meat, bacon, canned meats and canned fish is scheduled definitely to begin on or around April 1. Sugar, coffee and all cannad or processed vegetables, juices, fruits and soups already are rationed. OPA has made all necessary preparations for adding cheese, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils to the rationed list as soon as it receives a go-ahead from the agricultural department.

According to present plans, rationing of meat, bacon, cannad meat, canned fish, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils will be carried out as a single program on the point system on the red sheets of War Ration Book No. 2. OPA rationing experts, it was learned, have drawn up a second elaborate chart of point values to cover all the new items.

The meat point values will include all major cuts of "red" meats—such as spare-ribs, chops and steaks—as well as liver, kidneys, heart, brain and sweetbreads.

There still was no official information about the amount of the planned meat ration, though informed sources believed it probably would average around 1 3-4 pounds a week a person. Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown told a press conference it would be "less than 2½ pounds."

Introduction of meat rationing will coincide with the climax of OPA's drive against black market operations. Brown outlined a four-point program of attack: 1. Meat rationing; 2. Licensing of slaughterers by the agricultural department; 3. An extensive advertising campaign to convince the public of the dangers of eating black market meat; and 4. Enforcement of OPA regulations by prosecution of black market operators.

Brown disclosed that OPA already has undertaken 800 prosecutions, including 33 criminal proceedings, under its enforcement program.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Last Wednesday morning's 30 degrees below zero set a March record not equalled in many years. With the mercury hovering around the zero mark since, it's hard to visualize spring being only 10 days hence.

Clift: "Who wears the pants at your house?"

Charlf: "We take turns."

Many operators of linotypes in newspaper offices, when they make a mistake near the middle of a line of type, have a trick of twiddling two or three keys to fill out that line, then start over again. They intend to take out the spoiled line, but sometimes it slips through. That's why readers of a down-state paper got a laugh out of a church item which reported that: "The ladies' aid met at the home of Mrs. Blank. After a covered dish dinner they spent the afternoon bzz shbzz bzzsh."

County sportsmen will be interested in learning that a conservation department release of 23 pair of sharptail grouse was made recently over in the Springvale district. A previous release of these game birds was made last summer in the Pinney Bridge district of the Jordan river valley. To date I haven't heard of anyone killing any of the birds first released, so by now they should be well established. And this reminds me that Emil Chvetil said there was a large flock of prairie chicken summered last year near his place south of town, so maybe this species is becoming established in our game cover, too.

With one vacancy yet to be filled on the conservation commission, Michigan commercial fishermen have launched a campaign to convince Governor Harry F. Kelly that a representative of their industry should hold that berth. In view of the importance of the commercial fishing industry, such a move would seem practical and advisable. With the conservation commission administering the laws

Dear Ken,

I am now at Kearns, Utah. We arrived here Sunday night.

Kearns Field is about 15 miles southwest of Salt Lake City. Salt Lake itself is north and west of us. Snow-covered mountains to the east and west of us. I cannot see to the south end of Salt Lake valley. There is no snow in the valley, but I can take one glance at the mountains and see more snow than I had seen all the rest of the winter put together before coming here.

Living here is quite different from living in a large hotel in Los Angeles. A nice bunch of soldiers here.

This camp is for replacement overseas training groups. The soldiers are from technical schools such as airplane mechanics, radio operators, technical clerks, etc. A lot of the soldiers received their technical schooling in Chicago and Detroit.

Uncle Sam says the technicians have always put up the goods, but in an emergency like the defense of the Philippines, the technicians did not know enough about protecting themselves in the business of war. Now he uses Kearns for a hardening process for the technicians so in case of an emergency like a bombing attack, or an attack by paratroops, the technician will be able to use a bayonet, firearms and do hand-to-hand fighting with skill.

Yesterday morning I met the first soldier I had known in Michigan since I left Fort Custer, November 25. He had been a salesman for Riley Dairy Supply of Grand Rapids, his name is Alec Nell. Alec had called on me regularly for several years. You may be sure we were both glad to see each other.

You may address the Courier to me as follows:

Pvt. J. F. Kirkpatrick,

8th Sq., 502 R. O. T. C.
Kearns, Utah.

Dear Ken,

Just a line or two this morning while I've got the chance.

For the past three months all I've been doing is going on hikes for about 45 or 50 miles. We can

Honey No Miracle

Seventeen colonies of bees at Michigan State College proved in 1942 that bees are doing their part in combatting any sugar shortage, but that beekeeping is not an amateur's shortcut to plenty of sweets. The season was not favorable to the bees, but the 17 colonies turned out nearly 70 pounds of honey each. The honey had a value of $173.43, a little more than $10 a colony.

Reported Wounded

In a recent war department bulletin, Frank Pop, Jr., son of Frank Pop, Rt. 2, was listed as one of 130 Michigan men reported wounded in action in the South Pacific area. He went overseas last spring.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How do you feel about this idea of stopping 'em from selling liquor anywhere near army camps, Judge?"

"I was just talking about that with Will down at the barber shop about ten minutes ago. Tell you what I told him, Ned. I say it's up to the Army to decide. Why should we walk in and tell the Army how to do its job ...any more than I should tell you how to go about putting out a fire? And here's something that strikes me funny. All this worrying seems to be about the boys' conduct around the camps here in this country. You never hear a word of worrying about them drinking when they go abroad. Kind of queer, isn't it, Ned?"

LANSING LETTER

What's wrong with the Michigan liquor control system?

The answer is not new. It's at least 75 years old—perhaps 7,500 years old.

And here it is: Lack of law enforcement, backed by public opinion.

But just before you grab your telephone and start calling for your local legislator at Lansing to do something about it—no doubt, getting the legislature to enact another law for officers not to enforce—better adjust your specks and look at your own front yard.

The solution is so simple, it's difficult to make the public believe that it is true.

If taverns are flouting the law and some of the dance halls and nighteries are "cesspools of vice", initial responsibility for these local conditions rests with your local (if the tavern is outside the town) or with the city council and local chief of police (if it is inside the town.)

The State of Michigan has a responsibility, of course. It is an important one.

But the first responsibility has been placed by the legislature in its liquor control act upon the home government.

Do you know that the Michigan Liquor Control commission MUST revoke a license of a by-the-glass establishment if any local government unit—township board, village board, town council—makes a request for such action?

Do you know that all by-the-glass licensees MUST have approval of their township, village or city boards before a license will be issued by the state?

Do you know that local governments MAY prohibit sale of all alcoholic beverages on Sundays, for example?

And did you know that dance permits must have the approval of the chief of police if the establishment is within the municipality, or the sheriff if it is outside the town?

The fact that 85 per cent of all license fees are RETURNED to home communities for enforcement of liquor control laws is another proof that the legislature intended local governments to police local conditions.

As we size up the situation, this legislative placing of responsibility upon home government does not make the State of Michigan immune from criticism if the public believes that "conditions are bad."

It is the over-all responsibility of the State government to meet the general problem, and, if the home governments are NOT performing their duty, then it should act itself in a positive manner.

Such was the theme of a report made by a study commission appointed by former Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner to make recommendations on possible improvements in our liquor control system. The report was signed by Federal Judge Frank A. Picard and Harry Rickel and Myron A. Keys. The views are regarded chiefly as those of Judge Picard. This column will deal with some of the recommendations.

The first recommendation of the study commission would be to give the state commission a discretionary power to retain not more than 20 per cent of license fee money due any municipality IF the home government failed to enforce the state law in its own jurisdiction. The state commission would use this money to maintain its own law enforcement agency.

The weakness of this suggestion obviously is this: Lack of enforcement is more prevalent in unincorporated areas—that is, townships. And if you want the law enforced in a township, to whom do you go for action? Many townships do not have police officers despite the fact that they do get 85 per cent of the licensing fees. Yes, the records show such to be the fact.

Then who should enforce the law in townships? The county sheriff could be held strictly accountable, IF he received some of the license fees and thus could hire men to assist him in policing township conditions. However, the more outspoken sheriffs admit privately that just as they seldom issue traffic violations because to do so would be "politically suicidal," so they might not be too zealous in enforcing liquor laws. Public opinion is the deciding factor; counties with liberal feelings toward the use of liquor are not going to elect (or re-elect) crusading, reformers in the office of county sheriff.

Some philosopher at the cracker barrel once remarked that the people get usually what they deserve.

If you have "bad" government, then it's probably more YOUR fault than someone at Lansing or Washington.

The state liquor control commission has completed a survey of two-thirds of the counties in Michigan, studying this matter of law enforcement and complaints of violations. Invariably where local officials are on their toes, the state gets no complaints. For instance, Lapeer, Hillsdale, Barry and other dry counties just don't stand for bad conditions. There is little for the state to do.

However, a leading city in the Thumb offers an example in reverse. City police have instructions from the city commission to stay out of licensed places. Result: Tavern conditions there are the worst in Michigan! State inspectors can only revoke a license when they can obtain evidence. The city council or commission could revoke any license merely by adopting a resolution. The state must revoke a license when the home government requests such action.

Under present laws in Michigan, any community can have exactly the sort of conditions it wants.

That is democracy at the grass-roots. Is it a desirable policy?

Next week we will continue this discussion. In the meanwhile, why don't you write a letter giving your views and mail it to your local newspaper. This is YOUR problem, even though it is 7,500 years old.

What You Buy With

WAR BONDS

Military motorcycles, for couriers, for speeding light guns from one section to another, are an important part of America's mechanized army. Many are equipped with sidecars for use of staff officers. They cost from $400 to $450.

We need thousands of these small maneuverable machines in our Army today. You and your neighbors, all buying War Bonds and Stamps, can help buy them for the Army. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in War Bonds and Stamps and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Percent Club." It is rapidly becoming the largest club in the world.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Farm Account Cooperators Check Books March 22-23

Thirty-four cooperators who have been keeping farm account books under the supervision of the extension agent, will be checking in their books for completeness and accuracy on March 22-23. Each year the farmers are given appointments so that approximately an hour and fifteen minutes may be devoted to each book. All items are carefully analyzed, all mistakes rectified and items that should be in the book but through oversight not included, are entered.

This work takes on added significance at this time when so many farmers are preparing their income tax returns.

A crew of three representotives of our farm management department, in addition to the county agent, will check in these 34 books in less than two days' time. Thus it will be appreciated if each appointment is kept. The following farmers are expected to complete the project:

Fred Willis, A. B. Todd, Lowrence Jensen, Marius Nielson, Frank Matchett, Stanley Houghton, Lewis McDonald, Harry DeNise, John Noble, William Shepard, George Klooster, J. Curtis Nicloy, Clyde Warner, Leo Burnett, Cash Hayden, William Behling, Alfred Larsen, Robt. Nachazel, Charles Arnott, Andrew Dubas, Charlevoix County Infirmary, Orvil Bennett, Jay Ransom, Chas. Stanek, Theodore LaCroix, Addison W. Chew, Howard F. Cornell, Charles Reidel, Wolfe Price, William Price, Fred Alm, Lee Danforth, Ernest Brown, Guy Stutzman and Carl Clark.

"Unbalancing the Axis" Theme of Two Meetings on March 12

"What Records Are Necessary for Filing an Income Tax Return" and "What Are Good Farm Management Practices and Adjustments Under War Time Conditions" are the two timely topics for discussion at two meetings scheduled for Friday, March 12th. The first meeting will be held in the basement of the Boyne City library at 2 p. m., and the second meeting will be held in the basement of the city hall, Charlevoix, at 8 p. m.

Your extension agent will explain the use of the simplified farm account book developed by the farm management department of Michigan State College.

Clyde O. May, farm management specialist, M. S. C., will discuss "What Are Good Farm Management Practices and Adjustments Under War Time Conditions." "Unbalancing the Axis" and yet permitting a farmer to keep his farm business in balance will be the basis of the discussion. Mr. May is perhaps the outstanding authority on farm management studies in Michigan today.

Burgess School Outstanding Contributor to War Effort

Mrs. Hazel Evers, teacher at Burgess school, sent in the largest check from four counties toward the 4-H Club ambulance fund. This fund is sponsored by the National committee on boys and girls club work and will be used to buy ambulances for the United States army, and our hats are off to this small school of some fifteen pupils who have gathered scrap, fats, tin cans, rubber, phonograph records, books and other scrap materials.

In addition to this, they are studying the proper respect, display and handling of the American flag. Many other schools are carrying on this project, which is so vital to the war effort.

Seed Potatoes to Be Scarcity

Rising prices on the market and greater need of seed, give indications of a possible shortage of good seed potatoes. Growers are urged to decide on their requirements and attempt now to purchase reliable seed or check on home supply to determine their quality.

Michigan has available certified seed of such varieties as Russet Rural, White Rural, Katahdin, Green Mountain, Chippewa, Pontiac, Irish Cobbler and Sebago. Practically all of the Irish Cobbler seed has been sold and supplies of the White Rural, Pontiac and Sebago are very limited. Most producers prefer Russet Rural for a late crop and it still remains the most popular variety in Michigan. If the goal of 60 per cent increase in potato acreage in Charlevoix county is reached, it means that the Russet Rural variety will feed all varieties.

Newer varieties that are popular and which will give results are Chippewa and Katahdin. Perhaps one advantage in having two varieties would be the more efficient handling of labor spread over the longer harvest season. Either Chippewa or Katahdin can be harvested from one to three weeks earlier than the Russets. However, the seed supply is short. It is suggested that you contact your extension office if you have good seed available for sale, or if you want to obtain good seed, so that all needs may be met by the growers of potatoes.

The MOPS Come Marching On

Taking their cues from the WAACS and WAVES, homemakers who are doing their bit behind the frying pan, washing machine and basinette, are banding themselves together in the "Maternal Order of Patriots" . . . MOPS, to you! Read about them in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (March 14) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

New Hybrid Tomato

Tests at Michigan State College indicate a new hybrid tomato holds promise for greenhouse operators in Michigan. The introduction has been given the name "Spartan Hybrid" according to Keith C. Barrons, who helped produce and test the new development. Parents are the well known Michigan State tomato and a variety called Cooper's Special. Yields of the new hybrid are a week to ten days earlier than the Michigan State hothouse tomato. Greenhouse labor shortages, Barrons points out, may delay widespread production of the new hybrid by commercial growers.

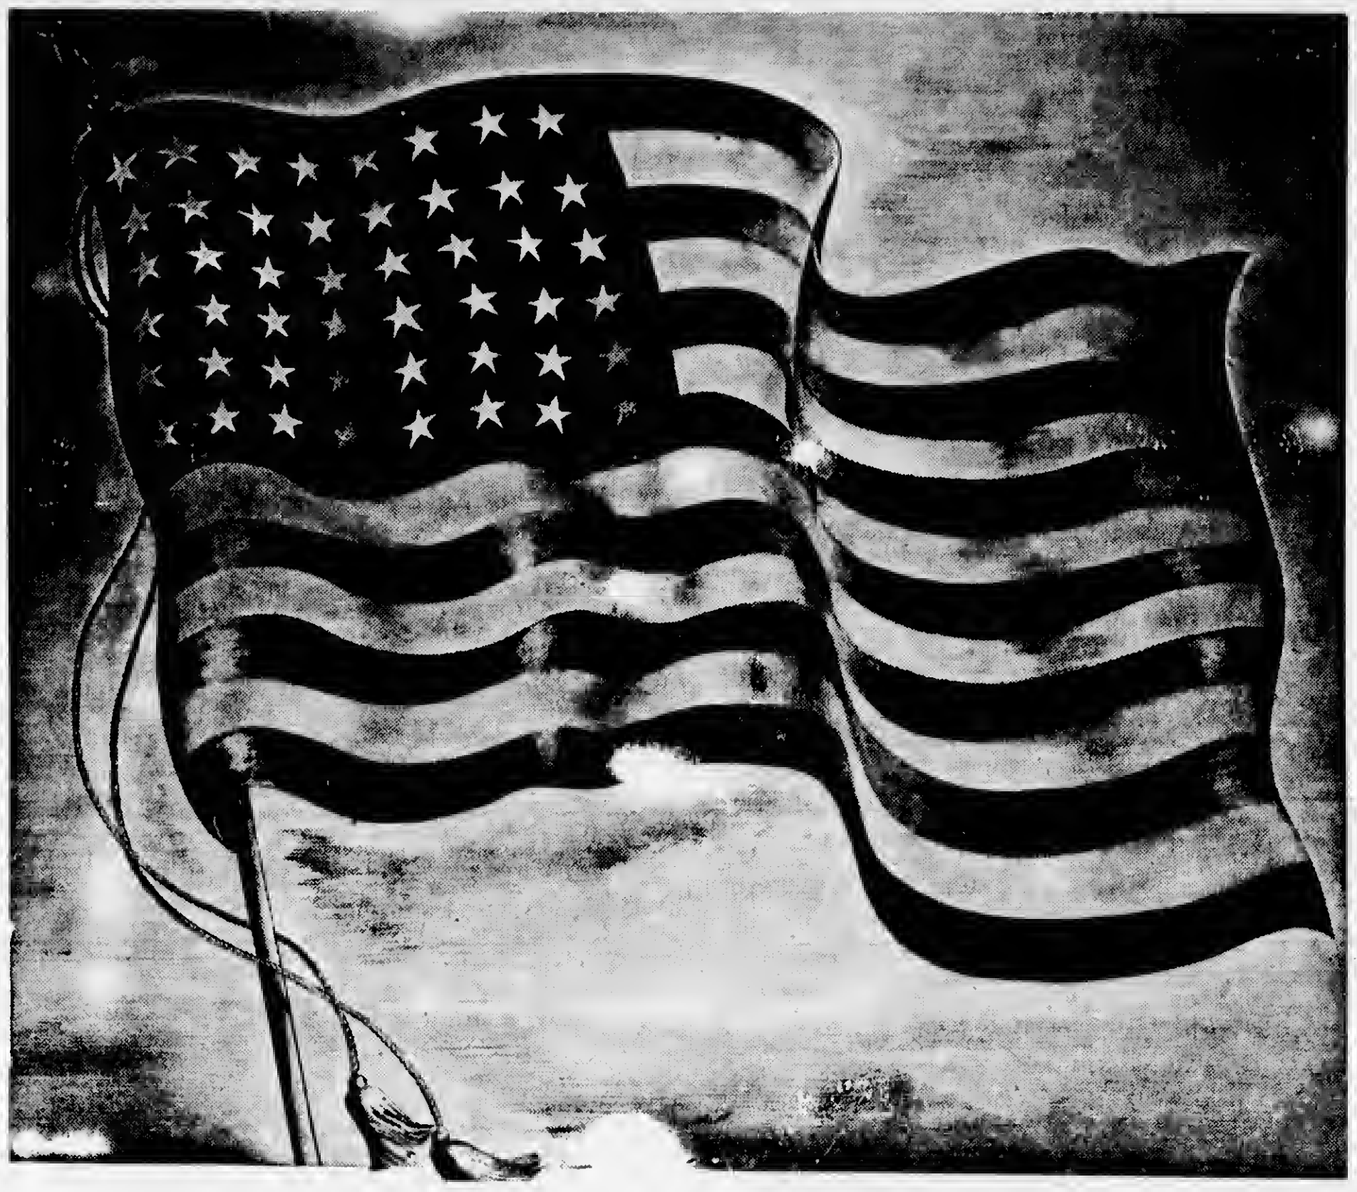
Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the main building of the Kalkaska high school at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning with a loss estimated at $125,000.



Just a piece of cloth

That's all it is—just a piece of cloth.

You can count the threads in it and it's no different from any other piece of cloth.

But then a little breeze comes along, and it stirs and sort of comes to life and flutters and snaps in the wind, all red and white and blue.

And then you realize that no other piece of cloth could be like it.

It has your whole life wrapped up in it. The meals you're going to eat. The time you're going to spend with your wife. The kind of things your boy will learn at school. Those strange and wonderful thoughts you get, inside a church, on Sunday.

Those stars in it—they make you feel just as free as the stars in the wide, deep night. And those stripes—they're bars of blood to any dictator who'd try to change it.

Just a piece of cloth, that's all it is—until you put your soul into it, and all that your soul stands for and wants and aspires to be.

Get that straight—it's just a piece of cloth. It doesn't mean a thing that you don't make it mean.

What do you want to make it mean? A symbol of liberty and decency and fair-dealing for everyone?

Then snap out of it. The enemy's been getting closer every day. Don't let him get any closer. Start driving him back now.

Now?

There aren't enough ships yet.

How are we going to get them? Make them, of course.

But how are we going to make them—force people, the way they do in Germany?

No, sir. We're going to pay our way. And you've got to help.

All you have to do is lend it—at interest. Higher interest than you can get in almost any other way—in U. S. War Bonds.

Interest that makes the Bond worth 1-3 again as much as you paid for it, in just ten years—just at the time you'll be wanting to take that vacation or buy that home in a world that's free and peaceful and swell to live in again.

Yes, that flag is just a piece of cloth until you breathe life into it. Until you make it stand for everything you believe in and want and refuse to live without.

Mister, is it worth pledging 10% of your income for, in U. S. War Bonds?

Let us not forget, also, that this is Red Cross month. The splendid work of this organization warrants all the support you can give. Be one of those who can say: "I helped put Charlevoix over the top."

SQUAWKING

Americans have always regarded the British people as hopelessly set in their own ways. But they changed quickly after Dunkirk. The whole nation is now wonderfully adapted to the double job of waging war abroad and keeping things working smoothly at home. England is a completely embattled nation, and has a code of civilian behavior that is almost as definite and effective as its military code.

Americans are getting around to that, but it comes hard. The domestic front is still full of creaks, groans and cries of agony over the surrender of peace-time privileges and ways of life. It seems as if every new restriction of luxuries, every tightening up of normal privileges, every new requirement of labor, results in a chorus of squawks. Not from a majority, of course, but from too many noisy people.

Really, ladies and gentlemen, there is a war on. The effects come home to every American and plend more and more powerfully for us much unity and zeal on the home front as there is on the foreign front.

MICHIGAN BELL CO. INCOME IS LOWEST

Gross High, But Increased Costs Lower Net Revenue

Michigan Bell Telephone Company has reported that its net income for 1942 fell to the lowest level in seven years, despite gross revenues that reached an all-time high.

President George M. Welch, in the company's annual report, said increased taxes was not the sole reason. He pointed out that, while gross revenues of the company were up 12 per cent over 1941, operating expenses, exclusive of taxes, rose 19 per cent.

Devoting most of the report to the manner in which the company met the challenge of war, the president said: "Michigan Bell men and women can take pride in the fact that through their efforts the company was able to assume its full burden of war communications, and at the same time care for most of the civilian telephone needs."

AREA CAGE TOURNEY TO BE AT PETOSKEY

Charlevoix Red Rovders Entered In Class C Competition

The district, regional and state cage tournaments are war casualties this year, giving place to area meets throughout the state.

According to T. Arthur Treloar, of Petoskey high school, regional tournament manager for many years, the area meet to be staged there will be held on two week ends, starting this week Thursday or Friday, March 11 or 12, and continuing through Saturday, Mar. 13, with semi-finals on Friday, March 19, and finals Saturday evening, March 20.

Three teams are slated in Class B, Traverse City, Rogers City and Petoskey.

Class C will include Harbor Springs, Pellston, Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

In Class D, tentative plans call for competition between St. Anne of Alpena, Mackinaw City, Boyne Falls, Ellsworth and Bellaire.

FOOD STAMP PLAN IS SUSPENDED BY USDA

Thousands of Michigan Residents Affected by Order

Effective March 1, the food stamp plan was suspended by the U. S. department of agriculture, probably for the duration of the war.

The discontinuance will immediately affect 74,277 persons in Michigan, aged, blind, mothers with dependent children, and a large group of unemployables whose limited diets are augmented with the purchase of blue stamp foods. Throughout the nation, more than 1,800,000 persons will be affected. Starting March 1, these large groups again must depend entirely for their food on assistance grants from federal, state or local government, or private charities.

NO COUNTY FAIR FOR THE YEAR OF 1943

Officers and Directors Decided Matter Last Saturday

At a meeting of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society held at the city building in East Jordan last Saturday night, the officers and directors decided that owing to wartime restrictions, the risk would be too great to venture a fair this year.

Many will be sorry to learn this, but financing an annual event is at best a hard proposition even in normal times.

Also at this meeting it was voted that, with approval of the board of supervisors, the association leased to Frank Bird the fair grounds for the coming year to be used for a turkey farm.—Charlevoix County Herald.

How Much Butter?

Some indication of the butter situation comes to light in a brief analysis offered by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. Production figures indicate national production in January of 122,880,000 pounds or 2 to 3 per cent more than in January, 1942. Butter in storage, however, on Feb. 20 was only 8,220,000 pounds compared with 57,114,000 on the same date in 1942. Cheese in storage Feb. 20 was estimated at 63,071,000 pounds compared with 97,396,000 on the same date in 1942.

Wool Packaging

An adequate supply of burlap and paper bags will be available for packaging the nation's 1943 wool clip, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. The wool containers include a half million used burlap bags, 600,000 new paper-mesh bags and enough new burlap cloth to make an estimated 400,000 bags.

Phone Service Increases

The February issue of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company's magazine, "The Michigan Bell," reporting station development from January 1, 1942, to January 1, 1943, shows that this year Charlevoix had 574 telephones in service on that date as against 540 the previous year. Net gain was 28 phones.

Wormy Pigs Make Runts

Farrowing pens and all equipment should be thoroughly washed with boiling water, soap and lye and all litter removed before spring pigs arrive. Wormy pigs lose the race to market to healthy pigs which mature four to eight weeks earlier.

A Better Land I Know

By FRED TOOLE

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WILLIE was smart. No one could pull the wool over his eyes. Which was why his pocket bulged comfortably with a neat wad of bills and a ticket to Miami as he sauntered jauntily into Ben's Barbecue.

"One hot beef, one coffee," he nodded to Ben, throwing open his overcoat. "And make it good, boy, because it's the last one I'll have until I hit the sunny South."

"South!" Ben was startled as he smacked the sizzling beef on to a roll.

"The sunny South," Willie repeated, flashing a thin-lipped smile. "You might be going with me, Ben, if you weren't so soft-hearted. No handouts in my joint, Benny boy. Give as little as you can and get as much as you can for it—that's my motto. And you see how it works? I'll be lying on a beach while you're shoveling snow. Why don't you get wise?"

Willie turned in surprise as a chair cracked against the wall. He hadn't noticed the tall, gaunt old man who now rose hurriedly and went to the door, where he stood staring through the glass at the bleak street, swept clear by the icy blasts.

"What's eating him?" Willie asked, mystified.

Ben flushed. "Guess you put your foot in it," he said, awkwardly. "Talking about handouts, I mean. And the South."

Willie's sharp face hardened. "Another chiseler, eh?" he asked grimly. "Listen—"

"You listen," said Ben firmly. "Maybe it'll take some of the starch out of you, tough guy. You know what that old man makes? Fifteen a week! How'd you like to send half of that to your sick daughter, and live on the rest?"

Willie chuckled scornfully. "I hear that one ten times a day."

"I happen to know it's true." Ben's eyes were somber. "His name's Merrifield. He comes from Georgia. If it weren't for his daughter I'll bet he'd rather starve on his old place. His heart and soul are down there, Willie. Just hearing him talk about the pines and cottonwoods, the swamps, the dunes, the way the darkies sing—" Ben dropped his knife abruptly and went to turn on the radio.

Willie looked thoughtfully at the shabby figure by the door, but when Ben returned his face was blank. "What did you give him tonight?" he asked.

"Barbecue and coffee," said Ben defiantly.

"I thought so!" Willie's grin was mocking. "Don't even know how to treat his kind. I'll show you, Benny boy, and let it be a lesson to you!"

And before Ben could protest, Willie had gone to Merrifield. "Pardon me, sir; I understand you're from the South," he said easily. "I'm going down that way myself, and I wonder if you'd join me in a little—er—farewell repast?"

Merrifield bowed gravely. "A pleasure, Mr.—?"

Ben introduced them, and took Willie's casual order for two steak dinners. "You're going south, sir?"

"That's right," said Willie. "Miami. I need a vacation."

Merrifield nodded courteously. "I'm sure you do. The South is the place for rest—and peace." He went on to talk about his home, restrained emotion in his voice. Even Ben, tending the sizzling steaks, could feel it.

The music from the radio rose to a gleeful shriek, then ended; and the program followed that Merrifield loved. Mellow strains filled the little restaurant, and all at once the things the old man had been talking about were there: Peace and rest—cottonwoods, the scent of pines, swamps, the darkies' songs. And a rich vibrant bass began to sing.

"Gone are the days when my heart was young and gay, Gone are my friends from the cotton fields away . . ."

Merrifield fell silent. He sat gazing out the window—gazing into Georgia, into the past, as the rich voice carried them all away.

". . . to a better land I know . . ."

And then Willie laughed harshly and rose, shattering the spell. "That reminds me—I'm going south myself. Why don't you go back to Georgia, if you like it so much? I hear you've got a sick kid there."

Merrifield stiffened. The faraway look in his eyes vanished, to be replaced by wretchedness. But Willie went on tauntingly: "My train stops over in Atlanta. I'll give Georgia your regards."

The old man's head drooped; he didn't even notice the bump Willie gave him as he buttoned his expensive coat with a swagger.

Ben followed Willie to the door. "You meant to hurt him—" he accused. "—to break his heart! I didn't know anyone could be so low."

"That's the way I treat his kind," Willie snapped defensively.

He walked fast. He was smart, all right. No one was going to catch him getting sentimental. But he wanted to get that song out of his ears, wanted to forget those tired eyes. And most of all, he didn't want to be around when a homesick old man found in his torn pocket a wad of bills and a ticket to the place he loved.

COMMUNICATION

The following letter was received last week by the Charlevoix Service Organization from Mrs. Carl Beattie, of Midland, written in behalf of her husband. Mr. Beattie, musician first class, U. S. navy, was wounded in a sea battle in the south Pacific area during November, and has been confined to the naval hospital at Oakland, Calif.

The letter follows:

"Dear Friends,

Your interest and remembrance of Carl is deeply appreciated. It pleased him very much to know that folks in his old home town were still concerned and interested in him. Speaking for Carl, I can tell you that it is the cards and notes received from the friends and folks at home that cheers you up and helps to pass each lonely day.

"It makes us feel that besides our country, there is your kind of folks that are well worth fighting for.

"Carl is being transferred next week to the naval hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. He requested this change of hospitals so he would be closer home and have his family with him.

"His condition is slowly improving. His jaws have just been set in the past two weeks and will be wired together for the next two months. This couldn't be done any sooner because of the burns on his face. The double fracture of his right forearm can't be set yet, as the burns aren't healed. He will no doubt be in the hospital for another five months.

"Carl would like to acknowledge all of his cards himself, but it is impossible with his injured arm.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Carl Beattie."

Friends may address mail to: Carl W. Beattie, Mus. 1-c, U. S. Naval Hospital, Ward 41-B, Oakland, Calif.

FROM THE GARDEN CLUB

The Dutchman's breeches (Dicentra cucullaria) of our Eastern woodlands is a familiar plant of the springtime. Although it is not grown as widely as our old garden favorite, the Bleeding heart (D. spectabilis), which is a native of China and Eastern Asia, no more beautiful plant for a partially shaded spot or rock garden can be found. The cream-colored flowers fade in late May and the fernlike leaves disappear a month later. Nothing more is seen of the plant until the next spring, when it pushes up from the leaf mold at the earliest sign of warmer weather. Many rocky hillsides and deep ravines are gay with its beauty for two months every year.

Dutchmen's breeches may be transplanted to the garden from the woods, but it is best to buy them from nurseries. The root is a bulb made up of many granulate parts and each part sending up a leaf from the top. Dicentra canadensis, known as Squirrel Corn, is almost identical, but can best be distinguished by the roots, which are tiny bulbs. Both of the plants grow in clumps in the natural state, but each of the tiny sections or bulbs will grow into full-sized clusters when transplanted. Most nurserymen sell the former but the latter is seldom seen in the garden. Both are natives of our Eastern mountains.

Growing in hilly sections from Western New York southward along the Alleghenies is the so-called Everblooming Bleeding heart (D. eximia). This has been adapted to our gardens and may be purchased from all plantsmen. The leaves resemble the two already described, but flowers are a delightful shade of pink and borne in larger clusters. This does not die down in summer, but continues to send up new leaves and new spikes of bloom all season.

It's Baking Soda

For refrigerator care, the cleaning with warm water and soda refers to baking soda or bicarbonate of soda. One level tablespoonful in a quart of warm water is recommended during the defrosting process. The inside and outside of the evaporating unit should be washed carefully and all of the inside of the refrigerator including the inside walls, shelves, fruit trays and vegetable containers. Similar care is recommended for an ice refrigerator.

THIS is the meaning of total war—that the home front and the fighting front pull together. It is not enough that men fight, and give their lives. This will be in vain unless the millions of Americans at home fight and give with them. Would you jeopardize Victory for a cup of coffee and another lump of sugar, for a tire and another gallon of gas? Would you want to hear again from some far-flung military outpost the words of defeat, "Too little and too late"? Or are you willing to drive less, drink less, eat less of certain foods, in the sure knowledge that we can achieve total victory only through total war?

Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with tha greatest wartima program in history, tha American Red Cross will launch its 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000 on March 1, Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

Pointing out that the bulk of the fund will be used to expand Red Cross services to the men of the armed forces and their families, Chairman Davis urged every American man and woman to contribute to the fund.

With tha approval of Presideot Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross Month. Walter S. Gifford, president of tho American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

"Red Cross services to our armed forces and to tha needs of distressed civilians on the battle and home fronts can be supplied only by great expenditures and sacrifices," Chairman Davis said. "We are exerting our utmost efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people in funds, time and energy. We must never falter in our determination to meet these definite obligations The Red Cross is confident that all our people will be generous in their support of the 1943 War Fund."

More than 65 percent of tha fund received by the national organization will be devoted to meeting Red Cross responsibilities to the armed forces. These include the Red Cross overseas club program, recreation and hospital program, ths stationing of field directors at all foreign and domestic military camps and bases, ths huge surgical dressing production program, and the blood plasma project which recently was expanded to a total of 4,000,000 pints at the request of the Army and Navy.

Chairman Davis pointed out that the 1943 program will be vastly greater than the accomplishments of last year, in which the Red Cross aided millions of war victims through its foreign war relief program; gave aid to thousands of prisoners of war; collected 1,500,000 pints of blood for the armed forces; produced 520,000,000 surgical dressings, and aided more than 1,500,000 servicemen and their families.

The $125,000,000 quota, he said, will finance the local, national and international work of the Red Cross for the entire year, barring unforeseen emergencies.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

Youth Farm Training Is Starting Well

The Michigan youth farm labor program, designed to enlist and train high school boys and girls to meet the emergency of a farm labor shortage, is under way. Benton Harbor high school is the first school to report installation of special courses with 40 boys already attending classes in farm tractor operation.

Saline high school is reported to be enrolling students in farm training courses. County farm labor committees, appointed by county councils of defense, are organizing the program in many sections of the state, with agricultural communities taking the lead.

The training program is being conducted under the direction of the state board of control for vocational education, authorized to employ special instructors and additional labor where necessary.

The general design of the courses aims at basic training in the simpler farm tools, with instruction methods left to the instructors. Week-end field trips and visits to farms will be included in the courses.

Encouraging interest is being shown in the program by high school youths in all sections of the state, according to C. B. Dibble, state administrator of the training plan, and farmers are cooperating in a way which assures success of the program.

More than ever before the Red Cross needs your financial support in the War Fund Drive which opened March 1 and continues throughout the entire month.

The money is vitally needed to carry on the work of this great organization in its far flung fields in Europe as well as within the boundaries of our own country. The men of all branches of our armed forces highly praise the work of the American Red Cross and if they were here today they would urge you to do your utmost for the organization which serves the boys who are serving us.

Charlevoix has been asked to contribute $1,500. Of this amount a generous portion will remain for home work with the balance being added to the general fund for overseas activities of the Red Cross. The amount asked is a LARGE amount and will require that everyone give as freely as he or she possibly can. It is an investment in the lives, comfort and welfare of our boys in the armed forces.

We, at home, with increased taxes, rationing and other problems should consider ourselves fortunate that we're not wallowing in the mud and hell holes of Guadalcanal or New Guinea or fighting on the sand-blown deserts of Africa. We're not sacrificing much compared to our boys.

When a solicitor for the American Red Cross stops at your place of business or at your bome—give freely—AT LEAST DOUBLE YOUR PREVIOUS SUBSCRIPTION!

by which fishermen must operate, it would seem only fur and reasonable that the industry should have a voice in the matter and that one of their number, possessing practical experience as a qualification and with the interests of the industry at heart, would be the logical person. George LaBlanc, Jr., local fisherman, outlined the plan to this writer and explained that the industry is backing the appointment of Claude VerDuin, of Grand Haven, a commercial fisherman, who is also secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers' Association and editor of the Great Lakes Journal, a publication dealing largely with the commercial fishing industry. Charlevoix has a heavy stake in the commercial fishing industry and without special urging should lend its support to this move. Drop a letter at once to Gov. Kelly expressing your opinion.

Before winter bows out (which seems unlikely with present sub-zero weather and almost daily snowfall) I want to hand a bouquet to Leo Allard, street commissioner, for his fine work of keeping city streets clear of snow. Despite repeated heavy storms and a requirement trunk line highways within the city receive first attention, there has never been a time during the winter that all city streets have not been kept open to traffic. That's nothing unusual for Leo, though, because he's been doing that for a good many years now.

The Jackson Citizen Patriot carried this black-type note at the head of a front-page story on a strike at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company plant in Jackson: "For reasons of morale, the following news item will not appear in the edition of the Citizen Patriot which goes to more than 1,200 men in the fighting services." It is shameful, indeed, that we should have to conceal from our fighting men the fact that here in this country there are people who do not think they should have to make any sacrifice to win the war. We complain about censorship of war news, which may be glossed over to make it look better to the folks back home. But some of the folks back home never stop to consider how knowledge of their own actions may affect the men at the front; that factory workers are fighting a battle of production of arms for the soldiers just as surely as the soldiers are fighting a battle of bullets and shells and blood for the protection of our way of living.

The re-appearance of sliced bread on American tables this week marks the first time, we believe, that any widespread government restriction imposed on civilians because of wartime necessity has been removed without any great hue and cry having been raised against it. With bandaged fingers and battered bread knives the housewives of America went bravely forth to do battle with the wheaten loaf, and their courage was rewarded when the slicing machines were again put to use. We were just beginning to get nice straight slices at our house, too.

expect one every week, also a parachute jump. I don't mind the jumps so much, but the places they dump us out aren't fit for an animal. From the information I gathered, it's to get us to do tree landings. I hope they don't keep that up, I'm all bruised up from those limbs.

The weather here has been very warm, but at the moment it's raining.

I get your paper every week. It certainly is a good pastime just to read it, and I want to express my sincere gratitude and appreciation to you for sending it to me. I've also got a new address.

So long, and good luck.

Yours truly,

Dear Ken,

Was very pleased to receive the Courier in the mail the other evening. I really am glad to get the lowdown on just what is happening back home.

This field is really great, but frankly, I wouldn't trade any spot in the whole United States for Charlevoix.

Yours truly,

Dear Sir,

Just a few lines to let you know I haven't been getting the Courier since I've been transferred here from Ford's naval training station at Dearborn, Mich. I sure would appreciate your sending it again and will take this opportunity to thank you for sending it in the past, as I really enjoyed reading it and finding out just what all is going on in good old Charlevoix.

Since leaving service school I've made 3rd class aviation machinist mate and am going up for 2nd class soon. My work consists of making necessary repairs and servicing planes. I also get quite a few hours every week in the air testing and checking the plane's instruments while in flight. Sometimes the pilot lets me take over the controls, but not for long because I'm about as graceful a flier as an owl.

Although it has been only 8 months since Bert Pearl and I enlisted in the navy at Detroit, it seems as though it's been 2 years that I've been away from Charlevoix and I believe that all servicemen feel the way I do, so let's get this war won and be back home again if possible in the near future.

Yours truly,

Dear Ken,

Say, Ken, I sure would appreciate it if you would send me the last two copies of that good old home town paper. It sure gets lousy around here when you don't know what's going on up there.

I suppose it is kind of lonely around there now, as there wasn't too much going on when I left. But it's just the opposite around here. We are kept moving from 5:30 and sometimes 5 in the a. m. until 9:30 p. m. And if you are caught off the beam you get 4 hours guard duty in the middle of the night, which isn't very easy to accept after drilling and marching all day long. But we get along somehow. We have only got 3 months of this training, so I guess we'll have to get used to it. We don't graduate until May sometime, so I've got quite a while before I get my leave.

I haven't done a very good job of writing, so I'll sign off for now. I'll also give you my address, and will thank you again for a copy of the Courier.

Dear Ken,

I have been planning on dropping you folks a few lines for some time, but never got enough ambition or had something to do about the time I felt like writing. Nevertheless, I have been receiving the Courier quite regularly and can truthfully say that we fellows over here look forward to its arrival at mail call. Bob (Heise), Dave (Mntchett) and the rest of us boys from Charlevoix-the-Beautiful get together every once in a while and talk over old times, you know how it is, we all say there will be so many changes in the old home town that we won't be able to recognize it. I guess we will all be willing to take that chance, when the time comes.

I received the paper that told of the sale of same, while I was in the hospital and was sorry to hear that you might leave the paper. We would really miss your "Shots at Random." One really gets quite a lot of news from your writings, also we like your bits of humor.

Well, Ken, it's about chow time and after that the clerk will want to use the typewriter, so will have to close.

Onemore I would like to express my appreciation to you, the owners and the people of Charlevoix who make it possible to send your little morale-builder each week, and believe me, it's just that. The people back there are all doing the same as you are, as fellows from all parts of the country get their local paper, and I'm sure they enjoy it as much as we do.

Well, so long, everybody, and I hope to be able to see all of you by this time next year. That reminds me of the nice Christmas card I had from the Kiwanis Club. Thanks a lot men! That sure was a fine view of the old home town. I kinda thing Bob Heise and Ed. Radle maybe had a few tears in their eyes when they first saw it, 'cause perhaps it's a little closer to them than us farmers out Barnard way.

Well, I will really quit this time. With best wishes to the new publishers for the continued success of the Courier, and everyone.

Yours for Victory Soon,
Staff Sgt. Carlton Smith,
Somewhere In Australia.

P. S.—To you fellows in other parts of the world, we who are over here send you our best wishes and only hope you are as lucky at ducking 'em as we've been so far. Hello! to all of you sailors, soldiers and those in the air corps—in fact, every last one of you.

MURRAY SCHOOL

Levi McLellan was in Petoskey, Saturday.

The White and Leish families, who have been ill with flu, are much better now.

Miss Joyce Bailey, of Bay Shore, spent the week end at the Baker home.

Bob White, of Maple Grove, and Clifford Short, of Burgess, were in this neighborhood Sunday, hunting the fox John Grey didn't get last week.

Lawrence Send was a caller at the Wm. Hair home last Wednesday afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Grant Furgeson and Mrs. William Hair were callers at the Wm. Wagley home.

Mrs. Bob White visited Mrs. Wm. Hair, Thursday and Monday afternoons.

Fox hunting is quite a popular sport these days. One day this past week Clifford Short and Bob White, Jr., hunted all day, but crafty Reynard out-maneuvered them all and is probably congratulating himself that his hide is still intact.

Jimmy Elzinga visited at the Floyd Baker home Sunday afternoon and also called on Billy Hair.

William Price is still calling on the farmers of the neighborhood in the interests of the AAA program.

Mrs. Wm. Wagley has been suffering from a sore throat for a few days.

Quite a few crows have been seen lately, but we are suspicious that they may have cold feet, and they all seem to have a lean and hungry look. Wonder if they really could be harbingers of spring, or did they just get their dates mixed.

State Auditors Here

George Fredd and H. A. McLaughlin, of the state auditor general's office at Lansing, began work Monday on the annual audit of books of Charlevoix county. They expect to be here ten days.

RED CROSS IS ALWAYS READY

DISASTER RELIEF GIVEN TO MANY THOUSANDS

Nature's Violence Struck Many in Past Year; Disaster Groups Are Coostantly Alert

Standing ready to bring order out of any chaos created by man or nature is the American Red Cross, which this month, for the first time since December, 1041, is asking for funds to carry on its endless task of ministering to suffering humanity.

In storm, in fire, in flood, in explosion, as well as on the battle front, Red Cross is ready to meet any emergency. To 72,434 victims of nature's unprecedented violence last year, the hands of the Red Cross ministered. Dollars for food, more dollars for clothing, shelter, still more dollars for medical care were needed to pay the hill for nature's cruel tricks. Ninety-five per cent of this disaster relief hill was puld hy the national Red Cross and the rest was paid by local chnpters in the affected areas.

If mnn-mnde terror crashes down from tho thundering skies, the Red Cross is prepared. Constantly alert, disaster groups wait for the bombs to striko.

It may not happen hore. But if it does, your American Red Cross, cooperating fully with the office of civilian defenae, is ready. Ready with blood, donated by Americans, collected through the Red Cross, processed and stored at strategic points ready for immediste uso. Ready with nearly six million first alders trained by the Red Cross, who know what to do before the doctor arrives. Ready with food, dispensed by canteen units who are trained in mass feeding and nutrition. Ready with the skill of Red Cross nurses and 60,000 nurse's nides trained for hospltal service. Ready with ambulances, mobile disaster units, automobiles to rush victims to hospitals and workers to their stations. Ready with clothing, shelter, surgicnl dressings, information nbout loved ones.

The American Red Cross needs your aid to be ready with all this if bombs fall.

Supplementary Sweetening

Sugar rationing may start some amateurs to collecting sap for boiling down to maple syrup this spring and farmers with well kept sugar bushes, sap buckets, collecting kettles and boiling pans are preparing to make the most of the available supply. They are encouraged by the high wartime ceiling price, but ... ining suitable containers is a problem. Novices are advised not to expect too high returns. Ordinarily it takes 40 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup, even more boiling to make sugar.

RATION BOOK 2 FIGURES GIVEN

10,330 BOOKS ARE ISSUED IN THIS COUNTY

Fewer County Residents Register for Second Book than During First Registration in May

Figures relenaed this week by the local war price nnd retioning board reveal that a total of 10,330 war ration books were issued in Charlevoix county during registration for book two.

Apportionment of books among school districts of the county was as follows: Charlevoix, 2,530; Boyne City, 3,227; East Jordan, 2,694; St. James, 369; Boyne Falls, 635; rural district schools, 875.

The job of registration was efficiently handled by members of the school faculties in each city. Although many minor problems arose, the local rationing board was commended by the district OPA office for the smoothness with which registration was conducted throughout the county.

Number of ration books issued at this second registration shows a decrease of 1,700 registrants from last May, when 12,030 copies of war ration book one were issued in Charlevoix county. Whether the netual popuiation of the county has decreased, or whether meny residents have sufficient supplies of commercially canned or homegrown food on hand that they did not feel it necessary to register, is not known.

POINT SYSTEM TO EXTEND BY APRIL

MAJORITY OF NECESSITIES WILL BE RATIONED

OPA Plans Crackdown On Many Items Not Controlled; Attack Food Black Markets

The Office of Price Administration has completed plans for rationing most major food items by April 1, it was learned Thursday.

The only important foods which will remain unrationed if the planned crackdown goes into effect will be bread, potatoes, fresh vegetables, eggs and probably milk.

Point rationing of meat, bacon, canned meats and canned fish is scheduled definitely to begin on or around April 1. Sugar, coffee and all caaned or processed vegetables, juices, fruits and soups already are rationed. OPA has made all necessary preparations for adding cheese, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils to the rationed list as soon as it receives a go-ahead from the agricultural department.

According to present plans, rationing of meat, bacon, canned meat, canned fish, butter, cooking fats and cooking oils will be carried out as a single program on the point system on the red sheets of War Ration Book No. 2. OPA rationing experts, it was learned, have drawn up a second elaborate chart of point values to cover all the new items.

The meat point values will include all major cuts of "red" meats—such as spare-ribs, chops and steaks—as well as liver, kidneys, heart, brain end sweetbreads.

There still was no official information about the amount of the planned meat ration, though informed sources believed it probably would average around 1 3-4 pounds e week a person. Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown told a press conference it would be "less than 2½ pounds."

Introduction of meat rationing will coincide with the climax of OPA's drive against black market operations. Brown outlined a four-point program of attack: 1. Meat rationing; 2. Licensing of slaughterers by the agricultural department; 3. An extensive advertising campaign to convince the public of the dangers of eating black market meat; and 4. Enforcement of OPA regulations by prosecution of black market operators.

Brown disclosed that OPA already has undertaken 800 prosecutions, including 33 criminal proceedings, under its enforcement program.

Last Wednesday morning's 30 degrees below zero set a March record not equalled in many years. With the mercury hovering around the zero mark since, it's hard to visualize spring being only 10 days hence.

Clift: "Who wears the pants at your house?"

Churif: "We take turns."

Many operators of linotypes in newspaper offices, when they make a mistake near the middle of a line of type, have a trick of twiddling two or three keys to fill out that line, then start over again. They intend to take out the spoiled line, but sometimes it slips through. That'a why readers of a down-state paper got a laugh out of a church item which reported that: "The ladies' aid met at the home of Mrs. Blank. After a covered dish dinner they spent the afternoon hzz shhzz bzzsh."

County sportsmen will be interested in learning that a conservation department releasa of 23 pair of sharptail grouse was made recently over in the Springvale district. A previous releasa of these game birds waa made last summer in the Pinney Bridge district of the Jordan river valley. To date I haven't heard of anyone killing any of the birds first released, so by now they should be well established. And this reminds me that Emil Chvatil said there was a large flock of prairie chicken summered last year near his place south of town, so mayba this species is becoming established in our game cover, too.

With one vacancy yet to be filled on the conservntion commission, Michignn commercial fishermen have launched n campnign to convince Governor Harry F. Kelly that n representative of their industry should hold that berth. In view of the importance of the commercial fishing industry, such a move would seem practical and advisable. With the conservation commission administering the laws

Dear Ken,

I am now at Kearns, Utah. We arrived here Sunday night.

Kearns Field is about 15 miles southwest of Salt Lake City. Salt Lake itself is north and west of us. Snow-covered mountains to the east and west of us. I cannot see to the south end of Salt Lake valley. There is no snow in the valley, but I can take one glance at the mountains and see more snow than I had seen all the rest of the winter put together before coming here.

Living here is quite different from living in a large hotel in Los Angeles. A nice bunch of soldiers here.

This camp is for replacement overseas training groups. The soldiers are from technical schools such as airplane mechanics, radio operators, technical clerks, etc. A lot of the soldiers received their technical schooling in Chicago and Detroit.

Uncle Sam says the technicians have always put up the goods, but in an emergency like the defense of the Philippines, the technicians did not know enough about protecting themselves in the business of war. Now he uses Kearns for a hardening process for the technicians so in case of an emergency like a bombing attack, or an attack by paratroops, the technician will be able to use a bayonet, firearms and do hand-to-hand fighting with skill.

Yesterday morning I met the first soldier I had known in Michigan since I left Fort Custer, November 25. He had been a salesman for Riley Dairy Supply of Grand Rapids, his name is Alec Neil. Alec had called on me regularly for several years. You may be sure we were both glad to see each other.

You may address the Courier to me as follows:

Pvt. J. F. Kirkpatrick,

8th Sq., 502 R. O. T. C.
Kearns, Utah.

Dear Ken,

Just a line or two this morning while I've got the chance.

For the past three months all I've been doing is going on hikes for about 45 or 50 miles. We can

PRESIDENT REVIEWING OUR ARMORED MIGHT IN MOROCCO

CASABLANCA, MOROCCO—In an army jeep driven by Sergeant Oran Lass of Kansas City, Missouri, President Roosevelt is shown passing along a line of our light tanks in a surprise review in North Africa. These tanks are the new M-5's, the model now produced for quite some months by the Massey-Harris Farm Implement Company. Their lightning-like speed and hitting power are being used in battling the Nazi forces in North Africa.

Honey No Miracle

Seventeen colonies of bees at Michigan State College proved in 1942 that bees are doing their part in combatting any sugar shortage, but that beekeeping is not an amateur's shortcut to plenty of sweets. The season was not favorable to the bees, but the 17 colonies turned out nearly 70 pounds of honey each. The honey had a value of $173.43, a little more than $10 a colony.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How do you feel about this idea of stopping 'em from selling liquor anywhere near army camps, Judge?"

"I was just talking about that with Will down at the barber shop about ten minutes ago. Tell you what I told him, Ned. I say it's up to the Army to decide. Why should we walk in and tell the Army how to do its job ...any more than I should tell you how to go about putting out a fire? And here's something that strikes me funny. All this worrying seems to be about the boys' conduct around the camps here in this country. You never hear a word of worrying about them drinking when they go abroad. Kind of queer isn't it, Ned?"

LANSING LETTER

What's wrong with the Michigan liquor control system?

The unswer is not new. It's at least 75 years old—perhaps 7,500 years old.

And here it is: Lack of law enforcement, backed by public opinion.

But just before you grab your telephone and start calling for your local legislator at Lansing to do something about it—no doubt, getting the legislature to enact another law for officers not to enforce—better adjust your specks and look at your own front yard.

The solution is so simple, it's difficult to make the public believe that it is true.

If taverns are flouting the law and some of the dance halls and nighteries are "cesspools of vice", initial responsibility for these local conditions rests wth your local conditions rests with your local (if the tavern is outside the town) or with the city council and local chief of police (if it is inside the town.)

The State of Michigan has a responsibility, of course. It is an important one.

But the first responsibility has been placed by the legislature in its liquor control act upon the home government.

Do you know that the Michigan Liquor Control commission MUST revoke a license of a by-the-glass establishment if any local government unit—township board, village board, town council—makes a request for such action?

Do you know that all by-the-glass licensees MUST have approval of their township, village or city boards before a license will be issued by the state?

Do you know that local governments MAY prohibit sale of all alcoholic beverages on Sundays, for example?

And did you know that dance permits must have the approval of the chief of police if the establishment is within the municipality, or the sheriff if it is outside the town?

The fact that 85 per cent of all license fees are RETURNED to home communities for enforcement of liquor control laws is another proof that the legislature intended local governments to police local conditions.

As we size up the situation, this legislative placing of responsibility upon home government does not make the State of Michigan immune from criticism if the public believes that "conditions are bad."

It is the over-all responsibility of the State government to meet the general problem, and, if the home governments are NOT performing their duty, then it should act itself in a positive manner.

Such was the theme of a report made by a study commission appointed by former Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner to make recommendations on possible improvements in our liquor control system. The report was signed by Federal Judge Frank A. Picard and Harry Rickel and Myron A. Keys. The views are regarded chiefly as those of Judge Picard. This column will deal with some of the recommendations.

The first recommendation of the study commission would be to give the state commission a discretionary power to retain not more than 20 per cent of license fee money due any municipality IF the home government failed to enforce the state law in its own jurisdiction. The state commission would use this money to maintain its own law enforcement agency.

The weakness of this suggestion obviously is that lack of enforcement is more prevalent in unincorporated areas—that is, townships. And if you want the law enforced in a township, to whom do you go for action? Many townships do not have police officers despite the fact that they do get 85 per cent of the licensing fees. Yes, the records show such to be the fact.

Then who should enforce the law in townships? The county sheriff could be held strictly accountable, IF he received some of the license fees and thus could hire men to assist him in policing township conditions. However, the more outspoken sheriffs admit privately that just as they seldom issue traffic violations because to do so would be "politically suicidal," so they might not be too zealous in enforcing liquor laws. Public opinion is the deciding factor; counties with liberal feelings toward the use of liquor are not going to elect (or re-elect) crusading, reformers in the office of county sheriff.

Some philosopher at the cracker barrel once remarked that the people get usually what they deserve.

If you have "bad" government, then it's probably more YOUR fault than someone at Lansing or Washington.

The state liquor control commission has completed a survey of two-thirds of the counties in Michigan, studying this matter of law enforcement and complaints of violations. Invariably where local officials are on their toes, the state gets no complaints. For instance, Lapeer, Hillsdale, Barry and other dry counties just don't stand for bad conditions. There is little for the state to do.

However, a leading city in the Thumb offers an example in reverse. City police have instructions from the city commission to stay out of licensed places. Result: Tavern conditions there are the worst in Michigan! State inspectors can only revoke a license when they can obtain evidence. The city council or commission could revoke any license merely by adopting a resolution. The state must revoke a license when the home government requests such action.

Under present laws in Michigan, any community can have exactly the sort of conditions it wants.

That is democracy at the grass-roots. Is it a desirable policy?

Next week we will continue this discussion. In the meanwhile, why don't you write a letter giving your views and mail it to your local newspaper. This is YOUR problem, even though it is 7,500 years old.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Military motorcycles, for couriers, for speeding light guns from one section to another, are an important part of America's mechanized army. Many are equipped with sidecars for use of staff officers. They cost from $100 to $450.

We need thousands of these small maneuverable machines in our Army today. You and your neighbors, all buying War Bonds and Stamps, can help buy them for the Army. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in War Bonds and Stamps and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Per cent Club." It is rapidly becoming the largest club in the world.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Farm Account Cooperators Check Books March 22-23

Thirty-four cooperators who have been keeping farm account books under the supervision of the extension agent, will be checking in their books for completeness and accuracy on March 22-23. Each year the farmers are given appointments so that approximately an hour and fifteen minutes may be devoted to each book. All items are carefully analyzed, all mistakes rectified and items that should be in the book but through oversight not included, are entered.

This work takes on added significance at this time when so many farmers are preparing their income tax returns.

A crew of three representatives of our farm management department, in addition to the county agent, will check in these 34 books in less than two days' time. Thus it will be appreciated if each appointment is kept. The following farmers are expected to complete the project:

Fred Willis, A. B. Todd, Lawrence Jensen, Marius Nielson, Frank Matchett, Stanley Houghton, Lewis McDonald, Harry DeNise, John Noble, William Shepard, George Klooster, J. Curtis Nicloy, Clyde Warner, Len Burnett, Cash Hayden, William Behling, Alfred Larsen, Robt. Nachazel, Charles Arnott, Andrew Dubas, Charlevoix County Infirmary, Orvill Bennett, Jay Ransom, Chas. Stanek, Theodore LaCroix, Addison W. Chew, Howard F. Gornell, Charles Reidel, Wolfe Price, William Price, Fred Alm, Lee Danforth, Ernest Brown, Guy Stutzman and Carl Clark.

"Unbalancing the Axis" Theme of Two Meetings on March 12

"What Records Are Necessary for Filing an Income Tax Return" and "What Are Good Farm Management Practices and Adjustments Under War Time Conditions" are the two timely topics for discussion at two meetings scheduled for Friday, March 12th. The first meeting will be held in the basement of the Boyne City library at 2 p. m., and the second meeting will be held in the basement of the city hall, Charlevoix, at 8 p. m.

Your extension agent will explain the use of the simplified farm account book developed by the farm management department of Michigan State College.

Clyde O. May, farm management specialist, M. S. C., will discuss "What Are Good Farm Management Practices and Adjustments Under War Time Conditions." "Unbalancing the Axis" and yet permitting a farmer to keep his farm business in balance will be the basis of the discussion. Mr. May is perhaps the outstanding authority on farm management studies in Michigan today.

Burgess School Outstanding Contributor to War Effort

Mrs. Hazel Evers, teacher at Burgess school, sent in the largest check from four counties toward the 4-H Club ambulance fund. This fund is sponsored by the National committee on boys and girls club work and will be used to buy ambulances for the United States army, and our hats are off to this small school of some fifteen pupils who have gathered scrap, fats, tin cans, rubber, phonograph records, books and other scrap materials.

In addition to this, they are studying the proper respect, display and handling of the American flag. Many other schools are carrying on this project, which is so vital to the war effort.

Seed Potatoes to Be Scarcity

Rising prices on the market and greater need of seed, give indications of a possible shortage of good seed potatoes. Growers are urged to decide on their requirements and attempt now to purchase reliable seed or check on home supply to determine their quality.

Michigan has available certified seed of such varieties as Russet Rural, White Rural, Katahdin, Green Mountain, Chippewa, Pontiac, Irish Cobbler and Sebago. Practically all of the Irish Cobbler seed has been sold and supplies of the White Rural, Pontiac and Sebago are very limited. Most producers prefer Russet Rural for a late crop and it still remains the most popular variety in Michigan. If the goal of 60 per cent increase in potato acreage in Charlevoix county is reached, it means that the Russet Rural variety will lead all varieties.

Newer varieties that are popular and which will give results are Chippewa and Katahdin. Perhaps one advantage in having two varieties would be the more efficient handling of labor spread over the longer harvest season. Either Chippewa or Katahdin can be harvested from one to three weeks earlier than the Russets. However, the seed supply is short. It it suggested that you contact your extension office if you have good seed available for sale, or if you want to obtain good seed, so that all needs may be met by the growers of potatoes.

The MOPS Come Marching On

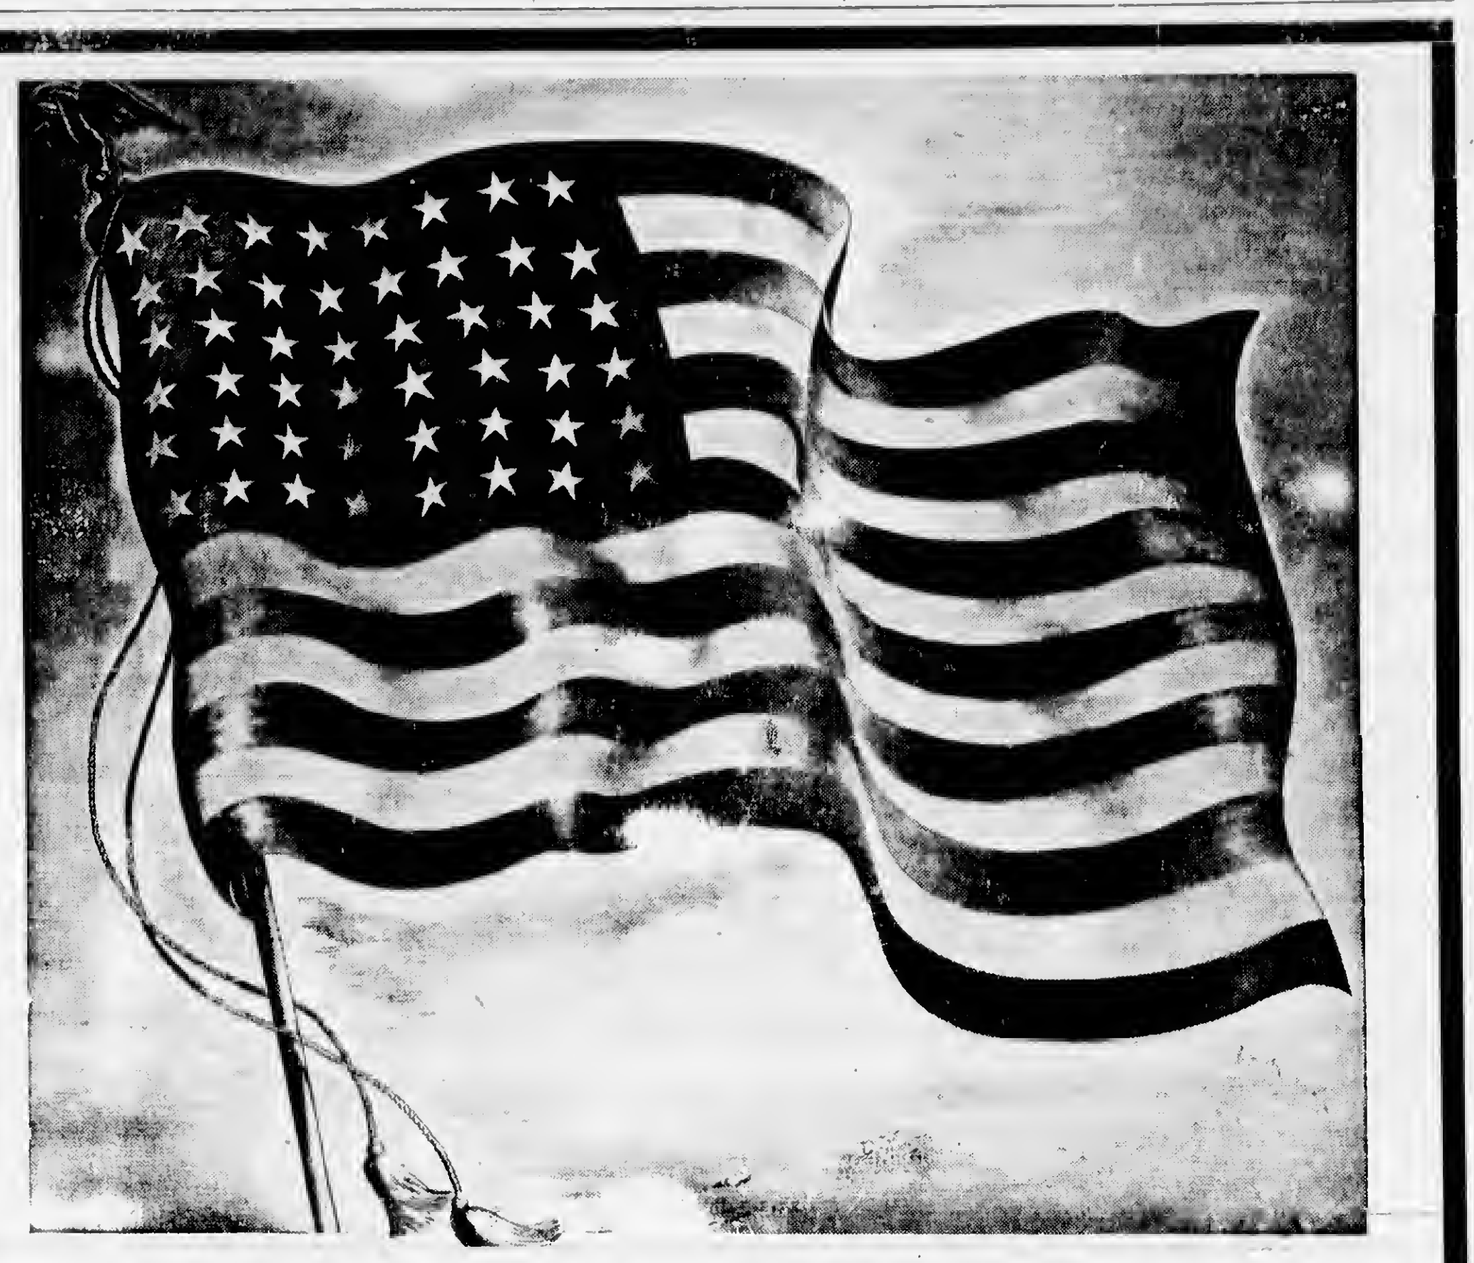
Taking their cues from the WAACS and WAVES, homemakers who are doing their bit behind the frying pan, washing machine and bassinette, are banding themselves together in the "Maternal Order of Patriots" . . . MOPS, to you! Read about them in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (March 14) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

New Hybrid Tomato

Tests at Michigan State College indicate a new hybrid tomato holds promise for greenhouse operators in Michigan. The introduction has been given the name "Spartan Hybrid" according to Keith C. Barrons, who helped produce and test the new development. Parents are the well known Michigan State tomato and a variety called Cooper's Special. Yields of the new hybrid are a week to ten days earlier than the Michigan State hothouse tomato. Greenhouse labor shortages, Barrons points out, may delay widespread production of the new hybrid by commercial growers.

Kalkaska School Burns

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn building of the Kalkaska high school at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning with a loss estimated at $125,000.



Just a piece of cloth

That's all it is—just a piece of cloth.

You can count the threads in it and it's no different from any other piece of cloth.

But then a little breeze comes along, and it stirs and sort of comes to life and flutters and snaps in the wind, all red and white and blue.

And then you realize that no other piece of cloth could be like it.

It has your whole life wrapped up in it. The meals you're going to eat. The time you're going to spend with your wife. The kind of things your boy will learn at school. Those strange and wonderful thoughts you get, inside a church, on Sunday.

Those stars in it—they make you feel just as free as the stars in the wide, deep night. And those stripes—they're bars of blood to any dictator who'd try to change it.

Just a piece of cloth, that's all it is—until you put your soul into it, and all that your soul stands for and wants and aspires to be.

Get that straight—it's just a piece of cloth. It doesn't mean a thing that you don't make it mean.

What do you want to make it mean? A symbol of liberty and decency and fair-dealing for everyone?

Then snap out of it. The enemy's been getting closer every day. Don't let him get any closer. Start driving him back now.

Now?

There aren't enough ships yet.

How are we going to get them? Make them, of course.

But how are we going to make them—force people, the way they do in Germany?

No, sir. We're going to pay our way. And you've got to help.

All you have to do is lend it—at interest. Higher interest than you can get in almost any other way—in U. S. War Bonds.

Interest that makes the Bond worth 1-3 again as much as you paid for it, in just ten years—just at the time you'll be wanting to take that vacation or buy that home in a world that's free and peaceful and swell to live in again.

Yes, that flag is just a piece of cloth until you breathe life into it. Until you make it stand for everything you believe in and want and refuse to live without.

Mister, is it worth pledging 10% of your income for, in U. S. War Bonds?

Let us not forget, also, that this is Red Cross month. The splendid work of this organization warrants all the support you can give. Be one of those who can say: "I helped put Charlevoix over the top."

SQUAWKING

Americans have always regarded the British people as hopelessly set in their own ways. But they changed quickly after Dunkirk. The whole nation is now wonderfully adapted to the double job of waging war abroad and keeping things working smoothly at home. England is a completely embattled nation, and has a code of civilian behavior that is almost as definite and effective as its military code.

Americans are getting around to that, but it comes hard. The domestic front is still full of creaks, groans and cries of agony over the surrender of peace-time privileges and ways of life. It seems as if every new restriction of luxuries, every tightening up of normal privileges, every new requirement of labor, results in a chorus of squawks. Not from a majority, of course, but from too many noisy people.

Really, ladies and gentlemen, there is a war on. The effects come home to every American and plenty more and more powerfully for as much unity and zeal on the home front as there is on the foreign front.

MICHIGAN BELL CO. INCOME IS LOWEST

Gross High, But Increased Costs Lower Net Revenue

Michigan Bell Telephone Company has reported that its net income for 1942 fell to the lowest level in seven years, despite gross revenues that reached an all-time high.

President George M. Welch, in the company's annual report, said increased taxes was not the sole reason. He pointed out that, while gross revenues of the company were up 12 per cent over 1941, operating expenses, exclusive of taxes, rose 19 per cent.

Devoting most of the report to the manner in which the company met the challenge of war, the president said: "Michigan Bell men and women can take pride in the fact that through their efforts the company was able to assume its full burden of war communications, and at the same time care for most of the civilian telephone needs."

Deer Starvation Heavy

While the late February thaw improved conditions for deer by reducing snow depths by a foot in the upper peninsula and by melting drifts from the south-facing slopes in the lower peninsula, it also brought reports of the heaviest early-season loss of deer by starvation in years.

AREA CAGE TOURNEY TO BE AT PETOSKEY

Charlevoix Red Raiders Entered In Class C Competition

The district, regional and state cage tournaments are war casualties this year, giving place to area meets throughout the state.

According to T. Arthur Treloar, of Petoskey high school, regional tournament manager for many years, the area meet to be staged there will be held on two week ends, starting this week Thursday or Friday, March 11 or 12, and continuing through Saturday, Mar. 13, with semi-finals on Friday, March 19, and finals Saturday evening, March 20.

Three teams are slated in Class B, Traverse City, Rogers City and Petoskey.

Class C will include Harbor Springs, Pellston, Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

In Class D, tentative plans call for competition between St. Anne of Alpena, Mackinaw City, Boyne Falls, Ellsworth and Bellaire.

FOOD STAMP PLAN IS SUSPENDED BY USDA

Thousands of Michigan Residents Affected by Order

Effective March 1, the food stamp plan was suspended by the U. S. department of agriculture, probably for the duration of the war.

The discontinuance will immediately affect 74,277 persons in Michigan, aged, blind, mothers with dependent children, and a large group of unemployables whose limited diets are augmented with the purchase of blue stamp foods. Throughout the nation, more than 1,800,000 persons will be affected. Starting March 1, these large groups again must depend entirely for their food on assistance grants from federal, state or local government, or private charities.

NO COUNTY FAIR FOR THE YEAR OF 1943

Officers and Directors Decided Matter Last Saturday

At a meeting of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society held at the city building in East Jordan last Saturday night, the officers and directors decided that owing to wartime restrictions, the risk would be too great to venture a fair this year.

Many will be sorry to learn this, but financing an annual event is at best a hard proposition even in normal times.

Also at this meeting it was voted that, with approval of the board of supervisors, the association leased to Frank Bird the fair grounds for the coming year to be used for a turkey farm.—Charlevoix County Herald.

How Much Butter?

Some indication of the butter situation comes to light in a brief analysis offered by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. Production figures indicate national production in January of 122,880,000 pounds or 2 to 3 per cent more than in January, 1942. Butter in storage, however, on Feb. 20 was only 8,220,000 pounds compared with 57,414,000 on the same date in 1942. Cheese in storage Feb. 20 was estimated at 63,071,000 pounds compared with 67,396,000 on the same date in 1942.

Wool Packaging

An adequate supply of burlap and paper bags will be available for packaging the nation's 1943 wool clip, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. The wool containers include a half million used burlap bags, 600,000 new paper-mesh bags and enough new burlap cloth to make an estimated 400,000 bags.

Phone Service Increases

The February issue of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company's magazine, "The Michigan Bell," reporting station development from January 1, 1942, to January 1, 1943, shows that this year Charlevoix had 574 telephones in service on that date as against 544 the previous year. Net gain was 28 phones.

A Better Land I Know

By FRED TOOLE

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WILLIE was smart. No one could pull the wool over his eyes. Which was why his pocket bulged comfortably with a neat wad of bills and a ticket to Miami as he sauntered jauntily into Ben's Barbecue.

"One hot beef, one coffee," he nodded to Ben, throwing open his overcoat. "And make it good, boy, because it's the last one I'll have until I hit the sunny South."

"South!" Ben was startled as he smacked the sizzling beef on to a roll.

"The sunny South," Willie repeated, flashing a thin-lipped smile. "You might be going with me, Ben, if you weren't so soft-hearted. No handouts in my joint, Benny boy. Give as little as you can and get as much as you can for it—that's my motto. And you see how it works? I'll be lying on a beach while you're shoveling snow. Why don't you get wise?"

Willie turned in surprise as a chair cracked against the wall. He hadn't noticed the tall, gaunt old man who now rose hurriedly and went to the door, where he stood staring through the glass at the bleak street, swept clear by the icy blasts.

"What's eating him?" Willie asked, mystified.

Ben flushed. "Guess you put your foot in it," he said, awkwardly. "Talking about handouts, I mean. And the South."

Willie's sharp face hardened. "Another chiseler, eh?" he asked grimly. "Listen—"

"You listen," said Ben firmly. "Maybe it'll take some of the starch out of you, tough guy. You know what that old man makes? Fifteen a week! How'd you like to send half of that to your sick daughter, and live on the rest?"

Willie chuckled scornfully. "I hear that one ten times a day."

"I happen to know it's true." Ben's eyes were somber. "His name's Merrifield. He comes from Georgia. If it weren't for his daughter I'll bet he'd rather starve on his old place. His heart and soul are down there, Willie. Just hearing him talk about the pines and cottonwoods, the swamps, the dunes, the way the darkies sing—" Ben dropped his knife abruptly and went to turn on the radio.

Willie looked thoughtfully at the shabby figure by the door, but when Ben returned his face was blank. "What did you give him tonight?" he asked.

"Barbecue and coffee," said Ben defiantly.

"I thought so!" Willie's grin was mocking. "Don't even know how to treat his kind, Ben. I'll show you, Benny boy, and let it be a lesson to you!"

And before Ben could protest, Willie had gone to Merrifield. "Pardon me, sir; I understand you're from the South," he said easily. "I'm going down that way myself, and I wonder if you'd join me in a little—er—farewell repast?"

Merrifield bowed gravely. "A pleasure, Mr.—?"

Ben introduced them, and took Willie's casual order for two steak dinners. "You're going south, sir?"

"That's right," said Willie. "Miami. I need a vacation."

Merrifield nodded courteously. "I'm sure you do. The South is the place for rest—and peace." He went on to talk about his home, restrained emotion in his voice. Even Ben, tending the sizzling steaks, could feel it.

The music from the radio rose to a gleeful shriek, then ended; and the program followed that Merrifield loved. Mellow strains filled the little restaurant, and all at once the things the old man had been talking about were there: Peace and rest—cottonwoods, the scent of pines, swamps, the darkies' songs. And a rich vibrant bass began to sing.

"Gone are the days when my haart was young and gay,
Gone are my friends from the cotton fields away . . ."

Merrifield fell silent. He sat gazing out the window—gazing into Georgia, into the past, as the rich voice carried them all away.

". . . to a better land I know . . ."

And then Willie laughed harshly and rose, shattering the spell. "That reminds me—I'm going south myself. Why don't you go back to Georgia, if you like it so much? I hear you've got a sick kid there."

Merrifield stiffened. The far-away look in his eyes vanished, to be replaced by wretchedness. But Willie went on tauntingly: "My train stops over in Atlanta. I'll give Georgia your regards."

The old man's head drooped, he didn't even notice the bump Willie gave him as he buttoned his expensive coat with a swagger.

Ben followed Willie to the door. "You meant to hurt him—" he accused. "—to break his heart! I didn't know anyone could be so low."

"That's the way I treat his kind," Willie snapped defensively.

He walked fast. He was smart, all right. No one was going to catch him getting sentimental. But he wanted to get that song out of his ears, wanted to forget those tired eyes. And most of all, he didn't want to be around when a homesick old man found in his torn pocket a wad of bills and a ticket to the place he loved.

Was Veterinarian in This Region for Thirty Years

Rodolphus F. Newman, 60, a resident of this city for more than 30 years, died Sunday at Charlevoix Hospital. His death was the result of pneumonia, although he had been in ill health for several years due to an arm injury received in the first world war.

Born March 16, 1882, in Buchanan county, Iowa, he came with his parents to Maple City in Leelanau county that same year. He lived there until coming to Charlevoix in 1910. On September 19, 1908, he was married to Nita Mae Crain at Maple City.

Mr. Newman was widely known in this region as a veterinarian. During the first world war he was overseas with the American army, serving at the 14th division veterinary hospital in France. He was a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in this city.

Surviving besides the wife are three sons, Sgt. Harold Newman, with American troops in New Guinea, Pvt. COMMUNICATION

The following letter was received last week by the Charlevoix Service Organization from Mrs. Carl Beattie, of Midland, written in behalf of her husband. Mr. Beattie, musician first class, U. S. navy, was wounded in a sea battle in the south Pacific area during November, and has been confined to the naval hospital at Oakland, Calif.

The letter follows:

"Dear Friends,

Your interest and remembrance of Carl is deeply appreciated. It pleased him very much to know that folks in his old home town were still concerned and interested in him. Speaking for Carl, I can tell you that it is the cards and notes received from the friends and folks at home that cheers you up and helps to pass each lonely day.

"It makes us feel that besides our country, there is your kind of folks that are well worth fighting for.

"Carl is being transferred next week to the naval hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. He requested this change of hospitals so he would be closer home and have his family with him.

"His condition is slowly improving. His jaws have just been set in the past two weeks and will be wired together for the next two months. This couldn't be done any sooner because of the burns on his face. The double fracture of his right forearm can't be set yet, as the burns aren't healed. He will no doubt be in the hospital for another five months.

"Carl would like to acknowledge all of his cards himself, but it is impossible with his injured arm.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Carl Beattie."

Friends may address mail to: Carl W. Beattie, Mus. 1-c, U. S. Naval Hospital, Ward 41-B, Oakland, Calif.

FROM THE GARDEN CLUB

The Dutchman's breeches (Dicentra cucullaria) of our Eastern woodlands is a familiar plant of the springtime. Although it is not grown as widely as our old garden favorite, the Bleeding heart (D. spectabilis), which is a native of China and Eastern Asia, no more beautiful plant for a partially shaded spot or rock garden can be found. The cream-colored flowers fade in late May and the fernlike leaves disappear a month later. Nothing more is seen of the plant until the next spring, when it pushes up from the leaf mold at the earliest sign of warmer weather. Many rocky hillsides and deep ravines are gay with its beauty for two months every year.

Dutchman's breeches may be transplanted to the garden from the woods, but it is best to buy them from nurseries. The root is a bulb made up of many granulate parts and each part sending up a leaf from the top. Dicentra cucullaria, known as Squirrel Corn, is almost identical, but can best be distinguished by the roots, which are tiny bulbs. Both of the plants grow in clumps in the natural state, but each of the tiny sections or bulbs will grow into full-sized clusters when transplanted. Most nurserymen sell the former but the latter is seldom seen in the garden. Both are natives of our Eastern mountains.

Growing in hilly sections from Western New York southward along the Alleghenies is the so-called Everblooming Bleeding heart (D. eximia). This has been adapted to our gardens and may be purchased from all plantsmen. The leaves resemble the two already described, but flowers are a delightful shade of pink and borne in larger clusters. This does not die down in summer, but continues to send up new leaves and new spikes of bloom all season.

It's Baking Soda

For refrigerator care, the cleaning with warm water and soda refers to baking soda or bicarbonate of soda. One level tablespoonful in a quart of warm water is recommended during the defrosting process. The inside and outside of the evaporating unit should be washed carefully and all of the inside of the refrigerator including the inside walls, shelves, fruit trays and vegetable containers. Similar care is recommended for an ice refrigerator.

Live Without and Like It

THIS is the meaning of total war—that the home front and the fighting front pull together. It is not enough that men fight, and give their lives. This will be in vain unless the millions of Americans at home fight and give with them. Would you jeopardize Victory for a cup of coffee and another lump of sugar, for a tire and another gallon of gas? Would you want to hear again from some far-flung military outpost the words of defeat, "Too little and too late"? Or are you willing to drive less, drink less, eat less of certain foods, in the sure knowledge that we can achieve total victory only through total war?

Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with the greatest wartime program in history, the American Red Cross will launch its 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000 on March 1, Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

"Pointing out that the bulk of the fund will be used to expand Red Cross services to the men of the armed forces and their families, Chairman Davis urged every American man and woman to contribute to the fund.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross Month. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

"Red Cross services in our armed forces and to the needs of distressed civilians on the battle and home fronts can be supplied only by great expenditures and sacrifices," Chairman Davis said "We are exerting our utmost efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people in funds, time and energy We must never falter in our determination to meet these definite obligations. The Red Cross is confident that all our people will be generous in their support of the 1943 War Fund."

More than 65 percent of the fund received by the national organization will be devoted to meeting Red Cross responsibilities to the armed forces. These include the Red Cross overseas club program, recreation and hospital program, the stationing of field directors at all foreign and domestic military camps and bases, the huge surgical dressing production program, and the blood plasma project which recently was expanded to a total of 4,000,000 pints at the request of the Army and Navy.

Chairman Davis pointed out that the 1943 program will be vastly greater than the accomplishments of last year, in which the Red Cross aided millions of war victims through its foreign war relief program; gave aid to thousands of prisoners of war; collected 1,500,000 pints of blood for the armed forces; produced 520,000,000 surgical dressings, and aided more than 1,500,000 servicemen and their families.

The $125,000,000 quota, he said, will finance the local, national and international work of the Red Cross for the entire year, barring unforeseen emergencies.

Youth Farm Training Is Starting Well

The Michigan youth farm labor program, designed to enlist and train high school boys and girls to meet the emergency of a farm labor shortage, is under way. Benton Harbor high school is the first school to report installation of special courses with 40 boys already attending classes in farm tractor operatinn.

Saline high school is reported to be enrolling students in farm training courses. County farm labor committees, appointed by county councils of defense, are organizing the program in many sections of the state, with agricultural communities taking the lead.

The training program is being conducted under the direction of the state board of control for vocational education, authorized to employ special instructors and additional labor where necessary.

The general design of the courses aims at basic training in the simpler farm tools, with instruction methods left to the instructors. Week-end field trips and visits to farms will be included in the courses.

Encouraging interest is being shown in the program by high school youths in all sections of the state, according to C. B. Dibble, state administrator of the training plan, and farmers are cooperating in a way which assures success of the program.

Announce Garden Contest

A state-wide victory garden contest which will give both city and farm home gardeners chances to win prizes has been announced by Paul R. Krone, chief of the victory garden section, civilian war service division of the Michigan council of defense, who is also general chairman of the contest.

Awards will be made in the following classes:

Best farm vegetable garden; best urban or suburban vegetable garden; best home grounds in which all work is done by owner or tenant; best home grounds in which some help is employed; best school garden; best children's garden and best home grounds entered by the Michigan Horticultural Society.

The contest is sponsored by the Michigan Horticultural Society in cooperation with the Michigan Horticultural Council and organizations it represents, including the Michigan State Florists association, the Michigan State Nurserymen's association, the Michigan State Seedsmen's association, together with the State Department of Agriculture. The Council of Defense is cooperating.

More than ever before the Red Cross needs your financial support in the War Fund Drive which opened March 1 and continues throughout the entire month.

The money is vitally needed to carry on the work of this great organization in its far flung fields in Europe as well as within the boundaries of our own country. The men of all branches of our armed forces highly praise the work of the American Red Cross and if they were here today they would urge you to do your utmost for the organization which serves the boys who are serving us.

Charlevoix has been asked to contribute $1,500. Of this amount a generous portion will remain for home work with the balance being added to the general fund for overseas activities of the Red Cross. The amount asked is a LARGE amount and will require that everyone give as freely as he or she possibly can. It is an investment in the lives, comfort and welfare of our boys in the armed forces.

We, at home, with increased taxes, rationing and other problems should consider ourselves fortunate that we're not wallowing in the mud and hell holes of Guadalcanal or New Guinea or fighting on the sand-blown deserts of Africa. We're not sacrificing much compared to our boys.

When a solicitor for the American Red Cross stops at your place of business or at your home—give freely—AT LEAST DOUBLE YOUR PREVIOUS SUBSCRIPTION!

by which fishermen must operate, it would seem only fair and reasonable that the industry should have a voice in the matter and that one of their number, possessing practical experience as a qualification and with the interests of the industry at heart, would be the logical person. George LaBlanco, Jr., local fisherman, outlined the plan to this writer and explained that the industry is backing the appointment of Claude VerDuin, of Grand Haven, a commercial fisherman, who is also secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers' Association and editor of the Great Lakes Journal, a publication dealing largely with the commercial fishing industry. Charlevoix has a heavy stake in the commercial fishing industry and without special urging should lend its support to this move. Drop a letter at once to Gov. Kelly expressing your opinion.

Before winter bows out (which seems unlikely with present sub-zero weather and almost daily snowfall) I want to hand a bouquet to Leo Allard, street commissioner, for his fine work of keeping city streets clear of snow. Despite repeated heavy storms and a requirement trunk line highways within the city receive first attention, there has never been a time during the winter that all city streets have not been kept open to traffic. That's nothing unusual for Leo, though, because he's been doing that for a good many years now.

The Jackson Citizen Patriot carried this black-type note at the head of a front-page story on a strike at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company plant in Jackson: "For reasons of morale, the following news item will not appear in the edition of the Citizen Patriot which goes to more than 1,200 men in the fighting services." It is shameful, indeed, that we should have to conceal from our fighting men the fact that here in this country there are people who do not think they should have to make any sacrifice to win the war. We complain about censorship of war news, which may be glossed over to make it look better to the folks back home. But some of the folks back home never stop to consider how knowledge of their own actions may affect the men at the front; that factory workers are fighting a battle of production of arms for the soldiers just as surely as the soldiers are fighting a battle of bullets and shells and blood for the protection of our way of living.

The re-appearance of sliced bread on American tables this week marks the first time, we believe, that any widespread government restriction imposed on civilians because of wartime necessity has been removed without any great hue and cry having been raised against it. With bandaged fingers and battered bread knives the housewives of America went bravely forth to do battle with the wheaten loaf, and their courage was rewarded when the slicing machines were again put to use. We were just beginning to get nice straight slices at our house, too.

expect one every week, also a parachute jump. I don't mind the jumps so much, but the places they dump us out aren't fit for an animal. From the information I gathered, it's to get us to do true landings. I hope they don't keep that up, I'm all bruised up from those limbs.

The weather here has been very warm, but at the moment it's raining.

I get your paper every week. It certainly is a good pastime just to read it, and I want to express my sincere gratitude and appreciation to you for sending it to me. I've also got a new address.

So long, and good luck.

Dear Ken,

Was very pleased to receive the Courier in the mail the other evening. I really am glad to get the lowdown on just what is happening back home.

This field is really great, but frankly, I wouldn't trade any spot in the whole United States for Charlevoix.

Yours truly,
Pvt. William C. Hannah,

Flight 753, Bks. 14
Keesler Field, Miss.

Dear Sir,

Just a few lines to let you know I haven't been getting the Courier since I've been transferred here from Ford's naval training station at Dearborn, Mich. I sure would appreciate your sending it again and will take this opportunity to thank you for sending it in the past, as I really enjoyed reading it and finding out just what all is going on in good old Charlevoix.

Since leaving service school I've made 3rd class aviation machinist mate and am going up for 2nd class soon. My work consists of making necessary repairs and servicing planes. I also get quite a few hours every week in the air testing and checking the plane's instruments while in flight. Sometimes the pilot lets me take over the controls, but not for long because I'm about as graceful a flier as an owl.

Although it has been only 8 months since Bert Pearl and I enlisted in the navy at Detroit, it seems as though it's been 2 years that I've been away from Charlevoix and I believe that all servicemen feel the way I do, so let's get this war won and be back home again if possible in the near future.

Yours truly,

Dear Ken,

Say, Ken, I sure would appreciate it if you would send me the last two copies of that good old home town paper. It sure gets lousy around here when you don't know what's going on up there.

I suppose it is kind of lonely around there now, as there wasn't too much going on when I left. But it's just the opposite around here. We are kept moving from 5:30 and sometimes 5 in the a. m. until 9:30 p. m. And if you are caught off the beam you get 4 hours guard duty in the middle of the night, which isn't very easy to accept after drilling and marching all day long. But we get along somehow. We have only got 3 months of this training, so I guess we'll have to get used to it. We don't graduate until May sometime, so I've got quite a while before I get my leave.

I haven't done a very good job of writing, so I'll sign off for now. I'll also give you my address, and will thank you again for a copy of the Courier.

Dear Ken,

I have been planning on dropping you folks a few lines for some time, but never got enough ambition or had something to do about the time I felt like writing. Nevertheless, I have been receiving the Courier quite regularly and can truthfully say that we fellows over here look forward to its arrival at mail call. Bob (Heise), Dave (Mntchett) and the rest of us boys from Charlevoix-the-Beautiful get together every once in a while and talk over old times, you know how it is, we all say there will be so many changes in the old home town that we won't be able to recognize it. I guess we will all be willing to take that chance, when the time comes.

I received the paper that told of the sale of same, while I was in the hospital and was sorry to hear that you might leave the paper. We would really miss your "Shots at Random." One really gets quite a lot of news from your writings, also we like your bits of humor.

Well, Ken, it's about chow time and after that the clerk will want to use the typewriter, so will have to close.

Oncemore I would like to express my appreciation to you, the owners and the people of Charlevoix who make it possible to send your little morale-builder each week, and believe me, it's just that. The people back there are all doing the same as you are, as fellows from all parts of the country get their local paper, and I'm sure they enjoy it as much as we do.

Well, so long, everybody, and I hope to be able to see all of you by this time next year. That reminds me of the nice Christmas card I had from the Kiwanis Club. Thanks a lot men! That sure was a fine view of the old home town. I kinda think Bob Heise and Ed. Radie maybe had a few tears in their eyes when they first saw it, 'cause perhaps it's a little closer to them than us farmers out Barnard way.

Well, I will really quit this time. With best wishes to the new publishers for the continued success of the Courier, and everyone.

Yours for Victory Soon,
Staff Sgt. Carlton Smith,
Somewhere in Australia.

P. S.—To you fellows in other parts of the world, we who are over here send your our best wishes and only hope you are as lucky at ducking 'em as we've been so far. Hello! to all of you sailors, soldiers and those in the air corps—in fact, every last one of you.

PIONEER RESIDENT IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Funeral Services Held Tuesday for James Shearar

James Shearor, 87, pioneer resident of this region, died Sunday at his home on East Garfield avenue. He had been bedridden since suffering a stroke last November.

Born April 14, 1855, in Mount Forest, Ontario, Canada, he first came to Michigan about 1885. He worked in the lumbering industry for many years, beginning at Saginaw, coming to Charlevoix county about 1887 to work at Smithaon's camp, now Fisherman's Island, and going from here to work for the East Jordan and Bnyne City lumber companies. Later he returned to Charlevoix, settling on a farm in Hayes township just north of the city. For the past six years he had resided in town.

He was married December 16, 1891, at Charlevoix, to Mary Biggs, who survives him.

Surviving besides the wife are three sons, Ray, of this city, George, of Benton Harbor, and Carl, of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. Dan Potter, Mrs. Jerry Haggerty, and Mrs. Aubrey Block, of Charlevoix; one sister, Mrs. John Burns, of this city; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Leigh H. Hagle from the See Funeral Home. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

RED CROSS SOLDIER KNITTING REQUESTED

Mrs. Allen Campbell, Red Cross works production chairman for Charlevoix county, has requested that all soldier knitting be completed and brought to her before the end of March. Shipment will be made April 1.

MURRAY SCHOOL

Levi McLellan was in Petoskey, Saturday.

The White and Leish families, who have been ill with flu, are much better now.

Miss Joyce Bailey, of Bay Shora, spent the week-end at the Bakar home.

Bob White, of Maple Grove, and Clifford Short, of Burgess, were in this neighborhood Sunday, hunting the fox John Grey didn't get last week.

Lawrence Send was a caller at the Wm. Hair home last Wednesday afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Grant Furgeson and Mrs. William Hair were callers at the Wm. Wagley home.

Mrs. Bob White visited Mrs. Wm. Hair, Thursday and Monday afternoons.

Fox hunting is quite a popular sport these days. One day this past week Clifford Short and Bob White, Jr., hunted all day, but crafty Reynard out-maneuvered them all and is probably congratulating himself that his hide is still intact.

Jimmy Elzinga visited at the Floyd Baker home Sunday afternoon and also called on Billy Hair.

William Price is still calling on the farmers of the neighborhood in the interests of the AAA program.

Mrs. Wm. Wagley has been suffering from a sore throat for a few days.

Quite a few crows have been seen lately, but we are suspicious that they may have cold feet, and they all seem to have a lean and hungry look. Wonder if they really could be harbingers of spring, or did they just get their dates mixed.

State Auditors Here

George Fredd and H. A. McLaughlin, of the state auditor general's office at Lansing, began work Monday on the annual audit of books of Charlevoix county. They expect to be here ten days.

TWO RETAIN JOBS GAME COMMISSION

Gov. Harry Kelly Re-Appoints Titus and Whiteley

Gov. Harry F. Kelly Thursday reappointed Harold Titus, Traverse City, and Harry H. Whiteley, Dowagiac, to the Michigan conservation commission.

The governor said in reappointing Whiteley and Titus that he recognized their vast experience in conservation matters and that he had been urged by many Michigan sportsmen to keep both on the commission.

RED CROSS FUND DRIVE LAGGING

CHAIRMAN EDWARDS MAKES APPEAL TO CITIZENS

Sacrifices Must Be Made by Every Person to Equal Efforts of Our Fighting Men

E. J. Edwards, city chairman for the Red Cross war fund emergency campaign, has reported that thus far results from local contributions to the fund are not very gratifying.

"Evidently our citizens are not grasping the situation," stated Mr. Edwards, "nor realizing that this campaign is their opportunity to show the boys in the hell holes of our battle fronts that we are with them in spirit, and are willing to do some sacrificing ourselves to provide them some comforts and relief from suffering, even to offer them life itself.

"Unless our contributions hurt our pocketbooks we are not sacrificing anything. Our fighting boys are worth more than a little change from our spending money. Those boys are giving their entire time, energies and life, if need be, to preserve the safety and sanctity of peaceful homes and communities such as ours throughout these United States of America.

"When our soldiers, sailors and marines return, as many as do return, will we who have remained at home, be proud of what we have done toward making their lives more endurable and safer while they were fighting for our comforts and luxuries? That is the least we should strive to do for them, so let us not be menger in this opportunity to get behind our boys in a real and fraternal manner.

"Charlevoix must and shall fulfill its obligation in this war. We have a quota of $1,500 to raise in this campaign. Have we all given to it to the best of our ability?

"The vast and far-reaching services of the American Red Cross in the relief of suffering humanity in times of war and disasters surely needs no further publicity. We all know how it supplies the nation's war nurses, the millions of surgical dressings and the thousands of pints of blood, which in themselves are services beyond measure.

DEATH TAKES MRS. EMERSON W. PRICE

Was Belvedere Club Member and Ironton Resident

Mrs. Emerson W. Price died March 12 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Bayly, in Cleveland, Ohio. She was 80 years of age.

Josephine Burgesser was born in Geneseo, Ill., March 9, 1863. Her girlhood was spent in Ann Arbor. She married Emerson W. Price on March 23, 1881, the day of his graduation from the University of Michigan law school. They made their home in Lima, Ohio, for many years.

In 1893, Mr. and Mrs. Price purchased a cottage on the Belvedere Club in Charlevoix, which they occupied each summer until they built their home at Ironton in 1919. They resided at Ironton until Mr. Price's death in 1935.

She was a member of the Congregational church.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. Abby Bayly, of Cleveland, and Ralph Price, of Ironton; two grandchildren, Charles B. Bayly, Jr., and Nancy Price.

VICTORY GARDEN PROGRAM PLANNED

FOOD SHORTAGE SOLVED BY HOME GARDENERS

Local Committee Meets to Review Last Year's Accomplishments, Begin Next Summer's Work

In support of the department of agriculture's program to urge greater production of food in Victory gardens this year, Charlevoix's victory garden committee met Monday afternoon to review the accomplishments of 1942 and make recommendations for the coming season.

Rationing of canned vegetables and imminent shortage of fresh produce, a dual problem this year facing all Americans, can best be solved by the production of more food in home gardens than was done last year. It is hoped that this added production can in some measure relieve the shortages that otherwise would exist due to exports to American troops overseas, and to the allied nations.

No city-wide canvass will be undertaken this year for the local victory garden program, as much national publicity has already been put forth urging more and larger home gardens. Due to the probability that almost every family will have a garden, plowing will not be paid for by the city of Charlevoix this year.

Office of the city superintendent in the city hall will serve as a clearing house for garden plot exchanges. Those families needing land for a garden, and those having more land than they will utilize and wanting to share it, are asked to call 75. Excess garden plots will then be arranged so that families will have their gardens as close to their homes as possible. Some of last year's booklets on victory gardening are still available at the superintendent's office.

RAYDERS LOSE IN TOURNAMENT PLAY

PELLSTON UPSET LOCALS SATURDAY NIGHT

East Jordan Scored two One-Point Victories to Compete for Class C Championship

Charlevoix's hopes of adding the class C area basketball tournament championship to their northern Michigan conference crown were dashed Saturday night when Pellston scored a 2-point upset victory over the Rayders at Petuskey.

Defeated by the local team twice during the season just closed, the Pellston outfit staged a surprising upset to take the first class C tournament game.

Score at the close of the first quarter was Pellston 10, Charlevoix 3. The Rayders trailed 17 to 12 at the half, 25 to 22 as the third period ended. Although scoring 7 points to Pellston's 6 in the final quarter, the locals were unable to overcome their opponents' advantage.

Charlevoix's scoring was well divided among almost all players, Carey scoring 12, Bellinger 6, Swanson 5, Vratinina 3, Chambers 2, Rowe 1.

High man for the winners was Wareek, netting 14 points. Hills made 10, Spencely 5, Bielas 2.

Pellston meets East Jordan in the class C finals at 8:20 p. m. this Saturday in the Petoskey gymnasium. East Jordan downed Boyne City 26 to 25 Friday night, with scoring close throughout the contest. Saturday night the Jordanites scored another 1-point win over Harbor Spring, 25 to 24, in an over-time game.

Traverse City defeated Petoskey in class B Friday night 33 to 22, and Saturday night will battle it out with Rogers City for the championship.

In class D, the smooth-running St. Anne's team of Alpena smothered Boyne Falls 56 to 25, and will meet Ellsworth this Friday night. Mackinaw City plays Alanson in the other class D game of that night, both semi-finals. Finals in class D will be Saturday night.

LOCAL AUTHOR'S WORK IS PUBLISHED RECENTLY

Mrs. Eliza Moore Active Despite Advanced Age

Mrs. Eliza Moore, of Charlevoix and Elk Rapids, is one of the authors whose work is published in "The Spirit of America," a book of poems and lyrics just published.

Two lyrics were contributed to the volume by Mrs. Moore, "God Save America," and "Guide Me, Jesus, Guide Me."

Although she is 80 years of age, Mrs. Moore is mentally and physically active. She has written various poems and stories, and recently published a song entitled, "A Lamp Burning." The prayer expressed in her poem, "God Save America," is all the more sincere because she has seven grandsons in the nation's service.

Mrs. Moore is spending this winter with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Plumm, of this city, but plans to return soon to her home in Elk Rapids.

STUDENTS OF BURGESS SCHOOL ARE ACTIVE

Proceeds of Salvage Drive Go to Army Ambulance Fund

Mrs. Hazel Evers, teacher at Burgess school in Hayes township, is reported to have sent in the largest check from the four counties in this area toward the ambulance fund sponsored by the national committee on boys and girls club work.

Ambulances for the United States army are purchased from the fund. School students earn money for their contributions by gathering scrap, fats, tin cans, rubber, phonograph records, books and other salvage materials. The 15 pupils of Burgess school put forth considerable effort to make their fine record.

STATE LAND MAY BE HAD FOR GARDEN USE

Conservation Department Is Now Receiving Applications

Victory gardeners looking for land to hoe can lease practically any of the thousands of state-owned city lots in northern Michigan for $1 a year, the conservation department's lands division reports.

A few applications for gardening permits are coming in each day now, and a big increase is expected as soon as the snow goes. There are state-owned lots available for victory gardens in practically every subdivision north of the Muskegon-Bay City line.

Potential gardeners wondering about the vacant lot next door may find out if it is state-owned by inquiring at the office of the city or township treasurer, or wherever real estate taxes are paid. Applications for gardening permits should be sent directly to the department of conservation in Lansing. In the case of welfare recipients, the $1 use permit fee is waived.

Masons feted Odd Fellows at the annual cribbage banquet Monday night, closing the 13th winter series between the two lodges.

MEAT RATIONING BEGINS MARCH 29

RED POINT STAMPS USED FOR PURCHASE

Butter, Cooking Fats and Oils Are Included in New Program; Few Foods Now Unrationed

Rationing of meat, canned meat, canned fish, butter, cheese, edible fats and oils will begin at midnight, March 28, on a basis that will give Americans twice as much meat and fats but only half as much cheese as the British are getting.

Sixteen points per consumer per week will be allowed for all of the new rationed foods and the consumer can decide upon which of the rationed items he prefers to spend the most of his points. Point values will be announced during the week of March 22.

The new program will leave only a few items of food unrationed, including fresh and frozen fish, poultry and game, breads, cereals and flour, fresh fruits and fresh vegetables.

Red stamps in the point ration book will be used to purchase these foods:

All fresh, frozen, cured, smoked and canned meats and meat products derived from beef, veal, lamb, mutton and pork, as well as variety meats, including tongues, brains, hearts, liver, tripe, sweetbreads, kidneys, also sausage, weiners, salami, head cheese.

Canned fish and canned shellfish.

The most important natural and processed cheeses, and most of their derivatives, but not cottage and cream cheeses.

Most edible fats and oils, including butter, lard, margarine, shortening, salad oils and cooking oils, excluding mayonnaise and salad dressings.

The 16 red stamp points available to each consumer each week will be interchangeable and may be used for any of these items. A housewife may spend more points on meat and less on cheese, or more on cooking oil and less on margarine, as she prefers. Family shopping may be done with the ration books of all members.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

They tell us that life begins at 40. Well, so do fallen arches, lumbago, bad eyesight, and the tendency to tell the same story to the same person three or four times.

The advent of spring once meant the return of the tramp printer, who, we suppose, won't show up this year when the labor shortage would make him a welcome sight despite his customary tendency of unreliability. Well, we'll lay that to the war, too.

Bob Humphrey says: "If it pinches your supply of sugar to sprinkle it on your morning grapefruit, try a little salt and you are in for a pleasant surprise."

And speaking about prunes reminds me that I heartily agree with Editor Al Weber of the Cheboygan Observer when he speaks thusly: "When you go to your grocer and he takes a lot of points off your ration card when you buy a pound of prunes, you cannot help but wonder what in the dickens is wrong with this scheme of living, anyway, when you know that a carload of prunes just came to town along with a lot of other so-called surplus food things and was being handed out to certain parties for the carrying away, and that prunes and oranges, and sweet meats and other things many families would like to have occasionally are handed out free. Why does this passing out of surplus food things continue on one hand while we try to stop the leak with the other. Who gets the surplus food that comes into the county by the barrel and carload, and why do they get it?"

There was a time you could mildly vent your spleen against a person by telling them they were full of prunes, but to tell that to a fellow now would be handing him a compliment.

Gosh, if the state legislature adopts a bill recently presented, we can all go about planting our victory gardens without a worry. The law would make stealing from

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Hello Ken:

I have been transferred back to my old outfit, so will give you my new address.

The weather here is swell, rained a little, but as a whole swell. Well, Ken, I can't write much, but we are out in the field and roughing it now, and I am having the time of my life. Nothing like sleeping out under the stars.

I must close for now as it is rather hard to write a letter with one hand and hold a flashlight with the other. The best of luck. I remain as ever,

Pvt. Orville W. Shananquet,

Dear Ken:

I think it is high time for me to write and thank you for the paper. I certainly appreciate the Courier very much and that's what I am always looking forward to from week to week.

I certainly was terribly surprised and shocked to hear of Mrs. Eva Scott's death. I haven't gotten over it yet. I certainly will miss her very much when I get back to the old home town. It won't be quite the same without Eve.

Well, Ken, I am in just about the toughest part of the army and that is the infantry, but it's not quite so bad when you get used to it. We are going long hikes every day with a full pack and that gets quite heavy when you get out about twenty miles.

I hear you had quite a bad winter. I really miss the snow and ice. It seems queer not to have a bit of snow all winter here in Washington. But we certainly had a lot of rain and fog and I never saw so much mud.

I see Louis Orlowski real often and also Lyle Beaudoin. It sure is swell to see someone you know when you are so far away from home.

Well, Ken, I want to thank you again for the paper, it really helps out an awful lot when you get lonesome. I miss the good old home town very much and I will be glad when we get this mess

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Food Production Meetings Scheduled for Friday, March 26

Turkeys, baby chicks, laying hens and farm machinery will be combined into two-hour discussions when Michigan State College specialists in poultry and agricultural engineering come into Charlevoix county, Friday, Mar. 26th for a series of four meetings to offer farmers tips on wartime production.

Local arrangements in the county have been made by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent. The schedule for the day is as follows:

Friday forenoon, Mar. 26, at 10: Marion Center grange and Peninsula grange.

Friday afternoon, Mar. 26th, at 2:00: Hayes town hall and Bayne City library.

Two teams of two specialists each will handle these meetings. These discussions are the first of a group af four, with the other three scheduled for April. With the entire state to cover, it is necessary to make these schedules rapid fire.

Michigan wasted two million dollars worth of eggs last year. Much of this loss can be prevented by proper care. The discussion will touch upan four main topics: wartime feeding problems; physical fitness program for 1943 pullets; comfartable laying houses for more winter eggs; preserving egg quality on the farm. Healthy, well developed pullets develop into profitable layers, while sickly, poorly developed pullets do not.

Farm machinery information will include suggestions on machinery repair, the trading of labor, the lending of equipment, recommendations and suggestions relative to low cost construction, better utilization of farm buildings and many others will be discussed.

Kindly remember that there will be two teams of specialists. As a result, two meetings are in the forenoon and two in the afternoon. These will indeed be up to the minute and full of timely suggestions.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"A lot of storekeepers in town are worrying about being able to get help these days, Judge. Men are mighty scarce and gettin more so all the time."

"I know. Even the big companies are having quite a job getting them. Yep, and they need 'em too. Take the beverage distilling companies for example... they need a lot of manpower. Though they're not making whiskey any more, they're doing a 24-hour-a-day job of turning out alcohol for gun powder and synthetic rubber for the government.

Makes me think back to the days before repeal when a powerful number of people were making liquor too—only they were a bunch of law-flouting criminals doing it behind closed doors. And the government wasn't collecting a billion dollar excise tax either. Ever stop to wonder where the government could get all its war alcohol today if it weren't for the beverage distillers?"

Your Car's Life Can Be

STRETCHED FIFTY PERCENT

The engineers who build America's automobiles say proper care can stretch car life fifty percent. Yes, ten simple rules will do the job. And high on their list is the choice of suitable winter motor oils and greases. Proper lubrication, these experts explain, reduces friction, avoids unnecessary engine wear, makes cars start and run easier. Knowing this, millions of motorists prefer high-quality Mobiloil, the world's largest-selling motor oil.

Mobiloil Arctic gives exceptional lubrication, guarding every vital engine surface with a tough, protective film at all times — even during cold starts and fast warm-ups. Mobiloil is refined for extra purity, too, and thus resists dangerous carbon and sludge formation. Such impurities can gum up your engine, make it harder to start and run — and even do a lot of damage. So, for the safe, dependable winter lubrication you need to make your car last, ask for Mobiloil Arctic.

TWO OF A KIND

LANSING LETTER

Are you, Mr. Taxpayer, getting your money's worth from the dollars returned by the state of Michigan to Charlevoix county for enforcement of liquor laws?

Here are some interesting facts:

1. Municipalities and townships in Charlevoix county received the sum of $4,974.49 last year from the state of Michigan for the purpose of enforcing liquor laws within the county. For the 83 counties the allocations totaled $2,420,889.52.

2. The above allocation to Charlevoix county represented 85 per cent of all license fees paid by persons or firms for the privilege of selling alcoholic beverages by the bottle, or by the glass, or possibly both, depending upon the wish of the local public.

3. If the licensed establishment is within a town, 85 per cent of its fee is returned to the municipality to help pay the salary of the village marshal, the local police and otherwise to maintain the law enforcement service.

4. If the licensed establishment is outside of a town, this percentage is returned to the township board—also for the same purpose.

One weakness in the above system whereby local towns and townships derive a substantial revenue from the sale of liquor, is the fact—whether you like it or not—that in some instances this revenue has become almost a "vested right" in the minds of local officials for use in any way they see fit.

We know of instances in Michigan where a town government will order its police officers to stay out of licensed places even for purposes of inspections, and yet gladly receive the allocation of license fees for purpose of law enforcement!

We're not arguing the point. But in the state law the burden of enforcement of the law (at least 85 per cent of it) is placed squarely upon local officials.

Let's look at the language! "The sheriffs of the several counties and their deputies and the village marshal, constables, officers or members of the village or city police, and members of the department of state police, and inspectors of the state commission, are hereby empowered and it is hereby made their duty to see that the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations made or authorized by said commission are enforced within their respective jurisdictions."

Nothing vague about that.

Furthermore, failure to enforce the law or even "wilful neglect" makes the official subject to a fine not to exceed $500 or a jail sentence not more than 90 days, or both.

This penalty is imposed by the state legislature, and the section of the law begins with these words: "The people of the State of Michigan enact."

Another weakness in the present system is the fact that while the sheriff is held responsible, he derives no part of the state's law enforcement funds. And that goes also for the prosecuting attorney.

Glenn Dunn, chairman of the state commission by appointment of Governor Harry F. Kelly, informs us that he personally favors a change in the law whereby 35 per cent of local license revenues would be returned to the county government and earmarked by the county treasurer for use by the sheriff and prosecuting attorney for the SPECIFIC purpose of enforcing liquor laws.

A three-man committee, comprising the prosecutor, sheriff and the chairman of the finance committee of the county board of supervisors, would be given power to allocate the 35 per cent fund and see that it was expended efficiently.

In many counties this 35 per cent fund (figure it out yourself from your county's total share) would make possible the employment of special deputies and an assistant prosecutor whose main duties would be to keep conditions clean in the rural roadside taverns and hot-spots.

Take Marquette county as an example. The county has 88 taverns or places where alcoholic beverages are consumed.

Last year the county received $20,918. Under Mr. Dunn's plan the county treasurer would earmark $12,318 to finance the costs of special deputies and an assistant prosecutor. Transcripts of all cases would be sent to Lansing.

Maybe this plan isn't the best in the world. But it does possess obvious merit of having law enforcement by local officials who should know local conditions. If you leave the job to the state, then you must expect a hit-and-miss kind of law enforcement. State inspectors make a flying visit, often catch the more decent operators in an occasional violation, and the citizenry howls about the results.

Dancing at rural taverns should be abolished outright, at least in the judgment of state inspectors. Minors are attracted to these places of entertainment. Violations occur. But here again the home community has a social obligation.

Some state official put it, "If small towns would assume some responsibility for providing recreation for their young people, they would have less difficulty on this score. Sturgis has a night club for high school youngsters run by a creamery. We never have trouble there. In some towns the Legion post opens its hall several nights a week to young people."

Do you agree with him? And if so, what is your town doing about it?

Penalties are also an important factor in law enforcement. If penalties are stiff, licensees are apt to be more careful. The new state commission headed by Chairman Dunn, is imposing heavier penalties than did the former commission, and it is interesting to note that the former commission got progressively tougher the longer it stayed in office. Yes, the trend is definitely toward stiffer penalties.

This liquor problem is as old as the hills. We have only touched upon a few aspects of it. We might sum up our observations as follows, and if you disagree, your local newspaper will gladly print your views:

Enforcement of liquor laws is chiefly a home rule responsibility.

By-the-glass licensees MUST get approval of township, village or city boards before the state will issue a license, and the state MUST revoke any license if the local board requests such action.

State control of the liquor business is to be preferred to a return to bootlegging, speakeasies, Al Capone gangsterism and other evils. In other words, we concur with majority opinion.

But state control means just that—CONTROL. And here we get right back to you, Mr. Taxpayer. Are you getting your money's worth?

AT THE MOVIES

Already hailed as one of the musical must-sees of the season, 20th Century-Fox's latest funfest, "Iceland," makes its debut locally Saturday and Sunday at the Palace Theatre. Boasting the same starring team that helped make "Sun Valley Serenade" a box-office sensation, the film has added to this duo of Sonja Henie and John Payne, the laugh-provoking antics of Jack Oakie and the celebrated music of Sammy Kaye and his orchestra. Nor must we forget the addition of a new crop of hit tunes by song-writers Mack Gordon and Harry Warren.

With that handsome tough guy, Alan Ladd, as its chief protagonist, Paramount's lively spy drama, "Lucky Jordan," will blast its way come next Wednesday and Thursday into the Palace Theatre. The story concerns the adventures of an American gangster who meets up with some of Hitler's mobsters, boys of the submarine brigade, and discovers that the good old U. S. A. is a swell country to fight for after all.

"Lucky Jordan" is Ladd's first starring film and, according to repute, it has more thrills and excitement packed into it than either of the two pictures that made him famous, "This Gun for Hire" and "The Glass Key." In these films he was featured with Veronica Lake. In "Lucky Jordan" the romance is carried by a newcomer to Hollywood, blonde Helen Walker.

Coffee drinkers of southern Louisiana and Mississippi drink two or three times as much coffee as the average in the U. S., many of them from 10 to 15 cups a day.

FROM THE GARDEN CLUB

Small irises offer so much bright beauty that a place may well be made for them even more than for the miniature dahlias, zinnias and chrysanthemums already well established in gardens. They have the exquisite velvety shades and markings of tall irises, and in addition most of the smaller ones carry an airy grace, even though their flowers are so large in proportion to their foliage. Many of them bloom unusually early in the year.

Like their larger relatives, the smaller irises are divided broadly into bulbous and rhizomatous groups; and they are marked as bearded (pogon), non-bearded (apogon) and crested. Many are at home toward the front of the average border, while others are for wet spots and pool sides. Some lean toward drier sands, or hug the shelter of the rock garden. A large number of them demand a hot dry baking out after bloom is over, just the type of treatment much of the American climate offers.

The iris beard is more than a mark of beauty—it is a signed requisition for lime. A few of the beardless also will tolerate lime, though it is not to their taste. The beardless differ, too, in their moisture loving thin rhizomes with many fibrous roots, so different from the thick rhizomes and broad leaves of I. pumila.

Of all the dwarfs, Iris pumila makes the strongest splash of color in the garden, though some prefer the airier grace of more slender types.

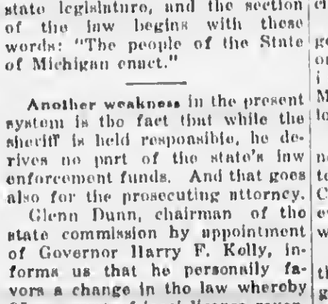
A great favorite in the rock garden—also fine for facing down small shrubs—is Iris gracilipes. This is around six inches high, with clumps of grasslike foliage, lavender-blue petals touched with cream and crested with gold. It divides and plants best in midsummer, abhors lime, asks for humus, moisture and good drainage. Bloom begins in spring and holds into early summer.

The 680 people of Block Island, 12 miles off the Rhode Island coast, collected 35 1-2 pounds of rubber scrap for every man, woman and child on the island.

Michigan has the longest coastline of any state, extending 1,624 miles.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Navy is making a plea to civilians to turn in their binoculars for military use during the War. The Army and Navy both need binoculars for navigation and scouting purposes. Depending on the power of the lenses, they cost from $50 to $80 each.



If you have a set of 6 x 30 up to 7 x 50-power lenses binoculars loan them to the Army or Navy. If not, your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help buy this equipment for our fighting forces. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job . . . and provide the "eyes" through which a scouting pilot may spot an enemy battleship.

FOOD PROCESSING IS AN ESSENTIAL INDUSTRY

Mr. Paul V. McNutt, Chairman, War Power Commission, made the following statements in a nation-wide radio speech February 13, 1943. The statements were in explanation of the recent order concerning the Selective Service status of men engaged in certain specified occupations. Among other things, Mr. McNutt said:

"The nondeferrable list is simply a way of saying that in a global war we can get along more easily without ornamental jewelry than we can without food or tanks.

* * * * *

"Now I would like to make this next point very clear. The only businesses and the only jobs affected by this nondeferrable list were those definitely named by that list.

* * * * *

"There is surely no reason for key workers in . . . . food-processing companies . . . . to decide in their own minds that they should be making munitions or turning out tanks. All these things are essential to the war effort.

* * * * *

". . . . Unless your job was definitely named on the published list—which you can see at any United States Employment Service office or at any draft board—then this order has not changed your draft status.

* * * * *

"Just what is a war job? Is it simply a job making planes, or ships, or ammunition, or bomb sights?.. Of course not. It is any job which is useful to the war.

* * * * *

". . . . We must grow food. We must process that food, put it into containers, transport it to the point of consumption . . . .

* * * * *

"If you have a necessary job, the greatest favor you could do Adolph Hitler would be to leave it and rush off in search of something else."

* * * * *

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Food processing, including growing and canning, is classified by Selective Service as an industry essential to support of the war effort.

Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard says: "Only with whole-hearted co-operation of all citizens can we give our fighters and our allies the food we need to win."

In that spirit, Reid, Murdoch & Co. plans to contract for the largest acreage in its history, to produce the maximum quantity of foods.

Growers and Plant Workers of this community are invited to join with the Monarch Organization in an "all out" effort for greater food production. This is a War Service in which we all can join, a patriotic service—just as important to Victory as tanks, and planes and ships. . . .

WE PAUSE TO PAT OURSELVES ON THE BACK

President Franklin D. Roosevelt: "The observance of Ntional Newspaper Week affords an opportunity to re-dedicnte ourselves to the freedom that is ns vital to us as our daily bread—the freedom to think ond speak ond write the truth ns we see it. Our free press is trying to survive—it is an essential part of the steadying ballast which enebles our ship to ride the storm."

General Douglas MncArthur: "There has been nothing more nstonishing in the progress of wnr, which is really the application of the mechnnics of forces to human noture, than the position thnt public opinion occupies. One cannot woge war under present conditions without the support of public opinion, which is tremendously moulded by the press and other forms of propagonda."

Donald M. Nelson: "I feel thet the nation owes the newspapers a debt of thonks for the invaluable service they have rendered in the scrap metal drive. The job they have done is absolutely unprecedented in this country. It has been magnificent. The whole campaign has been a mojor contribution to the war effort. Advertising is an essentiol port of our communications system. We dare not destroy or cripple that system in wartime. Becnuse some of its functions must be restricted in time of war, the proper exercise of the remaiaing ones becomes more important thnn ever. The jobs chnnge, as war comes, to be sure—but they are still jobs the country needs, and the job of advertising is far from least nmong them."

Henry Morganthau, Jr.: "The American newspapers know that a free press cannot survive unless this wnr is won. We at the Treasury have special reason to thank the pre s, as well as pay tribute to it. With n puhlic spirit that is beyoad all praise, the newspnpers have given invaluable help to the treasury department's Wnr Savings program."

Major General A. D. Surles: "The contribution thnt the press of America is making to victory is something in which the newspnper profession nnd the country as a whole can take deep prlde."

Cordell Hull: "From the days of Peter Zenger, when the cause of liberty was tried and won, a free press has been, and rightly so, a sacred American institution, an essential fabric in our democratic wny of life."

We Add a Plea

Our industries are producing essentials of war for Uncle Sam. Tbese products require no locnl advertising—they are doing tbat 'over there.'

Out for the duration nre the advertisements covering nutoaobiles, tires, radios, etc., which were sustaining features before Pearl Harbor.

The list of newspapers dropping out of business ench week grows longer and longer.

Consider your locsl pnper as your personal representative. In order to survive, it must have your support, the same support it is called upon constantly to contribute to every worthy cause.

Business sent out of town, that could be hendled locnlly, is taking essentiel revenue from that half-week of reserve building which your publisher needs to enable him to produce your newspaper during tho remaining half of the week.

Gentlemen, and ladies, too, here is food for thought!

COMMUNICATION

Dear Editor:

With the enclosed two dollars kindly renew my subscription for 6 months and give one dollar to the service fund.

I can fully understand how much the boys sppreciate the Courier, for to me the week would not be complete without it. While I enjoy every column including the advertisements, must admit I rend "Shot at Rsndom" first, and the letters from our boys next.

I never renlized how many "regulars" we hed in Charlevoix. It mnkes one's heart swell with nride and sometimes feel just a little guilty, especially after becoming a little impetient after waiting on the corner for a street cnr for three-qunrters of an hour in zero weather and when it finally passes you by because it is nlready filled, and severol more pass for the same reason, end you call your market nnd your butcher snys, "Sorry, madam, but we have no butter, steak or lamb chops; no, no shortening or olco today, maybe next week I will hnve a quorter-pound of butter for you and possible a half-pound of bacon."

A few days ago, I went into a little store, intending to buy a few eating apples. On heing told that they were ten cent ench, I decided that apples were not necessory to henlth and cnme out without them. You people up home do not know how lucky you nre. I envy you. Now, don't say you envy us our weather, for it has been beastly down here, not as much snow as ynu have, but plenty, nnd zero weother here would compare nicely with 15 or 20 below up home.

Very sincerely,
Ruby Staley,

NEED HIDES, SKINS FOR WAR LEATHER

Country hides and skins, which supply nearly n third of all the rnw material used for leather in the United States, are classed as vitnl materials needed for wor production.

Easy-to-follow suggestions are offered by Michigan State College specialists to Michigon's farmers and town butchers so that cattle, calf nad lamb skins will have better quality nnd bring better prices. Hides removed properly nad well cured usually are worth three to four cents a pound more than hides handled carelessly.

Keep the skinning knife sharp, but use it carefully. Try to leave all the meat and fat on the carenss. On the hide they lower its quntity nad waste food. Open the hide according to the preferred pattern. Prevent cuts and scores by u slow, steady wrist motion of the knife hand. Keep the hide stretched tight with the left hand while skinning with the right.

Cuts, scores and strains reduce the good leather thnt can be cut from the tnnned skin and lower the grade and value of the hide on the market. Henvy sole leather—especinlly needed by the armed forces and for work shoes of those essentinl industries—comes from the hack and rump of cattle hides. Wnsh all blood, manure and filth awny from the skin to prevent staining. Drain off all surplus wnter.

Clean salt should be used for curing, about 1 pound of solt per pound of hide. Sprend the hide hair down and be sure the salt reaches nll parts of the head, legs and tail to prevent spoilage.

Event Cancelled for First Time Since Beginning in 1929

Hello Ken:

Just finished rending the Courier of December 30, that is the latest I have received. I sure enjoy the paper in general and especially the letters from the fellows in the service. It has been over a year since I heve been in Charlevoix, but the paper has helped me keep up with the home town. I have been overseas for 11 months but still cnn't say much about it.

The .. (deleted by censor) .. is pretty much the same wherever you go. A lot of islands and they are about the same. There are plenty of mosquitoes, they work 24 hours. It is always .. (deleted by censor) .. much in the evening. As you probably know, I am out of the combat zone now and am in training again. I received a slight wound but it healed rapidly. We are just waiting for another chance at the Nips.

My address is different, when we left the states we received a unit number. Now we have the name back again. You might have heard of our outfit end if you haven't I am sure you will in the future.

Thanks again for the paper, hoping you are well.

Cpl. Raymond J. Nowland

Excuse us, because of newspaper censorship regulations we can't print the name of Raymond's marine corps outfit, much as we should like to do so.

Hi Ken,

So sorry I did not write before, but just have been neglecting to. I receive the home town paper every week. It sure keeps me posted on things. After all, it has been quite some time since I lived there, I imagine things have changed some.

It sure makes me sore that I can't get in the thick of things like the rest of the boys. I am now training for overseas duty and hope to be across in the near future.

I thank you once again for the paper. Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,

Pvt. Perry Cheney

Red Cross Field Directors Solve Soldiers' Problems

Thousands of U. S. fighting men last year accepted the invitation to discuss their personal problems with Red Cross field directors who accompany troops to all parts of the world. This picture, taken in London, shows everyone happy after the field men had satisfactorily solved the problems of the two soldiers at the desk. Contributions to the Red Cross 1943 War Fund, now in progress, make this service possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The soldier stormed into the Red Cross office at a southern Army camp. His mouth was set in a hard, straight line; his eyes were cold, determined. His wife trailed him as he strode across the reception room; her face was red and swollen from crying. They were not over 22.

"I need help," the soldier told the Red Cross field director at the desk. "And I need it fast."

The Red Cross field director smiled, but the soldier did not return it. "All right, soldier, let's see what's the trouble."

"If I don't get help I'm going over the hill," he blurted. "I'm on alert now due to move out almost any minute But I'm not going and leave my wife with no place to stay."

Further conversation developed that the young bride was an expectant mother. She was unable to go home because of her stepfather. Her husband had no relatives with whom she could stay. And the allotment he had made to his wife had not yet come through.

Two hours later—after much conversation and planning—the soldier was shaking the hand of the Red Cross field director.

The Red Cross man had arranged that the soldier's wife spend the night at the Army camp guest house. Preparations had been completed with a nearby Red Cross chapter for her transportation back home. The Red Cross chapter in the girl's home town had agreed to see that she had proper care until the baby was born. By that time the allotment would be coming through.

In every United States military establishment, at home and abroad the American Red Cross maintains a field director and staff to help Uncle Sam's fighting men work out such personal problems. More than 1,000,000 servicemen passed through the offices of the Red Cross field directors last year. Their problems covered all phases of life—families needing financial aid, allotments, illnesses, deaths, loss of contact with the home folks. These and other problems are unfolded in a never-ending panorama before Red Cross field directors. Almost always they are solved.

The Red Cross field director is ready to furnish information, counsel, and assistance as needed to men of the armed forces. Reaching into every county in the United States through local Red Cross chapters, these workers and local home service chairmen act as behalf of the men of the armed forces and their families in matters affecting the welfare of either or both.

In addition to the servicemen aided by field directors, more than 500,000 families of men in the service received help through Red Cross chapters and branches.

Contributions of the American people to the Red Cross during the $125,000,000 War Fund appeal now in progress will help to keep and expand these services to the nation's fighting men.

Varied and often unusual are the other demands made of Red Cross field directors. Field Director William Fluherty, stationed in a remote Australian area, traveled down to a railroad junction to bring back 6,000 pounds of American magazines for troops to which he was assigned. Returning on a train, he was asked to help deliver a baby for a native woman, belatedly en route to a hospital.

Red Cross Field Director Albert S. Campbell and two assistants, David S Doran and John J Clancy, Jr., distributed clothes, cigarettes, soap, razors, tooth brushes, playing cards and other articles to American fighters during one of the most furious Solomon Islands battles.

Whatever the welfare and personal problems of American fighters at home or abroad, the field director, backed up by 3,755 Red Cross chapters and 6,000 branches, is the serviceman's best friend in time of need.

Beaver Trapping Starts Early

Pelts like these may bring beaver trappers an average of $20 each in the season which this year runs March 15-31 in the lower peninsula and April 1-15 in the upper peninsula. The limit per trapper is eight, and two of the eight may be otter. This season some trappers may develop a sideline in beaver meat, little used in recent years though much esteemed by early residents of the state.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

Governor Sets Victory Garden Week in State

Gov. Harry F. Kelly has issued a proclamation designating the week of March 21-27 as Victory Garden Week in Michigan. Recognizing that the production of food on home garden plots is one of the most important of civilian war efforts, the governor has called upon citizens to make plans for planting home gardens and to assist in the effort to enlist as many of their neighbors as possible in the Victory Garden army.

Paul R. Krone, director of Victory Gardens for the Michigan council of defense, announces that the council's garden program is making excellent progress throughout the state. In many communities garden committees have completely organized their territory. Local contests have been arranged and newspapers are planning cooperation by devoting much space to garden information. A number of the cities have arranged to set aside vacant property for use as victory gardens.

Thousands of victory garden folders have been prepared for distribution by the Michigan council of defense. Information thus made available should be of value in eliminating waste effort by inexperienced gardeners.

During Victory Garden Week stores will feature Victory Garden displays and libraries, schools and other centers have planned special exhibits.

The state department of public instruction and state board of control for vocational education are cooperating in encouraging the planting of school gardens. Food grown will be an important item in next year's school lunch program.

Launch Farm Scrap Drive

The campaign for collection of heavy metal scrap from Michigan farms was launched at a meeting in Lansing, March 9, attended by representatives of farm implement dealers, farm organizations and salvage committees. The drive for farm scrap will be held during the week of April 4 in the southern area of lower Michigan. In northern Michigan and the upper peninsula the drive has been set for April 25. District meetings for discussion of campaign plans will be held during the last two weeks in March.

The seriousness of the need for heavy farm scrap was impressed upon those attending the Lansing meeting by W. R. Talbot, of Washington, chief of the general salvage branch of the salvage division of the War Production Board.

To Extend Youth Program

The Michigan youth farm labor program will be extended to include pupils of the state's elementary schools. The campaign to enroll boys and girls as volunteer farm workers had previously been limited to students in the 600 Michigan high schools and out-of-school youths of high school age. According to C. B. Dibble, state administrator of the program there will be no enrollment drive for elementary school volunteers, but county school commissioners will be asked to notify the pupils who are qualified for farm work. Training classes for volunteers are under way in Benton Harbor, Saline, Marysville, Lansing and other cities under direction of the state department for control of vocational education.

MUSIC AND SKUNKS

That was a nice story about the man who had a family of bright little skunks under his house. They were perfectly good little skunks and neither they nor their mother made any trouble. But there was just something about the idea of having skunks under the front porch. What to do?

They came out for warm milk in bowls, but went right back. Other means were used, but in vain. They were not to be caught nor dispersed. They knew when they had a good home and intended to stick to it.

Then the man of the house had an idea. He got hold of an old hurdy-gurdy — barrel-organ, or street-organ, if the reader belongs to a generation which never heard one—and he played it. He played the same old tune over and over and the skunks were scared. They ran fast, they ran far, they ran away and they haven't been seen since.

There isn't any moral. There's no esoteric interpretation. You just smile and rest your mind from the war while you think about it.

The Millionaire

By R. E. LAUTERBACH

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

FOR several days George Jenkins had been feeling like a millionaire. He did not have the actual dollars and cents in his pocket, or even in the bank, but then how many millionaires do? He did have a letter from the Whippy Steel company, though, informing him that they had accepted his invention. Under the terms outlined, George was to receive five thousand dollars immediately, with royalties to come on the sale of every golf club embodying the Jenkins Compressed Air Shaft. With this letter in his breast pocket George had good reason to feel like an offshoot of the sixty families.

The company had promised to mail the check for five thousand on Friday. It was Saturday noon now, and George was hurrying home from work, his heart pounding with excitement. There wasn't any chance of a hitch. As soon as Whippy Steel heard from their Washington patent attorneys, the contracts would be signed.

George decided he would take the check directly to Marjorie's. Fortified with five thousand dollars, the prospect of more, and a completely new wardrobe just purchased on the installment plan, he hoped to pop the question which for three years he had been afraid to broach. Secretly he believed that Marjorie would accept—after a little persuasion. He allowed himself to toy with the idea that they might even be married that very afternoon. For George had been harboring a license in his wallet for months.

His preparations for the occasion even included a corsage of sweetheart roses. Clenched in his left fist, they were encased in waxed paper, but George could see their delicate coloring and he smiled when he thought how happy the flowers would make Marjorie.

As he neared the old brownstone dwelling where he lived, George tried to foresee the happenings of the next hour. He visualized himself sitting in a corner of the couch holding Marjorie's slim white hand. He could not decide how to put the question, but Marjorie would help him out. She was that kind of a girl.

For a split second as he peeped into his mail box, George had a sinking feeling that the letter was not there. His tense fingers finally touched an envelope and he yanked it out. Sure enough, it was from the Whippy Steel Company.

George sighed and shoved his felt hat back on his head. He wanted to open the letter, to feel the check in his fingers, but he slipped the unopened letter into his pocket and strode out of the house. Marjorie must be with him when he opened the letter that held the corner stone of their entire future.

Very soon George was standing before a small renovated tenement where Marjorie had her single room and kitchenette. Although her apartment was in a low rental neighborhood like his, it somehow always gave George a feeling of luxury. Perhaps that was because Marjorie was unusually quick to see the possibilities in what might appear to be poor material. That was probably the reason she preferred George, a mere clerk in a sporting goods store, to the many prosperous suitors who took her out.

Vigorously he massaged Marjorie's bell with his thumb. In a short time she rang back, allowing him to open the lower door. With the dignity of an insurance salesman, George slowly mounted the stairs to her third floor apartment. Marjorie was waiting in the doorway.

"I hoped it was you," she said, smiling. "Come on in."

George followed her into the living room. "I thought you'd like these," he said, offering the roses.

Marjorie took them. "They're lovely," she said, allowing her nose to brush the blooms gently, "but you . . ."

". . . shouldn't have done it," George concluded. "But Maybe you won't think that after . . . well, I've a surprise."

Marjorie sat down on the couch close to George. "Yes?" she prompted.

George smiled at Marjorie for a few moments in a tantalizing manner. Then slowly he drew the Whippy letter out of his pocket and waved it before her soft blue eyes.

Marjorie gasped. "The invention!" She grabbed the letter, rushed to the window, ripped open the envelope and started to read.

Marjorie finished the letter, tucked it back in the envelope, and stood with her back to George for a second. Then she wheeled around and ran to him. "Oh, George—I knew you'd do it!" She flung her arms around him and kissed him on the chin.

George grinned foolishly. "I guess you know what else, too. Will you marry me?"

"Right away," she said.

George never knew until after the wedding that the letter from the Whippy Steel Company regretted that they were unable to conclude their agreement because their Washington attorneys had found several conflicting patents before his.

As Mrs. Jenkins explained later, "I saw my one chance to get him, and I grabbed him."

HALTED AT THE BORDER

"Intercept" is more important—in war than in a football game. It is a broad term usually meaning to stop or seize communications intended for the enemy. Information useful to the Axis is intercepted at border control stations maintained by the office of censorship. They are always on the lookout for apparently innocent items in publications and other methods of communication. All newspapers endeavor to meet the requirements of the censorship code on a voluntary basis.

Objectional matter occasionally creeps into news columns despite an editor's vigilance and desire to conform to wartime practices for newspapers. Practically every community has boys in service overseas who want the home-town paper no matter how out-dated it is when copies reach them. The only guarantee that each edition will get through the censorship screening without the application of the scissors is to print material which cannot be useful to the enemy. Too much detail about soldiers' and sailors' foreign addresses helps the Axis agents figure out the size and location of our military and naval forces. The approved form of addresses for overseas destinations, particularly that published for public examination, is to list the Army post office or Navy post office number and the two major mail distribution points "care Postmaster—New York or San Francisco." There will be no occasion for "intercepts" at the border control stations if these simple and sane precautions are observed.

WHEATONS CORNER

In 1892 Ben Pearl and I had a room in the Bennet store building. Ben had a barber chair and he did the barbering and I sold pop (there wasn't any soft drinks then) candy and cigars. One day it happened to be a quiet day in Norwood so I did not get to the shop very early. Ben was sitting on the shop platform. When I went in he left and I supposed had gone to the house and would be right back. A Mr. O'Brien came in, got into the chair, so I thought I would get him all lathered up so when Ben came he could go right to shaving him. Well, I lathered and lathered, then I would go and look to see if Ben was coming. Then go back and lather some more. Finally the gent said, "Don't you think you got those whiskers soaked up enough?" I said; "I think they are about right," so I picked up a razor and went after him and did he have tough whiskers. I finally got over his face once and was going to give him a finishing touch. He said: "Have you been over my face once?" I said: "Yes, sir." He got up, put his hat on and walked out. He still owes me for the shave. Ben had gone to Atwood to see his girl

Nazi Counter Drive in Kharkov Area Wins Back Part of Russ Winter Gains; Wallace Warns of Future War Menace; Allies Tighten Ring on Rommel Armies

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

RUSSIA:
Nazis Uncoil

Three reasons were cited by military observers for the initial success of the sudden German counter-offensive west of Rostov and south of Kharkov which in its early stages had swept forward 100 miles and resulted in the capture of eight key cities in the Donetz basin which had been taken earlier by the Soviets in their great winter drive.

One reason was the use by the Nazis of 25 fresh divisions. Twelve of these had been rushed from western Europe and the others replenished after previous action. A second reason was the draining of troops from this southern sector by the Russians to supply momentum to their drive on Orel and Vyazma to the north. The third was the superiority of Axis supply lines and communications in the Donetz area.

The serious extent of these early German successes was evident in the fact that Russian official communiques had admitted the loss of the cities the Germans had claimed. Russ reports disclosed that the German move had actually started late in February.

The setback in the south had not prevented the Russians from continuing their drive on Vyazma. Red communiques had reported the capture of Tiomkino.

FOOD SUPPLY:
Nutrition Level Dips

That the food situation in the United States is rapidly bringing the American people down to the Canadian and British level of nutrition was the opinion voiced by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

Mr. Wickard likewise disclosed that the amount of food available for civilians "is going to be something less than it is at the present time," in testimony before the senate appropriations committee.

Because of the increasing demand for proteins and fats — including meat, dairy products and some oil crops — from our military forces and our Allies, Mr. Wickard said the American people will probably have to live more on vegetable fats and proteins than they formerly did. "We have about reached the place now where we cannot expand our meat production any more," he said, "because we are not going to have enough of the basic element—feed—to support much more increase."

LABOR MANHUNT:
French Fight Nazis

Adolf Hitler's desperate need for manpower had caused the Nazi to put more than usual pressure on the collaborative Laval regime for more French workers.

The German demand had been for 400,000 men. When Nazi soldiers abetted by the Vichy government set out to meet this goal, the trouble started.

Street fighting, guerrilla tactics and sabotage were the French Patriots' answer to this effort to bolster Germany's waning manpower resources. Reports received by the Fighting French in London indicated that in a single 72-hour uprising, more than 350 German soldiers had been killed.

Swift and cruel were the reprisals taken for this insubordination. But the repressive measures only served to fan the flames of French hatred against the German conquerors.

The above chart shows at a glance which nations of the world have declared war against the others. Of all the United Nations only three—Britain, Czechoslovakia and China—have declared war on the entire Axis tribe. The United States excepts Finland which yet may be induced to quit the Axis.

the west bank of the Salween river. Waning enemy air power in the Burma-China area was indicated by Allied reports that repeated attacks by American and British fliers on Jap objectives had failed to lure any Nipponese planes into battle.

On the Solomon Islands battle-front, American planes moved to the northward raiding Kahili, Buin and Ballole in the Shortland Islands area and Viru Harbor in New Georgia. The Japs retaliated with a raid on Tulagi close to Guadalcanal.

Summarizing the situation in the Pacific, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said that American forces are stronger than ever before in the Solomon Islands sector while throughout the South Pacific, the Japs are having increasing difficulty in supplying their island bases.

Without adequate shipping, the secretary explained, the Japs cannot maintain their South Pacific bases and face further retirement.

ANTI-VICHY:
Action in No. Africa

Increasing evidence that Gen. Henri Giraud's North African regime will move steadily further away from Vichy influences and ever closer to the democratic methods of the United Nations was seen in the high commissioner's summary action in repudiating all Petain decrees relating to African colonial affairs and liquidating the entire government bureau concerned with restrictions on Jews.

"A decree signed in Vichy has no effect in North Africa," was Giraud's terse explanation. "The German occupation interrupted the free exercise of national sovereignty."

General Giraud's action followed that of Governor General Noguas of French Morocco reinstating government workers dismissed under Vichy's orders and repealing the ban on listening to certain foreign broadcasts. In repealing the Vichy anti-Semitic decrees, High Commissioner Giraud ordered General Bounty, who dealt with Jewish problems, to be removed from office.

CHINA:
Destiny's Crossroads

A 10-year reconstruction program for China, including the building of 20,000 transport planes, was proposed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his book, "China's Destiny."

While his wife, Madame Chiang, was busy winning friends for China on her visit to the United States, the Generalissimo disclosed plans calling for 2,460,000 graduates from various grades of technical schools to aid in developing postwar China.

Turn of a Worm

By NAN GILBERT

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

REGINALD was slight and pale and stooping. For thirteen years, as assistant to a bookkeeper's assistant, he had received each Saturday seventeen dollars and twenty-five cents. "The twenty-five cents," the bookkeeper's assistant told him loftily, "is a matter of tradition."

Reggy suspected that it was, instead, a matter of making the total salaries come out even. Round numbers were a passion with his boss—a passion which finally cost Reggy his job. There were twenty-six employees in Baker and Company; the urge to make it a round twenty-five was eventually too strong.

"I wouldn't mind so much," Reggy mumbled gloomily to his girl friend that night, "if I'd ever found out whether my salary rightly should have been seventy-five cents more, or twenty-five cents less."

"You should've gone right up and told that Mr. Baker something," Mabel fretted.

"Aw, Mabel," winced Reggy, "I'll find another job. We'll get that money saved yet for getting married. Though why we can't chance it without . . ."

Mabel shook her head firmly. "No, Reginald Tupper, we'll have that thousand safely banked, or I won't stir a step toward the altar."

The excavation for a new office building was in process near his room. The following morning, Reggy dallied pleasantly, watching the fascinating antics of the automatic shovel. Today, he noticed, the mild gray horse that made its steady trips back and forth from the uprooted clay, was idle. And the foreman was fuming.

"Hey," he said abruptly to Reggy, "want a job?"

The man was psychic! "I most certainly do," Reggy answered.

"Well, think you can lead old Whitie for us till we get another man? Just from here . . . where they load up . . . over there where they unload."

"Absolutely," Reggy agreed, galloping to the waiting beast. "Only," he panted, "I'd really prefer permanent employment."

"O.K., O.K.," the foreman closed the matter. "If you do your work all right. Forty cents an hour."

Forty cents an hour. Reginald figured busily as he led Whitie back and forth. Three twenty a day . . . mmm, nineteen twenty a week! So rosy were his dreams that he didn't notice at first the increasing ache in his feet.

"How're you making out?" the foreman asked him.

"Oh, fine, fine," Reggy assured him automatically. "I just won't turn up tomorrow," he added to himself.

But, limping past the construction office that evening, he heard the foreman booming solicitously to the straw-boss, "Kind and obliging and all that, but feeble. Too feeble. At the end of the month, we'll have to turn 'im off."

His angry stride had carried him to his rooming house. There was an open magazine on his landlady's table, showing a powerful gentleman in an advanced state of undress, bulging biceps that would never, never be called feeble. Reggy, looking closer, read the glaring print, then, hypnotized, cut out the little coupon in the corner.

His job grew easier. When the foreman was near, he whistled or even burst into song, and often flexed his muscles absent-mindedly, as if thinking of something else.

"Just let him try to fire me," Reggy muttered on Mabel's porch one evening.

"What's that?" Mabel glared.

"I said," repeated Reggy louder, his mind elsewhere, "we'll settle this here and now. You'll play my way or we won't play at all!"

"Reginald!" Mabel gasped. "Oh, Reginald, don't talk like that! Don't even suggest leaving me. Oh Reginald, you're so—so masterful!"

Reggy goggled—her head was suddenly on his shoulder.

His mood of triumph still with him the next morning, Reggy strode into the construction office, chin out.

"Bivins," said Reggy starnly, "we'll settle this here and now."

"What the so-and-so," the foreman stuttered, "is eating you, Tuppert?"

"That kind and obliging stuff" Reggy reported stingingly. "Kind and obliging but feeble, and has to be laid off the end of the month. Don't think I didn't hear you!"

"But, Tuppert," the foreman gaped, "Whitie is pretty feeble. You ought to be glad he's getting pensioned off."

"Whitie . . . pensioned off," Reggy echoed weakly.

"Matter of fact, Tuppart," the foreman confided genially, "we have a better job in mind for you. We're starting you next month as straw-boss to the straw-boss. Fifty cents an hour."

"F-fifty," Reggy gulped. He waved an arm vaguely, became aware of his biceps, and flexed them. Thoughtfully.

"Fifty," he repeated. "Him . . . very fair . . . for the present. Fifty." And he strode from the office with only the slightest weave in his walk.

CHATTERER THE RED SQUIRREL HOLDS HIS TONGUE

CHATTERER THE RED SQUIRREL sat in the top of a pine tree scolding. Who was he scolding? Why no one in particular. In fact he was scolding just to hear his own voice. You see Chatterer is never really happy unless there is a fuss of some kind going on. He dearly loves a fuss and when he cannot find anyone else to quarrel with he tries to quarrel with himself.

Now that so many of the little feathered people had gone away for the winter, and so many of the little people who wear fur had gone to sleep for the winter, there was so much less mischief for him to get into that Chatterer was feeling rather dull. You know he loves excitement. Yes, sir, Chatterer the Red Squirrel loves excitement, and this bright morning there wasn't any.

It was very still there in the Green Forest, very still, indeed, except for his own voice. He hadn't seen a soul to torment that whole blessed morning, and he hadn't a blessed thing to do. He had harvested all the nuts and corn and pine seeds that he needed for the winter and now he just didn't know what to do with himself. Suddenly a thought popped into his head. Chatterer stopped scolding and grinned.

"I believe I'll run over to the hollow chestnut tree and wake up Bobby Coon," said he. "Bobby is sure to be asleep and to wake him now is sure to make him cross. That will be fun."

He scampered through the tree tops and over to the big hollow chestnut tree which is the home of Bobby Coon and listened at Bobby's door. Yes, Bobby was there and he was asleep. Chatterer stuck his head inside.

"Wake up! Wake up you sleepy-head
This is no time to be in bed!"

He shouted in his shrilliest voice.

Bobby stirred uneasily, for he was not yet in that sound sleep with which he passes the coldest part of the winter.

"Go 'way," he murmured.

"Sleepy - head! Sleepy - head!" taunted Chatterer, dancing around the doorway. Then he whisked down to the ground and in a minute was back up in the tree with a big pine cone which he dropped in on Bobby Coon. It just happened to hit Bobby on the end of his nose, for he had uncurled enough to look up to see what all the fuss was about. Right away he lost his temper, which was just what Chatterer hoped for. He growled and he snarled and he told Chatterer that he would eat him alive. He even climbed up and stuck his head out of his door, all the time grinding his teeth in the fiercest and most unpleasant way. Chatterer fairly shrieked with glee, and threw bits of bark at Bobby. All the time his tongue was going as fast as it could. He called Bobby bad names. He dared him to come out and try to catch him. He made such a racket that it could be heard for a long way through the Green Forest.

Suddenly, while he was pausing to get his breath, Chatterer heard a rustle of leaves, just the faintest kind of a rustle on the ground. He peered down and in a minute his sharp eyes saw something that made his heart jump with fright. He forgot all about Bobby Coon. He didn't have the least desire to scold. In fact he held his tongue and his breath, and his eyes fairly popped out of his head. What he saw was Shadow the Weasel coming straight to the big hollow chestnut tree. Shadow's claws rattled on the bark of the tree. Chatterer waited to see no more. Without a sound he ran out on a branch of the tree he was in and leaped to the next tree. And then as fast as a frightened squirrel could go he raced away through the tree tops, and he didn't have to look back to know that Shadow the Weasel was following.

A Parking Problem

By JANE OSBORN

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

EVERY morning—save Sunday—at almost precisely five minutes before eight a shabby little motor runabout drew up in front of the Hindley place and stopped at almost precisely the same spot.

"He's got a brass nerve," remarked Mr. James Hindley, viewing the arrival of this little vehicle from the vantage point of his place at the head of the table in the Hindley breakfast room. "Parks that vile car of his there until six-five every evening. I'll see the authorities about it."

"But there isn't any law to prevent parking there, is there?" asked Doris Hindley. "Probably the man who owns the car is a commuter living quite a way out in the country and he doesn't like to leave the car right in front of the station for fear it would be in the way, so he just parks it here."

"It isn't a man," informed Ted, the nineteen-year-old son, hitherto deeply engrossed in his omelet, toast and coffee. "It's a girl."

"That doesn't really alter the situation," remarked Tom of twenty-five, who had overheard part of the conversation as he entered the dining room and really thought that his father needed a voice on his side of the argument. "The car's a mess. The owner could be considerate enough to park her car further down the road."

"I'll have Benson speak to the young woman," said the father of the family. Benson was the entirely dignified elderly chauffeur who drove Mr. Hindley's expensive car.

Mr. Hindley spoke to Benson that morning about it as Benson drove his employer to his office in the brick works that had made him a millionaire. And the next morning, on seeing the shabby little car again parked under his favorite maple tree, he questioned Benson.

"Well, you see, sir," said Benson, trying to hide some confusion and embarrassment, "the young woman that owns it is quite young and—well, I didn't like to frighten her. I hadn't the heart, sir, to insist on her putting the car somewhere else. She said the leaves of the trees were so thick it served to keep the rain off in summer, and also served to keep off the bright sun which would blister the paint."

"If you're too soft-hearted to attend to it," said Mr. Hindley patiently, "get one of the men to do it. No—perhaps that wouldn't be quite courteous. I'll ask Miss Doris."

"That Miss Kelsey is a most interesting girl," said Doris at dinner that night. "You really ought to meet her"—this to her brothers. "She's studying art in the city and living out in the country with an old woman because it's cheaper that way. Her father was a court painter in Russia before the war and managed to escape with her when she was a little girl. Then he died and she had to work at anything. She sold papers for a while and then she worked in an office until she could save enough to begin studying art. She bought that car for twenty-five dollars and got it into condition and painted it herself and—she's the prettiest thing—"

"Did you tell her about parking further down the road?" asked Mr. Hindley, growing impatient.

"I forgot all about it," said Doris in surprise. "We had such a short time before her train went and I was so interested."

"Yes," said Mr. Hindley, wearily. "Perhaps you'd be willing to say something about it tomorrow." He addressed his younger son. Ted agreed and was sure he would be successful, but next night he reported the remarkable coincidence that he had discovered on talking with Mazie that her very best friend in art school was Laura Drake, that peach of a girl he had met in the mountains the year before. "After that, it seemed a bit awkward to ask her to move her car. I thought perhaps you'd be willing to speak to her about it." This remark was addressed to Tom, his elder brother. So Tom said he'd do what he could. Next night he made no report until he was reminded by his sister.

"Blame it all," he said. "The girl is so sweet and pretty I just couldn't. It didn't seem quite gallant." He didn't mention the fact that the reason why he declined to play bridge after dinner with his family that night was because he was going to drive his speedy little roadster out to the farmhouse that Mazie called home.

So, somewhat vexed and really very tired of the sight of the shabby car in front of his house, Mr. James Hindley said he would speak to the young woman himself.

That night Doris, Ted and Tom interrupted each other to ask him what luck he had.

"Why, yes," said the older man, smiling a little sheepishly. "I suggested to the young lady that she would do better to leave the car in our garage, where it could be looked after."

Hidden Taxes

A study of a typical family's purchases made by the National Consumers Tax commission disclosed that hidden taxes consume in a year the equivalent of 578 loaves of bread, or 165 pounds of butter or 144 dozen eggs or 156 pounds of bacon.

Physical Fitness Program Prepares Girls for War Duty

With patriotic forethought for the United States government's growing needs for women in the armed services, the University of New Hampshire has inaugurated a war program of physical fitness through exercise. Here at Durham, N. H., hundreds of girls are being made fit for WAVES, WAACS or SPARS, in case they want to join these women auxiliaries to our forces.

In addition to making the girls better qualified for enlistment in these branches of the service, their health in general is being built to top peak, an invaluable asset in whatever career they may choose for themselves.

Left: Moving in unison to rhythmic music these University of New Hampshire students lean forward and raise their legs by their ankles as they sit on the floor.

Gymnasium instructor, Margaret Mochel, beats a tom-tom while the girls go through exercises in the gymnasium.

As part of their physical fitness program these students (right) are taking a high wall in stride. They also march and do calisthenics to music. In bad weather they train indoors.

Below: The students also go in for cross-country or downhill skiing (no jumping). Here they are pictured on skis. This is particularly beneficial exercise.

Although there was snow on the ground, the weather was particularly mild as these short-clad students ran the zig-zag for poise and balance.

The famed Heinz establishment is now turning out war materials on the side. A Jap in 57 kinds of pickle is an impressive thought.

Manistee kept an official record of this winter's snowfall and, assuming the amount there was comparable with other northern Michigan areas, it goes to prove that our continual ranting about the heavy winter was no joke. The total snowfall recorded at Manistee (to date) was 171 inches, 34 so far in March, 32 in February, 49 in January, 57 in December and 3 in November. And just to bring the story up to the minute, it sleeted Sunday and Monday, perhaps the worst I've ever seen. There was about a foot of it on the ground and if you've ever tried to walk in a pile of rock salt, you can visualize how traveling afoot was. Today you can't see across the street for swirling snow. Well, spring is only three days away, so why worry.

With snow blowing so thickly today that at times you can't see across the street, falling on top of the umpteen feet of the white stuff we've already had this winter, it's hard to visualize the trout fishing season only 37 days away. Nice to think about, anyway.

To the chap who is always saying, "Why advertise, I have all the business I can possibly handle," let me say—you are talking about today. What about tomorrow and the day after, and the months after that! Advertising is your line of communication. Once cut, it's the devil's own job to repair it. No one can foretell how long even the best reputation can ride along on its own momentum. It's not enough for you and your customers to know that your reputation is good; you must tell others through advertising, because they are the customers of tomorrow.

Gus says: "A man who runs a gas station in these times is not staying in business from motives of profit, but merely out of curiosity as to what will happen to him next."

FISHING LICENSE SALES DECREASE

Drop of 22% May Be Indication of Trend for 1943

In the first sport fishing license collections indicative of the 1943 trend, the conservation department reports a decline of 22 per cent, as compared with collections at the same time a year ago.

Receipts from sales to date of 1943 resident fishing licenses amount to $14,500 where a year ago they totaled $57,000. At the same time, income from non-resident licenses fell from more than $1,000 to about $500.

Since license sales to date have been almost entirely to ice fishermen, the rate of decline may differ considerably in spring and summer when the great majority of the state's anglers do their fishing.

Our heartfelt thanks to friends and neighbors for their kind acts of sympathy during our sad bereavement. For the beautiful service, floral offerings and other kindnesses, we are deeply grateful. Mrs. D. F. Newman and children.—Adv. 11t1pd.

April 11, C-(16 points), expires April 30.

April 18, D-(16 points), expires April 30.

April 25, E-(16 points), expiration date to be announced.

Meat sales will not be "frozen" before rationing begins. "Freezing" sales of other rationed items will depend on how the public buying proceeds during the next two weeks. A rush of consumers to stock up on these items will undoubtedly result in cessation of sales for a short period.

Two amendments to the state constitution will appear on a separate ballot. Proposal No. 1, if approved, would provide for election of township officers for terms of two years. Proposal No. 2 would validate certain alienations or mortgages of homestead lands after the lapse of 25 years.

The city ballot will contain the names of the following Republican nominees selected at the February primary election: mayor, Robert Bridge; clerk, Ray S. Hamilton; treasurer, Nelle A. Hammond; justice of the peace, Horace R. Fowler; supervisors: 1st ward, Angus L. Fochtman; 2nd ward, Arthur Bergeon; 3rd ward, Clarence B. Meggison; aldermen: 1st ward, Charles Bellinger; 2nd ward, Harley I. Ochs; 3rd ward, Harry F. Hooker.

Township ballots will contain names of officials nominated at township caucuses.

Polls in the Charlevoix city hall will be open from 7 a. m., to 8 p. m., Central War Time.

Girl Wins Show Honors

Top honors in the recent first annual spring 4-H club swine show held at Michigan State College went to Pauline Barnhart, of Reading, in Hillsdale county. Judge V. A. Freeman declared her 250 pound Chester White the grand champion barrow and her three market pigs the grand champion pen. The champion hog sold on foot for 25 cents a pound. Sixty-six pigs weighed 16,415 pounds, enough to provide the meat needs of 35 men in the armed services for a year.

ICE IN LAKES DELAYS OPENING NAVIGATION

Straits of Mackinac, St. Mary's Channel Are Ice-Locked

Observers of shipping conditions on the Great Lakes have predicted that it will be another ten days to two weeks before general navigation opens on the lower lakes. While ice conditions are described as "fluid," no passage can be made at various strategic points in the main channels of lake traffic.

Huge ice blocks still exist in the Straits of Mackinac and St. Mary's channel into Lake Superior, and many ships are locked in their winter berths in eastern Lake Erie.

Outside Charlevoix harbor, the ice floes reach to the horizon. While last year navigation opened March 15, earliest opening on record, and lighthouse crews were at their stations throughout the Straits area by this time, winter's grip will delay the beginning of lake traffic this spring.

SCOUTS BEGIN FATS SALVAGE

WASTE KITCHEN FATS ARE NEEDED IN WAR

Periodic Canvass of City Will Be Made; Housewives Are Urged to Cooperate in Drive

Collection of waste fats from Charlevoix kitchens has been taken over by Boy Scouts of this city, according to announcement by William Supernaw, chairman of the local salvage committee.

Scoutmaster Pat Hawley is in charge of the Scouts' salvage campaign, which will include other household items such as silk and nylon hose, rags, manila rope, burlap bags, all needed in the war program. Periodic canvasses of homes will be made by the Scouts.

Each Scout has been given a territory to canvass, and will call at all homes in his district. As the Scouts are doing this both as a patriotic effort and in an attempt to raise funds for their organization, local housewives are asked to cooperate to the fullest extent. Women who already are saving kitchen fats and taking them to grocers will welcome the opportunity to have someone collect at their homes.

All waste cooking fats should be saved, strained and poured into a clean, wide-mouthed can such as a coffee can. Although in itself a small amount of grease may seem unimportant, combined with other portions from other kitchens throughout the country it plays an important part in the war. Substitutes must be found for vegetable fats from the far east, a supply shut off by war in the Pacific. Fats make glycerine, which is used for explosives so badly needed by our armies.

No Lower Peninsula Predators

For the first time in more than three and a half years, the lower peninsula is not represented in the monthly summary of predator bounty payments made by the state conservation department. For the 15 coyotes and 21 bobcats bountied in the upper peninsula in February, the department paid $365.

Quarter-Ton Four-Wheel Drive Amphibian Car

The most flexible new machine of the war, on land or in the water, is the new quarter-ton four-wheel drive Ford-built amphibian car, used by the U. S. fighting forces in war zones. With a carrying capacity of five men, the new addition to the army's transportation arm can plunge into water and propel itself as a boat, as shown in picture at left, where several of the new craft are undergoing various tests in the Detroit area. At right the amphibian is about to enter the water to do its stuff.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES TO AID WAR VICTIMS

Collect Funds for Emergency and Relief Committee

St. Mary's church of this city will join other Catholic churches of the Grand Rapids diocese who are cooperating in a nation-wide drive next Sunday to collect funds for the Bishops' War Emergency and Relief committee which last year distributed $1,322,000 to homeless victims of war in Europe and Asia.

Funds gathered by the bishops' committee are used for relief work where American agencies ordinarily are unable to function. Refugees in nearly all of the war-devastated countries have been aided by funds collected last year.

RATIONING UPS GROCERY TRADE

HOUSEWIVES RUSH TO BUY MEAT, CANNED GOODS

Overlapping Periods March-April Food Stamps Allow Purchase In Large Quantities

Charlevoix grocery and meat markets experienced a rush of business this past week which rivaled the height of summer trade, as housewives rushed to stock up on meat before rationing began, and buy up canned goods with excess ration points for March.

As blue A, B and C can goods stamps expired March 31 and April's D, E and F stamps become valid Thursday, overlapping the first ration period, many families bought large stocks of canned goods in order to utilize unused stamps. Grocers' shelves of canned foods were rapidly depleted as buyers, who at first had been extremely cautious about using ration points, suddenly discovered that they had many points left over which must be used before the end of March or become invalid.

Point values of some processed foods, including canned fruit juice and dried beans, were lowered considerably but other point values were raised so that no aggregate reduction resulted from juggling of points by the OPA. Prunes and raisins were placed at zero point value, that is, no points are required for their purchase but they will continue to appear on the ration list as a reminder that they may again be rationed when crops are scarce.

Red ration stamps lettered "A" became valid for the purchase of meat, butter and fats at 12:01 a.m. Monday of this week, and are good until midnight April 30. B, C and D red stamps become effective April 4, 11 and 18 respectively, and all expire April 30. Meat stamps lettered "E" are valid April 25, and no expiration date is set for these.

Canning Supplies Plentiful

Metal tops and rubber jars will be available in plenty for American housewives this year. The war production board has removed all quota restrictions on the manufacture of certain types of metal lids used to seal jars. Prohibition of the use of zinc, however, is continued.

Remember Brown Motors, Inc., for bicycles, parts, tires and inner tubes.—Adv. 12t2.

RED CROSS WAR FUND OVER TOP

SUMMER RESIDENTS AIDED LOCAL CAMPAIGN

All Returns Not Counted; City Chairman E. J. Edwards to Make Final Report

As the American Red Cross war fund emergency campaign closed Wednesday, a mark of $1,150 was registered on the thermometer in the Central Drug store window which has indicated progress of the drive in this city.

Contributions are still to be received from surrounding townships, and donations sent by Charlevoix summer residents have not yet been added to the total. When all funds are totaled, the amount is expected to reach $2,500, far above the goal of $1,500 set for this city.

Charlevoix might not have reached its quota had it not been for the generous contributions of summer residents, who gave generously to the campaign in this city. Several sizable checks have been received by E. J. Edwards, chairman for the city.

Thanks are extended to ward chairmen and volunteer solicitors, who devoted considerable time and effort to the drive. Indications are that the entire county will go over the $4,400 quota, as Boyne City and East Jordan were at last report within sight of their goals.

Mr. Edwards will make a final report on the drive in Charlevoix as soon as all funds are totaled.

FEW REVISIONS IN GAME LAWS

MINOR CHANGES ARE MADE BY LEGISLATURE

Increase in Season Limit on Cock Pheasant; Daily Limit for Cotton-Tailed Rabbits

Michigan sportsmen will have but few revisions in the state's conservation law to remember this year, a survey has revealed.

Failing to obtain legislative approval of any of its suggested changes in the present law, the state conservation department, however, did succeed in putting through the legislature several minor revisions.

The legislative changes will:

1. Increase the season limit for cock pheasant from six to eight.

2. Increase the day limit of cotton-tailed rabbits from three to five.

3. Change the open season on frogs from June 1 through November 1 to June 24 through November 16.

4. Reduce the legal size of pike perch, caught for commercial purposes in Lake Erie, from 15½ inches to 13 inches. This was done to make the Michigan law coincide with the Ohio statute.

5. Allow the spearing of pike perch for non-commercial use in Lake Huron and its connecting waters.

6. Require the names and address of owners be placed on all fish shanties. Also shanties must be removed from the lake or river upon which they were located 30 days after the ice has broken up.

7. Prohibit all hunting in Bloomfield township, Oakland county, and Redford township, Wayne county, for the next five years.

8. Prohibit the sale of certain wild flowers unless permission has been obtained from the owner of the land on which they were grown.

Suggested revisions turned down by the legislature would have given the department discretionary power over hunting and fishing seasons as well as the right to set and regulate bag limits.

Other proposals refused would have: increased resident hunting and fishing licenses 10 cents with the increase to be turned over to the license dealer; earmarked 25 cents of each deer license sold to be set aside in a fund to feed northern Michigan's hungry deer.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

If you ask me, the Max Smiths solved the birthday and ration problems all at one time. Last Thursday they became parents of twins, a boy and a girl, born on the anniversary of their first son. So now they can have the birthday party, presents, ice cream and cake for all three on the same day, and just between you and me, two extra ration cards right now is nothing to be sneezed at, either. Nice going, I'd remark.

The above might be motivated by a wee bit of envy on my part, too. April is birthday month at our place, with the anniversaries of four of our five youngsters coming along in a period of two weeks.

There's another nice bunch of letters from soldiers in the Courier again this week and one's sort of got me riled up. Bernie Foster pokes fun at my shootin', intimating I require a box of shells to get one "pat." I'll admit my average isn't much better than that, but my remembrance of the last time he and I hunted together was that his wasn't any better and now that he's practicing with a 20 mm cannon and shooting skeet and traps to get in shape for the Japs and Huns, he'd better be good when he gets back or I'll kid him for ever more.

Alice: "Whenever I'm in the dumps I get myself a new hat."

Harry: "I was wondering where you got them."

You who yell about being rationed on shoes and fear possible rationing of clothing, lend an ear to this list of what the well-dressed English woman may buy in a year: girdle, one set of undies, dress, hat, maybe a coat, 'nightie, two hankies, three pairs of stockings and a ball of yarn thrown in. The men fare little better, their clothing ration stamps provide them with an amount of covering about on a par with this. In other words, the British may buy in a year the clothes Americans feel it necessary to discard in a month.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Following is a condensation of two letters from Sgt. Vernon Willette to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKay of Norwood. Sgt. Willette is with the American air forces in India.

Dear Mother and Mack,

I got 10 letters yesterday, I guess I hit the jackpot. One was from the Kiwanis club in Charlevoix.

I sent you a couple of C. B. I. Roundups (newspapers) about 3 days ago. We can't say anything in our letters but you can read the paper and just about tell what we are doing. It is a British paper and they will get most of the big write-ups.

A couple of days ago me and Steinberg (the boy that went home with me) went over to the officers barrack and got a dresser. It's a new one and a good place to put our clean laundry. We have a native tailor shop here, and yesterday I went over there and bought a couple pillows and a couple mattresses. That was all he had there, so I bought both sets and gave one outfit to Steinberg. I was lucky to get there first because all the fellows want one. Geel it sure feels good to sleep on a mattress and pillow again. I could hardly get up this morning.

I have only been to town once since I've been here. It is a crumby place and I would rather stay here at camp. The last time I was in town (it's all blacked out) I walked down the street and a dead native was lying beside the walk.

We have a swell non-commissioned officers club here and a nice day room where I spend most of my time when I'm not gone.

A new shipment of supplies came in from the States yesterday. They rationed out one carton of cigarettes and three bottles of beer to each man. We are supposed to get it about once a month. That American beer sure tasted good, but three cans is hardly enough.

We also got a lot of old books and newspapers, they must have been sent by the USO.

The mail plane just flew in, I hope I have some mail on it, we won't have mail call until tomor-

Winter's parting shot shut up both avenues of escape from this neighborhood so no one could go out or in only on foot for a week or more until Tom Jensen went out with his tractor from his place to the East Jordan-Ellsworth road and broke a trail so that with the help of a team and some men with shovels he succeeded in going thru with his car, and the men on the Nichols ranch were able to haul their five cans of cream to the creamery. Schools Open Drive To Buy 10,000 Jeeps

Battle Flags of the Schools

THE little jeep which is serving so nobly from Guadalcanal to Africa has become the symbol of the gigantic efforts of millions of American school children in their War Savings program.

Thousands of public, private and parochial schools soon will be displaying a certificate of honor from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., signifying that they have paid for at least one jeep by buying $900 in War Stamps and Bonds.

Countless others will be flying the Schools At War banner awarded to schools with 90 percent pupil participation in War Savings.

Ten thousand jeeps and a hundred bombers! This is the new goal of America's schools as 30,000,000 children continue their Schools At War program under the auspices of the Treasury Department and the U. S. Office of Education.

Results so far in the program reported by Dr. Homer W. Anderson, Associate Field Director in charge of the education section of the War Savings Staff, are:

More than 7,000,000 elementary and high school students from 30,000 schools have prepared special Schools At War scrapbooks for state and local exhibits.

First Flower of Spring

The skunk cabbage, with its yellow center and maroon shell, smells just as its name suggests, but it is a welcome sight in Michigan as it pushes its way through the retreating snows. A bill introduced in the 1943 Legislature proposed safeguarding the less abundant wildflowers by forbidding pickers—especially commercial operators gathering them in quantity for sale—without the written consent of the land owner.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Extension Service in Charge of Emergency Farm Labor Program

Farm labor is now and will be the farmer's number one problem in this crucial year of 1943. Already a definite program has been formulated by the United States department of agriculture whereby the extension service in each county has been charged with the responsibility of handling the farm labor program.

In Charlevoix county, a youth farm labor committee has been set up consisting of ten members. On a community basis, four community committees have been developed centering in the four high school districts of Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls.

It is expected that a farm labor center for the recruitment and placement of local labor will be established and operated as a part of the county extension service office. The AAA, through the 1943 farm program sign-up and farm plan work sheet, will obtain information on farm labor requirements for each farm, also information regarding the workers now on farms. At the present time the schools in the county are urging high school boys and girls to sign up as farm volunteers to help in the harvesting of seasonal crops. Also farm-trained and farm-experienced boys who have been deferred for agricultural purposes by the selective service board are being placed on farms throughout the county.

Later on a woman's land army will be developed to lend a hand in harvesting crops when the necessity arises. A United States crops corps to help farmers and food processors in peak seasons will be developed. Right now it will be appreciated if farmers who need help would leave their requests in the county agent's office. Likewise, folks who are interested in working on farms should leave their name. If farm labor needs are taken care of, it means that everyone's cooperation in the county is necessary.

Animal Husbandry and Soils Subjects for Second Series of Farm Meetings

The second series of meetings in the "food for freedom" program are scheduled for Friday, April 9th. The two topics to receive emphasis will be animal husbandry and soils. In order to make it possible for more farmers to attend, four meetings will be held, two on soils and its related subjects, and two on farm animals other than dairy. Specialists from Michigan State College will be present and will make the presentation.

The following schedule on Friday, April 9th, has been arranged: Animal husbandry, forenoon meeting, 10 o'clock, East Jordan city building; afternoon meeting, 2 o'clock, Boyne City library; soils, forenoon meeting, 10 o'clock, Marion Center grange hall; afternoon meeting, 2 o'clock, Maple Grove grange hall.

Considerable emphasis will be devoted to how Charlevoix county farmers can increase their animal husbandry program. We are asked to increase greatly our hog production this year, so perhaps of all farm animals, more attention will be devoted to swine than the others. Before maximum results can take place, every farmer must consider his type of soil, its potential productivity and what can profitably be done to obtain maximum production. Certainly short cuts in management and production for this all out war effort must be considered. The question of commercial fertilizer is important. Where does one obtain the maximum results from the use of fertilizer? What crops deplete the soil fertility the most?

Pals

By JOHN M. HENRY
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

FRANKIE and Freddie, were the two best pals anyone could ever imagine. Why, over there, in the war, they shared fags, even if there was only one between them, and shell holes and all of the dirt and grime that went with the conflict.

When they had returned to this country and had become accustomed once more to the wind blowing up their trouser legs (after the putts had been unwound, you know) they continued to share. It was just "Frankie and Freddie, fifty-fifty," as one of them said one night in France, or somewhere. They couldn't exactly remember where but it didn't matter to them anyway.

They shared sorrows and dollars and a rather moderately priced room. They recommended each other to employers and hostesses, and agreed that this one with the heaviest date should have the cleanest shirt.

In due course of time, Frankie ran for the city council and was elected with the help of extra votes Freddie brought in from somewhere. In exchange for his services Freddie became a city contractor.

Oh, yes, it was always Frankie and Freddie, fifty-fifty — through days of Damon and nights of Pythias.

But there comes a time in every man's life when certain things cannot be shared. You're right. Her name was Margaret, but her friends called her Marg. She was the kind of girl who snaps her fingers and stamps her feet when she dances. For a while all three were content just to be in each other's company.

The day when they realized that they couldn't go on merely being friends with her found them in Frankie's city council chambers discussing the situation in a manner as becomes two of the best pals in the world. It was Freddie who suggested a way out.

"It's a cockeyed cinch we can't share her," he said. "Let's cut the cards."

In France they had faced a similar situation when they had to decide which one of them captured the prisoner the colonel wanted, and for which a medal was to be given. Only that time they flipped a franc.

"Sure," Frankie agreed, "high takes her, O. K."

And Freddie, being a good pal, insisted that Frankie should be the first.

Frankie turned up a queen. To be exact, it was the queen of hearts.

"You cut a queen to get a queen," Freddie laughed, but not without a certain tenseness because, after all, there were only two cuts higher than this one, and Marg really was quite desirable.

Freddie's hand shook a trifle as he reached for the cards. There was a death-like silence in the room. As he lifted his fingers with the pasteboard rectangles in them, they trembled even more.

"You cut an ace—to give a queen an ace," Frankie commented, following his good old pal's cue.

Frankie extended his arm and they solemnly shook hands. He felt no remorse, for what he had lost his friend had gained.

Freddie and Marg settled in the town, and brought up, in due time, Freddie Jr. and Frankie and little Olivia. During this time Frankie and Freddie still remained the best of friends. On special occasions like Christmas or Thanksgiving, Frankie always shared the day with the little family. The children called him "Uncle Frankie" and their joys knew no limit whenever he came to see them.

Marg? She became the kind of mother any girl who snaps her fingers and stamps her feet when she dances becomes after three children, lonesome nights and futile diets. She was irritable and dissatisfied. In short, she became what might be termed a nagging wife.

As time went on Frankie's visits to the small cottage grew fewer and fewer. Eventually he quit going and, instead, Freddie Sr. came to his room every night.

Life continued and often Freddie Sr. wondered what they meant when they said that November 11 had ended the fighting. He began to think that he would rather have a continuation of France.

One particularly rainy evening Marg was expounding.

"... Another thing wrong with you is that you don't take any interest whatever in your kids. You never advise them. You never talk to them. You never ..."

Freddie Sr. leaned forward a queer light in his eyes.

"Come here, son," quoth he gently to Freddie Jr. The lad obeyed for it wasn't often that his father talked to him in that tone of voice.

"Yes, dad?"

"Son I'm going to give you a little advice. When you grow up to be a man—" He stopped and looked straight at the wife he had won by cutting the cards; then repeated, "When you grow up to be a man, never, never cheat at cards."

NON-PIKE LAKES ARE CLOSED ON MARCH 31

Fishing Banned Until Pan Fish Season Opens June 25th

Fishing on most of Michigan's inland lakes—on all of them except the few hundred designated as pike or trout lakes and closed already—ended March 31, and after a quiet period for spawning of bass, pike, perch and panfish will reopen June 25.

In ordinary years the spring breakup often halts fishing before the legal March 31 deadline, but this season conservation department field men report solid ice for ice fishermen throughout northern Michigan. Until the last day of the month, fishermen on the undesignated inland lakes could take any fish that bite the hook except trout, black bass, sunfish and bluegills.

row because it takes quite a while to sort the mail.

There are some native carpenters working on our igloo, they are putting on storm windows. Boy! they sure have crude working tools. They only have about four tools altogether, for a drill they use a bow and a drill. They look like boy scouts trying to build a fire when they drill a hole. They have something like a hoe for a plane. Their saw looks like our keyhole saw, and they use the back of their plane for a hammer.

The monsoons will start here around the first of April, probably by the time you get this letter.

Take care of yourself and write often.

Mrs. McKay brought us three copies of the C. B. I. Roundup, published at Delhi, India, in a breezy style especially for American soldiers. All the latest news from all parts of the world is contained in its 12 magazine-sized pages, contributed by correspondents of famous papers and by soldiers of the American troops in India.

Dear Ken,

I have been receiving your paper for the last four months and sure enjoy it. A fellow who is away from home really enjoys any news that pertains to it. Thanks a lot for the paper and I will be looking forward to its continuance.

At present I am stationed here at the Kansas City Quartermaster Depot. I am in the medical corps attached to veterinary detachment and now am attached to the KCQMD. I work at Armour & Co. packing house. We inspect all the food stuff that goes out of here for the army and navy. Right at the present I am working at night from 4:30 p. m. until 2:00 a. m. This will only last a month and then I will go back on days. I like the work quite well and we don't have to do any drill work or have any inspections or any of the other army routine that makes army life so pleasant.

I have been reading how well the Charlevoix basketball team has been doing this year. Wish I could be there to some of the games, but will have to do my rooting from long distance. I wish them lots of luck. Also have been reading about those Charlevoix boys who have been doing such a noble job over in the Far East. Wish them lots of luck also. Wish I could be with them, but will do my best to see that they get the best kind of meat possible.

You sure have been having some winter up there. We haven't had hardly any snow here, but the temperature does go down to zero and below and we almost freeze to death. Well, I guess I have rambled long enough, so had better close and get back to work. Sure hope this war is won by us very soon so we can all come home. Thanks again for the paper.

Sincerely,
Pvt. Clare L. McGhan

Dear Ken,

Just a line to let you know my new address. I am down in Florida and it sure is nice and warm down here, a lot different than wading the snow up there at this time of the year.

I went to Orlando first and then to Signal Hill to the 9th Bomb. Sqd. and now I am at the 99th Bomb. Sqd. This is a new camp. There are only around 300 soldiers and officers here, so it is a small camp. It has only been open for about a month and there is a lot of work to be done on the field and the building of runways.

The camp is built right out in a pine grove so we have lots of shade for the hot sunshine.

Will close by saying hello to all the people of Charlevoix and my friends.

Dear Ken,

Thinking that people were wondering where I was, I just want to tell them that I am not where I would like to be, but while you are in the army you don't say where you want to go or why—you just do what they tell you to do and since I've gotten to be a corporal they have found plenty for me to do, but the time goes much faster.

I wish to thank you for the paper as it means a lot to the boys in the camps to receive the home town paper. I know that if mine doesn't come I jump on the mail clerk here. And here is to the boys in other parts of the world. You are doing fine, even better than that. I only wish I were there with you, but as for now I am here training men and hope when they get to you that they are good men as I know they will be. The best of luck to you all over there.

Don Meggison is just across the street from me. He brought a cake up that he got from home and it didn't take us long to finish that.

Well Ken, as you see, I am no typist so you better fix this up and I will close for now, thanking you for the paper.

Dear Ken,

Have transferred again, so thought I would drop you a couple of lines about this aerial gunnery school. They train gunners here for high altitude flying. They start us out with BB guns and we end up with 20 m. m. cannon. Also get 150 rounds of trap and skeet shooting. That is why I joined the air corps, to get in the free practice shooting. Figure I ought to be able to knock down a few "pats" after the war is over, without shooting up a couple of boxes of shells. My average before the war was one bird per box. You should know quite a little about that kind of shooting yourself.

This desert country out here isn't bad if you like alkali dust. The natives here call it Nevada rain. The town of Las Vegas is a regular gamblers paradise. It cost me ten bucks to learn that the blackjack games were not on the square. They will only let us go to town once a month, guess they are afraid that if they let too many go at once, they might rough the place up a bit.

As ever,

Dear Ken,

I haven't much time to write a letter, but I think I have enough time to let you know my new address so that I will continue to receive the Courier. I have been transferred up here and don't want to miss the paper. I have enjoyed receiving the paper very much, it means a lot to us fellows to be able to tell what is going on back home, and just to see the names of the people we know.

I think that I am going to like it quite well up here in Alaska. There are various forms of recreation provided up here, so that we don't miss being in the States very much.

I had a nice trip coming up here, and since arriving have had the good fortune to run into quite a few fellows that I know. None of them are from Michigan. I have, however, run into several fellows from Michigan. One from Lansing, and two from Detroit. It seems good to talk to someone who can talk about the old home state on equal terms.

I don't suppose there is much that I can say about the station that the censor wouldn't cut, so I won't try to say much. I will say, however, that we have a very nice barracks and that the food is swell.

I guess I had better knock off for now, as I should get busy. I am supposed to be working now, so maybe I had better make it look that way.

Thanks a lot for changing the address. I really don't want to miss an issue of the paper.

Sincerely, your friend,
Desmond K. Johnson, RM3c.

"Well," says Judge Cunningham. "I see they've got it!"

"Got what?" I says.

"Look," beams the Judge. And he pulls out an article about a special kind o' lie detector—an "alcoholometer" they call it.

When a fellow gets haled into court for doing mischief, and blames it all on a "couple of beers," this scientific machine proves whether just a "couple of beers" is really the true answer.

And o' course it isn't. Because a couple of beers, enjoyed with friends, is a way people keep out of trouble, not get into it!

From where I sit, I certainly agree with the Judge. The fellow with the alibi about a "couple of beers" is reflecting on good citizens everywhere who enjoy a quiet glass of beer with their meals—sittin' with their friends or just relaxing after a day's work. Moderate folks like that are entitled to consideration.

over to the watchfulness of some lonely outpost hundreds of miles north of your home.

Let's start at the beginning.

The front line of Detroit and Chicago, and every industrial war center in the Middle West, is in the Upper Peninsula right at Sault Ste. Marie.

Traveling over the northern circle route, Nazi planes could reach the wilds of Hudson Bay and thence strike at the Soo locks. The distance? Only a few thousand miles from their home bases in Norway. Yes, look at your globe.

United States intereeptor planes would try to divert them before they reached the vital canal locks. If the interceptors succeeded, the Nazi bombers would have tons of compressed hell ready to unleash upon any Michigan war center.

Bombs would be dropped. Some would hit their targets. Others would fall upon homes in residential districts nearby.

Assume that this possibility becomes a reality and Michigan's protective services were NOT on the job. You can imagine what a howl of indignation would arise to the high heavens. The newspapers would be filled with letters from protesting readers.

Somebody had blundered, of course.

Someone should have detected those planes before they arrived at the Soo.

And if the planes were prevented from flying over the locks and dumping their bombs there, then by in the name of common sense didn't the governor, or mayor, or someone — anyone! — protect the innocent civilians who were killed and maimed in bombed cities and towns in the Lower Peninsula?

All right, listen.

We doubt if one person out of ten who reside south of the Bay City-Muskegon line realize today that a civilian army of between 30,000 and 40,000 persons stands guard in shifts of four hours each, sometime during every week, to detect any aircraft in the sky.

Well, it's a fact.

If the air raid warning is sounded and you have a chance to run for cover, you may thank the business men, the housewives, the miners, the farmers, the students —all civilians, mind you—who devote a part of their leisure time each week to the lonely vigil of scanning the skies for enemy planes which, thank goodness, have not come yet and which we hope will never arrive.

These unsung heroes of the northern front line sacrifice their time, not because their own homes are endangered, but because the United States government believes sincerely that it is vital for the safety of thousands of people elsewhere that advance warning be given of any bombing flight.

The volunteers manned their posts on frigid, zero nights.

It isn't fun to do so,

And so when you are inclined to enthuse about the front page headlines and conclude that the war is just about over, remember this:

Last year at this very time the talk of the street was that the war would be all over by Christmas!

If Michigan is in no danger of being bombed by enemy planes, then why does the United States government go to such length to build huge airports at the Soo, concentrate many thousands of men there, and establish the only international military zone along the American-Canadian border?

If the war is going to be over in a month or two, why then the need for an army of ten, or eleven, or twelve million men—yes, in 1943?

We hope the military experts are wrong. But we are impressed with the weight of their logic. Michigan must remain on the alert today, tomorrow and the tomorrows to come.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. and British Teamwork in Tunisia Forces Definite Shift of Nazi Strategy; Moscow-Bryansk Drive Ended: Russia; Fortresses Smash Jap Base at Rabaul

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

TUNISIA:
Big Punch

Working as a team, Allied armies have thrown their big punch at the Axis in Tunisia.

With Allied planes flying over the southern front in waves bombing and strafing the enemy, the British 8th army opened a powerful assault against the Mareth line. Units of this army smashed through the left side of the Axis positions and raced to within 20 miles of Gabes, a vital communications center for the enemy.

At the same time, Lieut. Gen. George Patton led his armored American forces into Maknassy, which stands 20 miles from the Gabes coastal area. Patton's men held their positions despite the fierce counterfire of German dive bombers.

In the welter of fighting, it appeared as though the British were succeeding in herding the Germans back up the coast, while the Americans were driving eastward to cut off the retreat from the rear. Enjoying air superiority, the Allies claim to have bagged 24 Axis planes in the early stages of the fighting to a loss of seven of their own.

KISKA:
Jap Air Base

The silence shrouding Japanese activities on Kiska island in the Aleutians was broken with word of American stepped-up air offensive designed primarily to prevent the enemy from completing the task of building an air field on the mountainous island.

Although Liberators have many times visited Kiska since November, the first American reports in February told of daily raids by heavy bombers working 24 hours a day to destruct a flight strip from which they can operate land planes. Previously such an installation had been considered impossible, due to the rough nature of the land. Construction of the field would permit the Japs to do a much better job of defending Kiska. From there, too, they might try to raid the American base in the Andreanof islands.

SILENT TREATMENT:
For Argentina

When Vice President Wallace went no further into South America than to Chile, natives of Argentina began to really wake up to the fact that Washington was handing them a good dose of the "silent treatment." Comment on Wallace's trip became general throughout the country and the government went so far as to issue an official explanation—that it had been learned in Washington that Wallace was visiting only the West coast of South America on this trip.

Argentina, major food producing nation, received no mention in plans for the United Nations' forthcoming agricultural conference and this, too, caused wide discussion of America's policy toward the republic.

Citizens of Argentina realize that their government is being handled this way because of its policy of failing to cast in completely with the United Nations in political and military action against the Axis.

RUSSIA:
Deeds, Few Words

Even while the Germans were claiming new gains in the area west of Kursk, 120 miles north of Kharkov, Moscow communiques told of beaten Nazi forces up and down the line running from Smolensk to Rostov.

Russian dispatches told of strong German forces which had smashed against the Moscow-Bryansk rail trunk. The Nazis were reported to have lost 7,000 officers and men in killed alone. The Russians said the Nazi offensive had ceased.

In their own offensive west of Moscow toward Smolensk, the Red army captured an additional number of populated places. On the Donets river front, far to the south, the Russians fought defensive engagements with German tanks and infantry in the Belgorod area. Belgorod, about 60 miles northeast of Kharkov, is held by the Germans.

For the first time in weeks the Russians announced an advance in the Kuban area of the Caucasus. There they captured the district center and large railway station of Slavyanskaya, 45 miles northeast of Novorossisk.

STEEL: And Faked Tests

Charges of crookedness vs. patriotism were aired before a senate investigating committee when officers and employees of the Carnegie-Illinois steel corporation acknowledged that tests had been faked on steel produced by its Irvin, Pa., plant to fill war orders.

Steel company officials hotly denied there was any motive except patriotism—a desire to win the war. Chairman Harry S. Truman of Missouri said he considered the practice "just plain crookedness and cheating on the government."

J. Lester Perry, president of the corporation, testified that the "regrettable failure" to carry out testing procedures on steel plates for the navy, maritime commission and lend-lease was not known to the higher management and declared he intended to "clear it up."

250 JAP PLANES:
Blasted at Rabaul

The Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, shuddered under its third heaviest raid of the war when a strong force of Flying Fortresses dropped 54 tons of bombs on more than 250 Jap planes trapped on the ground.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that "a substantial proportion" of the grounded enemy planes were destroyed or damaged. The Fortresses dropped bombs ranging in size from small incendiaries to 2,000-pound block-busters. Rabaul has three airdromes—Lakunai, Vunakanau and Rapopo. All Allied planes returned.

On their return from Rabaul, Allied planes strafed and set afire a 10,000-ton Japanese transport off Cape Gazella. Enemy shipping also was attacked at three other places.

DOWN UNDER:
Subs Big Menace

With submarines operating in packs in the North Atlantic, signs pointed early to the opening of the Nazis spring offensive against Allied shipping to the European war fronts.

That the Nazis were concentrating on such an offensive seemed to be borne out by the appointment of Karl Doenitz as commander of the German fleet. Doenitz is a submarine specialist, who has organized the latest technique of operating U-boats in packs.

Thirty-two ships totaling over 200,000 tons were sunk in a recent convoy, the Nazis said. The Allies did not confirm the claim, but survivors from a late North Atlantic convoy said their losses were heavy, although partly compensated by damage to the attacking undersea horde.

The Nazis are said to have 500 subs, with at least a third in action at one time. The practice of operating the submersibles in packs under one experienced commander, relieves the necessity for training individual commanders. In the new technique, U-boats attack their prey from both sides of the convoy.

Construction of a fast destroyer escort by the U. S. is expected to assist in running down subs. Volume production of these escorts will allow the navy to use them as the Nazis use their U-boats, that is, in packs. Building also has been speeded on small auxiliary aircraft carriers to permit planes to take off at sea and maintain close patrol over convoys at all times.

RATIONING:
Juggling Act

Almost all the items that go into the American market basket are now regulated under the rationing system and the job of juggling points to insure a proper diet is as an important job for the housewife as is juggling the dollars in the family's grocery budget.

When meat, butter, cheese, shortening, lard and margarine joined the foods brought under the point system the full force of war hit the nation's dinner table. OPA indicated that with the 16 points allotted each week during the first weeks for these items would provide approximately these amounts:

1. Meat—Slightly under two pounds.
2. Butter—About ½ pound.
3. Cheese—About 1.7 ounces.
4. Shortening—About 3 ounces.
5. Lard—About ½ pound.
6. Margarine—About 1.2 ounces.

Officials reported that in general the attitude to this almost complete rationing of foodstuffs was good. Most Americans realize, it was pointed out, that rationing is the safest way to insure adequate supplies for the armed forces and our allies as well as insure equitable distribution of what is left for the home front.

VIEWPOINTS:
Death, Dust, Ashes

A quiet confidence ran through Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent speech when he warned the British that it may take two more years to crush Hitler "and his evil powers of evil into death, dust and ashes."

That was Churchill's warning to those people who believe that the war already is won. "I am not able to share those sanguine hopes and my earnest advice to you is . . . not to take your eye off the ball even for a moment."

In a speech both grave and optimistic, Churchill asserted that after Germany is beaten the Allies would turn immediately to "punish the greedy, cruel empire of Japan." The prime minister proposed post-war councils of the Allied nations to insure peace, and drew a hopeful picture of social and economic post-war planning.

Meanwhile, another voice was heard—this one from Berlin. It was the voice of Adolf Hitler, rumored to be dead, ill or insane. Emerging from months of seclusion, Hitler admitted that German soil has become a war zone, but boasted that the eastern front crisis has been overcome and that the German nation was moving toward "success until final victory?"

WARNING:

Broadcasts from Tokyo are warning the Japanese people to expect air raids over Japan and increasing submarine attacks upon shipping. A war review broadcast said "the enemy is still continuing air raids on our forces. The American planes in China will be further strengthened and therefore the enemy hopes to carry out raids over Japan. The enemy is using her submarines in the hope of destroying our supply lines . . . We must build more ships to replace our lost ships."

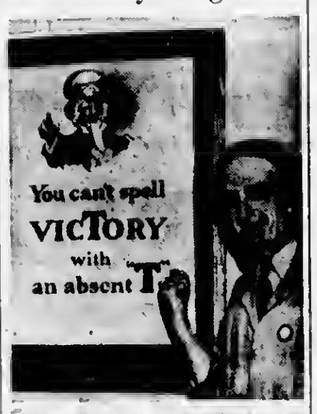
Victory Slogan



John F. Noon, Detroit defense plant worker, is fussing a thumb pridefully at the slogan that won him first prize in a slogan contest. "You can't spell victory with an absent T" was the bon mot that scored for Mr. Noon.

Help in meeting the shortage of farm labor, and preparing for farm adjustments needed in the war emergency have been among the jobs of county farm bureaus this year. Demand for more farm products means still greater activity.

SHADOW THE WEASEL ENJOYS HIMSELF

When I start to do a thing I always see it through;
I find it really is the best and only way to do

THAT'S a little rule that Shadow the Weasel made for himself a long time ago and which he tries to live up to. Of course sometimes things happen to prevent but usually he does whatever he sets out to do. It really is a very good rule if you add to it this:

I never try to do a thing I shouldn't if I could.
And always try to make that thing a thing that's really good.

But Shadow never has added that last part. In truth Shadow would just laugh at that if he should hear it. The fact is, Shadow the Weasel has a bad heart. Yes, sir, Shadow has a bad heart, a black, black heart. It is such a black heart that sometimes it seems as if there was no good in it. None of his neighbors believe there is. They all hate him, even his own cousins, Billy Mink and Jimmy Skunk. And Shadow doesn't seem to care. It seems sometimes as if he actually enjoyed being hated. Certainly he enjoys seeing other little people afraid of him, as most of them are.

This particular morning Shadow had been very much out of sorts.

This particular morning Shadow had been feeling very much out of sorts. Yes, sir, Shadow had been feeling very much out of sorts. You see he had hunted most of the night without finding anything to eat, and so he was hungry, very hungry, indeed. He had been out on the Green Meadow hunting for Danny Meadow Mouse when he heard Chatterer the Red Squirrel scolding over in the Green Forest. Shadow lifted his head to listen. Then a cruel hungry look crept into his eyes and he showed his sharp little teeth in a cruel, hungry smile as he said: "That sounds to me like last night's dinner and this morning's breakfast both in one. I think Chatterer will make a better meal than even Danny Meadow Mouse." With that he licked his lips and started in the direction of Chatterer's voice, and he actually had started up the tree Chatterer was in before Chatterer saw him. It was then that Chatterer had started on his mad flight of fear through the treetops.

Now while Chatterer raced and jumped through the tree tops as fast as ever he could, and so tired himself out, Shadow the Weasel took his time in following. He ran swiftly, but not swiftly enough to tire himself. He didn't try to keep Chatterer in sight. You see, he trusted to his nose to tell him where Chatterer had gone, and his nose never deceived him. It told him just what branches Chatterer had run along and just where he had jumped to the next tree.

Now, Shadow is himself a nimble climber, and he had no trouble in going wherever Chatterer had gone until he reached the place where Chatterer had made the long jump and fallen. Shadow just glanced at it and turned around. He had no mind to risk any such fall as that. He knew that all he had to do was to run down the tree and up the next. When he reached the ground he started at a gallop across to the next tree, but from habit his nose was busy on the ground as he ran. Suddenly he stopped.

"Hal" said he. "Seems to me I smell Chatterer down here! What does that mean?"

His nose led him straight to the tree and up. Shadow grinned. He knew perfectly what had happened. "Chatterer missed that jump and had a bad fall. I guess it must have shaken him up a little and he won't be able to run so fast," thought he. Then he started on as lively as ever. He was enjoying himself. He didn't mind that run through the tree tops because he didn't have to hurry any faster than he pleased and because he was sure of a good dinner at the end.

Hero's a Whopper

Out in California the natives tell tall tales about their giant Redwood trees.

"Big trees? Why, out our way they felled a hollow tree over a ravine that was too deep and wide to build a bridge across. One day when I was driving through this tree with a trailer, I met a big moving van coming through from the other end. I couldn't back up or go ahead, so I just edged the trailer into a hollow branch and let the other fellow go past."

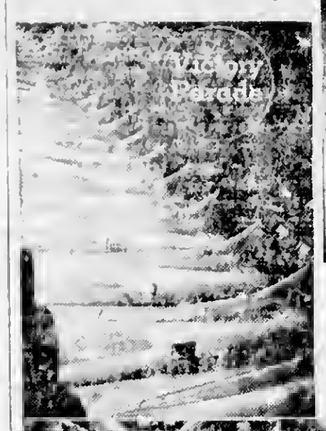
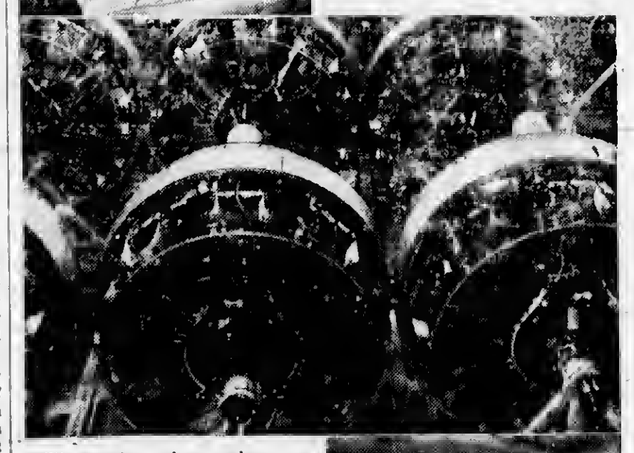
FLYING FORTRESS
Symbol of American Might

The Flying Fortress has covered itself with glory in this war. It can fight through to a target and back again—dish it out and "take it."

From great factories Flying Fortresses are coming off the assembly line in ever-increasing volume. The big Boeing bombers are now being made in two other plants—Douglas and Vega—as well as at the company's own huge factories.

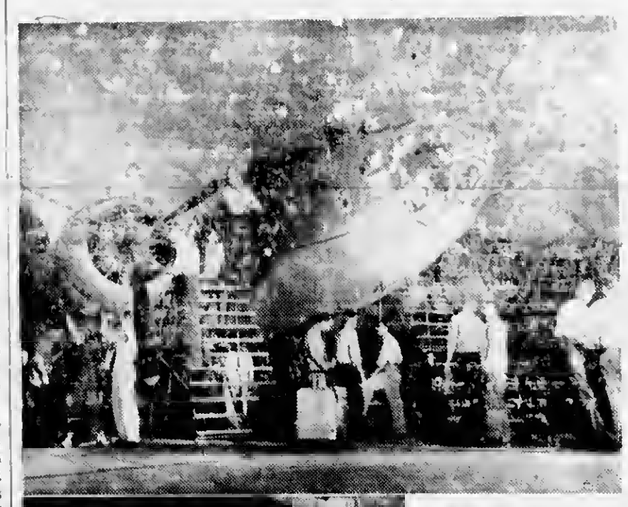


Routing machine (above) uses metal template as guide to make wood patterns. Left: Dorsal fin gives name "Dragon's Teeth" to rear sections.



The engines shown above are awaiting installation in Flying Fortresses. With their nine huge air-cooled cylinders they represent work by factories all over America, and contain rare metals. Shown at right is the belly turret. This adjunct to the Flying Fortress has stopped many an Axis plane. A gunner on the rotating cage controls the fire of two heavy .50 caliber machine guns.

The Flying Fortress was among the first major contributions of the United States to United Nations warfare against the Axis. It first demonstrated its striking power against the Japanese navy with the sinking of the battleship Hiei.



Pictured above is the final assembly of the Flying Fortress. Center section and wings have now been mated for the big four-motor bombers, and the plane receives finishing touches prior to the first flight.

FISHY TREATY: Russia and Japan are still haggling over renewal of the 1942 fishing treaty, giving the Japs free movement in the waters off Siberia. The treaty is of military importance to Japan since it allows her to operate a weather station on the Kamchatka peninsula, which allows an accurate gauge of atmospheric conditions in the Bering sea.

LIVE AND LET LIVE: "Live and let live" must be the world's motto for the future, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek told 23,000 people in Chicago's stadium. REPUBLICANS PICK PRACTICAL FARMERS

SARAH VANHOOSEN JONES

WINFRED G. ARMSTRONG

The two Republican candidates for the State Board of Agriculture in the April 5th election are practical farmers. Sarah VanHoosen Jones has successfully managed the 400-acre VanHoosen farm near Rochester for the last 20 years. She is the second woman in Michigan to be named a "Master Farmer", was so honored in 1932, and is a past president of the Michigan Holstein-Friesian Association. Winfred G. Armstrong operates the family farm in Berrien County, where he spent his boyhood days, thereby establishing a three-generation cycle of ownership. He has been a member of the Grange for 45 years. For the past 18 years, he has been an officer in the state organization. Three years ago, he was elected state Master.

ry to purchase about four times yearly or oftener. Result is that British women have accomplished miracles of making-it-over and making-it-do. When a man's shirt collar wears out, his wife cuts off the shirt-tail and whips up a new collar. When that wears out and the seams begin to go, she cuts up the whole thing and turns out a jaunty pair of shorts.

And while on the topic of rationing, my observation is that sometimes things work just the opposite of what they're intended. Take food rationing, for instance. Theoretically, it no doubt is the surest way to insure that the food available in this country will be equitably distributed and nobody will have huge stocks of foodstuffs stored in their homes when it might be used to advantage elsewhere. So food is rationed, practically everything but spuds and the well-known staff of life, bread. Result: many local housewives now have larger stocks of canned stuff on hand than they ever before desired to have. One lady in particular told me that she had, at the time rationing of canned goods went into effect, the legal limit of 5 cans per person, which in her household amounted to 25 cans, and was more than she had ever stocked in her home at any one time. Another young matron had several sacks of perfectly legal sugar, which her family did not use in any quantity, but which she bought because she was entitled to it. It's not the American way to be hoggish, we fondly hope, but it is a Yankee trait to take everything we've got coming to us and in the case of food rationing this trait has apparently worked contrariwise to the intent of the government's order.

Although Charlevoix harbor was completely ice-locked up to Monday, three days of southeasterly winds have pushed all ice away from outside the piers and not a berg is in sight. Indications are that navigation on the lakes will open sooner than was expected earlier in the week.

FARMERS INCLUDED MEAT-FATS RATION

Must Register and Be Designated Primary Distributors

Farmers who sell products which come under the meat ration, even though they produce these products themselves, must collect ration points from housewives to whom they sell, the local war price and ration board has announced. This applies to butter, dried beans and home rendered lard as well as meat.

Farmers who sell such products must register with the USDA war board office in Boyne City as primary distributors, and will be assigned an official number which must appear on meat or fat products offered for sale by them.

Housewives are warned that meat, butter or lard not bearing this official number is illegal and cannot be purchased. Where such sales are made from farmer to housewife, the former must collect the proper number of points from war ration book 2. These stamps must be surrendered with report of sale to the local war price and ration board. Stamps so detached from the war ration book are not negotiable and cannot be used to buy other foodstuffs.

Rapid Transit

By GENEVRA COOK

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WHEN Lorno Williams left the tiny apartment in the row of brick houses in Brooklyn, she carried under her arm the newest copy of "Love Tales Magazine," with a gay girl in red and white paddling a graceful red canoe across the shining cover. Every morning for three months—since she had come to New York to work—Lorna had read "Love Tales" or "Cupid's Arrow" or "Throbbing Hearts" all the way from Borough Hall to Times Square, and back again at night.

This morning the picture on the bright new cover was of the girl in the first story — "Rapid Transit." Lorna slipped through the hurrying crowd into a corner of the subway car, and buried her wistful blue eyes in the magazine.

It was a wonderful story. Marilyn Maridale—the girl on the cover—lived in a world of freedom and gaiety and romance. She was staying for the summer in a charming rustic cabin on the shore of a sapphire lake set in the deep woods. Every evening all of the boys at the summer colony—tall, bronzed, strong—gathered on her porch. They laughed and danced and sang together.

Dimly through the echoes of the dreamy music Lorna heard the voice of the subway guard: "Twenty-third!" She turned a page.

. . . But amid all this loveliness and merriment, there was only one man whom Marilyn Maridale loved. And she had only met him yesterday! His name was Gordon. One of the boys told her that he was engaged to a girl back home. (Marilyn believed him, but Lorna suspected he was jealous!)

"Pennsylvania!" called the guard.

Now Marilyn was out for a moonlight ride on the lake with the man she loved—who belonged to somebody else.

"Times Square!"

Gordon was bending over her, his eyes looking into hers.

"Sorry, but isn't this your stop?"

With a sickening thud, Lorna came back to New York and dashed out of the car.

All day Lorna watched the clock. At half-past five she would find out if the other man had been telling Marilyn a lie—if Gordon really loved her after all—if he would hold her in his arms and tell her he loved her—and why the story was called "Rapid Transit."

At 5:35 Lorna pushed her way eagerly through the long intricacies of Times Square station. She made her way to the edge of the platform; while she waited she would read. Behind her the crowd milled impatiently about, and a strong young subway guard on his way home, his gray eyes resting shyly but hopefully upon her, waited for the train.

Lorna opened the magazine, and at once, oblivious to the restless people, the noise and rush of trains, she was breathing the cool night air of the pine-scented woods, was drifting with Gordon and Marilyn under a golden moon. Suddenly from shore came a weird, wild shriek. Marilyn jumped up in the canoe, it rocked violently, tipped to one side, and rolled over! Gordon came up, gathered himself for the dive.

She leaned breathlessly forward. Someone in the crowd behind gave a push, careless but forceful. Lorna felt herself going . . . going . . . She drew a deep breath. She had not dived into cool water. She had sat down very suddenly and not very gracefully in the bottom of the subway, right in the middle of the tracks!

There were shrieks and shouts and a shrill whistle. And was that the rumble and roar of an approaching train? Suddenly someone was bending over her, had seized her in strong arms. She was flung bodily up on the platform, was aware of arms reaching down, saw her rescuer dragged up to safety, sprawling in his blue uniform on the platform beside her—and the express train slid into the station.

At the quiet dinner which they had together she learned that his name was Gordon Bancroft—though of course it was only the first name that mattered!—and that he had come to New York because he was looking for "something wonderful and exciting," and had found work as a guard in the subway. He had watched her every morning come on his train: "Thought you'd never look my way," he told her. "You were always reading a magazine!"

When, later, they came down the stairs into the subway together, there on the track was what was left of the tattered cover of "Love Tales Magazine." "There's all that's left of my story," she said, laughing up at him. "It was called 'Rapid Transit.'"

"You won't need to read that stuff any longer, will you?" he asked her softly.

Lorna looked up at him, smiling. "What are those initials on your cap?"

"I.R.T. Why, that stands for Interborough Rapid Transit."

"Rapid Transit," murmured Lorna softly. And then she answered his question. "I won't need to read love stories any longer—not now."

Repair Tools Now

Early spring weather won't cure next summer's crops but does provide spare time to care some of the farm machinery troubles. Members of the farm machinery staff at Michigan State College suggest replacing worn parts, adjusting bearings, gears and chains, sharpening cutting parts, shining up polished parts and tightening nuts and bolts. Little periods of attention prevent need for major overhaul jobs.

RELIGIOUS BOOK WEEK NATIONALLY OBSERVED

List of Religious Publications in Charlevoix Library

The first national Religious Book Week is being observed between March 28 and April 3, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

A recent survey among book stores and publishers throughout the country shows that religious books are out-selling all others and that the greatest increase is in sales to hymen. One publishing house reported that during 1942 their sale of Bibles ran 25 per cent ahead of previous years and the rate is still rising.

Following are some of the religious books, new and old, to be found in the Charlevoix public library:

"On Being a Real Person," Harry Emerson Fosdick. Out of 20 years' experience in helping thousands solve personal problems of fear, anxiety, guilt, insecurity, Dr. Fosdick has written a book which is a practical approach to mastering personal depression, overcoming handicaps and making the most of life. It had the largest advance sale of any non-fiction published in recent years.

Others are: "The Robe," Lloyd C. Douglas; "Prayer," George A. Buttrick; "This War Is the Passion," Frances Caryll Houselander; "The Road to Victory," Francis Joseph Spellman, presenting religious aspects of the world war; "The Story of the Bible," told by living writers of authority, in four volumes; "The Bible of the World," Robert O. Ballou; the Bible, designed to be read as living literature, Earnest S. Bates; "Mary, the Mother of Jesus," William F. Franz; "The Seer's House," Robert Nelson Spencer; "Make Life Worth Living," Joseph R. Sizoo.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

FIRST ANNUAL MEETING CSO

THURSDAY AT USO CENTER IN LEWIS BLOCK

Public Invited to Hear Reports of Year's Accomplishments, Plan Further Activities

First annual meeting of the Charlevoix Service Organization will be held Thursday evening of this week at 8 o'clock in the USO service men's center, second floor of the Lewis building.

Clubs, lodges, churches and other organizations have been extended a special invitation to send representatives to the meeting, and the general public is invited to attend to hear reports of the past year's activities and plans for the coming year. Suggestions and constructive criticism will be welcomed by the committee which has directed CSO work this year.

Since its beginning April 8, 1942, the CSO has done excellent work in unifying Charlevoix's contribution to the war. One of the greatest tasks has been in helping to maintain home town ties for local men in the nation's service by offering all possible aid to those who are hospitalized, sending Christmas greetings and sponsoring the "Adopt A Yank" program to remember service men at Christmas time, and helping the Courier to send the newspaper to Charlevoix men in this country and overseas. Send-off programs and gifts have also been given all draft groups leaving the county since May.

Organized sales of war bonds and stamps have been conducted by the CSO, last summer in a booth on Bridge street and during the winter at the Central Drug store. When warmer weather arrives, the booth will again be placed on the main street, and staffed by volunteers.

When navigation re-opens and a full crew of coast guards is again stationed here, the USO service men's center, closed for several weeks, will again be in operation. The CSO has furnished, maintained and staffed the center as a recreation place for all service men in the city, either stationed here or home on furlough.

Much of the success of the CSO has been due to the splendid cooperation of citizens of Charlevoix, and their loyal support is needed to help carry on future activities.

IRONTON FERRY ON SPRING SCHEDULE

Severe Winter Weather Delayed Resumption of Service

The Ironton ferry resumed operation Monday for the 1943 season, after workmen had spent four days putting the craft in commission and cutting a channel through 12 inches of clear blue ice across the south arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Due to unusually severe weather conditions and heavy ice, resumption of ferry service was somewhat later this year than last.

Bryan Bennett and Alfred Gill Jr. have been employed by the county board of supervisors as ferry operators. The ferry is now making regular trips from 6 a. m. to midnight.

EASTER SEAL SALE LAUNCHED MARCH 31

Campaign to Aid Michigan Society for Crippled Children

The annual Easter seal sale to finance work of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children began in Charlevoix county on March 31. Schools of the county are cooperating in the campaign.

William C. Palmer, county school commissioner, is directing the sale in rural schools, with assistance of rural teachers. Chairmen in cities are: Charlevoix, Supt. O. P. North; East Jordan, Supt. L. B. Karr; Boyne City, Mrs. Anne Boylan; Boyne Falls, Supt. Dwight Fisher.

An intensive campaign is in progress throughout the state to insure continuance of essential services to the crippled who are already with us as well as preparing for the serious burdens that are to come as a result of casualties on the fighting fronts and in factories and homes.

REPORT MADE ON ROAD JOB

GRADING OF US-31 TO BAY SHORE HALF DONE

May Issue Stop Order Any Time As Highway Is not Vital For War Traffic

Although progress is slow due to present labor conditions, grading of the new Charlevoix-to-Bay Shore state highway, started late in the fall of 1941 is between 50% and 60% completed, according to L. D. Zimmerman of Cadillac, district engineer of the Michigan state highway department.

The contract calls for 0.011 miles of work of which Marsman & Taber Co., of Grand Rapids, have earned a total of $76,572.79 to date for a total contract of $132,190.34 for grading. The total job calls for earth excavation in the amount of 439,000 cubic yards.

Working on the project are two power shovels, two or three bulldozers and between 18 and 20 trucks. W. G. Draper is field-project engineer under Mr. Zimmerman and William Coffin is superintendent for Marsman & Taber Co.

The contract for surfacing has not been awarded but plans now call for a two-lane highway 22 feet wide, along the north side of the Pere Marquette Railway track from the grade crossing just north east of Charlevoix to Bay Shore, where it will join the present highway with a grade separation.

Just how long grading can be carried on in this project is not known. "It is thought that a stop order may be issued at any time as the road is not considered strategic at present as it is not necessary to get traffic through," Mr. Zimmerman stated.

FIRE GUTTED PLANE SPOTTING STATION

Two Youthful Watchers Escaped Serious Injury Sunday

Fire gutted the interior of the city plane spotting station, located in the tower of the old Martha Ayers building at State street and Hurlbut avenue, about 7:30 Sunday morning.

The blaze resulted from sudden ignition of oil with which the two watchers, John Bennett and William Poole, were filling the tank of a small oil heater. Both lads escaped unharmed.

Until another location is selected, the duties of plane spotting have been taken over by local coast guardsmen on watch in the tower of the coast guard station.

COUNTY BOND QUOTA EXCEEDED IN MARCH

Boyne City Leads in Total Sales for Last Month

In spite of financial demands made during the month of March by the American Red Cross war fund emergency campaign and income tax payments, Charlevoix county's war bond quota for the month was exceeded.

Amount of bonds totaled $28,849, well over the $28,000 quota. Boyne City led with $10,425, East Jordan sold $10,218, Charlevoix $8,206.

Church of God Meetings

The Rev. G. M. Taylor, of Joliet, Ill., will conduct a series of special meetings at the Church of God from April 12 to 25. Meetings will be held at 8 o'clock each night except Saturdays.

To Michigan Publishers:
Gentlemen:

The United States Treasury Department is engaged in a mighty mission during April. The task is the sale of $13,000,000,000 worth of Government securities to finance the war effort.

I realize that this is something of a man's sized job, and I am asking the editors and publishers of the state to assist me in every manner possible.

I trust you will use your influence with your local advertisers to obtain their sponsorship for the ads for which I am sending mats.

Allow me to express my appreciation in advance for your assistance, and to voice thanks for your cooperation in the past.

Sincerely yours,

Frank N. Isbey, Chairman, War Savings Committee State of Michigan.

CHARLEVOIX GIVEN QUOTA SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS

County Victory Fund Committee, War Savings Committee Met to Plan Campaign

There is a price on life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

The price is in lives and dollars. It costs money to wage a war to protect the right of a nation to continue to live, have its liberty, and the right to the pursuit of happiness.

At this time American is in the midst of the most gigantic war financing program that has ever been undertaken in history by any nation. The United States treasury department is asking the citizens of these United States to subscribe to $13,000,000,000 worth of government securities during this month.

To achieve its purpose the Treasury Department has combined the efforts of the War Savings Committee and the Victory Fund Committee here in Michigan. The campaign has been designated The Second War Loan Drive, and each and every man, woman and child, is being asked to do their full share toward assuring the success of the campaign so that Michigan can give a ringing answer to the Axis nations that it is behind its Government with all that it possesses.

Preparations are under way for the organization of committees and workers in Charlevoix County to attain the fulfillment of its obligation in this Second War Loan Drive.

A local delegation headed by Robert Bridge, Chairman of the County Victory Fund Committee, met with Ralph Price, Chairman of the War Savings Committee, last week, in Ironton, where they were addressed by D. V. Cote, Deputy State Administrator.

Charlevoix County's quota was established at $180,000, of which

ICE-CRUSHER OPENS MACKINAC STRAITS

Coast Guard Authorities Request Clearing of Channel

Ice in the Straits of Mackinac was broken last week by the Michigan state highway department's ice-crusher, the Ste. Marie, assigned to the task at request of U. S. coast guard authorities.

After breaking a path through the ice-choked straits, the big ship went on to the St. Mary's river to clear a channel to the Soo locks in an attempt to begin general navigation on the lakes by opening these two strategic spots.

The carferry Chief Wawatam was placed in service at the straits crossing during the Ste. Marie's absence.

FIRST REPORT OF RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN

Contributions Are Well Over the Quota Assigned to City

Incomplete reports of the American Red Cross war fund emergency campaign in this city show that Charlevoix and adjacent townships have contributed $2,680.83 to the drive.

E. J. Edwards, city chairman, has given the following breakdown of contributions: first ward, $115.35; second ward, $101.48; third ward, $277.10; schools, $26; business places, $295.25; organizations and city council, $316.65; townships, $53.00; summer residents, $1,436.00.

Some townships have yet to report donations. A complete report will be made when the entire amount is recorded.

SUPERVISORS TO HOLD SESSION ON APRIL 20

Weather Conditions Necessitate Week's Postponement

Charlevoix county board of supervisors will hold their annual April session at the court house on Tuesday, April 20.

Postponement of the meeting from the second to the third Tuesday of the month was necessary because of transportation difficulties resulting from weather conditions. Boat service to Beaver Island has not been started as yet, and in other sections of the county some roads have been left in bad condition by the spring break-up.

Contribute to CSO

Contributions to the CSO fund for Courier subscriptions to service men have been received from Cpl. Dale McCann and Mrs. McCann, and Leo Sneathon.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN RED CROSS DRIVE THANKS CITIZENS

I want to take this opportunity to thank the committee and solicitors of the Red Cross war fund emergency campaign, and also the people of Charlevoix and summer residents, for their fine cooperation in contributing so willingly to the great cause.

RESULTS OF BANKS TOWNSHIP ELECTION

Amendment Proposals Favored By Rural Voters

A total of 194 votes were cast in Monday's election in Banks township, according to reports from Ellsworth.

For the office of supervisor, Bert DeYoung, incumbent, defeated Leonard Hillman, 146 to 46. William Kooyer was re-elected treasurer over William J. Potter by a decisive vote of 152 to 37. Others elected without opposition were: clerk, Tracy E. Boss; justice of peace, George Rubingh; member board of review, William P. Smith; constables, John Tillotson, Bruce McElroy, Kenneth Peebles, Silas Doctor.

Township voters favored both amendment proposals. Proposal No. 1 was approved by 98 votes to 69 negative votes; the second question had a 63 to 59 affirmative vote.

STATE OFFICES TO REPUBLICANS

RURAL PLURALITIES CARRY GOP TO VICTORY

State Supreme Court Race Still In Doubt as Other Candidates Are Assured of Election

With Republicans victorious down the entire list of candidates in Monday's spring election, the GOP swept from office the last remaining Democrat in the state administration. Nearly complete unofficial returns showed the Republicans backed by heavy rural pluralities.

Charles M. Ziegler, Lansing Republican, defeated Lloyd B. Reid, Democratic incumbent, for the key office of state highway commissioner. Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, seeking re-election as superintendent of public instruction, piled up an constantly growing majority over Edward W. McFarland, Detroit Democrat.

R. Spencer Bishop, Flint, and Ralph A. Hayward, candidates for regents of the University of Michigan, decisively led their Democratic opponents, Dr. Ira Denn McCoy and Charles P. Nugent.

W. G. Armstrong, Niles, and Sarah Van Hoosen Jones, Rochester, Republican candidates for the state board of agriculture, held leads assuring re-election over Arthur W. Jewett and Joseph P. Carey.

For member of the state board of education, Stephen Nisbet, Fremont Republican, led Democratic Bernard T. Foley by a conclusive margin.

The non-partisan race for the Supreme Court bench revolved around Bert D. Chandler, Hudson, Emerson R. Boyles, Charlotte, both incumbents, and Neil E. Reid, Mt. Clemens. Frank L. McAvinchey, Davison, was running a poor fourth, far out of the contest. Boyles and Reid are the Republican party nominees.

TROUT REARING IS UNDER WAY

LOCAL HATCHERY HAS OVER MILLION FRY

Largest Program Ever Attempted Here; Plant Some Fry Soon, Remainder in August

Following transfer of trout fry from the Oden and Harietta state hatcheries, the largest lake trout rearing program ever undertaken here is under way at the Charlevoix hatchery of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Lige Geer, hatchery superintendent, stated today that 828,000 fry were transferred March 9 and 10 by Emerson Kreig from the Oden hatchery, where they were raised under supervision of Harold Thompson, superintendent. Harietta hatchery, in charge of Jess Marko, superintendent, furnished 504,750 fry, making a total of 1,332,000.

The transfer this year was made a week later than in 1942. It is planned to release 300,000 fish in the fry stage as soon as navigation opens to relieve future congestion at the hatchery, as it would not be possible to care for this huge number of fish as they advanced to the fingerling stage. Planting of the million remaining fish will be done in late August, instead of in July as in previous years.

Food given the fish is sheep liver furnished by Swift & Co. Due to meat rationing, it may not be possible to obtain meat during the entire rearing season, thus making it necessary to use substitutes.

In addition to Mr. Geer, Don Potter, regular hatchery employee, is assisting with the work on the day shift, while Ray Graves and Ben Yettaw are assigned to the night shift.

This season will mark the fifth year of operation of the local federal hatchery as a rearing unit and, coincident with this record program, commercial fishermen and citizens alike, are showing the greatest interest in the project since its inception. Commercial fishermen, particularly, witnessing a gradual reduction of lake trout in Lake Michigan waters, see the fingerling rearing and planting program as a solution to the growing scarcity of this species. Otherwise their assistance in the program comes through gathering of spawn in the fall for hatching.

Bomb the Japs with junk!

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Personally, I don't read the society columns, but the wife does, and she picked up an unusual item there the other day. It seems some girl married a civilian.

Frankly, I'm really alarmed about present conditions—referring, of course, to the pending opening of the trout fishing season 10 days hence. After looking over some of the nearby streams Sunday, I haven't been able yet to decide whether we'll need boots or snowshoes, or just stay at home until conditions improve—just as if any fool fisherman would do that. Snow lies deep in the woods and swamps yet and, with Monday night's cold snap freezing over Round lake again, the situation is indeed doubtful. Well, I'm getting ready, nevertheless. Had a kid get me some minnows to salt down and if and when the ground thaws out, will try for some barnyard huckle.

Saw George Parsons, out Norwood township way, Monday night. He said he'd been able to use his car last week end for the first time since gas rationing started. The Antrim county highway crew plowed out the road south past his place to the Joliffe corners and then west to U.S.31, and according to George's story, they had a heck of a time. Where the sun hadn't hit the road, the plows couldn't dent the ice and where it had thawed, the plows got buried in the mud, so what for trouble. And you know, there's a good many cross roads that are still plugged with snow right today, and this being the second week in April. And by the way—George said the run of maple sap was mighty slow, 'cause the ground was frozen to such a depth. Yes, this winter has been a blinger, alright.

When a man reaches 50 he begins to wonder if "the destiny that shapes our ends" shouldn't also do something about our middles.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
 By B. C. Mellencamp ***

MSC Short Course for Women Opens April 18

Michigan State College recently announced a two weeks' short course for women and others interested in farming. This course is sponsored by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation in cooperation with the college. The course will be organized along practical lines and will be of such a nature as to ba useful to any farm woman. The classes will involve work in foods, clothing, dairy, poultry, fruit and health.

The ladies will be able to live together in the short course dormitnry and have all of their meals in the short course dining room. The course will start Sunday, April 18, which means that any local lady interested in enrolling in this course should immediately contact the extension office, Boyne City, for further details. Announcements indicate that the cost of the course will he paid by the Kellogg Foundation, so the only expense involved to those who enroll will be their transportntion to nnd from the college.

Anyone interested is eligible, but preference will be given to those who have not been regularly enrolled in the home extension work. The time is short, so if you are interested it will be to your advantage to immedintely contact the extension office.

Animal Husbandry, Soils Meetings Friday, April 9

The next three weeks will see a group of three series of farm meetings held at different points to make them more convenient for farmers to attend. The four meetings to he held this Friday, April 9th, will be at the following places;

Soils—Marion Center grange, forenoon, 10; Maple Grove grange, afternoon, 2:00.

Animal husbandry—East Jordan city building, forenoon at 10; Boyne City library afternoon at 2:00.

Specialists from Michigan State College will be present to give the subject matter at all meetings. Recommendations and suggestions aimed to increase production and yet not unbalance the farm program will be discussed. The importance of maintaining soil fertility, more efficient use of farm machinery, the proper type of fertilizer and other important related subjects will be discussed. At the present time there is great interest in the production of pork, beef and mutton. With higher prices for feeds, it is more important to produce an adequate supply of home-grown cereals for profitable results. Don't fail to attend your nearest meeting.

The third series of meetings is scheduled for Friday, April 16th, with dairy and crops being the subjects for discussion. Certainly farmers should take two hours away from their farm and join in the discussion. With so much importance attached to dairy production and potatoes, these meetings will be useful to all farmers.

The following four meetings are announced for Friday, April 16:

Dairy—Barnard grange, forenoon at 10; East Jordan Legion hall, afternoon at 2:00.

Potatoes and crops—Boyne River grange, forenoon at 10; Horton Bay town hall, afternoon at 2:00.

Kindly keep these dates posted in some conspicuous place so you will not miss them. We all look forward to having the roads dried out so that you can attend.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS....

"I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' 'United we stand, divided we fall' more than we have to today."

"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work.

"I say there's a time and a place for everything, and this is no time or place to be doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."

LANSING LETTER

Whether the state legislature accomplished anything or not during its stream-lined 90-day session depends on a number of things.

For instance: If you are an avowed dry, the session was all "wet", to use the vernacular. Sale of beer and wines and liquors is still legal, and millions of dollars' profit are still going into the state treasury—no doubt, some of them for the schools, a very outrageous situation to be sure.

If you feel that the legislature spent all its time needlessly wrangling over highway bills, then, too, the session was a terrible flop, and Governor Kelly ought to hang his head in shame, et cetera.

And if, for example, you haven't had a good cup of coffee for weeks, and the icebox is still bare of a good steak, and the country is going plumb to the dogs, why the legislative session was an outright disgrace to 100 per cent Americans, if you get what we mean.

And so we approach the legislative record with some misgivings, realizing that what is an accomplishment to one person, perhaps is just the opposite to someone else.

Without justifying or condemning what did or did not happen at Lansing, we will try to review the highlights and let the chips fall where they may. If your appetite is bad and it's raining cats and dogs outside, then it's just too bad.

Consider the governor's problem, for a minute. He takes office at the first of the year. Six days later (Jan. 6) he delivers his message to the legislature. And about ninety days later, March 26 to be exact, the legislators put on their hats and coats, say their goodbyes, and leave the janitors to clean up the place. Harry F. Kelly had just that situation. Here's what happened in 90 days.

Post-War Reserve. Act No. 4, of the Public Acts of 1943, signed by the governor on Feb. 16, created a post-war reserve fund of $50,000,000. The state administrative board was directed to transfer immediately $20,000,000 from the surplus which is now about $40,000,000. In his legislative message the governor had asked for "not less than $15,000,000."

A post-war planning commission was created, and for its use in post-war construction of buildings at colleges, hospitals and institutions the legislature set aside $8,000,000. A separate appropriation was made whereby $150,000 would be available immediately for architects' plans.

The Michigan Council of Defense, an independent policy-making body, becomes the Michigan War Council, an advisory agency to the governor. War-time powers were also granted. Efforts to collaborate OPA law enforcement activities through state court were defeated by agricultural groups. Butter fat content was lowered for the duration.

Retirement fund for employees. Senate bill 292, adopted, provided for a retirement fund for state employees. This will complement civil service, and it also fulfilled a recommendation of Governor Kelly.

And if the state payroll goes up, and it undoubtedly will, remember this recommendation. "I am firmly of the opinion that state government should pay a proper wage to those in its employ." (Inflation note: Michigan-born Tom Dewey, governor of New York, has signed a legislative bill increasing wages of New York state employees around 7½ per cent).

A few minor consolidations were effected. A department of business administration, headed by Dr. Robert Ford of the University of Michigan, was created.

Benefits to Labor. The workmen's compensation act was thoroughly overhauled for the first time since 1912, ceiling payments were increased from $18 to $21 a week and other benefits were authorized for dependents of injured workers. Likewise, liberal benefits under the unemployment compensation act were extended. Efforts to remove the appeal board were defeated. Also efforts to permit grants to dependents were defeated.

Minimum wage proposals and child labor bills were shelved, on the theory that industry has enough troubles as it is.

(Note: The state CIO council recently condemned the governor for removing John Gibson as chairman of the department of labor. Gibson was replaced by George W. Dean as chairman, although he still remains a member of the commission. And who is Dean? A top leader of the American Federation of Labor!)

No taxes increased or decreased. In the tax field, the legislature refused to increase or decrease the 3 per cent sales tax; it defeated a proposed tax on cigarettes and liquor, sought to finance a soldier and sailor state bonus; it defeated an effort to remove the ceiling on corporation franchise taxes, a "savings" of around $6,000,000 a year to manufacturers; and it defeated a plan to change the sales tax bracket.

Also, no new taxes were imposed.

Old age pensions increased. The governor's recommendations to increase old age pensions and to liberalize property restrictions were enacted into law.

Another recommendation carried out was an apportionment of the legislature, benefitting the metropolitan counties of the state.

On January 6 the governor advised the legislature: "The rise in cost of living requires the adjustment of teachers' salaries in many communities. The state and the local communities should join in seeking an immediate solution to the salary problem." Result: Fifty million dollars were appropriated for state aid to schools, an all-time high for public education.

The tourist and resort industry, together with Michigan farm products, received $155,000 appropriation.

Although the election was coming April 5, Republican legislators decided by devious logic to rout the partisan enemy—the Democrats—from the highway department where every employee was classified by civil service and to do so in advance of the election itself.

Thereby they precipitated a knock-out, sock-em and sling-em fuss, not between Democrats and Republicans as you might expect, but among the Republicans!

From the standpoint of color, it was a reporters' harvest. Republicans fighting Republicans. The governor opposed by the lieutenant governor. Friends of the Republican nominee for highway commissioner trying to beat a bill whereby the governor would appoint the commissioner. Muddled waters! All highway bills were beaten or vetoed.

Result: A golden opportunity for the Democrats.

And there you have the highlights, good, bad, and otherwise.

Did the legislature do anything in 90 days?

Well, as we said before, it depends on a number of things even down to a cup of coffee for breakfast. As we see it, the legislature worked hard and accomplished much.

You can be the judge. The record speaks for itself.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Meanest Man in the World"

Jack Benny that amiable comedian, is amiable no more.

In "The Meanest Man in the World," which opens Saturday and Sunday at the Palace Theatre, the nation's number one gagman, it is being whispered, is a scourge to kiddies and a veritable ogre to old ladies. But moviegoers will quickly sense that this revolutionary change in character is calculated solely as a change for the better—better laughs, louder laughs and more of them.

Benny is co-starred with Priscilla Lane, while featured are Rochester, Edmund Gwenn, Anne Revere and Helene Reynolds.

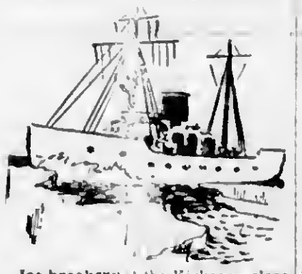
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

It is imperative that the ship lanes be kept free of ice. With American troops occupying Iceland and the Navy using the northern route for transportation of supplies to Russia, ice breakers are essential to Naval operations. The ice breaker is a specially constructed ship with heavily armored bows and powerful engines that crush the ice floes rather than rave through them.



Ice breakers of the Kickapoo class operating in the North Atlantic cost approximately $10,000,000. You can help our Navy build these ships by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. VICTORY GARDENS

Starting Vegetable Plants Inside

Several types of containers can be used for sowing seed inside. Probably the best, however, is a standard greenhouse flat about 3 inches deep, and a size convenient to handle. For small quantities, cigar boxes or flower pots are satisfactory. If cigar boxes are used, drill small holes in the bottom for drainage.

Soil

The soil should be very light. Usually a combination of one-third soil, one-third sand, and one-third peat or leafmold is recommended although this combination might depend on the texture of the soil used. If it is very sandy, less sand might be added. If it is very heavy, add more sand. Mix this combination thoroughly and screen it through a quarter inch screen into the flat or pot. Fill the container level full, then tamp it down firmly and evenly with a brick or board. Next, water the soil either with a very fine sprinkler or stand it in a container of water and allow it to soak up from the bottom. Then let it set to drain thoroughly and you are ready to plant.

Planting

If you are sowing enough seed to fill the entire container, it can be broadcast over the flat, but if you are sowing small quantities of several varieties in the same container, the seed should be sown in rows.

If this is to be done, mark a shallow trench crossways of the flat and distribute the seed thinly along the row, continuing from left to right and marking each row so that you will know the variety in it. After all the seed has been planted, cover the large seeds by screening either sand or more of the original mixture over them so that they are covered thoroughly, then tamp lightly. For very fine seeds, merely tamp them into the soil without covering. After the seeds are covered, water the flats lightly with a fine sprinkler and cover with a piece of newspaper or piece of glass, or both, which prevents the surface soil from caking and keeps the soil evenly moist. As soon as the seeds start to germinate, be sure to remove this covering.

After the plants are large enough to handle, they will have to be transplanted to other flats or boxes and spaced about 2½ by 2½ inches. If they are not transplanted, the plants will become too spindling and you will lose many of them by damping off.

Select Garden Site Carefully

A garden can be doomed to failure before it is ever planted if a poor site is selected and this year that just cannot be permitted. No effort, seed, tools or fertilizer should be wasted on shady plots or extremely poor soil. There's no excuse for selecting a poor site, for with all the help being given in every community by local victory garden committees there is plenty of good land available. You can plant your garden in a community plot, properly selected by special committees, if your own back yard isn't suitable.

Keep these qualifications in mind when selecting your garden spot:

1. The plot must have full sun at least from mid-morning until mid-afternoon. If it can have full sun all day so much the better.

2. There should be no trees or large shrubs in the garden spot—or near enough to send roots into your plot. Roots are greater offenders than shade for they steal both moisture and fertility from your garden.

3. The soil should be of reasonably good texture. Extremely heavy clay is too hard to work and too likely to bake and crack. Roots aren't able to penetrate it easily. Extremely sandy soil dries out too fast and fertilizer leaches out of it too readily. Although potatoes and many other root crops like a light soil, pure sand will require too much water and the addition of too much organic matter and fertilizer. It probably won't be possible to get much manure hauled to improve these soils this year.

4. Where the sub soil from your basement excavation has been used for fill in grading and where it least a reasonable amount of top soil has not been added, or where you haven't been able to grow grass, don't expect much from vegetables.

5. Quack grass sod can prove to be terribly discouraging the first year after it has been plowed under. Of course, with great diligence you can control it in your garden even if it's turned over this spring before planting, but it will add greatly to the work involved in weeding this summer. Avoid vacant lots that are overrun with it if possible. Some other weeds like bindweed the wild morning glory, can also become troublesome although this pest isn't so bad in Michigan as it is further south.

Survey the situation carefully and for your benefit and the benefit of the victory garden program, plant only on a suitable location and on suitable soil. It is important that you have success with your garden this year for victory gardens in 1944 will be of even greater importance than in 1943—even if they're "peace gardens"—for with the signing of the peace will come the responsibility of feeding all Europe.

WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

13 billion dollars must be raised!

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, your sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount—and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More War Bonds!

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building . . . We've got to match, as best we can, the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battlefronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is that to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office, or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty. And don't ever forget this: In doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peacetime jobs making peace-living for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

Two constitutional amendments were receiving generally favorable votes throughout the state, early returns indicated, as Wayne county gave each amendment a 2 to 1 sendoff. The No. 1 question to extend township officers' terms from one year to two years was given support in most rural areas.

William C. Palmer, of Charlevoix, was re-elected county school commissioner without opposition.

Light Vote in County

Casting the lightest spring election vote on record, Charlevoix county voters followed the trend of the state by giving a Republican majority for all state offices. All GOP candidates led their Democratic opponents by a margin of 2 to 1.

The county vote totaled approximately 1245, which was less than half the 1941 spring election balloting. Voters favored both constitutional amendment proposals, giving proposal No. 1 an affirmative vote of 590 to 488 in 22 out of 26 precincts, while No. 2 was approved by the narrow margin of 438 to 432.

City Officers Re-Elected

Charlevoix Republican city and ward officers, elected without opposition, were: Mayor, Robert Bridge; clerk, Ray S. Hamilton; treasurer, Nelle A. Hammond; justice of the peace, Horace R. Fowler. Harry Ladd was elected justice of the peace to fill vacancy. First ward: supervisor, Angus L. Fochtman; alderman, Charles Bellinger. Second ward: supervisor, Arthur Bergeon; alderman, Harley I. Ochs. Third ward: supervisor, Clarence B. Meggison; alderman, Harry F. Hooker.

All Lake Michigan ports from Frankfort to Mackinac Island will be without steamer service out of Chicago this summer as the government has taken over a number of big steamers for ocean service. Latest to go is the Manitou, and the Missouri will undoubtedly follow soon. The government has instructed all owners of wharves to construct fences across the entrance ways and either board them up or maintain a guard at the gate to see that no one enters without a pass.

At Monday's election the proposition to bond the city for purchase of the electric light plant at Bellaire carried 220-41.

Light and power have been a minus quantity in Charlevoix since Friday night, when something happened at the Bellaire light plant. (Details not given—anybody remember?)

Forrest Wallace and Frank Conta, Jr., have arrived safely in France. Leo Powers expects to go overseas soon.

Spring is here: A long line of horse-drawn rigs crossed on the ice from Cross Village to St. James last Wednesday, during a fierce storm . . . Last Monday morning the experimental department of the Sanitary Engineering Co., who answers to the name of "Cy", drove a two-foot iron spike into the crown of ice in the middle of Bridge street to prove that there was really a pavement underneath . . . South residents are planning an ark in anticipation of the spring break-up next summer.

ARMY LETTERS

Dear Ken,

I have been receiving the paper for the past five months and I sure enjoy it. A feller who is away from home really enjoys the home town news. I am sorry I haven't thanked you before for the paper but I've been plenty busy here in Great Lakes going to service school, so thanks a lot and I will look forward to its continuance.

At present I have completed 11 weeks of my course and will finish the course in five more weeks, then I hope to be home for a few days before reporting for duty.

We have 35 men in our section, of which 10 are coast guardsmen, and we get along pretty good together.

As I've read in the paper, you sure have had a bad winter back home. There hasn't been much snow here this winter but it sure has been cold. It's about time for taps so will conclude this letter, thanking you again for the paper.

Sincerely,

CHOLERA REMEDY NOW PERFECTED

Disease Costs Hog Raisers $20,000,000 Annually.

By W. H. BOYNTON
(Professor of Veterinary Science, University of California.)

Hog cholera is admittedly one of the most destructive of all animal diseases. The yearly cost of this disease has been estimated at between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 in the United States alone. Within the past few years the author has developed at the University of California college of agriculture a new tissue vaccine which is expected to cut this annual cholera "tax" very substantially.

This vaccine is known as BTV and is now available from commercial companies. It has been used on more than 100,000 hogs on the Pacific coast and in the Middle West. BTV is composed of finely ground glandular tissues from hogs infected with cholera. These tissues are taken from the hogs at the height of the disease and then treated with eucalyptol. The result is a vaccine which cannot produce cholera in a hog but does produce an active immunity to the disease.

When BTV is used, vaccinated pigs can mingle with unvaccinated pigs without transmitting cholera to them. Furthermore, pigs harboring latent infections, such as pneumonia or enteritis, at the time of vaccination are not subject to the danger of flare-ups of these infections due to the lowering of body resistance. This danger of lowered resistance followed by death from some secondary infection has been one of the major drawbacks of the serum-virus method of vaccination for cholera.

The vaccine is not intended for pigs that already have cholera. It should be given only to swine that do not have the disease. Since a period of at least three weeks is required to build up a satisfactory immunity in the animals, pigs which have been exposed to cholera or are suspected of having it should be treated first with anti-cholera serum to make sure that the infection is checked. Later they can be given the tissue vaccine.

At present this vaccine is not recommended for garbage-fed pigs, although successful experimental results have been obtained by administering the vaccine before and after weaning.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY

By Florence C. Weed

(This is one of a series of articles showing how farm products are finding an important market in industry.)

Research on Hemp

As soon as science can produce a hemp plant free from a narcotic drug, this crop will offer a good market for farmers. Unfortunately the plant, in its present form, produces the narcotic, marihuana. The misuse of this drug has caused the passage of the federal marihuana act which forbids the growing of hemp except under federal supervision.

Because of the restrictions, less than 1,000 tons annually are grown in this country although in former years the growing of hemp fiber was a flourishing industry. In 1859, Kentucky alone produced 75,000 tons.

The word "hemp" is sometimes applied to about three different fiber plants including manila hemp and sisal hemp. The common variety grows well in the United States, attaining a height of 3 to 20 feet and sometimes yielding 800 to 1,000 pounds of fiber per acre. The plant is cut by machine and allowed to dew-ret on the ground. Then it is collected in stacks and sold to the hemp mill. The mill dries the stalk and removes the fiber in a "hemp brake."

Cordage, which can be made from hemp fiber, is one of the urgent needs of the defense program. Hemp can also be used in making cigarette paper and this commercial outlet has already been opened. From the seed a useful oil can be extracted and when mixed with other seeds the hemp can be utilized as bird food.

Research is already under way to find a variety of hemp that will contain only a small amount of marihuana. This work appears promising since some plants have been found to produce only small quantities of the resin.

Farm Notes

Crops that require cool and moist conditions in storage are the root crops, carrots, salsify, parsnips, turnips, rutabagas, and winter radishes.

Faced with a declining supply of available workers, farmers have been able to keep their hired men this past fall only by sharply increasing farm wage rates.

"A" GAS RATION OK ON VACATION TRIPS

Motorists Allowed to Use Gas to Drive to Summer Cottages

Michigan northern resort owners, choked financially by gasoline and rubber rationing, were somewhat cheered last week by announcement from the state office of price administration that there would be no restrictions against using "A" gas ration books for summer vacation driving.

Combined with recent easing of restrictions against tire recapping, which no longer requires ration certificates, the new interpretation promises some summer business for northern Michigan communities which heretofore have relied almost entirely on that source of income.

Edwin G. Gemrich, chief rationing attorney for the district OPA office, issued the clarifying order which permits vacation driving to northern cottages, but stated that no supplemental rations would be permitted for such use. He pointed out that "A" cards allow about 90 miles of pleasure driving a month, in addition to essential busines driving, and recommended formation of share-the-ride clubs to northern cottages.

EARLY PASTURING MAY BE MISTAKE

Go slow on putting dairy animals out to pasture in early spring, say members of the dairy husbandry department at Michigan State College.

That lush grass, they report, has a higher water content than the milk the cow produces. A cow yielding 35 pounds of milk in a day needs about 30 pounds of dry matter in her feed. Even when grass is 20 per cent dry matter a cow would have to bite off 150 pounds of pasture growth if she has no other roughage. A slow change from dry feeding to pasture is advised.

Grass damaged by too early grazing can be killed by a short period of dry, hot weather.

SALE XMAS SEALS IN '42 ESTABLISH HIGH RECORD

Returns for 1942 tuberculosis Christmas seals in Michigan have broken all records and are still coming in, according to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. This organization officially closed its books for the year on March 31 at which time the Christmas seal returns had gone nine per cent above the $330,000 goal.

Potatoes Plentiful

Excess purchase and hoarding of potatoes by consumers are practices discouraged by officials who report that supplies the first of the year were only 1 per cent below normal. Federal food distribution administration officials suggest potatoes should be bought only as needed, baked or boiled with their jackets on, or at least peeled thin to conserve the minerals that lie close to the skin.

Farm Equipment

Manufacturers of farm equipment are receiving quotas on certain implements for release to farmers in Michigan and other states. The state war board has received notice from Washington, D. C., that within Michigan manufacturers can release 213 beet cultivators, 29 traction dusters and 55 power dusters.

Footrace Is a Fixture On Each Army Payday

FORT LEWIS, WASH.—Sgt. Trevor H. Humphreys and Pvt. Leonard W. Buell make each pay day a memorable occasion. They race 50 yards—barefoot.

Neither is exactly sure why they began the stunt, but it has become a fixed feature of their company. There's only one hitch: their fellow-soldiers lay bets on the outcome—then lay out the course. And it's a liberal; sprinkled with rocks.

Bomb the Japs with Junk!

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

After that Western thriller at the movies, Ben Ryder says: "You know, the West wasn't all like that. While the gun-play was goin' on respectable folks were weeding out undesirable elements . . . red-eye saloons and gambling joints."

And Ben's right. There's a spirit in America that's always working for a better community. Take that "clean up or close-up" program of the brewing industry, for instance. Its whole purpose is to see that beer is sold only in clean, respectable places.

Everybody benefits from cooperation like that—even folks who want Prohibition back. Because those beer folks are working for the same thing—a decent, law-abiding community.

From where I sit the way isn't to pass more laws, but to enforce the ones we've got and rely on America's spirit of tolerance and cooperation.

WAR RESTRICTS
Telephone Installations to a Conditional Basis

NO INSTALLATIONS can be made in some sections

UNDER an order of the War Production Board, telephone installations can be made hereafter only on a conditional basis. The order requires that an applicant agree to share his line with others, or to relinquish his service entirely, if the facilities are needed later for vital war or other essential purposes.

Service moves to new addresses for present telephone users also are on a conditional basis.

In some places, no installations can be made because the facilities are being used to capacity and critical material shortages prevent expansion of the telephone system.

These and other wartime restrictions will inconvenience many persons, we know. However, we shall continue to supply service whenever possible, and we look forward to the day when we again can give all the service wanted, when and where wanted.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

Fingerprinting of Children Is Being Advocated

Fingerprinting of all children, particularly those of pre-school age, as a wartime precautiun is advocated by Captain Donald S. Leonard, administrator of the Michigan Council of Defense and commander of the U. S. citizens defense corps of Michigan.

"Fingerprinting of children is a wise precaution at any time, but it is dunbly important in wartimo when children are exposed to many additionnl dangers," Captain Leunard points out-eiting the difficulty of identifying young children and infants.

"Children are bound to be among the casualties if we are bombed. There is no faster means of identification than by fingerprints. Great numbers of children are certain to be separated from their parents in event of a raid and wa must be prepared to unite families as quickly as possible. In event of the death of both parents, fingerpriots might be the only means of identifyio very young children and plucin them in the care of relatives and friends."

Purents who are willing to cooperate with civilian defense authorities will find fingerprinting facilities uvnilable nt local police stations, sheriff's offices and State Police posts. If there is sufficient demand for the service fingerprinting eudipment may be installed at defense council headquarters.

In urging parents to cooperate Captain Leonard warns that the Germans have vowed to retaliate against America and that with good flying weather such attack are nor impossible.

"Children will present a special problem and we must have cooperation of parents now if we are to perfect our organization for taking care of them in an emergency," he said.

Learn to Protect Water Systems

Capt. Donald S. Leonard, administrator of the Michigan council of defense, has announced that a water works school on wartime maintenance of water works service will he held at the University of Michigan, April 20, 21 and 22. Citizens defense corps commanders, mayors and village presidents of every Michigan town are urged to select representatives whose work is related to operation and maintenance of water systems for attendance at the school. The need for this type of instruction is especinlly urgent in towns having war industries.

John M. Helpers, director of the bureau of engineering of the council, explains that the purpose of the school is to present the necessity of maintaining adequate and safe water supplies under all conditions, especinlly wartime emergencies, and to point out how best results can he obtained with local personnel and materials.

Subjects to be discussed will include prevention of sabotage, effects of nerial bombardment on water systems, repairing of mains, disinfection of pipes, emergency power problems and auxiliary units for emergency service.

Cooperating with the Michigan council of defense are the Michigan department of health, the University nf Michigan College of Engineering, the Michigan Section of the American Water Works Association, the Michigan Conference on Water Purification and municipal and industrial water works departments.

FEEDING CHANGE NOW POSSIBLE

Increasing Demand for More Milk Is Cause.

By C. F. MONROE
(Ohio State Agricultural Dairy Experiment Station)

At present there is a demand for an increased quantity of milk, and current prices justify attempts to meet this demand. In fact, dairymen can afford to modify their feeding program to meet the emergency. The exact method for individual cases will, of course, be subject to the conditions prevailing in the particular dairy.

Many cows do lack the ability to produce, but there are also many cows that would do much better if given the chance. Only by permitting the cows to have a fair trial can their producing ability be determined.

An attempt should be made to have the cows freshen in good condition. In this sense, the lactation period really begins with the dry cow six or eight weeks previous to freshening. After the cow freshens the feeding should be increased gradually. The cow in heavy milk flow requires a concentrate mixture containing some high-protein supplements to insure a sufficient protein intake. Hay should be fed liberally and the cow allowed to pick it over rather than be restricted to all she will clean up. If corn silage is available, it should be limited in amount to permit the heavy producing cow to eat more hay. Such a procedure is recommended where the hay is of good quality and hence palatable to the cow; otherwise limiting the corn silage has no justification.

A large improvement in milk production cannot be expected to come from just one change, of course. The entire feeding and management program in summer and winter must be considered. Much of the low production can be traced to underfeeding on July and August pasture, to undue exposure and short pasture in the late fall, to the use of poor quality roughage and poor management in the winter. For best results there can be no weak places in the program, because the weaknesses generally speed the decline in production to such an extent that many of the good points are made less effective.

Farm Terracing Aid

Under the new setup, farmers can terrace their land now and pay for it later, the AAA official said.

Machinery of the terracing program is simply operated, Vance said in explaining that county AAA committees set a reasonable price for terracing easier farms of the county through offers made by co-operating contractors. Once the fair price for a county is determined, farmers get bids for their farms from the contractors, take the offer they like best and get their terracing done.

It goes without saying that prices of terracing will vary by farms. Establishing a reasonable price for a county will serve as a yardstick for measuring costs of easier and more difficult jobs.

When terracing has been completed and checked by county AAA officers for specified requirements under the farm program, contractors are paid by the AAA and charges later deducted from farmers' conservation payments.

Needs of Soil

More food can be produced for immediate war-time needs and agriculture can be placed on a firmer footing for the future if farmers will follow a few basic soil building principles, according to an agricultural bulletin.

"One of the first essentials," says the bulletin, "is for the farmer to find out what are the nutritional requirements of his soil. Since soils and crops vary in different geographical sections, the farmer's best procedure is to enlist the co-operation of agronomists of his state agricultural experiment station or of his county agent.

"By analyzing a sample of the farmer's soil and determining its needs for nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, these experts can provide valuable information to guide the farmer in selecting the correct analysis of fertilizer. They will likewise suggest the amount to use."

More Eggs, Dairy Products

Uncle Sam is asking for increased production of eggs, dairy products, and pork products. Next year, for example, American hens are called on to lay 4,300,000,000 more eggs. Although poultry flocks are increased, production per layer will have to rise to new heights. Hen house lights step up production as much as four or five eggs a month during the winter.

Even the poultry are asked to pitch in and do their necessary bit.

CARE OF CAR THEME OF NEW STANDARD OIL CO. ADVERTISING

With cars a year older and gradually wearing out, parts and repair service more difficult to obtain, and very few new or good used cars available, "Care of Your Year-Old Car" will be the subject of Standard Oil Company of Indiana's spring advertising campaign opening March 31 and continuing three months.

In dramatizing this theme the company will advertise "10 Star Wartime Tune-Up," a modern version of tune-up campaigns used in previous years. Newspaper advertising will show typical customers, such as war workers, a farmer, a soldier and his mother, a WAVE and her father, who have benefitted by a tune-up by Standard Oil dealers.

Other advertising will include a service station banner, curb signs, a window sticker, a dealer handout cards and an announcement every week on Standard's daily farm radio broadcasts.

Bonne-Bouche

By GERTRUDE BERNUTH

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service)

MRS. HOOPS, a tiny woman, sat at the tiny hotel table opposite her enormous husband. Mrs. Hoops was perched on the edge of her chair, with both forearms on the table, and her head well over her plate. There was something tense about her attitude. It almost seemed as if she were guarding her plate from invasion.

As indeed, she was. And, as, indeed, she had reason to. The marauder that she feared was Mr. Hoops.

For twenty-five years Mrs. Hoops had been guarding the food on her plate from her husband. A voracious eater, nothing struck Mr. Hoops funnier than, after having made away with all of his own food, to reach across and steal titbits from his wife. "Look," he would say, gazing out of the window, "it's beginning to rain." And Mrs. Hoops would look, and when she looked back at her plate again there would be a roar of laughter from Mr. Hoops, and she would find some precious morsel had disappeared. "Oh, Herbert!" she would cry in dismay, "you ate my last mushroom!" And Mr. Hoops would roar louder than ever. He thought it just too funny for anything. The more indignant she became, the funnier he thought it. Sometimes his huge body almost rolled off his chair, laughing.

Mrs. Hoops did wish that she could learn from experience. She had learned that no food was really hers until it got inside of her mouth, but she couldn't seem to remember that when Mr. Hoops told her to look somewhere, an attack was imminent. Invariably she looked. But she realized that she played right into his hands, not only by looking, but also by her childish habit of saving the most toothsome morsels until the last, to be eaten slowly, with full enjoyment of their delectability. For Mrs. Hoops was no mean epicure herself.

She remembered one time in Rapallo, on the Italian Riviera, when she had saved a delectable scrap of breast of guinea chicken, cooked with white wine and truffles, sous cloche. Mr. Hoops had pointed out to her Sarah Bernhardt across the room. Of course, she didn't see Bernhardt when she looked, nor did she ever see her titbit of guinea chicken again. But she heard Mr. Hoops' roars of laughter.

She remembered a soupcon of wiener-schnitzel in Vienna, innumerable bits of hors d'oeuvres in Sweden (the Hoopsea were great travelers), some bouillabaisse in Marseilles, creme brulee with spiced cherries in California, some tripe at the Parker House in Boston, some broiled lakefish at the Hotel Blackstone in Chicago. Pretty nearly every place she had ever gone to with Mr. Hoops, he had played this same joke on her. If one could call it a joke. It was much more than a joke to her now. It was a serious matter which had so gotten on her nerves that they were on edge every time she sat down to a meal.

And now the Hoopsea, on a motor trip, were having breakfast at a little country hotel in Vermont. Mr. Hoops, looking over the menu, had ordered a double order of calves liver and bacon; Mrs. Hoops had ordered country sausage. Country sausage in these little inns was always home-made and savory.

"That calves liver looks good," Mrs. Hoops said to her husband, watching him take great mouthfuls of it and swallow them almost whole. "It is," declared Mr. Hoops between mouthfuls. "It melts down one's throat." In no time he had eaten nearly all of it; just one succulent bonne-bouche remained.

Mrs. Hoops looked longingly at the bit that was left. She would love a taste of that. Her own order of country sausage was wonderfully good, but she had a special fondness for calves liver, and now, seeing it on Mr. Hoops' plate and realizing how tender and delicate it was, she wished she had ordered it herself. Suddenly a dazzling idea occurred to her.

"For goodness sake!" she exclaimed, gazing hard across the room, over Mr. Hoops' shoulder. "I believe that's the Nesbits over there by the window."

"Couldn't be," said Mr. Hoops, taking a great bite out of a corn muffin, and talking with his mouth half full. "The Nesbits were sailing for Europe the first of August."

"I don't care if they were, I'm sure that's the Nesbits," she declared stoutly. "Do look, Herbert," she urged. "I'm so near-sighted I can't tell."

Mr. Hoops put down his muffin and twisted himself around in his chair. "Where?" he said. "I don't see the Nesbits, nor anybody who looks at all like them."

There was a crow of triumph from Mrs. Hoops. Mr. Hoops turned around. His plate was entirely bare of food, and when he looked up at Mrs. Hoops, she was chewing rapturously.

"Your calves liver is simply delicious," she said.

CHATTERER'S LAST CHANCE

CHATTERER THE RED SQUIRREL, running for his life and without the least hope, suddenly saw a last chance to escape from Shadow the Weasel. That is, he saw something that might offer him a chance. He couldn't be sure until he had tried, and even then he might escape from one danger only to run right into another equally great. What Chatterer saw was a big brown bunch near the top of a tall chestnut tree, and he headed for that tree as fast as ever he could go. What was that big brown bunch? Why it was Redtail the Hawk, who was dozing there with his head drawn down between his shoulders dreaming of the warm southland.

Now, old Redtail is one of Chatterer's deadliest enemies. He is quite as fond of Red Squirrel as is Shadow the Weasel, though he doesn't often try to catch one, because there are other things to eat much easier to get. Chatterer had had more than one narrow escape from old Redtail, and was very much afraid of him yet here he was running up the very tree in which Redtail was sitting. You see, a very daring idea had come into his head. He had seen at once that Redtail would just as soon have Shadow the Weasel for dinner as himself, and a very daring plan had popped into his head.

"I may as well be caught by Redtail as Shadow," he thought as he ran up the tree, "but if my plan works out right I won't be caught by either. Anyway, it is my very last chance."

Up the tree he scrambled, and after him went Shadow the Weasel. Shadow had been so intent on catching Chatterer that he had not noticed old Redtail, which was just as Chatterer had hoped. Up, up, he scrambled, straight past old Redtail, but as he passed he pulled one of Redtail's long tail feathers, then ran on to the top of the tree and with the last bit of strength he had left leaped to a neighboring spruce tree, where, hidden by the thick branches, he stopped to rest and see what would happen.

Of course, when he felt his tail pulled old Redtail was wide awake in a flash and, of course, he looked down to see who had dared to pull his tail. There just below him was Shadow the Weasel, who had just that minute discovered who was sitting there.

Shadow the Weasel stopped short. Then like a flash he dodged around to the other side of the tree. He had no thought of Chatterer now. Things were changed all in a flash—quite changed. Instead of the hunter he was now the hunted. Old Redtail circled in the air just overhead, and every time he caught sight of Shadow he swooped at him with great cruel claws spread to clutch him. Shadow dodged around the trunk of the tree. He was more angry than frightened, for his sharp eyes had spied a little hollow in a branch of the chestnut tree, and he knew that once inside of that he would have nothing to fear. But he was angry clear through to think that he should be cheated out of that dinner he had been so sure of only a few minutes before. So he screamed angrily at old Redtail, and then, watching his chance, scampered out to the hollow and whisked inside just in the nick of time.

Chatterer, watching from the spruce tree, gave a great sigh of relief. He saw Redtail the Hawk post himself on the top of a tall tree where he could keep watch of that hollow in which Shadow had disappeared, and he knew that it would be a long time before Shadow would dare poke even his nose outside. Then as he was seated Chatterer stole softly, oh, so softly, away through the tree tops until he was sure that Redtail could not see him. Then he hurried. Yes, indeed, he hurried then. He wanted to get just as far away from Shadow the Weasel as he could.

SHOT AT RANDOM

Unless I put this column to some use it won't do me nor anyone else any good, so with that thought in mind I'm putting out a feeler for some early seed potatoes to plant in that victory garden I'm figgering on.

Now that the legislature passed that reapportionment bill, Charlevoix county gets coupled up with another further away than Leelanau is—Benzie county, to be exact. Charlevoix voters better get the dust out of their britches two years hence, or our representation at Lansing will go from the farthest south end of the district. Seems too bad they couldn't be sensible about the thing and combine Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim, counties with adjoining boundaries, into a legislative district. Well, we keep on getting used to screwy things.

There was a time when a man would make the headlines if he bit a dog, but in these days if a man bites a dog he may have a meat coupon taken out of his ration book.

No smelt runs in Charlevoix county streams this year? Well, that's just too darn bad for those places which have publicized this annual "whoopee" event. The honest-to-goodness sportsmen, though—those who have seen the smelt clean bait minnows out of Lake Charlevoix and watched the steelhead trout diminish yearly because there aren't any more minnows for them to feed on, hope the rest of the smelt that didn't die from some strange reason last fall all turn up their toes and never show up again.

I didn't see Jake White of the navy's Seabees when he was home last week from his new location at Oakland, Calif., but it made us feel pretty good when his mother called to tell us that in the camp at Davisville, R. I., where Jake was located until a couple weeks ago, the Courier was the most popular paper in the place. Tho many other "home town" papers were received by fellows at that camp, Jake said he had to hide his copy if he expected to read it at all, for so many others were interested in it, particularly those who had visited this region.

SCRAP METAL DRIVE APRIL 26 TO MAY 1

County Assigned Quota 281 Tons of Salvage by July

Volunteer salvage committees in every community of the nation have been assigned the task of collecting three million tons of scrap metal by July, an amount vitally necessary to keep steel mills at full production.

Of Michigan's quota of 45,000 tons, Charlevoix county has been asked for 281 tons of scrap metal. During the week of April 26 to May 1, a giant scrap drive will be conducted to collect this amount. William Supernaw, chairman of the local salvage committee, will make an announcement soon regarding arrangements for collection.

Tin cans will be collected along with other salvage metals. Formerly only a few cities were asked to salvage cans, now facilities of plants separating tin from steel are so expanded that many more tons of cans may be utilized.

Every county resident is asked to make a thorough inspection of his home premises for metal articles no longer useful. To make up the large quota for the county it will be necessary to have not only many small items, but large ones such as old car bodies, rusted cultivators and junked plows.

SECOND WAR LOAN STARTS APRIL 12

$60,000 must be raised in Charlevoix. The drive will start April 12, and will run for nearly three weeks, during which time seven Government securities will be sold. To be successful, efforts will be made to reach into every home in the County, because money must come primarily from individual Americans.

An army of volunteers, known as "The Gallant 60,000 of Michigan," has been recruited by Frank N. Isbey, Chairman of the Michigan War Savings Committee, to sell $60,000,000 worth of Series "E" War Savings Bonds in the state during April. Each volunteer's quota is $1,000.

Those in Charlevoix who are members of "The Gallant 60,000" are: Robert Bridge, Ed. Edwards, Carl Erber, Archie Livingston, Victor Mancley, and Oscar North. Everyone must be prepared to give one of these members their order for War Bonds, first their limit of the Series "E"—then all of the aditional bonds of the Series "F" or "G" that they can possibly afford.

Other securities available will be the "C" Tax Anticipation Notes, 26-year 2½% Government Bonds, 9 year Goverament 2% Bonds and 7/8% Government Certificates of Indebtedness.

They're in the army now—bow wow, and how! Tens of thousands of America's dogs have gone to war, in the K-9 corps. Read of the splendid job they're doing and how they're trained, as told by Louis de Cassonova, former editor of the Kennel Club Gazette, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

The Farm That Wouldn't Sell

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

"THEN it is understood, Miss Andrews, that you will keep an eye on the place and show it to prospective buyers. I might add that in addition to your fee as caretaker, Mr. Gerrish will allow you a nominal commission if the farm is disposed of through your efforts." Lawyer John Pangburn buttoned his fur coat snugly about him and turned away.

A touch on his arm arrested him. "It's rather a pity, isn't it," Margaret Andrews questioned him, "for the last of the Gerrishes to let the property go out of the family?"

"Yes, young lady," admitted Pangburn, "it is, undoubtedly. But, Lord, these young chaps nowadays—what's a few acres and a bunch of cows compared to the subway rush and the bright white lights? Henry seems to think he can set Wall street on fire with the proceeds from the sale of the farm."

Left alone, Margaret watched her recent visitor's car growing smaller along the ribbon of road that threaded the Woodbridge hills. But her thoughts were elsewhere—with old Henry Gerrish, who a few days before had gone to join his fathers on the hill; with young Henry Gerrish, whom she had never seen until the day of the funeral, and then only at a distance.

For Henry had gone out to an uncle ranching it in the West some months before Margaret's arrival in Woodbridge and had not come home until summoned by the death of his father. Immediately after the brief reading of his father's will, he had instructed Pangborn to put the old homestead on the market.

As time passed, however, and the place remained unsold, Margaret came to feel for it a continually increasing fondness. Watching the spring sowing of fields rented to a neighbor, tending the small flower gardens about the doorways, opening the windows to flood with sterilizing brightness the unused house, dusting the quiet rooms—all these activities developed in her almost a sense of part ownership with Henry Gerrish. And more and more she waxed indignant with him for wishing to dispose of his inheritance.

Would-be purchasers happened along now and again, but for one reason or another departed unimpressed. One year passed — two years—three.

Then one sunny afternoon in April into John Pangburn's dingy office stalked a youth with worried lines about his eyes. "Look here, Mr. Pangburn," he began without preamble, "I'm hard up. Things haven't panned out as I hoped. What I get in from the farm hardly pays the taxes. The house won't rent. Why the deuce doesn't the place sell?"

Pangburn shook his head. "Henry, I don't know. It's the dickens of a ways for me to travel down with every Tom, Dick, and Harry, but I've wondered sometimes—do you suppose that Miss Andrews queers the deal? She'll lose her little income if she sells the farm."

Henry nodded. "Guess you've hit it. And she stands to get the commission in the end. Listen, now—I've got an idea. The girl doesn't know me. Send me down to look it over as a buyer and I'll size up the situation."

"Good scheme," said Pangburn, "a confounded good scheme."

One afternoon the last of the Gerrishes (pro tem.) followed in amazement Margaret's slim figure and marveled at the words which fell from her lips. How unfair had Pangburn been!

"Can't you see it?" she was demanding. "Those forty acres in corn, the west twenty in alfalfa, that swamp drained for celery, the timber lot cleared and yielding a little ready cash, good utility stock in the chicken runs, a few grade cows to start with—"

"This line of talk," mused Henry to himself, bewildered, "should have nailed every customer." Aloud, "I wonder why the present owner doesn't keep it?" he said. "Why does he want to sell?"

"Because," said Margaret promptly, "he's an idiot!"

On his return to town Henry cast a bombshell at Pangburn's feet. "Heavens, man," he cried. "She's made the place so darned attractive I'm going to farm it myself!"

One year from the day she met him Margaret Andrews married Henry Gerrish and came back from the little Woodbridge church to the old house she had tended.

"Funny," ruminated Henry, "old Pangburn thought maybe the place didn't sell because you ran it down, or something of the sort."

Margaret was silent a moment. Then, "Maybe," she confessed slowly, "he was right. You see, I hated to see old Henry Gerrish's son squander the work of years and generations. Not that I ever actually said anything—only, well, I could have been more enthusiastic!"

"But why," demanded Henry, puzzled, "did you praise it to the skies to me? You didn't know it was I—"

"Didn't I?" laughed his bride of an hour. "Do you suppose, Henry Gerrish, I could dust the photograph of a man with a dimple in his left cheek every few days for three years and not recognize him when I saw him?"

MICHIGAN CAMP WEEK SET FOR MAY 9 TO 16

"Chief" Lewis Reimann Director Public Relations Committee

Michigan Boys' and Girls' Camp Week will be observed in this state the week of May 9 to 16, according to announcement from Lewis C. Reimann, chairman of the public relations committee of the Michigan Camping Association and director of Camp Charlevoix.

Thousands of Michigan children will face the dangers of unsupervised summer vacations this year due to the fact that their parents will be engaged increasingly in full-time and volunteer war production. Fatalities and juvenile delinquency will undoubtedly increase.

To help avert this serious condition, the Michigan Camping Association, with its 330 camps normally caring for over 100,000 children for varying lengths of time, sponsoring this week during which attention of Michigan parents will be called to the availability of summer camps for their childrens' full-time care. All camps will be urged to expand their facilties to take in more children. Newspapers, radio stations, schools, libraries, organizations and individuals will be asked to give the Michigan camping program wide publicity.
